Carnation rooted cuttings and plants. We are situated this spring so we can give you better stock for the money than ever before. We now have an ideal propagating house in which we have almost perfect control of light, heat and water, and so arranged, that when cuttings are rooted we can give them full light to harden them up and give much stronger roots. Also, place your orders early for 2-in. stock for April and May delivery.

We have an extra large stock of White Enchantress and are offering them for a time a little under the regular price.

CARNATION CUTTINGS.

I can supply the very best carnation stock on the market. What you need is not the cheapest stuff you can buy but stock that will produce the most and best flowers next fall and winter. I use stock plants selected each year as the most vigorous ones in the field, I grow them cool and flower very little; all the vigor of the strongest plants goes into the stock you buy from me. This is my specialty. All stock is grown and shipped under my own eye, I stand back of every shipment that leaves my greenhouses, guaranteeing satisfaction absolutely.

Send for my list of varieties and prices, also my special proposition to grow your stock on until your field is ready.

Gustav Pitsonka, Pansy Farm, Bristol

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Samples of many reports: "I had 3000 of your Pansy Park Perfection pansy plants; they began to bloom in February and from then on were a sight—immense blooms, wonderful coloring and great variation. Shall want at least 10,000 and possibly more of the same giant mixture." F. E. Peckham, Norwich, Conn. "Send me $10.00 worth of your best pansy seed. If as good in colors and size as they were last year I will need double the amount next year." G. H. Toepke, Detroit, Mich. "The Pansy Park Perfection pansy plants obtained from you for our parks were quite satisfactory. Book our order for 50,000 in separate colors and mixed, as specified below." S. Manning, General Superintendent of Parks, Baltimore, Md. Hardy field-grown plants from seed sown broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong, with extra good roots, just right to transplant for blooming in May. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion. Price $4.00 1000. Cash with order.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE." This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes the old and new as well as the plebian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."

We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales 1913. Send for both of the booklets.

Greenhouse Heating.

AN IOWA CARNATION HOUSE.

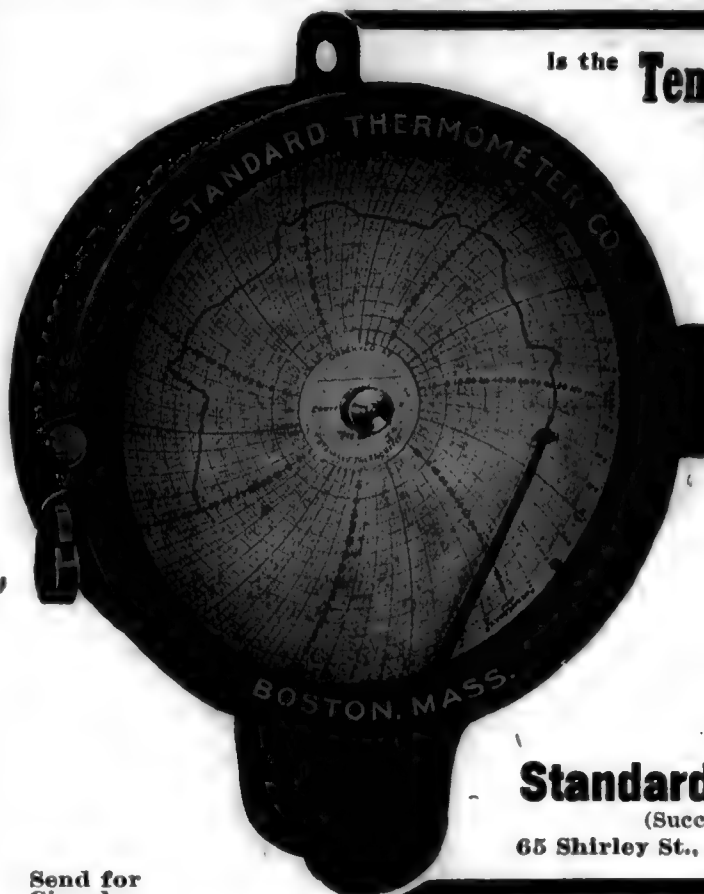

Please tell me how many and what size of pipes will be required for a carnation house 27 x 80, to heat it to 50 degrees when the outside temperature goes down to 30 degrees below zero, as it sometimes does in this part of Iowa. Where should the pipes be located, on the sides or under the benches, for the best results? The house will run east and west, with the boiler room at the west end. The walls on the north side will be double boarded, with no glass; the south wall will contain twenty-four inches of glass. I have quite a lot of 1½-inch pipe on hand. H. N. A.

To heat the house, a boiler having a capacity to heat at least 1,000 square feet of radiating surface should be used. For the flow pipes run one 2½-inch main on each of the plates and another two or three feet below the ridge. While it would be better to use 2-inch pipe for the returns, the 1½-inch pipe mentioned will answer. About five of the returns should be placed upon each of the side walls, and eight, to be supplied by the overhead flow pipe, should be distributed under the benches. The flows as well as the returns should be given a slight fall, and if the highest part of each of the flow pipes is connected with the expansion tank there will be no occasion for using air valves.

GREENHOUSE AND RESIDENCE.

I should like to have the following inquiry referred to your heating expert. Each greenhouse firm gives me a different estimate of the amount of piping necessary to heat my greenhouse, which is to be used for growing smilax and will require a temperature of 60 degrees in zero weather. As you will see by consulting the enclosed diagram, the house is 25 x 95, seven feet high to the eaves and twelve feet to the ridge, with four feet of glass in the sides. Beds, and not benches, will be used.

The greenhouse runs north and south, with the boiler at the north end. My residence, which is also to be heated from the same boiler, is attached to the southeast corner of the greenhouse. From the boiler a 3-inch flow will run south, under the ridge of the greenhouse, and then turn east to heat the residence. An expert in the heating of residences assures me that the 3-inch pipe will furnish plenty of radiation for the whole dwelling. As the enclosed sketch will show you, the first story of the dwelling contains a library,

Is the Temperature Maintained While You're Gone?

It should be, but you don't know that it is.

How valuable would a complete record of the temperature of each hour of the night and day be to you? A great many dollars, is the answer.

THE STANDARD RECORDING THERMOMETER

has saved hundreds of dollars for many florists and may do as much for you. Your plants and stock require certain, steady temperatures. Use this thermometer and you will know whether they are getting what they need. It leaves a written record under lock and key.

This porch is to be heated in winter by means of a 2-inch pipe from the 3-inch main, but in summer the 2-inch pipe will be disconnected and the porch thrown open. The second story of the residence contains two bedrooms, each 14 x 14; another bedroom, 14 x 16, and a bathroom, 6 x 11.

Now to return to the greenhouse: Will two 2½-inch flows, one on each purlin, feeding six 1½-inch returns on the west and five 1½-inch returns on the east, supply sufficient radiation, in addition to the 3-inch flow, in this Illinois climate? The returns from the residence are to be used to heat a lean-to on the east, ten feet wide, three feet high to the eaves and seven feet to the ridge, to a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees. As the 3-inch flow must go uphill, can I put the expansion tank in the residence? The other flows, I thought, could run downhill. Or will two tanks be needed if I place the tank and generator in the attic? My reason for asking this question is that my boiler room is only eight feet wide and would have to be disproportionately high in order to place the expansion tank so the bottom

It has two tanks; the larger one does not move. Only the small one moves to operate the valves. Objections to the tilting Trap are overcome by carrying the weight of fixed tank and the water on special fittings, and not on the trunnions, as in all other tilting traps. possible to obtain 60 degrees with the radiation mentioned, unless a mercury generator is used, but if a generator is installed fairly good results will be possible, although more fuel will be required in zero weather than if an open system is used. One tank only need be used and this can be located in the attic of the residence. By connecting the highest point in each of the greenhouse flow pipes with the 3-inch flow pipe leading to the residence, air valves will be rendered unnecessary.

FOR EITHER GAS OR COAL.

I am going to build a greenhouse in the coming summer, and of course I am on the lookout for a boiler. I want a small boiler in which I can burn natural gas, and if the gas should fail I would want to use coal temporarily, returning afterward to the use of gas. Here, in Oklahoma, we have stoves that contain a gas burner, with a coal grate under the gas burner.

L. S. H.

While it is not possible to suggest any particular size or make of boiler, since the dimensions of the greenhouse are not given, it is probable that, for the purpose mentioned, almost any boiler having a round grate could be used. The rating of the boiler in square feet of radiation should be about one-fourth the number of square feet of glass in the house. Such a boiler would heat the house using coal, and when natural gas is available the supply pipe could be carried up between the grate bars and the gas burner attached.

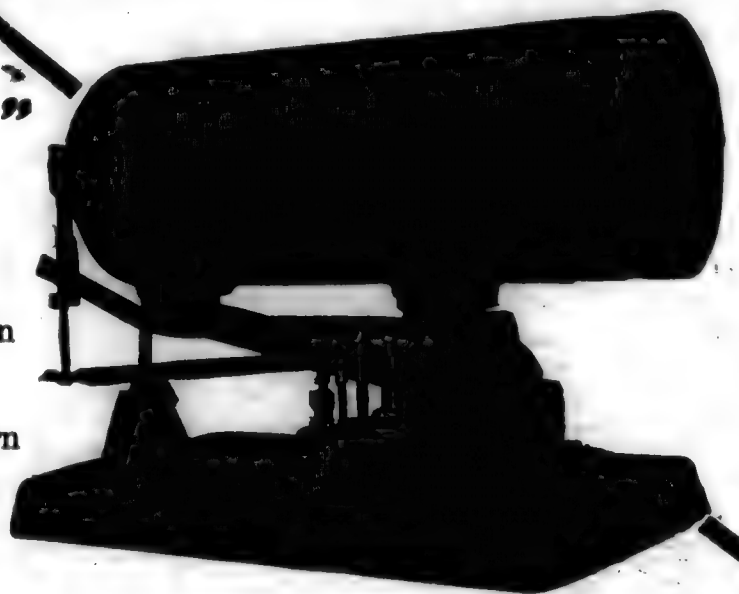

BOILERS AND SMOKESTACK.

At present we have a seventy horsepower tubular boiler, with which we are heating four houses, each 32 x 140. I should like to know how many more houses of the same dimensions we can heat with this boiler. We wish to maintain a temperature of 65 degrees, and the outside temperature in this part of Idaho sometimes drops as low as 12 degrees below zero. How high a chimney will be needed to get the best results? The altitude of the land here is about 2,000 feet. We also have two hot water boilers, with which we are heating ten houses, each 20 x 100. The draft in these boilers is not satisfactory. The to do to get a better draft in these boilers.

M. C. L.

One should be able to judge fairly well regarding the surplus capacity of a boiler by noting the ease with which it maintains the desired temperature in the present houses; in fact, a better idea might perhaps be obtained in that way than from an empirical estimate. However, using the customary calculation for the capacity per horse-power, it is probable that one additional house could be heated readily, while by crowding the boiler up to its full capacity, whenever it is zero or less, a range of six houses might be handled by a seventy horse-power boiler. The chimney should extend at least forty feet above the point where the smoke flue enters, and fifty feet would be better.

The draft in the chimney with which the hot water boilers are connected could be improved by adding ten feet to its height. Another improvement would be to connect the flue having the poorer draft about two feet higher. The chimney may be too small.

York, Pa.—Charles Schaefer is completing two houses for roses, finding he can readily dispose of more stock than can be produced in the present range.

THE FERTILIZER PROBLEM SOLVED

Practically every grower now finds that one of his chief problems is an adequate supply of first class Fertilizer—the available quantity of barnyard manures is inadequate and street and stable manures are poor, impure and of uncertain value, though expensive. Large growers are meeting the need of a safe, sure, well-balanced fertilizer of unlimited supply by using

The Market.

From the quantity of stock that will be available, this Easter should be a record-breaker. It appears that there will be no shortage of any kind of flowers. Plants are unusually plentiful this year. Lilies are of fine quality and almost unlimited in quantity. Crimson ramblers will be a little scarce, as several of our best growers failed with them this year. Spiræas, azaleas, hydrangeas, lilacs, rhododendrons and bulbous stock are to be had in almost any quantity. There will be a good cut of carnations and roses, including Beauties. Sweet peas seem plentiful and are meeting with a good call. Double violets are a tough proposition. Orchids and valley are not having a good market.

Various Notes.

The Indiana state legislature, now in session, has designated the carnation as the state flower.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. and the Bertermann Bros. Co. were busy with department store decorations last week.

John Grande has his usual lot of fine lilies for Easter.

Homer Wiegand has returned from a five weeks' vacation in Florida.

Adolph Baur, secretary of the American Carnation Society, is trying to make arrangements so that all the Indiana florists who expect to attend the show in New York will leave on the same train.

L. F. Benson is having a new delivery body made to fit on his old delivery auto.

Fred Lemon is shipping quantities of blooming plants to the Hill-Heller store for the Easter trade.

H. W. Rieman has a fine lot of blooming plants for his Easter trade.

Albert Eitet has been getting an extra heavy cut from his seedling sweet pea.

The Roepke-Rieman Co. and John Heidenreich have a fine lot of lilies and blooming plants for the wholesale market.

GREENWICH, CONN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Doran's hall, March 14, with President Robert Williamson in the chair. Great enthusiasm is displayed by the members and the attendance maintained at the meetings is excellent, especially considering the long journeys some of the members have to make. Feelings of general regret were expressed on account of the resignation of the vice-president, Oscar Addor, who finds that he is not able to give due attention to the office. By the unanimous vote of the members, H. Wild was elected vice-president for the ensuing year.

The best wishes of the society were extended to James Aitchison, who is about to take up his residence in another locality.

The speaker for the evening was William Scott, of Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., who delivered a thoroughly practical address on the growing of carnations. The fact that this meeting had been set aside as carnation night brought out a large number of fine exhibits. The three prizes given by the society were awarded as follows: First, James Aitchison; second, A. L. Marshall; third, E. Johnson. Excellent culture was also noted in the following exhibits:

A. L. Marshall, honorable mention for Nephrolepis magnifica.

James Aitchison, cultural certificate for cyclamen and Primula malacoides.

A. Wynne, honorable mention for Schizanthus Wisetonensis.

Alex. Geddes, honorable mention for carnation seedling.

Thos. Aitchison, cultural certificate for vase of calla lilies.

Geo. E. Baldwin Co., Mamaroneck, N. Y., highly commended for finely flowered Cattleya Lawrenceana.

P. W. Popp, honorable mention for Carnation California Giant and lily of the valley.

Thos. Aitchison, honorable mention for seedling amaryllis.

Louis Wittman, honorable mention for My Maryland and Madison roses.

Thos. Ryan, vote of thanks for shamrocks, "the genuine article."

Professor Jarvis, of Yale, has promised to deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Diseases of Fruit Trees" at the next meeting, and it is hoped that every member will make a special effort to be present, for this lecture should prove of vital importance to all.

CURVED IRON EAVE Style "S"

This eave is intended for use on detached houses with either fixed glass or side sash.

It is practically all exposed to the inside heat of the greenhouse and so is ice clearing.

KING GREENHOUSE EAVES

THEY SOLVE THE EAVE PROBLEM

THEY MAKE THE LEAST POSSIBLE SHADE and as you can see

CURVED IRON EAVE Style "L"

This eave although lighter than style "S" is amply strong for all eave purposes.

It obstructs little light and is ice clearing in the most severe weather. It is intended for use with fixed glass only.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

Violets have been in full crop everywhere, and if the present warm spring weather continues there will be a shortage about Easter. Easter lilies are magnificent this year and are in great demand.

H. G. Mullis has just returned from Peterborough and reports a full meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian Horticultural Association at the National hotel there, with Mr. Walter Muston presiding. Matters were discussed in connection with the annual convention, to be held in that city next August, when it is to be hoped there will be something done. We prefer to say "something done" rather than "something doing," as the latter phrase suggests more talk than action sometimes, and action is what is badly needed in the C. H. A., if one may be excused for speaking plainly.

Mark Henderson was elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy on the Brampton town council last week.

G. Muller, of the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., made a special trip here last week, in the interests of his firm. H. G. Dilleuth and J. A. Neal, of Toronto, and J. G. McDermott, of Ottawa, also visited the greenhouses.

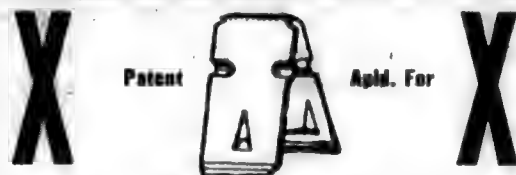

It is understood that many of Toronto's prominent florists intend to see the International Flower Show at New York next month. W. G. P.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Broadway Hardware Co., successors to the George A. Weaver Co., has opened a large store at 92 Broadway, with a full line of seeds, horticultural and agricultural implements, etc. The Weaver Co. was completely burned out about three months ago.

Tony George, 28 West Broadway, is arranging for the care of several of the private estates for this season.

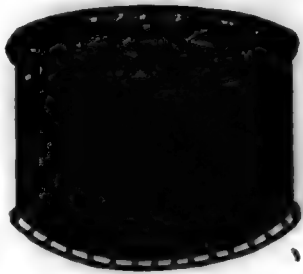

The park commission has awarded the yearly contract for the care of the city parks to Oscar Schultz for $3,145. Mr. Schultz won from among a number of bidders. W. H. M.

A GOD-SEND BULL DOG PAPER CLIP

These metal clips instantaneously join and fasten paper bags or paper cones of any shape or angle. Used by florists everywhere. They save their cost in time and labor ten times over. Very cheap. Sample box of assorted clips sent free, prepaid.

Sweet Pea Houses

NOW that sweet peas are being grown so profitably there are a lot of growers who have ceased to throw stones at a house with a moderate number of columns.

They find them mighty handy to wire on.

In George Schuman's 30-foot, half iron frame houses at Baldwin, L. I., there are 4 columns across the house. The illustrations show what a glorious crop he grows. He told me on January 22nd, the day we took the photos, that they were planted in July and he began cutting in September. The 12-foot vines were still blooming freely.

If you should ask us, we would advise your building a house with high enough sides and enough columns so you could grow anything you wanted to at any time.

It always seemed to me like "monkeying with destiny" to build a big, expensive house along lines adapted for growing limited things.

A change in market conditions or the fickleness of fashion may make the paying flower of this season "a dead one" next.

So why don't we get together and talk over our ideas of what an all-around, practical growing house would be for you?

It may be that our New Cantilever Construction is "the all-around house."

If so, you ought to know why it's so.

Glad to hear from you.

Get Interested, Mr. Florist; This Is For You

If you contemplate painting your houses this year it will be well for you to investigate the merits of which I use exclusively in the erection of the large ranges of glass that I erect on private estates and public parks. I have increased my plant to take care of the demands made upon me for this paint by florists in all parts of the country. The LUTTON reputation for high-class material is back of this product. Send for a sample free of cost, and then you will send your order. We also furnish materials for the complete erection of modern Iron Frame Greenhouses. Some of the largest growers in the country will testify to this fact.

"S-U-B-S-T-I-T-U-T-E" SPELLS "INFERIORITY"

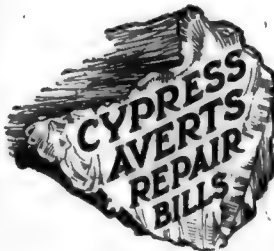

That is a safe general rule; in the case of CYPRESS as THE Greenhouse Lumber it is an absolute truism. Small wonder that those who urge the "substitute" have but the one cry, "cheaper." But the substitute is NOT "cheaper," except as to initial cost.

The only business-like way to figure material costs in Greenhouse building is BY THE YEAR.

There's nothing consolingly "cheap" about repair and replacement bills. The truly cheapest greenhouse is the one that shows the least totals—at the end of a term of years—first cost and up-keep together.

By that rule CYPRESS for greenhouse construction has all other woods beaten at the start. It is the absolute cheapest, figured by the year of its life. If built of heart Cypress, with "Pecky" Cypress for certain parts, the wood can not be substituted by any other material ever grown or made. Talk of a "substitute" is worse than bosh. It is not quite square. If contractors would say: "We can build you a greenhouse of cheaper wood," that would do, for the so-called "substitutes" are all cheaper in first cost. BUT MORE EXPENSIVE IN THE END. Do you care? You bet you do—you're a business man as well as a flower grower. "The Building Age," August, 1912, issue, page 409, in specifications for a small greenhouse says: "These timbers should be made of Cypress, for, on account of its straight grain, strength and durability, this has been found to be THE WOOD BEST ADAPTED FOR GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION."

GET ACTION on our Cypress Pocket Library; the booklets are absolutely free. Write for one, or a dozen. Vol. 3—(nothing but greenhouses) is the first one you want. CHASE A POSTAL AFTER IT. NOW.

GREENHOUSE LUMBER

"SPOT CLEAR CYPRESS"

LOCKLAND LUMBER CO., LOCKLAND, OHIO

FACTS

Questions and Answers No. 7

Q. [Which putty do you prefer—dough or liquid?

A. For new work we believe the dough putty gives better results. Liquid putty, if made right, is fine for bulbing and for going over old work. Either putty is good, but the quality must be first-class.

Q. What is pure dough putty made of?

A. There are several ways of making dough putty, but we think our formula is the right one for all greenhouse work. We use 84% No. 1 best whiting, 1% pure white lead and 15% best boiled linseed oil. Our price on this putty is always less than the raw materials alone would cost you.

Q. Can I make my own putty?

A. Yes. Good putty, though, can only be made in putty-chasers. Making putty by hand is slow, hard work, and there is nothing in it.

Q. Will the ordinary putty do for greenhouses?

A. No. Be sure you get the formula we mention.

Q. What is liquid putty made from?

A. The formulas are all secret, but the principal ingredients are whiting, lead, varnish and gum.

Q. What are your prices?

A. Send for Catalogue No. 16. It tells all about it.

GREAT STORMS SWEEP THE WEST

Easter Trade Interrupted by Sleet and Rain; Much Greenhouse Property Destroyed by Wind and Flood

THE greenhouse industry of the middle west, in the days immediately preceding Easter and immediately following, received the most tremendous blow in the history of the trade. The selling end of the business was interfered with to the extent of thousands upon thousands of dollars by the storms which began in the early morning hours of Good Friday, and which continued intermittently with increasing violence until the night of Sunday. But the damage done to the selling end of the business was inconsequential in comparison to the damage done to the greenhouse structures by the wind and flood.

Telegraphic communication is so seriously disorganized that only the most meager details are available. The most serious loss was in the vicinity of Omaha, where cyclonic storms wrecked the largest greenhouses west of Philadelphia, and in the Indiana and Ohio river valley cities, where great floods followed in the wake of the wind and rain.

Omaha still is cut off from full telegraphic communication, but word has been received that the two great greenhouses put up last summer by J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, are down, and the understanding is that they are a complete wreck. It is a curious fact that it is the second time that the greenhouse shown in the foreground of the accompanying illustration has been blown down. On the afternoon of July 31, while the houses were as yet unglazed, a storm leveled the front house, although the rear house stood, twenty-five feet away. This time both houses are down, according to information received from Roy Wilcox, who now is the head of the company. These houses are 60x1,000 feet, the two covering 120,000 square feet of ground. They are of the King iron frame construction. The brick service building crumbled and the boiler house roof went, but the 150-foot concrete chimney stood. The houses contained 60,000 canation plants, 12,000 Beauties and 25,000 Killarneys in full crop; all frozen, a total loss. The night watchman was the only man hurt. Work has been abandoned at this (Manawa) plant but business goes on as usual at the old place in the city.

As the storm proceeded eastward from Omaha it hit a large number of greenhouses on its way. Reports have been received of minor losses from a large number of establishments between Council Bluffs and Chicago, where the storm seemed to again gather intensity. Scarcely a greenhouse in the district north and west of Chicago escaped without more or less broken glass, but none of the losses are to be compared with the loss of Wilcox & Sons.

Then the storm skipped into Indiana and Ohio, where the losses have been without parallel in recent years. No details are as yet to hand, though it is apparent that floods have inflicted enormous damage upon the trade. It would be bad enough because of the interruption to general business, even though the greenhouses themselves had escaped damage. In the Indiana and Ohio sections the loss has been by flood. As The Review goes to press, word is received that the business section of the city of Dayton is many feet under water and that every flower store in that city is flooded. Those who attended the S. A. F. convention will recall the topography: Dayton lies in a hollow. With the center of the city flooded to so great a depth the greenhouses can hardly have escaped. All through southern Ohio and southern Indiana flood conditions are unparalleled. And greenhouses almost never are built on the high lands; the grower's favorite site is in the hollow, protected by the hills. It is apparent that as time goes on there will be a large number of reports of greenhouses being drowned out, if not swept away.

At Des Plaines, Ill., Hoerber Bros. suffered more severely than any other growers in the Chicago section, and two Soo line brakemen lost their lives in a passing freight caboose which was buried under several tons of brick when the greenhouse smokestack gave way about midnight March 23. Owing to the fact that the stack fell toward the railroad track, the flying debris did no damage to the greenhouses, but the twister had already demolished two of the houses 27x300 at the southern end of the range and partly wrecked a third, all of them rose houses. In the remaining houses in the range of twenty-one, more or less glass was blown out and not a house escaped. Some were more seriously affected than others and great efforts were necessary to save the stock of roses and carnations. Every available workman was pressed into service replacing glass and closing the open spaces with such covering as could be obtained. Work was started at once on the smoke stack, in order that the boilers could be operated. The stack was 100 feet high and was broken off a few feet from the ground. F. C. Hoerber said March 26 that it was impossible to estimate the loss, but that the stock was damaged but little owing to the quick repairs made. Considerable insurance was carried on the plant and stock and it will fully cover the loss. Business was not interrupted.

H. C. Blewitt, at Des Plaines, lost one house and another was somewhat damaged.

At Downers Grove, Ill., March 23, Wellworth Farm, the establishment of John F. Kidwell and his son-in-law, Rudolph C. Ellsworth, suffered heavily from the blow. Four houses were damaged and about 12,000 square feet of glass put out of commission. The greatest damage was done when a shed 200 feet long that had been built in a position to protect the greenhouses from westerly winds was split in half, lifted in the air, carried 100 feet and crashed into the west end of the plant. One house of roses was crushed and the gable ends of two other houses torn away. The ventilating machinery was twisted and bent until useless in the houses, while only in spots was any glass left intact. These houses were all planted in Killarney roses, which were in full crop. A fourth house had just previously given way at one end, breaking almost all the glass, but being damaged only slightly so far as the framework was concerned. Efforts were at once made to save as much of the stock as possible and with 500 yards of burlap loaned by Bassett & Washburn such sections of the houses as still contained any glass were covered and a gang of twenty men put to work replacing glass.

At Deerfield, Ill., one house of gardenias belonging to the Deerfield Nurseries was demolished, while the glass of another gardenia house, as well as that of a house of Sprengeri, was blown out. These houses were 34x150 feet and the stock in the gardenia houses was lost, but it was hoped that the house of Sprengeri could be saved. John Kruchten, who is interested in the company owning the plant, said 250 boxes of glass would replace the glass in the two houses damaged, but the third house was completely wrecked.

At Park Ridge, Ill., the storm cost August Priebis about $3,000 in damage done when one house was destroyed and part of another wrecked. Considerable glass was blown out of the other houses also. Hunt Bros., at Park Ridge, reported two houses hit by falling telegraph poles, considerable damage being done. The numerous other growers in the Park Ridge colony escaped with the loss of a little broken glass.

At Galewood, Ill., the houses and stock of Dinstel Bros. were destroyed, only a house of carnation cuttings being saved.

At Mendota, Ill., the Restland Floral Co., B. Katzwinkle, proprietor, lost glass in greenhouses and hotbeds to possibly a value of $500.

At Hinsdale, Ill., Bassett & Washburn's houses were only slightly affected. Hail was responsible for the loss of fifty boxes of glass, which was replaced within twenty-four hours and without damage to the stock. Not a pane of glass was lost at the new plant at Gregg's Station, although the blow was severe in that region.

At Detroit three houses in the establishment of G. H. Taepke, on Elmwood avenue, were practically demolished.

At Cleveland March 25 the J. M. Gasser Co. said: "Never before since we have been in business have the floods been so severe in our neighborhood as they are today. Scarcely any trains are in operation out of Cleveland except on the Lake Shore, and all our shipments of flowers have been returned to us by the express companies with the word that it was impossible to reach any of the various points of shipment." Shipments out of Chicago also are being taken, if at all, only at owner's risk.

weather, all retailers found cut flowers and plants to sell almost equally well. Possibly because of the early date, lilies appear nowhere to have been in oversupply. Flowering plants in general were in greater supply than ever before and, except where some special reason could be found for it, the stock cleaned up so well that there is encouragement for still larger production next year.

It was noticeable that everywhere throughout the country prices on cut flowers were held at practically the normal wholesale level. The days of a sharp advance in the price of cut flowers for Easter apparently are over. There was some increase in the wholesale prices of carnations, but in many cases it proved unwarranted, and in nearly every large city market roses were advanced in price for the holiday no more than they are on any day that sees a really first-class market. The supply of roses was large. From all eastern parts of the country comes complaint of the violets, but it seems probable that a large part of the trouble grew out of the unfavorable weather conditions; the violet industry is not in the precarious state that some of this week's reports would indicate.

Perhaps it was because of the more moderate prices for cut flowers that the cut flower business increased quite satisfactorily. Many retailers who report being left with some expensive plants say that they cleaned up better than usual on cut flowers.

The weather conditions in some important centers were extremely unfavorable, and the interruption of telegraph and telephone service in the vicinity of Chicago imposed a handicap upon a large number of retailers in sections outside the storm area, but there is a general disposition to view the situation with philosophy, because it is everywhere apparent that the weather, and the weather alone, was responsible for any decrease in sales. The trade at large certainly was demonstrated to be upon as healthy a footing as at any time in recent years.

EASTER TRADE IN NEW YORK.

Cut flowers reach the New Yorker through three channels, by far the most important of which is a group of wholesale commission merchants located on West Twenty-eighth and West Twenty-sixth streets. There are about thirty-five of these. These dealers kept open from 6 a. m. Saturday until 1 p. m. Sunday, and were busy every minute of the time. The second channel is the co-operative wholesale houses, termed exchanges, which are maintained by groups of growers and which are located on West Twenty-sixth street. The third channel through which cut flowers reach the public is the suburban growers who sell their own products direct to the public. This group is located mainly in the vicinity of the cemeteries and depends largely on the cemetery trade for the demand. Their products are not included in the estimates given below.

Some idea of the enormous volume of wholesale business transacted in cut flowers in New York on the Saturday before Easter may be gathered from the following estimates, based on confidential reports made to The Review. According to these estimates, the sales for that day and night included about 100,000 American Beauty roses, 400,000

THE RETAIL

FLORIST.....

THE EASTER TRADE.

There is only one variation in the Easter trade reports. It was the banner Easter in all those parts of the country where the weather was favorable; in other sections the trade was unsatisfactory and below last year just in proportion as the weather conditions were unfavorable. Through the west and centering in the Mississippi valley there was a heavy storm of rain, snow and sleet in the early morning hours of Good Friday, which interrupted business seriously. This storm passed and Saturday before Easter was pleasant overhead, though bad under foot. The reports are quite unanimous that Saturday gave the florists of the entire United States the biggest one day's business in the history of the trade at Easter. The storm of Good Friday was followed by a much more severe storm sweeping from west to east, covering the valleys of the Missouri and Mississippi during the day of Easter and passing on eastward. This storm not only did much damage to property interests, but it cut thousands upon thousands of dollars from the retailers' flower sales. It was most severely felt between Omaha and Detroit; east of this region it did not come until after the Easter business had been disposed of, and all through the eastern section of the country the report is that the Easter trade surpassed the best previous records. Unfortunate as weather conditions were through the central states, the reports are encouraging as showing that the business is still increasing much faster than the population.

In the storm region no deductions can be drawn from the comparative supply and demand, as conditions were exceptional in all respects. In the sections that were favored with pleasant other roses, half a million Easter lilies, over a million carnations and four million violets. The quantities of valley and other flowers sold are less easy to estimate. Including all varieties of cut flowers, it may be safely said that the total retail value of cut flowers reaching the public through the wholesale trade on Twenty-eighth and Twenty-sixth streets on Saturday, March 22, was not far from $500,000. It was distinctly a big Easter.

DALEY AND HIS DESIGN.

The accompanying illustration affords an excellent portrait of Martin J. Daley, of James Daley's Sons, Brooklyn, while at the same time giving an idea of the size of the design beside which he stands. Those who know Mr. Daley will appreciate the proportions; to others it may be said that there is nothing small about him—not in stature, in business done, or in the size of the stone that the picture shows sparkling on the fourth finger of his left hand. Of course the design, a horseshoe, was for an opening—a good luck emblem—and for some unknown reason no florist ever makes a gigantic horseshoe of anything but Beauties, set close together.

EASTER TRADE NOTES.

Adrian, Mich.—William Wickham says Easter trade was better than ever before. Cut flowers sold best, but everything cleaned up.

Red Wing, Minn.—John E. Sten, proprietor of the Riverside Greenhouses, leased a building on Bush street for a special Easter display.

Pittsfield, Mass.—Manager Stanley G. Barnes, of the Flower Shop, opened an extra store in the Agricultural Bank building for the Easter trade.

Zanesville, O.—C. L. Humphrey reports the Easter business as away ahead of anything yet known. He had a big stock, but most of it was set aside for orders by Friday.

Altoona, Pa.—During Easter week A. A. Whitbred made use of three extra stores at different localities on Eleventh avenue, besides his usual display room at 1126½ Eleventh avenue.

Galena, Ill.—B. F. Vandervate opened an additional salesroom in the O'Neill building for the Easter rush. He announced the opening in the local newspapers and otherwise, arranged an attractive display of stock at the temporary store and was well repaid for his extra efforts.

Sioux City, Ia.—Rocklin & Lehman, who have two stores regularly, rented a double store at another location for an overflow for the Easter business. They published a full page advertisement in two colors in one of the local papers March 19 and did a big business at all three locations.

Malta, O.—W. C. Scovell says Easter trade was away ahead of any previous year. Pot plants were in great demand, but he was not able to supply the demand for either cut flowers or pot plants, although he had a much larger supply than in former years. Prices were twenty-five per cent higher than usual.

Martin J. Daley and a Wish-you-well Design.

Martins Ferry, O.—Davison Bros. placed their stock on sale at two extra stores for Easter. One of the stores was in Bellaire, O., and the other was in the Cropper building on Hanover street, in this town.

Slingerlands, N. Y.—Fred Goldring had entirely sold out all his pot plants and cut flowers several days before Easter. Everything was well timed and, with favorable weather for delivery, everyone was satisfied. The quantity was unusually large and the quality was fully up to his usual high standard.

Geneva, N. Y.—W. & T. Cass predict a big future for the new scarlet rambler, Erna Teschendorff, of which they had a limited supply just right for Easter. It is distinct and brilliant. The pink baby, Tausendschon, is another good seller. They had a fine batch of Harrisii. Everything was cleaned out at Easter.

Rutherford, N. J.—The Palm Sunday exhibition at the greenhouses of the Julius Roehrs Co., an annual event, was held this year with the usual success, and the proceeds, as usual, were added to the Rutherford hospital fund. The greenhouses were open on Saturday as well as on Sunday, and an admission of 25 cents was charged.

Trenton, N. J.—During Easter week the Park Floral Co. occupied three stores in addition to the regular salesroom at Buchanan and Lafayette avenues. The extra stores were at 107 Perry street, 250 Hamilton avenue and 881 South Broad street.

Auburn, N. Y.—The weather was fine and the Easter business commenced early, almost everything in the way of plants, baskets and cut flowers selling on sight. Both store men and growers are satisfied. Alfred Patrick says low prices prevailed, which made it possible for all to have flowers, and hopes that in other years this may be an example to all.

MANURE WATER IN BARRELS.

I should like to know what is the simplest arrangement for the use of manure water in a small plant, with about 1,600 square feet of floor space.
B. A. A.

The simplest arrangement for manure water for a small plant is to use three or four barrels, placed in the most convenient location under cover, and to use old burlap bags as containers for the manure, so that the manure may readily be removed from the barrels when exhausted.
W. H. T.

Three Teams at Work, one of them Plowing, in a Greenhouse.

FARMING UNDER GLASS.

As It Is Done in Iowa.

The work conducted in a modern greenhouse establishment is no longer spoken of as gardening under glass; the correct term is farming under glass. The accompanying illustrations prove it, especially the one in which a team is shown plowing in a greenhouse, while two other teams are hauling fertilizer. Here are three teams in one house, and in the center of it, at that, and the operations are exactly farm operations, nothing more and nothing less.

The big greenhouse in which the plowing is in progress is one of those recently built by the J. W. Davis Co., near Davenport, Ia. J. W. Davis, president of the company, is one of the Davis brothers who have built up large and successful establishments at Morrison, Ill., Aurora, Ill., Streator, Ill., and at Davenport. Mr. Davis went east at the time of the National Flower Show at Boston and was a walking interrogation point, for he then was planning the Davenport establishment. Few men ever have investigated the subject more fully than did Mr. Davis before deciding on the character of his new establishment. He talked with the men who believe that the best policy is to cover as large an area as possible for the money, and who are looking for quick profits, and he talked with the men who build for permanence. In the end he concluded that he would build the big houses that have become common in the east, but which are not generally built in the west.

The Davenport Plant.

As a result twenty-six acres of land were acquired five miles from Davenport, on the Iowa & Illinois railway. The first work was to get a sidetrack put in, as being of prime importance where so much building material had to be handled. Work was commenced about June 15, 1911. The plant now consists of one propagating house 24x260, three houses 43x600 and two houses 64½x600. These are the flat iron rafter houses of the Lord & Burnham Co., built separately, with sufficient space between so that no shade is cast, a point Mr. Davis thinks is worth all it costs. The side walls are seven feet high, three feet being concrete. Of these concrete walls there is a total of 7,000 lineal feet in the establishment, from which one can form an estimate of the size of the undertaking in the matter of construction. On top of the concrete wall a cast-iron sill is bolted to carry the iron posts. There is a continuous line of ventilation on each side of the ridge, also on each side of each house under the eave plate. Both walls are of glass above the concrete base. The houses run east and west, with wide doors at each end, so that teams can be driven in, for emptying or filling the beds, or for plowing. There are no benches. The crops are grown in solid beds on the ground. The beds are eight inches deep and five and one-half feet wide.

The Heating Arrangements.

Across the center of the houses there is a passageway eight feet wide where the steam main is carried, the pipe being reduced as the flows for each house are taken off. The flows are carried overhead, on the purlin posts, with the returns on the walls. The Simonds vacuum system is used throughout and during the winter now closing excellent results have been secured, the houses having been heated on about one and one-half pounds of steam pressure in the most severe weather this winter.

There was no feature of the establishment to which Mr. Davis paid closer attention than the service building; it is a model of substantial construction, convenience and thorough equipment. It is absolutely fireproof. The building is 50x140 feet, and with its tall brick chimney it gives the appearance, not of a greenhouse boiler-shed of the old days, but of a modern power plant. It is divided into two sections by a wall. On one side are six Kewanee tubular boilers, each of 150 horse-power, making 900 horse-power all told. On the other side of the wall are the vacuum and water pumps, air compressor, dynamo and other mechanical accessories. Beyond these is the packing room. The exhaust steam ordinarily is sufficient for heating the houses. Water is supplied from a deep well, being forced out by compressed air into a large cistern, from which it is pumped direct to the mains, under 100-pound pressure.

The Crops.

So important an industry was this that the railroad company established a station at the greenhouse plant; you will find it on the time tables as Davis Gardens, and the local passenger and express cars stop at the station shown in one of the accompanying illustrations.

Mr. Davis built his plant not alone with the idea of permanence but with the object in view of having houses suitable for any crops which might indicate that they would prove most profitable. Cucumbers and tomatoes have been the principal crops to date, but sweet peas have been an important intervening crop. One of the illustrations shows one of the houses 64½x600 with the cucumbers just getting a good start. In one of the other pictures a house 43x600 in sweet peas is shown. The photograph was made in January. The pick in this sweet pea house averaged 20,000 per day for some weeks. The winter-flowering varieties were used, Boddington's seed being planted. The flowers were packed in the crates ordinarily used for cucumber shipments and most of them were consigned to the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago. The crop proved profitable, but it is figured that better stems will be had another season by less thick planting and that better stems will produce more money.

The Davis Floral Co., a separate corporation in which J. W. Davis is interested, is now building a range of similar houses just across the railroad track from the present establishment, to grow exclusively plants and cut flowers for wholesaling.

YOUNG SMILAX PLANTS.

I am planning to build another greenhouse, and I have some smilax started and want to establish it in the new house, which I hope to have completed by June 1. How shall I treat it? Some of the plants are two inches high and some are just coming through the ground.

B. A. A.

B. A. A.

The young smilax plants should be potted off into 2-inch or 2½-inch pots and kept at a night temperature of not less than 55 degrees, or a little higher than that would be better. If the plants become crowded in these pots before you are ready to plant them out in the bench in the new house, it would pay to give them a shift to a larger pot. Smilax requires plenty of moisture after the plants become established in the pots. The most serious pest that is liable to attack it during the summer is red spider, which is more likely to appear when the plants are kept too dry.

W. H. T.

WHERE TACT WOULD HELP.

Will you answer this query through your columns? A large wholesale and retail florist was sending his wholesale catalogue to a good many of our customers who were not in the business. We wrote to him asking whether, before sending his next catalogues, he would look into the matter and not send his wholesale list to those not in the business. This happened some time ago. Today one of our best customers came in and gave us "down the country" for stopping her wholesale catalogue. In a town of this size, many of one's customers are one's best friends, from a social standpoint, and in this case the lady was not only angry, but had a feeling of real personal grievance against the manager—a feeling of injured friendship.

Now, being rather green as to business policies, we want to ask: Was it not an unbusiness-like act, on the part of the florist, to inform his customer that we were the cause of stopping her catalogue? Should he not have written that he sent his wholesale catalogue to dealers only? He not only has lost our trade, but probably our customer's, also, and while we are small fry now, our opportunities are such that we shall not be small fry always. Besides, we always pay our accounts, and paid accounts, even if small, mean something more than large unpaid ones.

A. F. C.

A florist who deals both at wholesale and retail must be possessed of tact, patience and infinite good temper, or he will find himself constantly at arms with one or another of his customers.

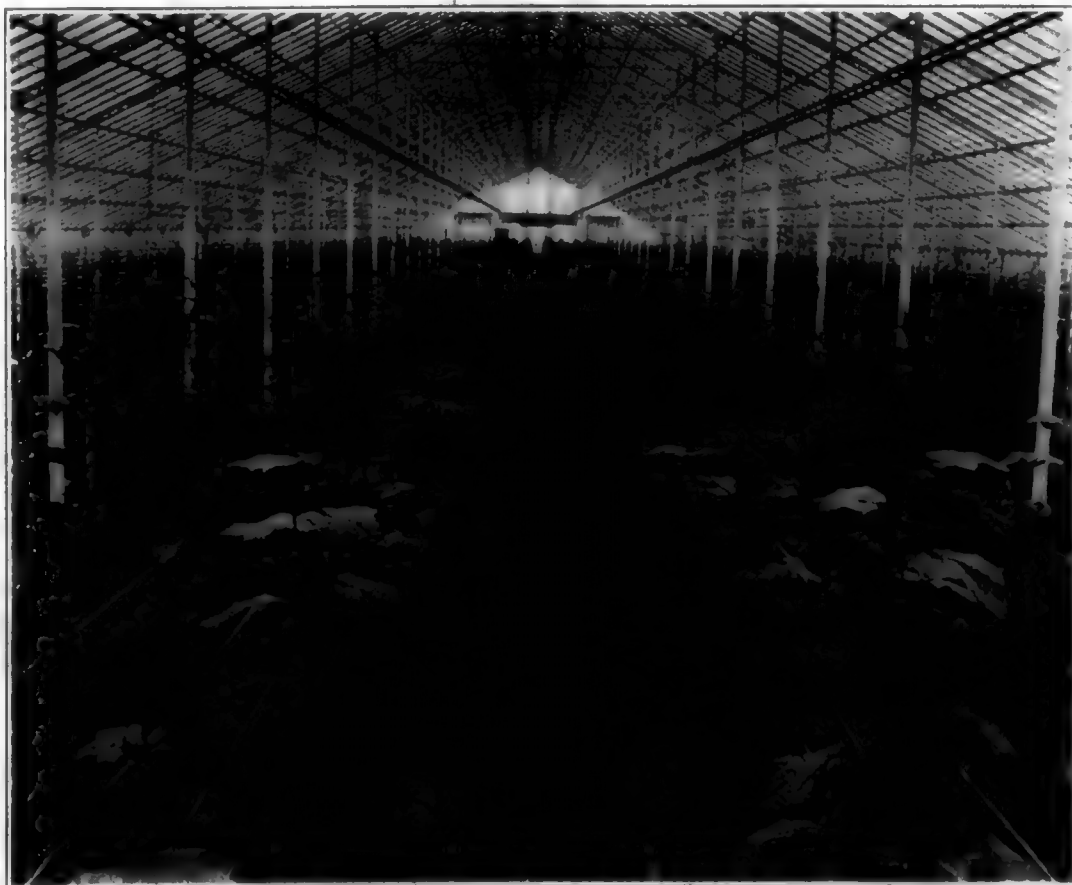

CANADIAN CUSTOMS.

The following circular to importers of cut flowers, issued by the Canadian customs department, should be observed by all who ship to the Dominion:

Invoices of cut flowers should show the price, number and grade of each in the shipment, classed as the case may be as special or fancy, or as numbers 1, 2 or 3, for example, as follows:

Quantity	Description and Class	Price
... American Beauty Roses,	Special or Fancy	...
.. " "	No. 1	...
.. " "	No. 2	...
.. " "	No. 3	...
... Roses (other)	Special or Fancy	...
.. " "	No. 1	...
.. " "	No. 2	...
... Carnations	No. 1	...
.. " "	No. 2	...
.. " "	No. 3	...
... Violets

Such cut flowers are to be regarded as having been shipped in good condition and are to be appraised at their fair market value as at the place of export in such condition. John McDougald, Commissioner of Customs.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Perennial Phlox.

The best way to propagate perennial phlox is from cuttings. These, taken off when about three inches long, will root easily in the propagating bench of a cool house or even in a close cold-frame. Keep the sun from them and keep the sand moist and few will fail to root. There is no need to pot off the cuttings before planting out, for if a cool, moist spell of weather is selected they can be planted directly from the cutting bench to the open ground, and if placed six inches apart in the rows they will produce fine heads of flowers and make nice roots for planting out or selling in the fall. In order to get an early crop of cuttings, it is a good idea to dig up a few clumps of such sorts as it is intended to propagate and place them in a cool greenhouse, but cuttings can be taken from outdoors in April and these will make nice plants the first season.

Pansies.

Where pansies and violas have been wintered in coldframes, the leaves or other protection should now be removed and the plants should receive a soaking watering and be kept freely ventilated. It would be well to leave the sashes on for some time, in order to get the plants into flower earlier. Little baskets of well flowered plants will be found to be good sellers and the grower who gets them in a little earlier than his neighbors is sure to "make good" with them. The covering on outdoor pansies should not be removed too soon. In the northern states we frequently get biting winds and keen frosts in the first half of April and it is always safe to leave at least a thin mulch about them. The winter now passing has been a comparatively open one, but for unmulched plants it has not been at all satisfactory.

Memorial Bench Crops.

With the passing of Easter there will be considerable bench space at disposal, and such crops as candytuft, ten weeks' stocks and double feverfew, most of which are probably in pots and in need of a shift, should be planted out as soon as benches are in readiness for them. In the case of stocks, if the plants are not yet of sufficient size to plant out there is no need to worry about it, as this year we have a longer gap between Easter and Memorial day than will again happen for many years. Gladioli, which are now a few inches above ground, in the benches, should be along in time for Memorial day. Keep the soil well stirred about them and let the temperature average about 50 degrees at night.

It hardly pays to carry over some Easter plants, but there are others which should not be thrown on the rubbish heap. Azalea Indica should not be discarded. Pick off the flowers and seed pods, and about the middle of May plant all the left-overs out in good soil in a coldframe, from which the sashbars are removed and where they can be readily reached with the hose and given an abundant water supply. Camellias and ericas will do well if similarly treated. Genistas can be carried over if larger sizes are wanted. If not, throw them away. They should not be planted out, as they lift badly, but should be kept in pots plunged to their brims. The same is true of acacias and metrosideros. Rambler roses will be of no value for forcing another season, but can be cut back hard, started up and planted out in May. They will make useful plants for sale in the fall. Spiræas (astilbes) are so cheap that it hardly pays to plant them out.

Calceolarias.

Calceolarias are now sending up their flower spikes and should be neatly staked, using sticks painted green for this purpose. As the plants will now be well rooted in their blooming pots, apply liquid manure once in four or five days. As the flowers start to expand, it may be necessary to give them a light shading from the sun's direct rays. The large herbaceous varieties are quite easily scorched. Be sure the plants are kept clear of green aphids.

by fumigation, as this pest will rapidly cripple them if once it is allowed to get a foothold.

Fancy Caladiums.

If caladiums are still dormant they should be started up. If they have been stored in a tolerably warm, dry storehouse they should be sound, but if, as sometimes happens, they are placed with tuberous begonias a large proportion are sure to be found decayed. Start the tubers in flats of sand and leaf-mold and do not water too freely at first. Pot up before the roots have started too much and give the plants a warm, moist house to grow in. In summer they will do well in an ordinary greenhouse, but at this early season they should not have less than 60 degrees at night.

Starting Vegetable Plants.

Many country florists do quite a little business with vegetable plants, such as tomatoes, celery, peppers, eggplants, lettuce, cabbage and cauliflower. Probably some of these are already started. If not, a sowing of all can be made at once. The varieties will depend to some extent on location, but as a general rule the following are good sorts to grow: Paris Golden celery for early, Winter Queen for midseason, Paschal or Boston Market for late; Bull Nose, Squash and Ruby King peppers; New York Improved and Black Beauty eggplants; Jersey Wakefield and Danish Ball Head cabbage; Early Erfurt and Snowball cauliflowers; Big Boston and Tennis Ball lettuce. These vegetables are most salable in small flats or baskets, twelve or twenty-four plants in each. All like a light but rich soil.

INNOVATIONS.

The August convention of the S. A. F. at Minneapolis will afford a number of novelties, in addition to its being the first time that the society has met in the northwest. The most radical change is the lengthening of the convention one day, the S. A. F. directors having decided to use Friday for convention purposes rather than turning the fourth day over to the local organizations, as has been done in the past. The result is that the local hospitalities will be postponed until Saturday, making the convention virtually a five-day affair, for the opening will be on Tuesday, as usual.

Another important change is in the matter of the local hospitalities. The S. A. F. directors have taken cognizance of the general view that too many distractions have been provided at recent conventions, making the meeting an outing rather than a business affair. At the request of the new directors the Twin City florists will not provide entertainments of a character that will draw the visitors away from the convention hall during the four days of the business sessions. The entertainment features for the ladies will be made a feature of, and the gentlemen who wish to visit points of special interest on short individual trips will be taken care of, but the effort will be to center the interest in the business meetings and the trades' display.

It is figured that the Minneapolis convention will attract an unusually good trades' display. The trade in the northwest has developed amazingly in recent years and there is a large body of good buyers there who have not been reached at any of the recent conventions; it affords the exhibitors a splendid opportunity to extend their acquaintance and there already are indications that the trades' display will be at least as important a feature as at any previous conventions.

The convention is to be held in the armory, a building which affords as good a floor space as the Coliseum at Chicago, or the armory at Baltimore. In addition there is an excellent room for the business sessions and a number of smaller rooms for the meetings of the special flower societies. The arrangements are as good as the society ever has enjoyed.

Another new feature will be the outdoor display. An acre of ground in front of the armory has been given into the charge of Vice-President Theodore Wirth and he is arranging for the planting of exhibits there. This is a feature tried some years ago at Dayton, where it proved successful, but it has not since been possible to repeat it. Mr. Wirth feels confident that he will have a splendid outdoor show, and anyone who knows the energy and gardening ability of the vice-president will feel sure that stock sent him for this exhibit will have the best of care.

Work already has been begun on the souvenir album. It, too, will be an innovation, in that the shape of the book will be like the standard magazines, instead of the unwieldy flat form previously used for such publications. Plans for the book are well under way. A dummy has been prepared, showing the striking cover design and a few of the illustrations that will go into the book. The convention association will be represented at the National Flower Show at New York and work will be pushed forward actively. No waiting until the last minute with the Convention Association of Minneapolis; they take time by the forelock. Theodore Wirth was at Chicago March 21 and 22 furthering matters.

going backward. Can you tell me how I can get rid of the rust? Would a weak solution of nitrate of soda help to start them up, so that they would outgrow this disease? The other sample is from White Wonder, on which a good many leaves are dying around the base. Can you tell me the cause? These samples are from this year's cuttings, not from old plants. As I am young in the business, I have a great deal to learn and any information on the subject will be greatly appreciated. I am located in New York state.
P. C. R.

You do not state what size of pots your carnation plants are in, but since you do not mention having shifted them since they were potted early in January, I suspect that they are quite pot-bound. I would suggest that you shift them into larger pots, say from 2-inch to 2½-inch, or even into 3-inch. With the plants in the weakened condition you state they are in, I would prefer the small shift. While shifting them, pick off all the rusty leaves. After you have repotted them, water carefully until they show new growth, and then keep them dusted with Grape Dust or hydrated lime. There will be at least six weeks yet, before you can plant in the field, and plants which were potted in January can not be expected to hold in good condition in the original pots that long.

White Wonder is inclined to lose its foliage a little more than some varieties if the plants are allowed to get stunted, or severely checked in growth. A shift will likely remedy the trouble on these, too. I can see no traces of disease on these.

THE CLASS AT AMHERST.

The group shown on this page is the short course class in floriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., for the current season. Prof. White is third from the left in the front row. The class is gathered from all parts of the United States, largely, Prof. White says, as the result of the publicity given the course by The Review, many of the students in the short course being florists or the sons or daughters of those in the trade.

Cape May Court House, N. J.—Oswald Lange, formerly superintendent for Theodore N. Vail, Lyndonville, Vt., has started in business as a florist here and will grow a general line of stock, including hardy perennials.

VARIOUS QUERIES.

We have some carnations that are started in 3-inch pots and growing nicely, but a number of them have a "leg." The thick part of the cutting grows up from the top of the soil, on a hard shoot. The plants are slightly shaded by the bench of carnation plants south of the shelf where the pots are. What is the probable cause of this growth? Does it make any difference to the value of the plant? How should these be topped? Should we top the heavy part of the cutting, disregarding the leg, or count on breaks from this leg? Should these plants be set in the soil so as to bury the leg?

Does Bassett ordinarily show white streaks in hot weather? Some of ours have blooms that are almost faded. The plants are healthy and vigorous, with long, heavy stems.

What is the ordinary spacing of plants in a bench? We have planted 10x12 inches, but have been told that the large growers plant 8x10 inches.

What scarlets are best producers in this Kansas climate?
K. G.

If I understand you correctly, the leg you speak of is a strong shoot starting near the base of the cutting. There is absolutely no objection to this kind of growth, as it will be of material assistance in making a good-sized plant. Top your plants the same as you would ordinarily, and when this shoot has become large enough, top it too. Do not pot any deeper than you would if this shoot were not there.

Bassett makes a few white streaks in the flower all through the season. They may be more prominent in warm weather, though I cannot say positively that such is the case. Perhaps you are troubled with thrips, in which case the edges of the petals would have white spots on them.

The spacing of your plants on the bench must depend largely on the size of your plants at planting time. If our plants are of ordinary size we set seven plants across a 5-foot bench, which means about eight inches between the plants. The rows are set ten to twelve inches apart, according to the size of the plants. Unless your plants are of unusual size, this space will be sufficient.

There is always room for argument as to the best varieties in this or that color. Some growers still cling to Victory as their best scarlet. Others claim there is no money-making scarlet like Beacon. Still others incline toward Scarlet Glow. St. Nicholas being a production of our own, we naturally think it is about the finest scarlet ever. Had we not thought so, we would not have disseminated it. However, after all is said and done, these are all good and each grower must try them out and choose which one will suit his needs best.

PROBABLY NEED REPOTTING.

I am enclosing some leaves from my Eureka and Benora carnations, which are rusty. The plants were bought in the early part of January. They seemed to start well and looked healthy, but lately they appear to be

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Chicago, Ill.—On application of Bowles & Bowles, attorneys for Clifford Pruner, A. F. Longren and W. F. Duntzman, Judge Dever, in the Superior Court of Cook county, March 24 appointed T. T. Clark as receiver for E. H. Hunt, Inc. The petitioners are minority stockholders in the Hunt corporation. Their petition alleges insolvency and mismanagement threatening the interests of the petitioners. Holden & Buzzell, the attorneys for the Hunt corporation, denied that the corporation is insolvent, but did not oppose the appointment of a receiver, as some of the creditors were pressing for settlements. Holden & Buzzell state that an accountant, who has just completed an audit of the books, reports net assets of $6,000 to $7,000; bills payable, about $9,000; accounts receivable, $7,000; stock, $8,000, after liberal allowances for shrinkage. The principal creditor is said to be F. A. Thompson & Co., of Detroit, the To-bak-ine people, who have instituted two suits, one for about $4,000 and the other for about $500. There is one small judgment unsatisfied. The receiver now is in charge and continuing the business in the interest of all parties concerned.

The E. H. Hunt corporation was formed in 1906 to take over the business established in 1876 by the late E. H. Hunt. The capital stock is $25,000. The officers of the company are: President, K. M. Hunt; treasurer and manager, C. M. Dickinson; secretary, T. T. Clark. It is Mr. Clark who is receiver. For many years seeds, cut flowers and florists' supplies were handled. A few years ago seeds and bulbs were dropped to permit of concentration on the other lines, the cut flower business being the oldest in Chicago. A few months ago the cut flower department was disposed of to Erne & Klingel, Mr. Erne being an employee of many years' standing.

Des Plaines, Ill.—The George M. Garland Co. filed a petition in bankruptcy March 20 in the United States District Court at Chicago and George T. Whitney was appointed receiver. The petition included the following summary of the condition of the company:

LIABILITIES.

Wages due 24 employees.....	$ 2,569.79
Bond issue	4,500.00
Chattel mortgage	1,413.50
Unsecured claims	13,737.68
Total	$22,320.47

ASSETS.

Real estate	$27,000.00
Cash on hand.....	87.00
Notes and securities.....	1,000.00
Stock	10,000.00
Bills due	3,000.00
Insurance policies	5,000.00
Patents	5,000.00

Total $52,087.00

Among the largest unsecured creditors the petition shows the following:

Quaker City Machine Co. (note).....	$1,764.07
B. L. Langenhauser (note).....	1,356.24
J. L. Schiller (note).....	1,106.01
Illinois Steel Co. (note).....	1,000.00
John C. Moninger Co. (note).....	807.13
Geo. M. Garland (wages).....	900.00
H. S. Garland (wages).....	600.00
L. C. Poyer (wages).....	800.00
Schillo Lumber Co. (judgment).....	522.18
Sharp, Partridge & Co. (note).....	328.40
James H. Rice Co.....	155.80
Whitsett Coal Co.....	151.54
Otto E. Hedrick.....	162.93

The creditors had been pressing for several days and the filing of the voluntary petition was to forestall an involuntary petition. The appointment of Mr. Whitney as receiver, and the schedules of assets and liabilities aroused some of the largest creditors, who assert that the placing of an employee in charge of the affairs of the bankrupt is prejudicial to their interests, while the Garlands, father and son, are as emphatic in declaring that the appointment of a trustee not friendly to them will defeat their hopes of reorganizing the concern and putting the business on its feet again. The matter will come to an issue April 1, when the first meeting of creditors will be held before Referee Eastman.

The George M. Garland Co. is one of the most widely known concerns in the greenhouse building line. George M. Garland was the inventor and patentee of the Garland cast-iron gutter and at the time he brought it out attracted wide attention, for he was a step in advance of the times. Establishing a foundry at Des Plaines some fifteen years ago, the business grew steadily until incorporation became desirable. The officers of the company are: President, George M. Garland; secretary and manager, Harry S. Garland; treasurer, L. C. Poyer. Various other patented features of greenhouse construction were introduced from time to time, including a truss house and a movable house, on wheels, a large range of which has been built near Detroit. Recently an expansion of the business had been undertaken, with representation on the Pacific coast and in New England, and with a Minneapolis office in charge of S. A. Jamieson; also the factory facilities were being increased at the time the financial troubles became acute. George S. Garland and his wife have been on the Pacific coast for their health this winter. Mr. Garland was summoned home last week and states that he has plans which he expects to result in the reorganization of the company and the continuation of the business.

Portland, Ind.—The Portland Nursery Co. has been made defendant in a suit for an accounting and for the appointment of a receiver filed in the Circuit Court here by Charles W. McDonald, receiver for the T. W. Meneray Co., of Pottawattamie county, Iowa. The complaint alleges that the defendant company is indebted to the concern of which the plaintiff is receiver, in the sum of $260.50, and that it is unable to meet all financial obligations.

Boston, Mass.—Enoch E. Fletcher filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court March 17, scheduling liabilities at $2,822.24, with assets of $993.79.

BEST SWEET PEAS OUTDOORS.

In his lecture on sweet peas before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, March 18, Edwin Jenkins, of Lenox, gave the following as his selection of the best sweet peas, one of each shade: Mrs. Sankey Spencer, Hercules, Thomas Stevenson, Nubian, Scarlet Emperor, Loyalty, Helen Pierce Spencer, Clara Curtis Spencer, John Ingman, Mrs. Cuthbertson, Aurora Spencer, King Edward Spencer and Navy Blue.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

For the New York show Henshaw & Fenrich offer three prizes of $25 each for roses from glass devoted to the growing of stock for the New York market, for the best twenty-five Richmond, twenty-five Killarney and twenty-five yellow roses.

Harry O. May offers $25 for the best new rose not yet on the market.

The Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa., registers rose The Mavourneen, a sport of Killarney, large bud, averaging thirty petals, color deep pink, reverse side of petal almost as dark as the inside of petal, fragrant, good foliage.

The judges so far appointed for the rose section of the New York show are John N. May, Adam Graham, Patrick Welch, Philip Breitmeyer, Robert Pyle, George Asmus, A. B. Cartledge and Alexander Cummings, Jr.

An illustrated lecture will be given Tuesday evening, April 8, on "Roses as Decorative Plants," by Robert Pyle, president of the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa.

11 p. m.—Show closes.

CORRECTIONS IN FINAL SCHEDULE.

Omitted from Division C, American Rose Society's section—Class 331A, 50 White Killarney Roses—First prize, $20; second prize, $10.

Class 331 of the Final Schedule is to be known as the Bonnett & Blake prize—first prize, solid silver cup, value $50.

Class 276 is to be known as the Tuxedo Horticultural Society prize, and the first prize award is a silver cup.

Section H, Class 249, should be amended to read "not less than 8-inch pots, not more than 12-inch pots."

Additional class to Section H—Class 200A, 25 plants Amaryllis vittata hybrids, first prize, $30; second prize, $20; Julius Roehrs Co. prize.

Addition to Section F—Miniature model of estate covering 4 square feet, including residence, lawns, roadways and whatever the ingenuity of the exhibitor may suggest—First prize, $30; second prize, $20. Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston's prize.

In Class 87, Section C, the Horticultural Society of Chicago offers a grand silver medal in place of a silver cup for the first prize; and Class 91 is the grand bronze medal of this society.

In the Carnation Society's schedule, Classes 441 and 442 are to be staged on April 8 instead of April 10. In Class 437 no medal will be awarded this year, as this is only a preliminary competition.

Additions to Section A—Class 54A, for bed of pansies, assorted colors, 6 feet across, first prize, $10; second prize, $5. Traendly & Schenck's prize.

Show Notes.

A. E. Thatcher and Edward Kirk, of Bar Harbor, Me., have been added to the board of jurors.

The supplementary prize schedule is ready for distribution. Copies may be had on application to John Young, secretary, 54 West Twenty-eighth street, New York.

It has been decided that the show shall close at 11 p. m. each day instead of 10 p. m., as previously announced.

PUBLICITY MEETING.

There will be a meeting on Monday afternoon, April 7, at the Grand Central Palace in New York, of the national publicity committee provided for at the last convention of the S. A. F. in Chicago, to consider the proposition of providing for a permanent secretary of the national committee to aid in advancing the publicity movement. All florists' clubs in the country having a publicity committee and having appointed a representative to membership in this national committee should see that their representative is notified of this meeting and is in attendance. If unable to be present another member should be sent to represent the club.

W. R. Pierson,

Representative of the Publicity Committee of the New York Florists' Club.

GARDENERS' PROGRAM.

The National Association of Gardeners has completed its program for the week. Its headquarters will be the Murray Hill hotel, Park avenue and Fortieth street. The secretary will be at the headquarters every morning from eight o'clock to ten o'clock from the opening until the closing of the show, to arrange for the admission cards to the show and other entertainment of the members of the N. A. G. Season tickets to the show will be issued only on presentation of the association's 1913 membership card.

A meeting of the association will be held Monday, April 9, at two o'clock, in the lecture hall of the Grand Central Palace. R. F. Felton, of London, will address the members at three o'clock on the practical usages of flowers.

“WHO’S WHO—AND WHY”

W. WELLS.

IT is highly complimentary that, after visiting us two years ago, W. Wells should be coming back. He must like us. As everybody knows, at least, as every chrysanthemum grower knows, W. Wells is the English end of the international triumvirate that includes T. W. Pockett as its Australian member and Charles H. Totty as its American representative. Mr. Totty is the mainspring that is energizing the clockwork of the approaching National Flower Show at New York, so why shouldn't his business associate run over from Merstham, in Surrey, to attend? No reason at all, so he did. He arrived at New York this week on the Mauretania, in company with several other distinguished gentlemen who will assist in judging the show.

Tuesday evening at nine o'clock members of the association will assemble in the men's dining hall of the Murray Hill hotel for a Dutch treat and a social evening. Wednesday the National Gardeners' and Florists' Bowling Tournament will be held at Thumm's alleys, Broadway and Thirty-first street, beginning at nine o'clock in the morning and lasting throughout the day. Other entertainment will be provided during the week, which will be announced during the first days of the show.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

Easter Trade.

Easter business was tremendous, being fully up to that of last Easter and in some respects greater. Saturday was a beautiful, bright day, and deliveries were made rapidly, without the extra trouble of wrapping. On Easter morning rain threatened, but did not come. The day became sunshiny and summer temperature prevailed, and by noon the florists' rush was over. Mixed with the orders for Easter flowers was considerable funeral work. Roses, carnations, violets, sweet peas, etc., were abundant and thousands were sold, at prices somewhat under those of last year. Among the plants most called for were Easter lilies, daffodils, jonquils and hyacinths.

Everything moved along smoothly and rapidly. Of course, the beautiful weather was the greatest help. The kind of weather to be had was doubtful up to the last minute, as it was cold on Friday, but it warmed up suddenly and everybody was happy.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. had one of the largest and best supplies of plants and cut flowers ever seen here, and it was all home-grown. The roses and carnations were extra fine and brought good prices. They had plants of all kinds in abundance and these were just about cleaned out by noon on Sunday. They had six delivery wagons going all day Saturday. An immense number of packages were sent out by parcel post. Along with all this was some funeral work.

Julius Niednagel & Sons had a larger supply of plants and cut flowers than ever before, and they had a large force working overtime in order to dispose of this supply. The roses were plentiful, as well as the carnations, and they had several thousand violets of their own growing. The latter, being fragrant, sold better than those shipped in. The sweet peas were fine. A number of rhododendrons in full bloom made an exquisite showing.

J. C. Elsperrmann was well satisfied with his sales, which were in some instances greater than ever. He had a big supply of lilies, daffodils, jonquils, tulips, hyacinths, etc., and sent out load after load. He had a nice cut of carnations, but had to buy considerable quantities of these and of roses to fill the orders. A good deal of funeral work was also on hand. Dave Elsperrmann was confined to the house by illness and could not help in the rush. Extra help was engaged and deliveries were made on time and to the satisfaction of all.

Miss Nellie Goodge shared in the large trade and was exceedingly busy. Her line of plants was good.

Louis Fritsch had a heavy trade. His plants were good. The carnations were extra fine and had a ready sale at good prices.

Henry Seymour got his full share of the business. His line of plants was good. His carnations were excellent and plentiful.

Ben Kramer was extremely busy and had a fine lot of lilies and other plants, as well as cut flowers.

Carl Zeidler, on the west side, had a big demand for seasonable plants and flowers.

Royston & Fenton sold all the roses they had.

Austin Wallace disposed of all of his carnations.

The Evansville Floral Co., selling carnations at 35 cents to 50 cents and roses at 50 cents to $1, seemed to be doing a good business.

C. L. Niednagel sold all of his American Beauty, Killarney and My Maryland, all of which were of excellent quality. E. L. F.

ST. LOUIS.

The Southwestern Market.

The wholesale cut flower markets were surely in good condition last week. The supply of anything seasonable was large and the quality was of the best. The early part of the week saw a big glut in violets and peas, which were sold at low prices, but these doubled up Saturday and Sunday, when the demand came on heavily. The same may be said of carnations; only the best sold well the first part of the week, but the latter part anything sold up well at prices from $3 to $5 per hundred. Roses were plentiful all through the week, as all the growers were in full crop. Richmond, the Killarneys and Maryland ranged from $4 to $12 per hundred. There was a scarcity of Easter lilies and callas and clean-up sales on these were reported. In other bulbous stock the market had a big supply of everything needed, some extra fine tulips, Dutch hyacinths, valley, Romans, freesias and Paper Whites, on which no advance in prices was asked. We can safely say that our local market took good care of the local florists this year and all say that Easter consignments were larger and better than in any previous year.

Easter at Retail.

The Easter business among the local florists was considerably ahead of last year in cut flower sales, but in the plant line it was surely beyond expectations. The weather was fine on Saturday, but Sunday a steady rain all morning hurt the transient business greatly. The sale of plants was remarkable all through. Lilies had the call above any, although azaleas and hydrangeas had a great demand. Tulips, Dutch hyacinths, valley and Von Sions in pans were also good sellers. In fact, anything in blooming plants sold up clean by Sunday noon. The displays of these at the establishments of George Waldbart, M. M. Ayres, F. H. Weber, F. C. Weber, Ellison, Kalisch, Young and Sanders in the west end were of the highest type and all of these report the best Easter business in years. In the south end Windler, Bergstermann, Beyer, Schray, Fillmore, Kruse, Bruenig and Herzog are more than pleased with their Easter business. Bentzen, Mullanphy, Tower Floral Co., Ostertag Bros. and the Metropolitan say business was great in all respects. Young's downtown store, as well as their west end branch, had all they could do with their big force of help. The florists up near the big cemeteries, Meinhardt, Koenig and Nyflot, as usual, had a big demand for plants and decorations.

Various Notes.

Fred R. Aichner, representing the Pine Tree Silk Mills Co., Philadelphia, called on the trade last week.

Robert Scott, the Shreve avenue florist, who grows plumosus for this market, had his ventilating apparatus badly damaged and some glass broken by a wind storm last week.

Grimm & Gorly, who will move this month a few doors west, used their new place for a plant annex for the Easter rush.

There were a lot of tornadoes all around St. Louis Easter, but we escaped them. If anyone would have walked through the west end Monday morning, March 24, and looked at the show houses of the florists, one would think it had struck them, as they were practically cleaned out of plants.

George Angermueller says his Easter business was larger than in any previous year.

At the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. last week someone asked Paddy Patten if he was busy. "Busy!" he said, "why, my boy, if I was to drop dead right now I wouldn't have time to attend my own funeral."

One of the best arranged Easter windows was that of Otto Sander. His trade shows a steady increase.

From reports the local retailers enjoyed a splendid telegraph order business from orders of florists outside of the city. This is one branch of the business that is growing each year. Any of those who advertise in The Review will tell you that.

Henry Berning handled a fine lot of cut lilies. These were scarce and the big demand cleaned them up with advance orders.

The Retail Florists' Association postponed its meeting to Wednesday, March 26, at the Washington hotel, following with a banquet.

The trade extended sympathy to Henry Ostertag last week in the loss of his brother, Fred, who died after a lingering illness. The obituary column contains a full account.

Riessen Floral Co., on South Broadway, says this was one of the best Easters. Everything sold well at good prices.

A. Jablonsky had quite a heavy loss of Easter lily plants March 20, when his horse ran away with a load he was delivering to retail stores. The wagon contained 150 fine plants that were nearly a complete loss.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. had some fine snapdragon last week. Albert Gumz says business was great.

Mrs. M. Eggeling lost a big plate glass window, broken last week, doing quite a bit of damage to plants. It happened early in the week, so it did not interfere with their Easter business, which was good.

The Schoenle Floral Co. has closed the store on Lafayette avenue and moved all fixtures to the new store on Grand avenue, which is run under the name of Mrs. Rosa Schoenle. Mrs. Schoenle is much pleased with her Easter business at her new location.

J. J. B.

McCook, Neb.—The McCook greenhouses, until recently owned by E. C. McKay, are now the property of C. H. Brown, of Achilles, Kan. As another result of the deal, Mr. McKay is now the owner of a stock ranch at Achilles. Mr. Brown has already taken charge of the greenhouses. Mr. McKay will leave soon for his new home on the farm, but will retain possession of his residence property here.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

It was a tired, red-eyed lot of men who began to lock up their stores on West Twenty-eighth street about 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Easter, after a continuous session beginning at 6 a. m. Saturday. And many were the flowers which had changed hands during that time, for all agreed that the receipts had been from fifty to 100 per cent greater than last year. It is true that some of the flowers came to hand in bad shape. Three days of hot, sultry, foggy weather ruined the violets and took the color out of the roses. As a consequence, the market was filled with unsalable violets. One commission merchant who is entitled to speak with authority on this particular flower said on Sunday morning that there were not less than a million violets carried over in the street, and some of them good violets, too, although the majority were of poor quality. As for prices, they ranged from 75 cents down to 20 to 30 cents, with the average greatly reduced by the waste. Beauties brought from 50 to 60 cents for specials. In the lower grades there was a full supply going at the buyer's price. Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond, Bride and Maid were sold at list prices in considerable quantities. Cattleyas of the dark sorts sold well at 30 to 50 cents, and considerable quantities of Schröderæ were taken, but at a low range of prices. Carnations were plentiful, and as the week drew to a close it became evident that the supply was excessive and prices weakened from the top figure, which was 6 cents, till at the close 2 cents was accepted for good stock. While large quantities of carnations were cleaned up, a good many were carried over. In spite of heavy receipts, lilies did well, the market being cleared at prices ranging as high as 5 cents. Valley was plentiful and sold well, but showed no marked improvement in prices. Gardenias of the better grades were in demand and brought good prices. Sweet peas sold well, particularly if long-stemmed. Shorts, even, were taken up fairly well and but few were carried over. Narcissi were in full supply and sold freely, but a good many poeticus were carried over. Paper Whites were not so plentiful and were cleaned up well. Daffodils were plentiful and cheap. Shipments of southern daffodils came to hand March 20 and were cleared out at 20 to 30 cents, but the heavy arrivals anticipated for Saturday did not materialize and the greenhouse flowers held up well. Considerable stock was carried over, however. Tulips sold freely, particularly the white ones. Freesias continue to come into the market and find sale at from 10 cents up. Stocks were slow and quantities were carried over.

Plants sold well throughout the week, the volume of business being unequaled and the prices satisfactory.

The Easter weather was fine and the volume of business reported, both by wholesalers and retailers, exceeded all recent records. Plants were featured by most retailers, and the quantity of plants sold has been tremendous.

Flowers in Department Stores.

Nearly all the New York and Brooklyn department stores handle plants and cut flowers. C. C. Trepel, who has the flower department in several of these stores, has built up an enormous business. At Gimbel's the flowers and plants at Easter occupied the northeast corner of the basement and about 100 clerks were kept busy up to the closing hour Saturday. Bloomingdale Bros. included in their full-page advertisements on Friday an offer of one ticket to the National Flower Show for the opening night with each purchase of $1 or more in any department of the store. The tickets were given out in the flower department only, in exchange for checks.

As a result of this advertisement, the services of five policemen were required to keep the crowd in order, and eventually the crowd became so big that the fire commissioner ordered the doors closed for fear of the results of a panic in such a mob. It is not often that a florist has to be protected from his would-be patrons by the police. Many florists would like to be mobbed by buyers just once, to see how it feels.

Various Notes.

'J. H. Small & Sons' Broadway store at Easter looked like a private conservatory. At the foot and at the top of the stairway leading up from the mezzanine floor to the top gallery were beautiful arches of ramblers in full bloom. These arches, which were grown for the purpose, were perfect in their proportions and most effective. At noon Sunday the store looked bare, almost desolate, except for the tired, happy clerks who had helped clear it of plants and flowers.

Max Schling had some exquisite Cattleya gigas and tiger lilies and showed an attractive lot of heather in Japanese boxes, which showed it up well.

C. A. Dards reported trade about as usual, with a strong preference for the old favorites among the plants.

Alex. McConnell reported an unusually big demand for lilies and a satisfactory volume of trade in all lines.

M. A. Bowe had some unusually fine spiræa and had a display of filled baskets which went off in great shape.

A. Warendorff, 1193 Broadway, showed the usual array of plants, baskets, etc. Among the attractive novelties was a twin basket of white enameled willow, each side carrying a 7-inch pot with an azalea in one and a Scottii fern in the other. A yellow chick perched among the green and a bow of lavender ribbon gave the whole a very Easterly effect.

Young & Nugent's store is in the heart of the theatrical district and did an enormous volume of business in fancy baskets. A liberal use of ribbon characterized their display.

Downtown florists report liberal buying in spite of dullness on Wall street. Warendorff's Liberty Tower store did a great business in plants. The Ansonia store, where Mrs. Warendorff (76 years young) presides, makes an equally favorable report from the hotel district.

Henry M. Robinson Co. had some fine specimens of the new rose grown by S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, R. I., which, in default of a name, is known by its shipper's number, 44. They also had some handsome Mrs. Charles Russell from the Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass.

J. J. Coan, manager of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., displayed last week some Majestic carnations grown by Henry Weston, of Hempstead, L. I., that were over four inches in diameter and with 3-foot stems. It is a white, blotched with pink. This carnation was given eighty-six points at a recent meeting of the New York Florists' Club.

A flower market will be opened soon at the northern end of Union square. This proposal emanated from the Central Mercantile Association and has been approved by Park Commissioner Stover. It is proposed to build a forum to be used by flower venders in the morning and by the public in the afternoon and evening.

One of the commission houses received on Saturday morning a shipment of 40,000 single violets which only brought an average of about 6 cents. In his anxiety to get a big lot into the Easter market the grower held his violets. As a result the flowers were too old, and even the good flowers were rendered worthless by being bunched with decaying ones. Many of the bunches were unsalable even to peddlers. Had this grower kept his violets picked closely he could have sent in 15,000 easily, which would have brought 75 cents on the last day, while those shipped earlier would have brought 20 to 30 cents if they had been received in good shape early in the week.

The friends of J. Austin Shaw will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered that he has been able to leave the hospital. He will probably be confined to the house for a week or more, but looks forward to the pleasure of attending the International Flower Show.

Wertheimer Bros. say a large number of their customers have advised them that they will be in New York for the show and they are making extensive preparations for their reception.

OBITUARY.

Myron H. Mills.

Myron H. Mills, a pioneer florist of Binghamton, N. Y., died at his home, 55 Front street, on Saturday, March 15. He retired from business a few years ago, but was well known and highly esteemed among the older generation of florists. He was born in Marcellus, N. Y., April 29, 1826, and removed to Binghamton in 1870. His first wife was Miss Louise Poppel. Their daughter, Mrs. Celora E. Martin, and Mrs. Tracy Fuller and Miss Jennie Mills, the daughters of his second wife, who was Miss Augusta Webb of Washington, D. C., survive him.

Fred W. Ostertag.

Fred W. Ostertag, at one time one of the firm of Ostertag Bros., St. Louis, died Tuesday, March 18, after a long illness. He was well known among the trade and was one of the best workmen in the floral art and decorating for big jobs. The funeral took place from the residence of his brother, Henry C. Ostertag, Thursday afternoon, March 20, at two o'clock, to Bellefontaine cemetery. He was 42 years of age and leaves a mother, brother and sister to mourn his loss. A great many of his friends attended the funeral and the floral designs were many and beautiful.

THE Saturday Evening Post, with its more than two million circulation, certainly gave the florists a big boost with the cover design on the issue put on sale March 20.

WITH this issue The Review reaches 800 weeks of age. Not what can be called a ripe old age, but we have aimed to live a useful life and plan no change in this respect.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

THOSE who put everything off to the last minute may see the error of their way in the fate of the Easter orders. Scores of those who scorned to use the mail found, when the eleventh hour arrived, that the telegraph and telephone wires were down and that they could not reach their expected source of cut-flower supply.

THERE are two labor wars in progress that may in time affect florists; the silk mills and the rubber goods mills are tied up by strikes. Already some special flower colors in ribbons are unobtainable at the first hands, but the supply of rubber hose still is ample, for the general spring demand has not become strong as yet.

AN extremely handsome vase of carnations adorned the desk of the Editor of The Review last week. They were from J. F. Brown, of French Lick, Ind., and it is possible the unusual size of the flowers was due to the Pluto water for which that resort is famous. The varieties were Enchantress, Washington and Pocahontas.

S. J. REUTER, Westerly, R. I., head of S. J. Reuter & Son, Inc., suffered an apoplectic stroke on the afternoon of Sunday, March 16, and was in an extremely critical condition for several days. March 25 he was reported as much improved mentally, but physically weak; he is recovering as rapidly as could be expected under the circumstances.

THERE was a notable increase in the Easter orders exchanged between retailers in more or less distant cities. The public gradually is awakening to the fact that the trade has facilities for delivering orders in any distant city, and, as the knowledge spreads, the business grows. All retailers, everywhere, feel safe in taking orders for delivery in any city that has a representative in The Review's department of Leading Retail Florists.

"KIND WORDS NEVER DIE."

The many words of appreciation and suggestion that are added to subscription letters are welcome to the Editor—and so are the occasional kicks—because they show what the trade wants in its paper, and whether or not it is getting what is wanted. An editor can come in personal contact with only a small portion of his readers; consequently he is dependent on the mail to keep in touch, although the growth of the subscription list and the advertising patronage—or the shrinkage!—serve as an index to the correctness of the editorial policy. There never will be a publication that, editorially, will suit everybody. Frank A. Munsey, one of the greatest of living editors, recognizing this, says he edits his publications to please himself, believing that he will therefore please the majority of right-minded men and women. On the other hand, the average editor simply tries to find out what the readers want and then gives it to them. The wisest course frequently is not the easiest course, especially in a trade paper. The easiest class of matter to get is the write-up stuff that properly belongs in the advertising section, even though it may have some little news value—the good advertisements all have that. And the easiest class of matter to write is that laudatory stuff that no one believes, not even the one written about, if he be honest with himself. But "bunk," while it may bring an advertising order, won't hold subscribers. It isn't the class of matter that brings letters like these:

We missed our Review last week and we want it; in fact, we can not get along without it, for it is part of the office staff and indispensable—like the proverbial fresh pop corn, the more one gets of it the more one wants.—Hay Floral & Seed Co., Brockville, Ont., March 5, 1913.

Enclosed find $2 to pay for The Review for the next two years. It is a splendid paper. I often wonder where you get all the information you give us from week to week. I would not be without the paper at five times the price. I appreciate your efforts to serve the trade. Nothing like it is published anywhere else, in my opinion.—W. T. League, Hannibal, Mo., March 11, 1913.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

It was a most remarkable Easter. There was every favorable condition for a record-breaking business, but the weather interfered and the aggregate money value of sales in this market was not so great as it has been in years when stock was not so plentiful. The wholesalers' troubles began with the breaking of telegraph and telephone communication by a big sleet storm that was general through the middle west on the night of March 20. Chicago was isolated. Telegrams ordering stock to be shipped Friday were delivered anywhere from one to three days later. It cut a big hole in the business. Even yet the wire service is not good.

The consensus of opinion is that the storms are the only reason why the market did not have a banner Easter. There was an abundance of stock in most lines. Good Beauties were not to be had in any quantity. Richmond sold better than usual on that account, not only cleaning up, but running short. Of other roses there was an abundance, the quality was good and prices moderate. No doubt the receipts would have cleaned up and at a better average price had the telegraph orders come in on time.

ROSES

THE FINEST STOCK IN LARGE SUPPLY

It is a fact you easily can prove that, length for length, our Roses carry larger and finer heads than any others on this market.

We ask retailers to order freely of our Killarney, White Killarney and Mrs. Ward, for we are certain that these roses will win friends for us by making friends for those who buy of us. Mrs. Ward is in full crop and a splendid seller. Remember we have a full line:

Killarney, White Killarney, Ward, Richmond, Radiance, Sunburst, Bulgarie (Mrs. Taft).

SWEET PEAS

This is the time of year when you can do a fine corsage business with our fancy, long-stemmed sweet peas. We have long-stemmed sweet peas in very large quantity—can fill orders for thousands. The longest stemmed, brightest colored, special fancy Blanche Ferry and the new winter-blooming Spencer. Others will have Spencers in May—here they are in quantity in March. You can't get them anywhere else. We are the only source of supply in this market, so why not order direct?

CARNATIONS

We believe we are receiving better average prices for our Carnations than are being received by any other house in this market for the simple reason that our stock grades highest—few low grade carnations here. And the buyers have found that it's not what you pay but what you get that determines value. We give value. The more you think about it the more certain you are to order of us.

BULB STOCK

We can supply all the spring bulbous flowers in quantity, of good quality and at prices that leave the retailer a good profit.

The supply of Easter lilies did not prove to be so large as was expected. Lilies cleaned up in good shape at rather better prices than in recent years. Carnations proved to be in something of an oversupply; some houses were able to clean up fairly well, but buyers who were sufficiently diligent were able to find a place where they could have a hand in the making of prices. This was especially the case Saturday night and Sunday morning. On the whole, prices will not prove any too satisfactory to the growers.

But it was with violets that the chief trouble came. The weather at Rhinebeck was wet and warm. When the stock arrived here most of it scattered badly when the bunch was shaken, and nearly every bunch showed a few rotted flowers. The result was that even where the retailers had placed orders in advance, they would not accept the goods tendered for delivery. Of course the greater part of the violets eventually found a sale through the outdoor vendors, but there was a discouragingly large waste. Never in the history of the Chicago market have the returns to growers been so small, and yet there was a demand for strictly first-class violets. The local singles did much better than the eastern doubles, for the quality was much more satisfactory.

There was the usual difficulty in cleaning up the bulbous stock; no matter how fast one sold, the arrivals were even faster. Sweet peas did fairly well, profiting somewhat by the condition of the violets. Not many cattleyas were in and they sold well, but some delayed shipments realized little. Stocks were difficult to sell. Snapdragons did well, but were not in large supply.

Most of the wholesalers found themselves with little business Friday, excellent business Saturday and scarcely anything doing Sunday.

Of the retail business there is an almost unanimous report. The storm cut a big hole in Friday's sales. Saturday was one of the best days ever experienced, and there was every prospect for record-breaking business Sunday morning. Most of the retailers worked all night Saturday and before daylight found it raining heavily. As a result they changed their plans, buying nothing Sunday morning and spending the day in making deliveries; there was scarcely any retail trade Sunday, where normally a big corsage and miscellaneous counter trade is done, especially by those located in residence districts. Practically all the retailers were behind last year in sales. Most of them were stuck on plants to a greater or less degree, but not many had overbought on cut flowers. Everyone takes it philosophically, because all agree that it would have been a banner Easter except for the storms Friday and Sunday.

Various Notes.

Almost every greenhouse establishment north and west of town lost more or less glass in the gale Sunday night, March 23. Several serious losses are reported under the general storm news on another page.

The Chicago retail florists advertised for Easter more extensively than ever before. Besides neighborhood advertising, several used large spaces in the daily papers. The George Wittbold Co. led off with a full page in the Tribune March 19. The Fleischman Floral Co. had a full page in the same paper March 21, and used about one-third of a page in some of the other dailies. John Mangel used about one-third of a page in the Tribune March 19, and A. Lange increased his regular space. C. A. Samuelson had a strong showing March 21. A feature of the advertising was the emphasis placed on the statement that regular prices would prevail; no advance because of the extra demand.

Bassett & Washburn received twenty-two telegrams March 22 that should have arrived March 21. Fifteen of these called for stock to go out March 21. March 23 eight telegrams were received that would have been delivered twenty-four hours previously had it not been for the crippled wire service. This was a fair sample of what the wholesalers faced.

N. J. Wietor, treasurer of the trades' committee that handled the 1912 S. A. F. convention entertainment, states that a meeting of the committee has been called for Thursday, March 27, at which it is expected that the refund of the unexpended money will be ordered.

At the postoffice March 22 a letter was received addressed "To Some Reliable Florist, Chicago, Ill." The postoffice delivered it to C. W. McKellar.

E. W. McLellan, of San Francisco, was in town several days last week on his way home from New York and Boston. He wired his people to ship some of the roses he grows under the name of Mignon, and after a five days' trip the flowers were put on sale in the store of the E. C. Amling Co., March 21. The leading retailers snapped up the novelty on sight.

A. L. Randall returned from his annual outing at West Baden in time for the Easter rush and went to New York, March 24, in company with Frank Johnson. Mr. Randall sails March 27 for Europe, on a buying expedition. Mr. Johnson will return March 30.

J. A. Evans, Richmond, Ind., was in town March 21.

Winterson's Seed Store reports that counter trade began promptly the moment the calendar showed the arrival of spring, but that the bad weather has made the increase slow.

Tim Matchen so overworked at Peter Reinberg's during the Easter rush that he was not able to come to the store either of the first two days of this week.

W. J. Smyth had a big funeral Monday morning after Easter, keeping the force going most of the night preceding, after the night work of Easter.

Theodore Wirth, superintendent of parks of Minneapolis, vice-president of the S. A. F. and chairman of the convention committee, spent a couple of days in town last week.

E. A. Hamburg & Co., who recently opened a store in the Atlas block, next door to the Chicago Carnation Co., have secured the services of Willie Abrahamson as salesman in the department specializing on florists' refrigerators. He assumed his new duties just before Easter and reports having already made some good sales. Mr. Abrahamson was formerly with P. Jones, a florist, and is well known and liked in the trade.

business was the largest on record, but that it manifestly is impossible to sell out an Easter stock in one day. The plants left were mostly the larger ones. Cut flowers cleaned up better than plants.

William Kidwell, on Forty-third street, did one-third more business on the three days preceding Easter this year than a year ago and sold almost completely out of plants by Saturday night. The Sunday corsage trade, however, was wiped out, but no stock loss was sustained, as the store cleaned out on cut flowers the night before and did not buy in the rain.

W. E. Lynch, of A. L. Vaughan & Co., says he does not recall a time when the florists, wholesalers, growers and retailers, had to contend with so much in the way of adverse weather conditions as March 21, 22 and 23, but adds that even at that the weather could not block activities entirely.

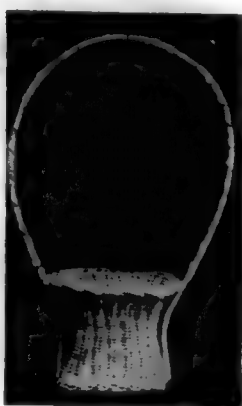

Phil Schupp comments that it was remarkable that such small losses should be reported around the Bowmanville greenhouses as a result of Sunday's storm, and says the only glass gone at the J. A. Budlong place was in the Beauty ranges, where two boxes repaired the damage. This he considers especially lucky, as these houses are now in crop.

Charles Erne, of Erne & Klingel, says that with the exception of the lack of demand Sunday morning, the business for the week ending March 23 was the best since the firm has been in business and shipping was almost tripled over Christmas.

In order to better care for the Easter rush Harry Rowe, the Monroe street florist, rented a vacant store at 120 South Wabash avenue, where baskets, pans and hampers were made up.

Miss Anna Sigmund, of the Madison Floral Co., says the few days previous to Easter brought in a rush of large funeral pieces that fairly swamped the force and made it hard to get things in shape for the Easter trade.

A call at the factory of the Raedlein Basket Co. found the entire staff enjoying a breathing spell after the rush of getting out Easter orders. According to Curtis Raedlein, the flower buying public is favoring the idea of buying flowers in baskets more than a year ago.

Richard Parker, the local representative, says that last week's business was a remarkable one, in cypas leaves, etc. March 24 he started out on the road and is looking for as good success as he has had in Chicago.

The big storm of March 20 made it hard for growers and others along the north shore to keep in touch with Chicago during the Easter rush, as all telephone and telegraph wires were down. Poehlmann Bros. Co. had to get along without the use of either, as the wires were broken between Morton Grove and

CHICAGO'S SPRING SHOW.

The second spring show of the Horticultural Society of Chicago, and its twenty-first annual exhibition, to be held April 1 to 5 at the Art Institute, promises to surpass last year's event. Local growers and a number of private gardeners in the city and suburbs have indicated their intention to send exhibits. Coming as it does just after the Easter rush and before the big show at New York, it is thought that many of the local florists will avail themselves of the opportunity of showing Chicago society at least some of their floral beauties and decorative possibilities.

Some interesting lectures will be provided by professors from the University of Illinois and local speakers. The addresses announced are: "Flowers for Home Grounds," by H. B. Dörner; "Fertilizers," by F. W. Muncie; "Color Harmony in Planting," by C. F. Kelley; "Flowering Shrubs in Their Order of Blooming," by Wm. A. Peterson, the well-known nurseryman, and "How to Care for Trees," by Dr. Frank Johnson, of Glen Ellyn. Dr. Johnson has a really remarkable collection of material for demonstrating the how and why of pruning and tree surgery. The public will be shown how to sow seed, transplant and do other gardening stunts properly by R. C. Lund, gardener for Sears, Roebuck & Co., who will be present every day. Mr. Stromback will be in charge of the bureau of information.

of the stem. The flowers are large, but scattering, not compact. Some bulbs failed to produce good leaves and the flowers were only half developed. Is our soil too rich, where the plants grow fourteen or fifteen inches tall? K. N.

Your spikes are just about the height they should be. Probably they have been kept buried outdoors or in a cold cellar until they have become somewhat drawn, which may account in part for their apparent legginess, but six inches of clear stem between the base of the leaves and the first flowers is all right. The fact that the flowers are loosely scattered on the spike is due rather to the varieties grown than to culture. Some sorts have flowers quite densely arranged on the stalks, while others are quite loose. In order to have stocky plants, they must be grown cool all the time and quite close to the glass. The tendency of the spikes to lengthen out is much greater after March 1 than earlier. Hyacinths succeed best in a light but rich soil, containing one-third of well decayed manure, with a generous proportion of sand. C. W.

The Easter Market.

The love for Easter plants and flowers is growing in the hearts of the people. There were more of both plants and flowers offered than ever before. Nearly all of them were sold, the market closing stronger on Easter evening than seemed possible after a week of such extraordinary activity. There is no doubt that the receipts in dollars and cents were larger than ever before, probably much larger.

The scope of the business in blooming plants was remarkable. For ten days the express companies were busy carrying off the cream of the stock to other cities. Then came the local demand and by the time it was satisfied there was little left in the greenhouses.

The lily was the principal Easter plant. Everything that was in bloom, either growing or cut, was sold at prices that ranged from 10 to 12½ cents, with shorts at 8 and specials at 15 cents. The demand for lilies exceeded the supply on the day before Easter. Many more could have been sold. The azalea was in brisk demand, the supply being smaller than usual. Many of the growers think azaleas have ceased to be profitable and as a result there were not nearly enough. The rose showed a gain in popularity. The greater variety of the Wichuraiana class, both in the tall and dwarf types, and the improvement in their cultivation are responsible. When well done the novel varieties were eagerly taken. The French varieties were the feature of the hydrangeas. They were extremely pretty, affording opportunity for taking color combinations. Many Otaksa were late. Spiræas were excellent and abundant. Gladstone was about the only variety forced, except just a few of the pink, Queen Alexandra. There were quite enough spiræas, although in places more could have been used at the last moment. Rhododendrons and genistas were excellent and popular. Daisies are hardly important except when well done. Valley in pots was short. Nicely flowered hyacinths, tulips and daffodils in pans and pots went even better than usual. There was little salable flowering stock left, either in the greenhouses or in the shops, on Easter Monday.

The strength of the cut flower market at Easter was surprising when the business in plants is considered. The market actually advanced day by day until Easter morning, when there was little left anywhere. The volume of business exceeded that of last year. The supply was hardly so large. Prices were higher, though never excessive, and there was little waste. The warm weather, especially on Good Friday, caused some damage, softening some stock so that it was unfit for use. The violet was the weak spot. Numbers of violets reached the city in such bad shape that they had to be thrown out, while some that were believed to be in good condition caused complaint. The warm weather and over-ripeness were the causes. The New York doubles and the fancy singles suffered most. Lady Campbell and the little Schoenbrun violets were the best, while some Marie Louise from the Hudson river were also fine. The price was 40 cents to $1.25 a hundred. Sweet peas are pushing the violets hard for first place as a corsage flower and they were in great demand when the cool weather set in. Nobody wanted the wet, warm weather stock and there were not enough bright, crisp blossoms. Pink sweet peas were more needed than lavender or white. Prices ranged from 50 cents to $1.50 a hundred. White lilac was in good supply and sold well. Everybody wanted Ward carnations, so that 6 and occasionally 8 cents was obtained. Other kinds brought 4 to 6 cents. Holding was again the bane of the carnation, the grower losing every time. It really seems that if we had a holiday every month flowers would be held, although everybody knows or should know that holding means loss, to say nothing of the dishonesty of such practices. There were not many cattleyas. The dark ones, Mossia, brought $9 a dozen more readily than Schrøderæ brought $6 to $7.50. Gardenias were corsage favorites at from $2 to $4 a dozen.

A tremendous quantity of valley was sold at the usual prices and more could have been used. The addition of the lilies intended for plant sales was not sufficient to meet the demands for cut lilies. Buyers who were unwilling to pay over 10 cents early in the week gladly offered 12 and 15 cents on the last two days. They exhausted all of the good stock. The quantity of snapdragon offered was a surprise and it was generally taken at from 75 cents to $1.50 a dozen. Pansies did well at about $1 a hundred. Daisies dragged at $1.50. There were not many more calla lilies or mignonette than the regular buyers wanted. All varieties of green were in moderate demand. Daffodils sold splendidly despite a little outdoor and much southern competition. There is really no comparison between Emperor when well grown under glass and the stock mentioned. The price on Emperor was $2.50 to $3 a hundred, while the southern ranged from $12.50 a thousand downward. Murillo was the principal tulip, at 3 and 4 cents. Many tulips were sold, but there were rather more than enough.

The rose market was active. Special Beauties were scarce at $7.50 to $10 a dozen, figures that show how scarce they were. Richmond was not plentiful. Prices ranged from $5 to $15, with a few fancies higher, these prices applying to the other varieties of roses. White were more difficult to obtain.

The market has fallen off since Easter, but there is quite enough business to consume a rather limited supply arriving since the close out for the holiday. Lilies are coming in slowly. Sweet peas are arriving more heavily, but there is a big demand for them. Beauties bid fair to become plentiful soon. There are no other special features to the market beyond the fact that there is a fair proportion of high grade stock and prices are moderate.

The committee appointed at the March meeting of the Florists' Club to select Pennsylvania day for the National Flower Show has decided that it would be unwise to make a selection.

A curious fact at Easter was that a retail florist in the heart of the city had no cut flowers to offer Saturday, selling just plants, while a street vender nearby sold $500 worth of cut flowers alone in that one day. Phil.

BOSTON.

The Easter Market.

It would have been hard to manufacture weather any nearer perfect than we had for Easter. The cool wave which was felt west of us did not reach here until the evening of March 22 and little wrapping was necessary on plants. March 21, the opening day of spring, we reveled in a shade temperature of 68 degrees. This softened some cut flowers, but it was a veritable boon to the plantmen, who were saved much expense in wrapping.

Pot plant trade was unquestionably the heaviest Boston has ever known. Lilies sold out clean and more could have been disposed of. The average price was $12.50 per bud, but some went to $15, with inferior grades at $8 and $10. Giganteum was the favorite lily, but many fine Formosas were seen, also some multiflorums. Rambler roses came next in popularity, and there was quite a variety of them, including Tausendschon, Dorothy Perkins, Lady Gay, Hiawatha, Mrs. Flight, White Dorothy, American Pillar and several other sorts. The baby rambles were in demand and there was also a large sale of hybrid perpetuals, also teas, such as Lady Hillingdon, and several polyanthas, such as Mignonette. Azaleas seemed to be rather overdone. Whites were especially hard to move. They were, however, well flowered. Bougainvilleas were offered in all sizes and sold well; so did acacias and ericas. Small pots of the latter were in demand. Genistas, as usual, were sold in large quantities, but in them dealers had considerable waste, as they do not stand long in a store. Bulbous plants were heavily sold. Murillo tulips and Victoria and Golden Spur narcissi were leaders in this class. Quite a few cyclamens appeared and sold well. In astilbes the varieties Gladstone and Queen Alexandra were most in demand. Some fine white marguerites appeared. Small pots of Mrs. Sander sold well.

While the plantmen had a first-class Easter, it can hardly be said with truth that it was the best ever with cut flowers. Roses did not make any advance in price; in fact, some varieties were hard to move at normal rates. The newer sorts sold the best and the call for white was better than had been anticipated. Some good Mrs. Russell Delight, Gloriosa and Rosette being the leaders. Other sorts went at from $2.50 to $4 per hundred. Violets did not sell well. Many thousands of singles were ruined by the hot weather of March 21. Good flowers made 60 to 75 cents per hundred, but other grades went as low as $2.50 per thousand. Doubles of good quality sold better than singles, something unusual here. Dutch bulbous stock was too plentiful; low prices were accepted to make clearances. Murillo tulips sold at $2 to $3 per hundred and were the most popular sort. Narcissi were heavily overdone. Antirrhinums were fine, but for some reason did not sell well, even the pinks hanging fire. Good yellow and white marguerites made $2 and second grade flowers $1. Valley made $2 to $4 per hundred. Cat-tleas and gardenias each met with a pretty good sale. There was absolutely no sale for stocks, little sale for wall-flowers, but a fairly good sale for English primroses and cornflowers. Sweet peas were in demand, all long-stemmed stock being soon cleaned up. For asparagus the call was good.

Since Easter, trade has remained fairly good. Carnations are off crop with most growers and white varieties are still selling well. Single violets are beginning to run out; doubles are good. There is still a greater supply of bulbous stock than can be profitably sold. Roses are only selling moderately, but good sweet peas are in demand.

Various Notes.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, sold over 200,000 flowers of Dutch bulbs for Easter. In tulips, Brimstone Beauty, also called Tea Rose, pale lemon in color, is popular. They had a fine lot of Lilium candidum and Spanish iris, which were in demand.

Harry Quint did a remarkably good Easter trade at his new and attractive store at 164 Tremont street. He hired several additional salesmen to accommodate his plant trade.

William H. Elliott has invited the Gardeners' and Florists' Club to hold a field day at his farm and rose houses at Madbury, N. H., about the middle of May. Mr. Elliott is a first-class farmer and cultivates over 250 acres. Farm crops and roses should be well worth seeing.

Albert and James Cartwright have leased the Mathison greenhouses at Waltham, Mass., and will plant all with new stock, chiefly Killarney and White Killarney. They will operate under the name of the Mathison Rose Co., by Mr. Mathison's permission. F. R. Mathison, now deceased, who founded the business, was for many years one of our most successful rose growers.

pick of 15,000 carnations March 21. From his new variegated, Mrs. B. P. Cheney, he picked 2,000 from 2,500 plants, all fancy flowers. He averaged over 5,000 flowers a day prior to March 21.

The yellow marguerites of N. A. Hudson, of Natick, are noteworthy. These are immense in size and carried on 24-inch stems.

According to P. Welch, trade with Welch Bros. Co. far surpassed all previous records. In Easter lily plants alone they sold over 30,000.

H. M. Robinson & Co. have leased the 13,000 feet of basement at the Boston Flower Exchange and hope to move there in about three weeks. They will make quite a few improvements at their new stand and will have a light, up-to-date and spacious salesroom.

Fred L. Sly, of South Stoughton, a recent accession to the ranks of the local growers of double violets, has had great success with them this season. His flowers are equal in quality to any seen in the markets.

E. J. Ahern, of Wellesley, who was unfortunate enough to have a freeze-up in his houses early in February, is now sending good yellow marguerites and English primroses to the Boston Co-operative Market.

W. B. Cobb, of Canton, is strong on wallflowers and English primroses.

M. B. Dallachie, of Newton Center, is a successful grower of single and double violets and English primroses.

Lively & Bond, of Holbrook, are sending in large lots of callas and bulbous stock to the Boston Co-operative Market.

John McFarland, of North Easton, sold his giganteum lilies out clean. He also had a strong call for valley in pots.

A. F. Coolidge, of Cambridge, struck the market right with his well grown cyclamens, hydrangeas and genistas.

W. W. Edgar Co. reports that its sales of Easter plants surpassed the most

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:

During the past year I paid you $18.20 for a half inch advertisement in the Retail Florists Department of The Review. I received through this small advertisement, from January 1, 1912, to December 31, 1912, orders to the amount of $566.00. They came by mail and telegraph from New York to San Francisco and from New Orleans to Minneapolis. Since I allowed the senders 20%, the record is as follows:

Total value of orders	$566.00
Less 20% allowed senders..	113.20
Net value of orders.....	452.80

Here is an addition of $452.80 in business which could not otherwise have been obtained and at an expense of only $18.20.

Since my advertisement appeared only in The Review it goes to show what the retail florists through the country lose if they do not use this medium of advertising. It also goes to show that The Review is not only there with a big "R" but that it has three more big "R's" - Readers - Reliability - Results!

NEW ORLEANS.

The Market.

With beautiful weather for the last three days, the Easter business was as good as ever, and in some cases even exceeded all previous sales for that day, both in the plant and the cut flower line. On Saturday and on Easter morning the retailers had a tremendous rush. The delivery with autos and wagons was kept up until after midnight on Saturday and late Sunday afternoon. The northern cut flowers were fine, with the exception of Easter lilies; those grown here were much better and naturally sold more quickly and at better prices.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society recently held the most interesting and enthusiastic meeting of the year at Kolb's German Tavern. President Herman Doescher was in the chair and Secretary C. R. Panter at his desk. It was decided to pay the full amount of $100 for the society's four shares of stock of the Southern States Fair. The site for it has been purchased and the plans have been drawn. Judging from the interest shown all over the south and even in some of the South American countries, the fair promises to be a highly successful one. One of the buildings will be devoted to horticulture.

From now on, the society will meet in the Progressive Union building, where a spacious and attractive meeting room has been permanently rented. The society will endeavor to have many interesting features at future meetings, such as lectures by members and others, with occasional displays of plants, cut flowers, etc. For the opening feature at the new meeting room it was arranged to have the president of the parking commission, Dr. Joseph Holt, deliver an address on the rules and regulations of the parking commission concerning the planting and replacing of trees on the public streets of the city. On account of the greater suitability of the society's new quarters, the social features will play a more prominent part than heretofore. It was unanimously voted that a letter of thanks be sent to Conrad Kolb for his generosity in permitting the florists to have the meeting room for so many years gratis.

showed some fine Easter lilies, including four different types—the Creole, a home-grown product; Harrisii, Formosa and giganteum. With the exception of the last named, all were in bud and flower. Harry Papworth spoke interestingly on the merits and demerits of the lilies shown, explaining the superiority of the Creole type, of which thousands of bulbs are now grown for the nursery company exclusively. The bulbs of these lilies are free from disease and are forced without trouble even for so early an Easter as this year.

The specimens of Hydrangea Otaksa could not be surpassed in flower and color. The entire display created a sensation.

Dan Newsham, having charge of a part of the establishment of his father, J. A. Newsham, exhibited a beautiful Calla Elliottiana in bloom, which was greatly admired.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the exhibitors.

Various Notes.

J. A. Newsham: "Business was good; had some fine sales of orchids, callas and lilies."

F. J. Reyes & Co.: "We made a clean sweep in cut flowers, and the sale of seasonable flowering plants was good.
Our new show house, 50x50, in the rear of the store, came in handy."

F. Rieth, Jr.: "Had a splendid Easter business. I grew my own stock of lilies and forced a big lot of other flowering plants."

U. J. Virgin: "The business was first-class, both in the sale of all kinds of seasonable plants and choice cut flowers."

The Market.

The retailers were favored with exceptionally fine weather for Easter, which increased the volume of business to just double their expectations. Pot plants had a heavy demand. Spiræas sold better this Easter than last. Pans of daffodils, tulips and other bulbous stock sold well. Corsage bouquets seemed to have an exceptionally heavy demand, as the weather was fine and everybody was out enjoying new Easter suits. Lilies sold fast and there were some florists who had to turn down orders for them, as they had sold out early and no more were to be had. Roses had the heaviest call in the cut flower line, Killarneys taking the lead. Carnations sold well. Cut bulbous stock sold only up to the expectation. The call for potted roses, ramblers, etc., was fine, but people here, as a general rule, do not care to pay over $5 for Easter flowers, which makes the call for larger plants limited.

Various Notes.

The city was visited with a heavy wind Sunday evening. Although little damage was done, several greenhouses report that the wind blew out a few lights of glass.

J. Austin reports trade for Easter up to expectations.

was in bloom. Pot plants were their leaders.

W. J. Barnes had to turn down orders for the need of time to put up and deliver.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a heavy run on pot plants and red roses. Business was a decided increase over last year. One of the trucks broke down and it was thirty-six hours before it could be repaired, but orders were out in time.

James A. Biggam was busy and he says he had a lot of decorating, which made delivery rather hard.

A. F. Barbe sold out entirely on Easter lilies, although the high winds hurt the cemetery trade to some extent.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. reports business as extremely heavy. The worst of it was that nearly all the orders came in the latter part of the week.

E. D. Ellsworth sold for Easter over 4,000 pot plants and panned bulbs and he says he was more than pleased with the volume of business.

Samuel Murray reports business brisk and that his basket trade was far ahead of any time yet.

Seed Trade News.AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Thirty-first annual convention at Cleveland, June 24 to 26, 1913.

SEEDSMEN in general report an increased call for gladioli this season, both from florists and the public.

COUNTER trade is beginning to open. In Philadelphia, New York and Boston the business is ahead of last year at this date.

THAD SMITH has purchased an interest in the Griffith & Co. Implement & Seed House, at Paola, Kan., and will aid Charles Griffith in the management of the business.

THE Everett Seed Co., of Atlanta, Ga., which added a garden seed department last January, has already found it necessary to enlarge its store at 29 West Alabama street, in order to provide room for the development of the new department.

THE four-story warehouse of the Waldron Seed Co., Waterloo, Neb., burned March 18, entailing a loss of $75,000, with insurance about $60,000. None of the other warehouses in the town were in particular danger from this fire, although it was quite spectacular.

A TORNADO passed about three-quarters of a mile west of Waterloo, Neb., about five o'clock Easter afternoon, doing considerable damage. The buildings on a farm belonging to the J. C. Robinson Seed Co. were destroyed and slight damage done to two other places belonging to the company.

THE California seed growers would like some of the rain that has been falling so copiously in other sections in the last week. The Californians could use some ten inches to excellent advantage and without it are not quite sure where they will get off. Crops are growing well, but the soil is moist for only about a foot.

THE William A. Davis Seed Co., recently incorporated at Bozeman, Mont., will make a specialty of the growing of seed peas and grain. The capital stock is $25,000. William A. Davis is president and general manager. B. C. Parker, also a seedsman of experience, is vice-president, and E. I. Renstrom is secretary. Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Parker are convinced that conditions in Montana make it a desirable state for growing peas for seeds.

THE canners' business is becoming of constantly increasing importance and several of the wholesale seedsmen are devoting a considerable part of their attention to it. A canner frequently buys more seeds in a season than does a fairly prosperous seed store.

STOPPING THE FREE SEEDS.

We note in The Review for March 20 the reference to "Those Free Seeds," which to a certain extent criticises the seedsmen for quoting ordinary varieties of seed, etc., to the Department of Agriculture for the free seed distribution, and we think the reason the seedsmen quote the government is amply covered by the old saying, "If we don't get it some one else will;" and naturally they all want a finger in the pie.

United States seedsmen would not quote the department they would buy the seed from foreign countries. It seemed to the writer at the time, and he is still of the same opinion, that such a threat would bear little weight, if made. We question if the quantity of seed which the United States Department of Agriculture would purchase from foreign growers would amount to more than the orders placed with them by the American seed trade, and if the American Seed Trade Association would make a resolution and stand by it, on about the following lines, we believe the free seed distribution would soon stop; and that is, have a resolution to the effect that the members of the American Seed Trade Association would not offer to the Department of Agriculture any ordinary varieties of seed and furthermore that the members of the American Seed Trade Association would not place any orders, contract or otherwise, with American or foreign seedsmen and seed growers who quoted seed to the Department of Agriculture. We believe under those circumstances the American, also foreign, growers would stand by their customers and turn down Uncle Sam, and it might be worthy of consideration.

AN ADVERTISING IDEA.

"What we want is orders," said a successful New York seedsman to The Review reporter recently. "We do not care for an enormous circulation of our catalogues among people who may or who may not become buyers. We have good seeds, good bulbs and good plants. We wish to demonstrate this. Having done so, we will get repeat orders. Therefore I offer special bargains—real bargains—in my retail advertisements. The customer who sends me $1, or $20, for one of these special bargain lots in the spring is the best possible prospect for business when I send him my catalogue in the fall. him, or have bloomed so recently that when he receives my fall catalogue he can not but recall the satisfaction which he got out of them. It pays to follow up these bargain-buyers. But the advertised offer must be a real bargain in value as well as price to catch the initial order and to capture repeat orders when the fall catalogue comes to hand. I recall one case where the owner of a handsome estate bought a bargain lot of cannas through an advertisement, and on receipt of the fall catalogue sent in orders amounting to $70. And these orders have been coming in ever since. It is this kind of advertising and this kind of catalogue work that pays." C. A. M.

The Market.

While the Easter of 1913 was a blessing financially, it was not smooth sailing all the time. Among the growers, especially those who grow Easter lilies, it was a matter of strenuous pushing; among the wholesalers, with the ever-increasing shipping trade, it also meant incessant hustle, and most of the retailers worked through Friday and Saturday night, so that the end was near at hand by noon on Easter Sunday, at which time little or nothing of any consequence was left unsold. Weather conditions, up to and including Thursday, were ideal, being fairly warm, with plenty of sunshine. On Friday, from sunrise to sunset, a disagreeable wind, accompanied by snow, kept the shoppers at home. On Saturday the sun again put in an appearance and, even though it was cool, business was rushing. This dark spell also kept back stock which otherwise would have been fit to sell.

This Easter again proved to be a plant day, with the call for Harrisii, both cut and in pots, somewhat on the decline. In cut flowers the main call was for violets and spring stock, such as sweet peas and the various bulbous lines. Good roses were scarce and the supply of carnations was just about equal to the demand. Several local growers of carnations came into crop just about the opening of Lent and the consequence was that the crop was gone before the extra demand was at hand.

Boddington's Quality Cannas

Are true to name, have two to three good eyes, are well cured, sound and dormant, and give absolute satisfaction. Our sales last year were nearly 700,000, and not an overgrown kick. The Canna crop this year, however, is very short, and we advise placing orders early to secure stock. Delivery can be made at purchaser's option. Remember, you may deduct 5% if cash accompanies the order.

Stocks of Cannas are getting very low everywhere. We advise ordering immediately, to avoid disappointment.

Leidiger Co. reported, "Have sold out clean on everything." They moved twice as many plants as last year and the demand for corsage bouquets for Sunday morning was quite gratifying. The demand for Easter lilies was up to expectations, and the plants offered were of a high, uniform grade.

Richard Lietz, at Fourteenth street and Fond du Lac avenue, says the amount of business done this Easter was fully fifty per cent better than that of a year ago. Though the unfavorable weather on Friday made things move slowly, they had to make up for lost time on Saturday. Here the smaller pot plants, such as hyacinths, primulas, baby ramblers and daffodils, sold exceptionally well.

While business conditions were fine and everybody busy till Sunday afternoon, the M. A. McKenney Co. feels sure that the sales could have been increased considerably if the weather had been more favorable on Friday. "What our trade wanted in the line of cut flowers was spring stock and we were well pleased with the quantity and quality in that line," was the report, verbatim.

The long suit of the Baumgarten Floral Co. was blooming plants, of which large numbers were sold, and they were fine, too. Dorothy Perkins and Tausendschon roses had their innings here. In the line of cut flowers they could have sold more roses if the supply had lasted.

At William Zimmermann's store it was reported that all records were broken in the quantity of business done for a holiday. They ran short on Easter lilies, both cut flowers and pot

GLOXINIA ERECTA SUPERBISSIMA

Having during the past season been requested to secure some specially fine Gloxinias for exhibition purposes, we have made arrangements with a noted Gloxinia specialist in England to reserve for us some of the most distinct types. The bulbs are not so large as the Named Varieties, but this is a characteristic of most Erecta superbiissima varieties.

BODDINGTON'S IDEAL PRIZE GIANT MIXED. Great variety of superb colors.

CYCLOPS. Velvety carmine, shading to a broad white border, throat dotted with dark red.

DUCHESS OF YORK. Flowers of a rich dark blue, each petal being edged with a broad band of white. A most striking and lovely variety.

SPOTTED HYBRIDS. Whenever exhibited, they create intense interest. The delicate markings, in an infinite variety of forms, add a special charm to the flowers.

SUTTON'S WHITE. A giant white flowered variety.

DUKE OF YORK. Large scarlet Gloxinia with deep white edge to each petal. A magnificent flower.

HER MAJESTY. This exquisite Gloxinia is still unsurpassed by any other white variety. The flowers are as pure as newly fallen snow, and are borne on short stems, just clear of the elegantly recurved foliage.

READING SCARLET. In color this is the most brilliant Gloxinia in existence, being an intense glowing scarlet variety of the true Crassifolia habit. An admirable companion to Her Majesty.

GOLIATH. Violet and white, fine variety.

store of the Currie Bros. Co., when a report was asked for. "Business was fine. We sold out clean and could have sold more violets and sweet peas if they could have been got on short notice."

The A. F. Kellner Co. did a tremendous business and had to crowd all the church decorations into one day, Saturday. As the thermometers registered below freezing, it was a case of pack all plants, which, it is needless to say, did not help matters any in trying to finish up at a respectable hour.

The Fox Point Floral Co. had a good supply of cut flowers in the novelty line for Easter. The results of their first chance at growing Easter lilies were so encouraging this season that they will go into that line more heavily another season.

The Heitman-Oestreicher Co. reports a liberal cut of fine carnations for the last two weeks. Victory, with them, is far more satisfactory than Beacon.

William Schmitz, at Thirty-second avenue and Burnham street, had a large batch of Von Sion daffodils just right for the Easter rush, and the report was that they sold at sight.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. reports trade conditions quite satisfactory for Easter. They had a large batch of pot plants, which cleaned up in good shape. They were a little shy on their famous high-grade Killarney and White Killarney roses, for which they have gained considerable reputation. They also reported a shortage on violets.

Gust Rusch & Co. refused to take orders for Easter lilies, either pot plants or cut flowers, after Thursday, as the supply in this locality was rather limited. They also experienced a shortage on Richmond roses. They had an extra heavy call for violets and sweet peas. They report about twice as much business done as last Easter, and they cleaned up by Sunday noon.

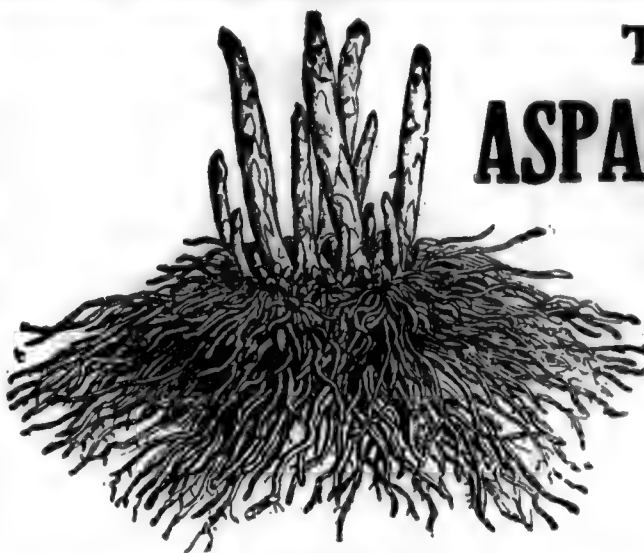

The C. C. Pollworth Co. reported business conditions fine. The firm has a large supply of cut flowers and pot plants of fine quality at the Wauwatosa plant, which were quickly disposed of. Their lily plants were of exceptionally fine quality this year. E. O.

Vegetable Forcing.

TRANSPLANTING GRAPE VINES.

Will 6-year-old grape vines, such as Niagara, Moore's Early and Delaware, do well in holes dug 3 x 4 feet? I have also put into these holes two wheelbarrow loads of well rotted cow manure. What should be done to a vine which has hard, rough lumps on the roots? Would lime help the case any? E. L.

The holes 3 x 4 should be ample. Be sure to cut the vines back quite hard; do not leave over two or three eyes on the previous year's wood. Do not allow the manure to come in direct contact with the roots; mix it thoroughly with the soil before using. It is a common error to put a thick layer of manure directly below the roots. Nothing could be worse for the vines, or, for that matter, any other plants. Cut off the roots affected as you describe. Some lime, lime rubble or old plaster will be good to use to improve such plants. Some bone meal is excellent to add to the soil for grape vines. C. W.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

DID YOU KNOW

THAT there's as much difference in fields of lily bulbs as there is in fields of corn, oats, potatoes, or any other crops?

THAT the Horseshoe Brand Giganteum fields in Japan are the finest lily fields anywhere in the World?

THAT they are owned and operated by the largest and strongest association of lily bulb producers known?

THAT these bulbs are disbudded very carefully in the fields of Japan, before the buds are half developed?

THAT by this procedure the main strength of the plant is reserved in the bulb?

THAT such bulbs will give larger and better flowers, more of them, with better keeping qualities, than the other kind?

THAT they cost you very little more, if any, than common brands—though they are worth much more than they cost?

THAT by buying Horseshoe Brand Giganteum you are encouraging the production of better lily bulbs and helping yourself at the same time?

THAT you can only buy Horseshoe Brand Giganteum from us—no other firm has these bulbs for sale?

THAT if you order early you will have a delivery near home, as we deliver in twelve different cities throughout the United States? This saving in freight is considerable.

THAT if you will sit right down and mail us your order for lily bulbs, for fall delivery, you will profit by it? Write now.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Oroville, Cal.—Mrs. Minnie Summers has opened a flower store at 503 Meyers street.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Just on the eve of Easter there is every indication that the prices of all stock will be well maintained and that the only shortage will be in lilies. The early date, combined with the unusually cold weather, has held back the Easter lilies too long and many of them did not make the market. Those growers who did make it will reap a good harvest and they deserve it. Roses were never better than now. Carnations are good and there is a greater variety of plants than usual. Bulbous stock is not only plentiful, but good and of great variety. Spring flowers are perfect and there are fine cuts of iris, forget-me-nots, stocks and other kinds. Orchids are not plentiful, and more good cattleyas could have been handled. Greens are plentiful and good.

At Rudolph Fisher's.

The name of Rudolph Fisher and Freesia Purity had so long been associated in my mind that it was with special pleasure I received an invitation from him to call and see his freesias. "We have something better than Purity," he said. And he doubtless has—several things, but not in sufficient quantity to give to the trade as yet. The famous freesia grower has about ten acres of land, part of the world-famed "Lucky" Baldwin ranch, a few miles from the old mission town of San Gabriel. The outdoor crop has suffered somewhat from frost, but the majority of the bulbs are in the ten 75-foot greenhouses which were moved from the older place at Santa Anita.

Freesia Purity is now too well known to need any introduction here, and Mr. Fisher has been working along the lines of a larger flower, absolutely pure white, with good substance to the petals. Many of the seedlings now flowering have these attributes, but a good deal of selection and propagation has to be done yet. One splendid form, in particular, had a spike eight inches long, with magnificent flowers, and is surely a promising thing. Others are the purest snow white, without a stain of color of any kind, but some of these have not quite enough substance to suit the critical wishes of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher. For here it should be mentioned that Mrs. Fisher takes an active part in the hybridizing and selecting, and has a keen appreciation of the value of varieties.

Besides the whites, there are a great number of colored varieties, a good self yellow being one of those aimed at. Some of the later crosses along this line come near filling the bill, and there are hundreds of showy and beautiful pinks, reds and shades of orange. Then there are some that are perfectly double, others that are semi-double, and a large number of extremely promising striped and blotched kinds.

Mr. Fisher has built a fine new residence for himself on the tract and intends shortly to erect more glass. Mrs. Fisher and daughter will start on an eastern trip shortly, their son helping in the growing end of the business.

Various Notes.

The formal opening of the new retail store of Howard & Smith took place March 15 and was an unqualified success. The great floor space was prettily grouped with plants of a quality seldom excelled, including some that were novelties to this town. Schizanthus Wisetonensis, while not new by any means, has not often been seen in such fine order, and there were magnificent plants of Kalmia latifolia, perfectly grown and flowered; also good azaleas, palms and ferns and some excellent plants of Phalenopsis amabilis. There was a continuous stream of customers and visitors all day long and until late in the evening, every lady or gentleman entering being presented with a suitable souvenir.

The H. N. Gage Co. has been handling immense quantities of rooted carnation cuttings in all the popular varieties at the store. A good idea con-

THE NOVELTY OF THE SEASON "RAMONA" THE NEW RED CHEROKEE ROSE

This sensational and magnificent new climbing rose occurred as a sport from the well-known Pink Cherokee (Rosa Sinica, var. Anemone). It is a stronger and more rampant grower than its parent, and produces during the spring and early summer months flowers in such profusion as to entirely cover the plant; in autumn there is a secondary crop of bloom. The flowers are much larger than either the pink or white forms, with brilliant golden-yellow stamens and broad petals of a glorious carmine-crimson color; an unusual shade, wonderfully striking and effective; the foliage is absolutely mildew-proof, a rich, glossy green, so bright that it appears as though varnished. The life-like illustration in our advertisement in The Review of February 20th, showing blooms and foliage natural size, pictures its beauty stronger than mere words.

The original sport occurred on the nurseries of Messrs. Dieterich & Turner, at Montebello, California. They, realizing its value and great beauty, propagated over one hundred thousand plants, from whom we acquired the entire stock. This is indicative of our faith in its value, and its coming popularity is attested by the fact that we have already booked orders for many thousands of plants, hence we feel that we are safe in stating that "RAMONA" will have the largest first season's sale of any new rose ever offered to the American trade.

will be of special value as a garden rose to the entire Pacific Coast, the Southwestern, Gulf and South Atlantic States; it will prove hardy as far north as Philadelphia. For planting on pergolas, pillars, porches, etc., it is a rose of unique and beautiful effect; in addition, it makes an elegant hedge plant if properly trained and pruned, affording a relief from the stereotyped privet hedges, with the added value of a rich display of color.

We are offering plants of "RAMONA" at the following prices, cash with order:
In lots less than one hundred: From 2-inch pots, 35 cents each, $3.50 per dozen; from 3-inch pots, 50 cents each, $5.00 per dozen; from 5-inch pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per dozen.
In lots of one hundred to five hundred: From 2-inch pots, $20.00 per one hundred; from 3-inch pots, $30.00; from 5-inch pots, $60.00.
In lots of five hundred to one thousand: From 2-inch pots, $125.00 per thousand; from 3-inch pots, $150.00 per thousand.

Parties desiring to list "Ramona" can be supplied by us with copies of the colored plate shown in The Review of February 20th, at the rate of $3.50 per hundred, $30.00 per thousand; larger quantities at special rates.

ceived here was to lay them in sand in a cool place, so that customers could be waited on with fresh stock without having to wait for them to be sent from the growing quarters. Many thousands have been sold in this way.
The funeral of the late Madame Ross, reputed the most wealthy woman in southern California, called for an immense amount of floral work. From the J. W. Wolters store alone two large auto truck loads were sent, including the family orders, one of which was a pall of violets. The whole force at the store had to work all one night to get the orders out.

Brazee ranch, at Wilmington, and other growers. They are cleaned up well every day, and the Easter demand was enormous.

Among the many fine floral pieces noted at Morris Goldenson's last week was a splendid harp of violets and Enchantress carnations, with a base of Beauty roses. Mr. Goldenson reports an extremely busy time.

G. Rossi & Co. report fine business since their opening.

B. S. Short, formerly of San Diego and more recently of this city, bought several acres at Montebello some time ago and is considering going into rose growing there or at San Gabriel, where he also has holdings. He will probably erect some glass.

A. Kakuda, representing the Yokohama Nursery Co., of Yokohama and New York, was in town last week.

The annual report of the San Diego park commissioners contains a eulogistic reference to the ability of John Morley, superintendent of parks there, and also an able and practical report by Mr. Morley on what has to be done in the city parks. The report shows

With Easter close upon us, the prospects for good business are excellent. Stock is fairly abundant and most of the stores are busy getting in a full supply. While there is not a surplus of cut flowers, there is a fair supply of carnations. Considerable export business is being done in these flowers and the prices are good. Roses are not too plentiful, but some extra fine stock is on hand. Callas are in good demand and quite a number are finding their way to the stores. The cut supply of lilies is pretty good. In spite of all the prophesying about a shortage of pot plants, there appears to be an abundance of excellent plants of most seasonable varieties. On the morning of March 19 we had three inches of snow, which is not in accord with our usual Easter weather.

Various Notes.

The Burns Floral Co., in addition to a good supply of seasonable flowers for Easter, had on display some notable specimens of cyclamens and obconicas.

The Butler Florists this year are confining their efforts to one store. They have all the stock they have room for and pronounce pre-Easter business first-class.

The H. Harrington Co. has done an exceptionally large wholesale business for Easter. The firm has a fine display of Lady Gay, Dorothy Perkins and other rambler roses. Violets are good and are selling as fast as received, while the cut of valley and orchids has been excellently timed to meet the Easter sales.

Mrs. L. W. McCoy has found it necessary to use an adjoining store for a stock room, and has on hand a fine display of pot plants. Spiræas, lilacs, azaleas and hydrangeas are here in abundance and show considerable cultural skill. Among the noticeable features are some tree peonies in bloom, showing the usual diversity of colors common to these lovely plants.

Rosaia Bros. have, as usual, an immense stock of flowers for Easter. This year they have their own plant at Thomas producing for them, but are also buyers in large quantities from other growers. From their own plant they are now receiving a fine cut of roses, notable among which are their Maids and Richmonds, showing that A. E. Buxton has not lost his skill as a rose grower. They have on display fine specimens of rambler roses in the different varieties, besides well flowered wistarias, a large supply of azaleas, hyacinths, etc.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

Miss Risdon, on Union street, has her store packed full of seasonable stock. Some specimen roses she had on display will prove to be money-makers.

The Crescent Flower Shop is well supplied with Easter flowers. They are installing an electric fountain in their window as a special Easter feature.

The Paris Florist has, as usual, a large supply of Easter lilies, which, with other stock, make the store particularly attractive. They have acquired additional store room on Third avenue and, with an augmented staff for the store, are prepared to do a large business.

azaleas, ramblers, rhododendrons, lilies, lilacs, spiræas and kalmias being the principal plants. Cut flowers were plentiful, roses, carnations and lilacs having the first call. Violets, valley and orchids moved well, with no advance in prices. The shipping trade was brisk. It started early in the week, long-distance parcel post facilitating matters considerably. Out-of-town florists were heavy callers for stock, but the retail trade used most of the local supply. A decided change in the weather, with snow flurries and the mercury below freezing, checked the stock somewhat during the week and also the customers. Saturday was the banner day and taxed the forces to their utmost.

Various Notes.

Webb Randall, representing A. L. Randall Co., is in the city and reports business satisfactory.

Ben Yentis, of Morton Grove, Ill., has taken charge of the carnation section of the Martin & Forbes Co. E. R. C.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

As we draw near to Easter, everything is assuming a holiday appearance around the stores. Flowers are plentiful enough, with the possible exception of Easter lilies. These were brought forward rapidly during the warm weather in January and February and many crops are over at this time. The prices asked by the growers range from $2.50 to $3.50 per dozen, and for the pot-grown stock from $10 to $15 per dozen. While some were contracted for at lower prices than these early in the month, the quotations given are what they are considered worth at present.

In carnations there seems to be a tendency among some growers to put their stock in pickle until the last moment and wait for a better figure than would be otherwise obtainable. Roses are rather scarce and are bringing good prices. Violets are plentiful and move slowly. Daffodils are stiffening in price. Freesias are scarcer and of poorer quality. Valley is cleaned up nicely. Orchids remain the same as they have been for some weeks. Bulbous stock in general is getting more plentiful, with the exception of narcissi, and they are about over for the season. There is an abundance of pot stock and of fancy baskets of all kinds except lilies. Shipping orders are good.

Various Notes.

The Mayflower Floral Co. has opened a neat retail establishment at 33 Powell street. It is under the management of F. H. Higgins, for several years with the Hackel Floral Co.

Symacopulos Bros., of Oakland, have sold their Broadway store in that town to W. H. Forrest, who was for many years in business in San Francisco.

The Valmar Floral Co. has opened a new store at 6 Valencia street.

The exposition will open February 20, 1915, and continue until December 4. G.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Texas Nursery Co., of Sherman, Tex., has filed an amendment to its charter, increasing its capital stock from $100,000 to $250,000.

THE Farmers' Nursery Co. has been incorporated at Van Alstyne, Tex., with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are C. G. Strickland, R. E. Barron and A. R. Clayton.

THE nursery business which was formerly conducted under the name of Ekstein & Ekstein, at Modesto, Cal., now bears the name of Ekstein Nursery Co. The firm has sales yards and greenhouses at H and Bodem streets.

THE Wolverine-Detroit Nurseries have been incorporated, with headquarters at Detroit, Mich., and lands in Southfield township. The stockholders are Edwin S. Sherrill, Philip H. Gray and Lester F. Clark, all of Detroit. Of the $15,000 capital, $8,150 has been subscribed.

CHARLES W. McDONALD, receiver for the T. W. Meneray Co., has filed a suit in the Circuit Court, at Portland, Ind., asking the appointment of a receiver for the Portland Nursery Co. Further details are given in the Business Embarrassments column in this issue.

W. A. WAGNER, who for several years has been engaged in the nursery business at Antlers, Okla., has returned to Durant, Okla., and will again be identified with the Durant Nursery Co., of which he was formerly manager. He will be one of Manager Foote's assistants and will occupy one of the new bungalows which Mr. Foote is building in the west part of the town.

THE Davenport Nursery, of Davenport, Ia., which was conducted for many years by Nichols & Lorton, is now under the management of Wm. H. Mast and W. J. Duppert, who have purchased the stock and leased the ground. Both men are well equipped for the business, both by education and experience. Mr. Mast graduated from Ames Agricultural College, took the full course in forestry at Yale and has been connected with the United States forestry service for thirteen years. Mr. Duppert graduated from the forestry course at Ann Arbor, Mich., has been connected with the national forestry service and with the forestry department at Nebraska University, and is a professional landscape gardener.

A TREAT TO NURSERYMEN.

If there is a nurseryman who has not already awakened to the fact that The Review, while published primarily for florists, is of unequaled interest and value to those in the nursery trade, the following letter will show the facts:

The Review always is a treat to me, and I am more of a nurseryman than a florist. I gain lots of information from it and am glad to enclose $1 for another year.—Chas. B. Givan, Murfreesboro, Tenn., March 20, 1913.

EN ROUTE TO PORTLAND.

In planning the trip to the Portland convention of the A. A. N., in June, a day's stopover at Toppenish, Wash., has been arranged. The train will arrive early in the morning, the official car will be side-tracked, and, in an auto trip of about forty miles as the guests of the Washington Nursery Co., the party will view the irrigable portion of the Yakima Indian reservation, with its fine agricultural and fruit lands; various nurseries, and the fine orchards which lie on the bench lands under the famous Sunnyside canal. The trip will be of utmost interest to those who wish to see the Yakima valley in all its phases, including the matured bearing orchards. Dinner and supper will be served to the guests and the special car will be attached to the midnight train. Those who wish a copy of the tentative itinerary from the east to Portland may write to M. B. Fox, care Rochester Lithographing Co., Rochester, N. Y., or to Secretary John Hall, of the same city, to whom those who decide to go to the convention should also report quickly.

tion of Pæonia arborea. The practice at the port is to assess duty on peony bulbs or clumps at $10 per thousand, under paragraph 263 of the tariff act. As this peony is a hardy deciduous shrub with a woody stem and different in character from the Pæonia Sinensis and other herbaceous varieties, the collector suggested that the merchandise was dutiable as nursery stock at twenty-five per cent ad valorem under paragraph 264.

The Treasury Department investigated the matter and learned that Pæonia Moutan, formerly known as Pæonia arborea, is essentially a shrubby perennial and should be classified as a deciduous shrub rather than as a bulb, as it differs from the herbaceous peonies, including the species known as Pæonia Sinensis and Pæonia officinalis, which have bulbous roots and annual tops. The department holds that Pæonia arborea is dutiable as nursery stock at twenty-five per cent ad valorem, under paragraph 264, and after April 13 duty will be assessed on it as nursery stock at twenty-five per cent.

tor of the Fairmont Nurseries, Fairmont, Minn. In the Morris Tribune of August 2, 1912, the following appeared:

It has just come to my notice that agents have recently solicited orders for nursery stock in your vicinity for a so-called Royal Nursery Co. of Fairmont, Minnesota.

As a matter of fact there is no nursery here by that name and the parties who have given orders to this concern should not only countermand them and refuse to take them, but should see that agents and principals in this concern are apprehended and punished for soliciting orders for an institution that does not exist.

I have also been informed that at times these parties have claimed they represented the Fairmont Nurseries, and I would be glad to hear from anyone that has given orders with this understanding, and to cooperate with them so far as possible in bringing these parties to justice.

The orders will, no doubt, be filled with inferior southern grown stock with a total disregard to varieties sold.

Orders can be filled the same day we get them. Wire and say whether to ship by freight or express.

WHAT THE A. A. N. HAS DONE.

In a circular to non-members Secretary John Hall recounts some of the work of the American Association of Nurserymen.

"A few things the tariff committee has accomplished: Secured a tariff equitable and satisfactory to nurserymen; had the duty upon French fruit stocks made per thousand, doing away with the old-time controversies over valuation; recently visited Washington and expects to prevent the threatened tariff reduction. The work of this committee has been of immense value to nurserymen.

"The transportation committee is also a wideawake part of the association and has saved more than the membership fee of every individual nurseryman in the land. It has had classifications defined and freight rates reduced; it has caused railroads to give carload rates for less than carload lots, etc., etc.

"The legislative committee has prevented much unwise and unfair legislation, both state and federal, and at this time is testing the constitutionality of several state laws which operate injuriously to our business interests.

"Further, the committees on publicity, root gall, standardization of grades, etc., have done and are still doing equally good work.

"Like the watchman on the tower, these committees must be constantly on the alert, for there is no limit to the necessity for eternal vigilance."

Schenectady, N. Y.—E. V. B. Felt-housen is a busy man. Rising before daylight, he makes the rounds of his two places and then hies himself to assist Uncle Sam in disposing of the mail. Afternoons he may be found either making a big cut or filling an order for bedding stock, of which he grows large quantities.

Olean, N. Y.—Dana R. Herron has given out a contract for five greenhouses, each 21x160, to be added to the block completed last summer. A concrete boiler house is finished, and an office and storeroom will be added, of the same fireproof material. He grows some of the finest White Perfection carnations in the Southern Tier.

ASTILBE ARENDSI

This new type is the result of crossing A. Davidii with A. Japonica compacta, astilboides and Thunbergi. The plants are of very vigorous growth, 2½ to 4 feet high, producing many branched, feathered heads of flowers. They prefer a half-shady, moist position, in any ordinary garden soil.

Ceres. Much-branched panicles of delicate, light rose colored flowers, with peculiar silvery sheen.

Juno. Strong, upright grower; plumes of a deep violet-rose color.

Venus. Similar to Ceres, but of bright, deep violet-rose color.

ALBANY, N. Y.

Fred A. Danker is a firm believer in publicity. In a large illustrated ad in a leading local newspaper he announced a two days' exhibition of Easter stock, on Saturday and Palm Sunday. He extended a cordial invitation to the public and stated that nothing would be sold during that time. A conservative estimate placed the attendance at 8,000, and Sam Goldring, the genial superintendent, says he never saw a more appreciative crowd. The stock was in prime condition and included practically everything from orchids to pansies of exquisite markings. The new rose houses came in for a large share of admiration. The newest thing in tulips, Yellow Murillo, is a taker. In buildings, a concrete storage house for hardy stock is the latest; it is so arranged that a lean-to slat house will be built for summering the large stock of orchids.

Mr. Danker has fifty acres of excellent land that is available for nursery purposes and the nucleus of the nursery has already been formed. The property, being situated on the state road, has a fine frontage in full view of the many passers-by, and cannot fail to be attractive. Mr. Danker is issuing a neat general catalogue, in line with his artistic tastes. M.

Salt Lake City, Utah—The flower business of C. S. Martin has been purchased by a new organization, called the Empress Floral Co. The members of the new company are: Charles Van Dyke, president; G. F. Flashman, vice-president; J. B. Whitney, Jr., secretary and treasurer, and J. F. Walk, manager.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

From our list of over 500 varieties we are growing, we have the following in 2½-inch pots ready for immediate shipment:

URSULA GRISWOLD—A creamy-white sport from W. Etherington. 50c per plant; $5.00 per dozen.

ELEANOR—A splendid light pink Anemone which makes lovely sprays for cutting. $3.00 per dozen; $20.00 per hundred.

RAMAPO—One of the finest yellows in sight, and Bronze Brighthurst. $2.00 per dozen; $15.00 per hundred.

Smith's Advance, Gloria, October Frost, Unaka, Wells' Late Pink, Mme. Desjouis, Clementine Tousey and Mrs. O. H. Kahn. $3.00 per hundred; $25.00 per 1000.

New Early Flowering Varieties for outside blooming. La Rhin, Border Beauty, Champagne, Harvest Home, Dora Blick, Crimson Pride, Carmelite, Evelyn, Mrs. A. Beech, L'Argenteuillais, Etoile d'Or, October Gold, Wells' Primrose, Mrs. Scott and Carrie. $2.50 per dozen; $20.00 per hundred.

Decorative Varieties—Dean's Favorite, Source d'Or, Crimson Source d'Or, Lizzie Adcock, Crimson Quintus, Hortus Tolosanus and Rayonnante. Splendid for growing as pot plants. $2.00 per dozen; $15.00 per hundred.

Single Varieties—W. Buckingham, Hilda Wells, Narcissus and Mrs. E. D. Godfrey. $1.25 per dozen; $10.00 per hundred, and 70 other kinds in smaller quantities.

ROSE MRS. GEORGE SHAWYER

We are sold out on March delivery of this fine Rose, but will have 30,000 ready April 15th; grafted and own root stock.

DID YOU INVESTIGATE SHAWYER?

DID YOU KNOW

That the New York Florists' Club awarded it ninety-one points growing in the benches, more than it scored it as a cut flower on the exhibition table?

Its true Rose-pink color persists even when Killarney and other pinks are wretchedly pale?

That no matter how strong the growth, the bud is always perfect?

That while the bud is full enough to admit of its being a splendid summer flowering Rose, it will open just as free in mid-winter and is a rapid grower? If you know these things we most likely have your order. If you don't know them you should get acquainted with the facts of the case. Price, $30.00 per hundred; $250.00 per thousand.

that Mr. Morley has a grasp of the situation in the southern city that speaks well, not only for his executive skill, but also for his knowledge of the plants he is handling and their specific requirements culturally. It would be a good thing if every city in the Union had such a man at the head of park affairs, one who knows what is wanted, knows the climatic difficulties and opportunities and can so easily describe them. San Diego is fortunate, indeed, in obtaining the services of such a man as John Morley has shown himself to be.

Staiger & Mundwiler are busy with decorative work. Their stock of kentias in all sizes is good and they find them exceedingly useful.

At the Huntington estate, at San Marino, Beaumontia grandiflora is flowering freely outdoors, in spite of the cold winter, and is beautiful. Solandra guttata, though badly hit, is breaking up freely and will soon be in good shape again. The outdoor cyclamens were untouched and are masses of bloom. In the orchid houses a fine lot of Cattleya Schroederæ and various phalaenopsis are making a good show, while the beautiful Medinilla magnifica is a sight long to be remembered. The Japanese garden is bright with azaleas, double peach, andromeda and other plants, and is a lasting tribute to William Herttrich's skill. With the added work at the new hotel grounds, Mr. Herttrich is a busy man, but never too busy to welcome interested visitors and show them the beauties of this really wonderful place.

William Felgate, gardener for Dr. Barlow, at Sierra Madre, is planning considerable landscape work along the lines of naturalizing shrubs and flowering plants. He has a fine chance in this pretty little place and is surely making the most of it. The herbaceous borders here are fine, while Mr. Felgate's skill as a vegetable grower is too well known to need any praise here.

H. R. Richards.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—C. De Mester, foreman for the last two years for the North Floral Co., has associated himself with W. M. Colwell, a well known business man of this city, in the formation of a new firm which will bear the name of the Park Floral Co. The firm will build greenhouses on what is known as the McNamara property, opposite Oakland and Corpus Christi cemeteries, and will also have extensive gardens, with strawberries as one of the specialties.

New American Beauty GERANIUM

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 our new American Beauty Geranium. For the first time, after working on it for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty Color. The individual blooms measure 2 1/4 inches across. It is semi-double, medium dwarf, of stately shape. It has come to stay as a money maker. Prices to the trade: 2 1/2-in. pots, 50c each, $5.00 per doz.; 3-in. pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per doz., cash. Write for circulars in natural colors and prices on large lots.

WE'RE AHEAD considerably when it comes to a comparison of SNAPDRAGONS

Unlike the several strains advertised as the well known
New England Silver-pink Snapdragon, we have named ours

BUXTON'S KILLARNEY - PINK SNAPDRAGON

as this favorite rose is its nearest comparison as to color.

Every grower who has tested this strain pronounces it the best yet. Will you be among the number to buy a stock of this sterling Snapdragon that knows no enemies but makes friends wherever it finds a home? 10,000 strong plants, ready April 1. Price, $5.00 per 100; $45.00 per 1000. Cash with order, please.

SEATTLE NOTES.

Sandahl & Sons have their Easter lilies in good shape, from their plant at Renton Junction. Their supply of the usual Easter stock is large and fully up to the average in quality. They report the nursery business as being much improved, compared with that of last season at this time.

The Hollywood Gardens have an exceptionally fine display of spireas and hydrangeas. They have a good supply of lilies, roses, carnations and violets, and their made-up baskets are bound to be good sellers.

The Rosery is making a good show of Hiawatha and other roses. The firm has some fine specimens of spirea and the carnations, roses and lilies are excellent.

The Woodlawn Flower Shop has a beautiful combination of Genista fragrans and azaleas on display. Some baby ramblers, well grown and flowered, are also pretty. They have a large supply of obconicas, good lilies and other flowers.

T. R. Hopkins, of Kirkland, has just imported a carload of fine hybrid rhododendrons for his nursery trade.

Miss A. M. Wagner, well known in the flower trade here, is now at the store of the H. Harrington Co., on Fourth avenue.

J. Lussier, of the Fremont Floral Co., was successful in getting all his gigantes in for Easter. Frank Bell, at Brighton, got most of his in, while other growers met with varying success and some with absolute failure. The wholesale price varied from 15 cents to 22½ cents. Quite a number have been shipped out of town, which will help the retail price. In most stores the charge is 35 cents per bloom, but a better result is obtained by selling at a fixed price per plant.

Tickets are selling fast for the Florists' Club's dance, to be held April 2, and indications point to a successful affair.

Miss Josephine Hoefinger is assisting in the store of the Paris Florist. Miss Frieda Ousterhout, well known to the trade in the middle west, is also working at this store.

C. Hoffmeister will resume possession of his plant at Madison street April 1. Mrs. L. W. McCoy hereafter will conduct her growing department at South Park only.

The wholesale houses report that they were obliged to refuse numbers of orders for lack of stock to supply them. With the cold weather that immediately preceded Easter, they had to use additional packing to protect their plants and cut flowers. T. W.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

My Original SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON

is reaching every part of the globe. It is traveling upon its record and good looks, and has more admirers than all other antirrhinums combined. There may be an occasional pleasing sport, but aside from this, seedlings will have every characteristic of their illustrious parent—the FAMOUS SILVER PINK. It is a distinct type, and is best described by the original name that we gave it. Its soft, silvery shade of pink is not found in any other flower, and is at its best in full sunshine, both indoors and out. Silver Pink has an established record. Plant it and you will have the best. It is truly a high-class novelty, and we offer it at small cost.

Price of seed—my own growing—$1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds; 3 packets, $2.50, delivered. Can still supply plants for bedding at $3.00 per 100, 200 for $5.00, by express. Cash must accompany all orders.

Report of Judges, Novelty Night, Cleveland Florists' Club, Feb. 10, 1913:

"G. S. Ramsburg, Somersworth, N. H., a vase of Silver Pink snapdragon, a beautiful variety and highly recommended by the committee."

EVERGREEN, ALA.

The shippers of decorative evergreens in this locality are extremely blue over the sad culmination of what promised to be the biggest Easter wild smilax trade that this section has ever known. On account of the unusually early Easter this year, the smilax people were anticipating a big trade, with plenty of profit in it. They even had the orders booked, but when it came to delivering the goods there was "nothing doing," and this time it was no fault of the shippers.

There had been a heavy rainfall in this section since about March 8, and on the afternoon and night of March 14 there was a veritable flood. Rivers and creeks were out of their banks, railroad bridges were washed away, all telegraph and telephone wires were down and whole towns were under water. On Saturday morning, March 15, the little town of Evergreen awoke to find itself entirely cut off from the outside world, being bereft of all means of communication, either by railroad, telegraph or telephone. On account of the loss of bridges on the public roads, it was impossible to travel more than a mile or two through the country.

For several days no connection by wire could be secured. Just as soon as there was telegraphic communication, all the late Easter orders for smilax that had been held up on account of the flood began pouring in. The village telegraph office was crowded with despondent smilax shippers and hundreds of northern florists were sent this message: "High water. No trains since Friday. No wire until today."

Trains finally began running again on Thursday, March 20, with Easter only three days ahead. Orders for Birmingham, Atlanta and other nearby markets would have been shipped in time for Easter even then, but as the country roads were impassable and most of the woods still under water it was impossible to secure one sprig of smilax.

The shortage of sheet moss on this market has also been disastrous. Weather conditions have been such for weeks past that it was impossible to prepare the perpetuated moss shipped so extensively from Evergreen. It has also been out of the question to get the natural sheet moss dry enough for shipping purposes. Under normal conditions, more moss is shipped at Easter than at any other time during the year.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubes, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2 1/2-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

The Market.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the shipping and delivery of Easter stock and everybody reports business as being exceptionally good. Stock of all kinds was plentiful and most of the growers report being entirely cleaned out. Funeral work continues to be quite heavy.

Various Notes.

The S. H. Moore Co. reports the best Easter trade ever, with an exceptionally heavy call for cut flowers, especially roses, carnations and violets. Pot plants sold well, especially azaleas, hyacinths and tulips. All fancy stocks cleaned up. Some choice made-up baskets sold exceptionally well.

Roses and carnations from Sherwood, of Southport, were exceptionally choice and were all picked up early in the day. The firm had several church decorations, especially a large decoration for St. Mary's, and a large number of funeral orders for March 23.

Charles Munro had a most attractive display, both in his window and store. His greenhouse back of the store was packed full of Easter stock, all tagged ready for delivery. To deliver his orders he had to hire two or three cars, to be used along with his own. He reports trade as away ahead of last year.

Champion & Co. report business as exceptionally good. For the holiday trade they rented the old Steinert store, where a lot of stock was cleaned up.

William H. Long reports business exceptionally good, pot plants having sold better this year than cut flowers, with the exception of violets, for which he had a heavy demand.

Andrew McCrea is convalescing after his recent illness.

E. F. Coe, of the Elm City Nursery Co., gave a talk March 19, under the auspices of the Edgewood Civic Association, on "Japan, Its Cities, People and Gardens," illustrated with beautiful lantern slides.

Alfred Ostermann reports Easter business as being exceptionally good.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Hardy, field-grown plants from seed sown in August, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong with extra good roots; just right to transplant for blooming in May. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, $4.00 per 1000. Cash with order.
L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."

This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes the old and new as well as the plebian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."

We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales 1913. Send for both of the booklets.

YELLOW MARGUERITES.

Will you please tell me how to grow yellow daisies? I am going to put in one house of them next year. I have ordered the cuttings, but I do not know how to treat them. Do you grow them in pots until you plant them in beds, or do you plant them out in the field? Anything you can tell me of their culture I shall be glad to know. C. A.

You can either carry the marguerites in pots over summer or plant them out. I find a good plan is to sink the pots overhead to permit of the plants making roots above and below them, and to keep them where in dry weather an occasional watering can be given. If kept in pots a good ball of roots is possible, while if planted out practically no ball can be had. Some growers carry the old plants over from year to year in pots, standing these on beds where they are allowed to root through, and have good success. Others plant in shallow benches or boxes and get a good winter crop. Still others propagate in late summer and plant in solid beds.

For midwinter flowering, plants must have the roots restricted and pots or narrow benches are best to use. If, on the other hand, flowers are not wanted until from late spring until the end of June, set them in solid beds. The more the roots are cramped, the earlier they will flower; the greater the amount of root room, the later they will come into crop. C. W.

Tompkinsville, N. Y.—The flower business of Charles Boehe, on the Richmond turnpike, has been purchased by August Kohlman, son of the former park commissioner, John D. Kohlman. The senior Mr. Kohlman has been able to give his son much valuable aid in the selection of stock for the business and has also secured the contract, it is said, for the laying out and planting of Tompkinsville park.

BOSTON NOTES.

sanguine expectations, being cleaned out on practically everything salable.

George W. Ayer, of Reading, had a fine crop of both double and single violets last week. In carnations his Beacon and White Wonder leave little to be desired.

It would be hard to find finer Beacon carnations than A. F. Capers, of Wellesley, is sending in from plants two years old. In addition to carnations, he has a fine crop of myosotis.

Thomas A. Cox, of Dorchester, and W. T. Walke, of Salem, were heavy shippers of well grown and flowered ramblers to the Boston Coöperative Market for Easter. All were in demand.

William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, states that he had a splendid Easter trade. Pot plants are his specialty and include ramblers, azaleas, lilies, acacias and hydrangeas.

The Boston Flower Exchange, roomy as it is, was none too large to accommodate the offerings of plants and flowers for Easter. Pot plant growers can display their productions to much better advantage at the new, as compared with the old Park street market.

W. Rosenthal, of the Boston Cut Flower Co., says there is no reason to complain of Easter trade.

James Wheeler had a grand Easter crop of carnations. His pink snapdragon was fine and he had several thousand yellow marguerites.

Local nurseries have been busy digging stock for some days, all frost having been out of the ground since March 17.

W. H. Elliott had a heavy Easter cut of roses. These sold at about normal prices. Christie Miller, Ward, Hillingdon and Richmond were extra good. Some nice, yellow hybrid teas were offered in pots.

William Patterson, of Wollaston, had a fine Easter trade in bulbous flowers. I saw no finer Victoria narcissi or Murillo tulips than at his stand at the Boston Flower Exchange.

William Caraher, for the Sutermeister Estate, sold 60,000 bulbous flowers March 22, principally tulips and narcissi.

F. J. Dolansky had excellent Easter sales of both gardenias and cattleyas.

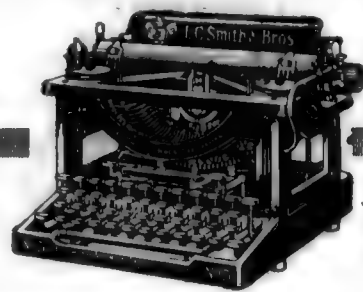

A. M. Davenport, of Watertown, sold out clean on his well grown ramblers, lilies and genistas.

R. C. Bridgham reports that he had a fine Easter trade, especially in such plants as ramblers, lilies and azaleas, at his store, 67 Beacon street. At Mr. Bridgham's Newtonville greenhouses a first-class lot of Easter stock was grown and the cut from his rose houses was excellent.

F. L. Wheeler, son of James Wheeler, of Natick, and Samuel B. Crombie, late salesman for Mr. Wheeler, who are operating the City Flower Shop in South Framingham, opening the same last October, had an excellent Easter trade and report general business as good.

James Lister, of Stoneham, sent in a fine lot of ericas for Easter, selling the same at the Boston Coöperative Market.

Aubrey Pembroke, salesman for his brother, A. A. Pembroke, at the Boston Flower Exchange, is handling thousands of superb carnations daily. His Gloriosa, Rosette and Pink Delight are superb. Mr. Pembroke will compete at the coming New York show.

L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter

(Ball Bearing—Long Wearing)

In buying a typewriter you want a satisfactory answer to three questions:

What will it do for me?

How well will it do it?

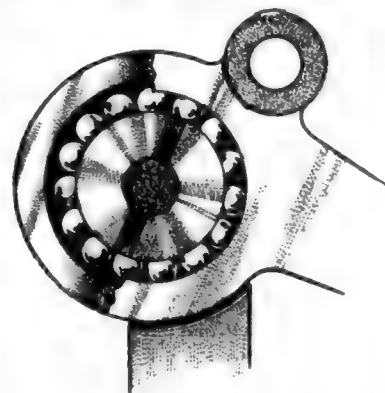

How long will it do it?

By answering these queries with the needs of the typewriter owner and user in mind, the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Company has attained the front rank in the typewriter field.

Some people think that a typewriter is a typewriter and that is all there is to it. Machines may look alike but there is a lot of difference in efficiency.

The new Model Five is built not only for straight correspondence but for tabulating, billing and in fact for every service needed in the average business.

Its ball bearings at all points where friction develops through action, permit close adjustment and insure correct and accurate typewriting.

Greenhouse Heating.FROM STEAM TO HOT WATER.

Can a steam heating system be changed into a hot water system, and how? Our boiler is a twenty-five horsepower horizontal, for steam. It has two outlets on top for 4-inch pipe; the return openings are also for 4-inch pipes. The boiler is two feet lower than the lowest return pipe. How high must the flow pipe rise to insure circulation? There are two greenhouses, each 25x125, and the location is southern Pennsylvania. H. E.

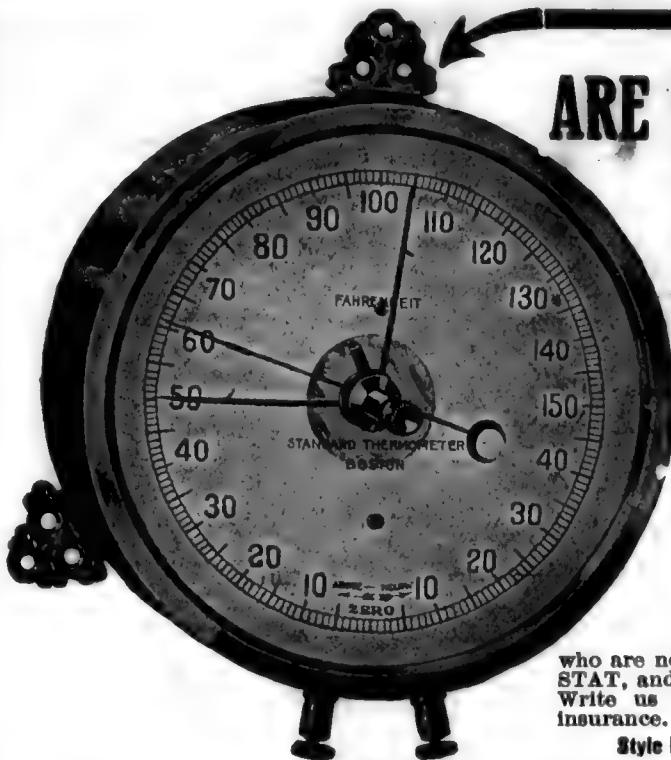

To use the boiler described, for hot water, no change will be necessary except that there will be no occasion for retaining the water column, steam gauge and safety valve.

Nothing is said regarding the construction of the houses or the temperature desired. If there is no glass in the walls it will be possible to maintain a temperature of 50 degrees by running a 4-inch flow pipe from the boiler to the farther end of each house and connecting each flow pipe with ten 2-inch returns, to be placed on the walls or under the benches. The flow pipes should be carried through each of the houses at a slight fall, from three to four feet below the ridges. Connect the highest point in each flow pipe with the expansion tank, which should be several feet higher, if it can be arranged. If a temperature higher than 50 degrees is desired, close the system by attaching a generator to the expansion pipe.

IN SOUTHERN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Will you kindly advise me regarding the piping of my greenhouse for hot water, stating the number of feet of radiation for a temperature of 50 degrees when the thermometer shows 10 degrees below zero outdoors? The house is 18x30, even-span and nine feet high to the ridge, with walls of concrete three feet high. T. C. K.

To heat a house 18x30 feet to 50 degrees, when the outside temperature is 10 degrees below zero, run a 2½-inch flow pipe at a slight fall one foot below the ridge to the farther end of the house, where it should be dropped down and connected with eight 2-inch returns. Four of these should be carried in each direction across the end of the house, and along the side walls back to the boiler. After the flow pipe enters the house, this arrangement will

B. A. A.

It would be better to use either two 2½-inch or three 2-inch flows, and nine or ten 2-inch returns, for 60 degrees, or seven or eight returns for 50 degrees. However, as the smaller size of pipe is on hand, it can be used to pipe the house by taking enough of the 1½-inch pipe for three flows, placing one on each plate and the other two feet under the ridge, and using ten to twelve 1½-inch pipes for the returns for 60 degrees, and nine for 50 degrees. If it becomes necessary to use the 1¼-inch pipe, put in three returns for two 1½-inch. For the main flow and return pipes use 3-inch, taking off the three 1½-inch flows at some point near the end of the greenhouse, and connecting each of the coils with the 3-inch return main by means of 1½-inch pipes.

In order to secure good results with small pipe for heating greenhouses, it will be advisable to use a generator, connecting it to the expansion pipe, which should lead from the highest part of the main flow pipe. From this point all of the pipes should be put in so that they will have a slight fall, which will not only give a better circulation than when the flow pipe runs up-hill, but will do away with all occasion for using air valves. It will be well to put in one gate or angle valve on each flow pipe, at some convenient point.

DETROIT.

The Market.

All previous records were broken by this Easter business. The first part of the week it looked rather gloomy and the sales for this period probably will run behind those of last year. Friday morning we were visited by the most severe wind storm in forty years. The wind attained a velocity of eighty miles an hour and business was practically at a standstill. Saturday business began unusually early and many of the stores found it necessary to lock their doors at times in order to catch up with the orders. It rained nearly all of Easter Sunday and the temperature was above freezing.

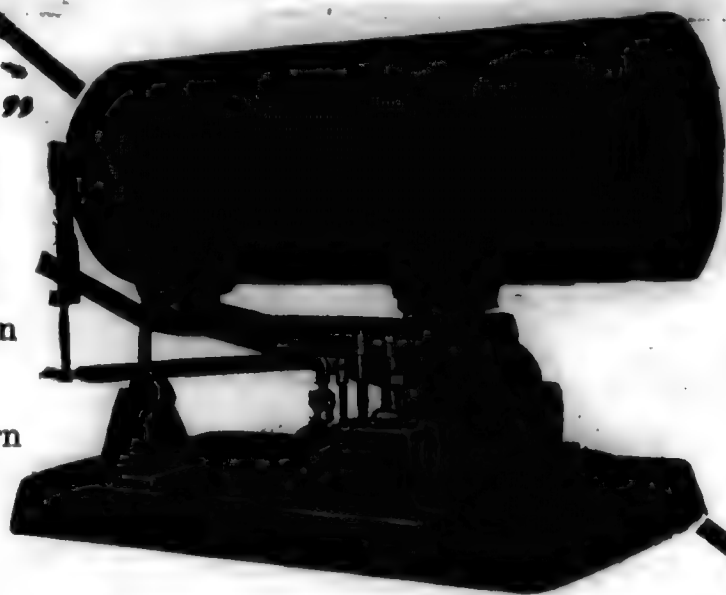

Double violets were poor, but all were disposed of, in many cases to be replaced on Monday or money refunded. Single violets were of good quality and completely sold out. Sweet peas were good, but the supply was not nearly equal to the demand. Roses, with the exception of red, were exhausted. Red ones were scarce. Beauties were few. Entirely too many short lilies were available, while the long-stemmed were cleaned up almost entirely. There was a scarcity of good lilies on plants.

The supply of cut bulbous stock was heavy and it was impossible to clean it up. There was a tremendous sale of bulbous plants. Carnations sold well, with few left after the rush. Thomas

THE FERTILIZER PROBLEM SOLVED

Practically every grower now finds that one of his chief problems is an adequate supply of first-class Fertilizer—the available quantity of barnyard manures is inadequate and street and stable manures are poor, impure and of uncertain value, though expensive. PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Providence witnessed one of the biggest Easter sales of flowers in its history. Everywhere it was declared that the traffic was the heaviest ever seen and crowds thronged the flower stores, while many bought from the department stores. Up to Saturday morning every indication was that there would be a plentiful supply of everything, except, perhaps, a few novelties. But within a few hours after the opening Saturday there was a rush made upon all the growers and wholesalers for more, but without success.

Violets were more plentiful than ever before, but in many places they were all sold out before noon. One shop reports having sold over 50,000 during the evening. Bulbous and other growing plants were plentiful and in great demand. A big demand for American Beauty and Richmond roses made a shortage in these, but there were plenty of the Killarneys and My Maryland. Orchids and gardenias were also in demand. Prices ruled at about the same as last year on all flowers.

An extraordinarily large supply of Easter and calla lilies was soon exhausted, many of the churches having gone extensively into decorations this year. In many cases where it was found impossible to meet the demand, combination baskets were made up and found to be satisfactory.

Various Notes.

William E. Chappell represented the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Rhode Island at the gathering of commercial organizations of this city, March 19, when the Chamber of Commerce of Southern New England was organized.

Charles H. Hunt was on the sick list a part of last week, from a severe attack of the grip.

Charles Devaney, Westerly, is booking many orders for trimming trees and vines and doing other outdoor work.

Robert Johnston is working earnestly to secure a good number from this city and vicinity to attend the National Flower Show at New York. So far the only names secured are Albert Holscher, Joseph Kopelman, Oliver H. Williams and Robert Johnston and wife.

The Melrose Gardens, H. Howard Pepper, proprietor, is selling out a large stock of rose bushes for outdoor growing, the land which he has leased for several years, at Elmwood and Parkis avenues, having been sold.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

The hard rain Easter morning put a quietus on the flower business. This probably would have been one of the best Easters yet, had it not been for the rain. Trade was good Saturday and it seemed as though everything that looked like a flower would be cleaned up by the following noon. But about 6 a. m. on Sunday the rain began to pour down and kept it up all day.

Stock of all kinds was plentiful this year. Of Easter lilies there were more than enough to go around. The cut blooms brought $3 per dozen. Pot lilies had a good sale, bringing 25 cents for a flower or bloom. Of bulbous stock there was, as usual, more than enough. American Beauties had a good call, though the quality was not the best. Roses were of good quality and sold well, with prices ranging from $2 to $4 per dozen. Carnations moved well at from $1 to $1.50 per dozen. Hudson river violets were of poor quality and a great many arrived in bad shape. The home-grown violets were of better quality and found ready sale. Valley and sweet peas found a quick sale in corsages. Pot plants probably sold better than cut flowers. The medium priced plants had the call. Plants ranging from $1 to $2.50 sold well.

Various Notes.

Baur & Steinkamp have been cutting some of the best snapdragons seen in this market this winter.

The Indiana florists who are going to the New York show have arranged to leave via the New York Central at 6:15 p. m., April 5. Among those who are going are Adolph Baur, Fred Dorner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coles, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rieman, George Wiegand, Mr. and Mrs. Vesey, Irwin Bertermann and R. Kester. A rate of $16.25 for one way has been secured. Adolph Baur, secretary of the American Carnation Society, received word from the secretary of the English Perpetual Flowering Carnation Society that three representatives of the English society would attend our show.

The April meeting of the State Florists' Association will be held in Portland, Ind., with W. Frank & Sons. This meeting had been announced to be held with Stuart & Haugh, in Anderson, but the society will meet in Anderson at a later date.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.

The regular monthly meeting of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held in the banquet room of the Corporation building March 19, President Lee occupying the chair. J. Wyckoff Cole was elected to active membership.

A fine vase of the new rose, Milady, was staged by A. N. Pierson, also a fine vase of the new rose, Mrs. George Shawyer, staged by C. H. Totty. Both varieties were awarded a certificate of merit at the fall show and were at this time highly recommended. The prize offered by James W. Smith for the best twelve roses of any variety other than American Beauty was awarded to John Elliott.

An interesting discussion on the culture of roses was opened by Joseph Mooney and taken up by Messrs. Bradley, Scott, Angus and Weeks.

For the April meeting John Elliott offers a prize for the best flowering plant.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

Without bowing the knee to the superstitious "thirteen," it must be conceded that the meteorological conditions of the Easter of 1913 were quite in keeping with the theory of bad luck. All the greenhouses in this neighborhood suffered severely through broken glass on Good Friday, and the heaviest wind storm ever experienced here put all the telephone and telegraph wires out of order. Business was practically at a standstill except for the orders that were already in the hands of the packers, and not a single order could be received over the long distance wires between 1 p. m. on Friday and late on Saturday night.

Notwithstanding this severe drawback, through which the florists suffered possibly more than the growers, the Easter trade was larger than ever at the Dale Estate. The lilies and orchids, particularly, brought the highest prices, in a market constantly demanding more. W. G. P.

FRENCH LICK, IND.

A. L. Randall, the well known wholesale florist and dealer in florists' supplies, of Chicago, was a guest at the West Baden hotel last week and made us a pleasant call. He expressed himself as pleased with the looks of the French Lick greenhouses, and reported he was enjoying a large southern trade.

Mr. Wagner, of Sidney, O., one of the brothers who own and carry on the Wagner Park Conservatories, introduced himself to us March 18 and reported business good, as they have a great deal of landscape work to do. He was a guest during the week at the French Lick Springs hotel.

F. J. Brown, the local florist, is enjoying a good trade. He is cutting some unusually large and fine carnations.

West Bend, Wis.—Fred C. Kesting has opened his new flower and seed store, in the Illian building.

Early tomatoes bring big prices

With Sunlight Double

Glass Sash you can have your plants and vegetables weeks ahead of the season

It's the $\frac{1}{2}$ inch air space between the two layers of glass that enables you to get earlier—sturdier plants.

There may be a hard frost outside, but no cold will penetrate the $\frac{1}{2}$ inch layer of enclosed air and your plants will have all the warmth and light that they need. The result is a quicker, sturdier growth, and you get the high prices of the early market.

Sunlight Double Glass Sash double your profits

They save you the expense—the labor—the worry of having to cover and uncover your sash with heavy covers of boards and mats. You can attend to twice as many Sunlight Sash as you can ordinarily sash. It is good business to have them. Write for these two books today.

for Hot-beds and Cold-frames

You cannot afford to miss seeing them. One is a book by Prof. Massey, an authority on hot bed and cold frame gardening and the other is our free catalog. They tell you how much more profitable you can make your gardening, and give some useful, instructive information on the care of beds. Send in your name and address, we shall send you our free catalog—for 4c in stamps we shall send you both books. Write today.

Why the U-BAR

IF you want to prove the U-Bar whys up point by point, come and see our exhibition at the NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW. We will have a full-grown house right there in a garden plot. You can make comparisons with other constructions right then and there. There will be some one of us always on hand to give you the glad welcome.

If you can't come, then read what follows, carefully. Look at the wheels of a bicycle—see what slender little, wire-like spokes they have—yet what strong, sturdy wheels they are. Surely no one would think of going back to the clumsy, old wooden-spoked wheel.

By the same token, did you ever stop to think how like the bicycle wheel U-Bar greenhouses are?

No heavy wooden roof bars or large iron framing members—but in their place a complete, all steel frame of U-Bar as light and strong in proportion as are the bicycle spokes.

The cypress core bar is steeped in a chemical preservative before it is placed in the U-Bar.

The galvanized steel U-Bar completely protects the core bar from the inside moisture of the house.

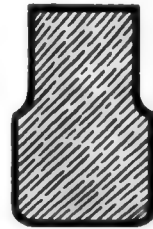

The drip does not drip. It follows down the bottom of the U-Bar to the purlin lead-offs, or to the cast iron sill. No drip grooves to get stopped up.

Then there's the curved eave—everybody knows the U-Bar curved eave was the original curved eave. It is admitted to be the most practical and attractive of all the curved eaves.

No reinforcements of the curved parts of the U-Bar are needed—no heavy iron members to break the view from the inside looking out, or show a heavy line from the outside, looking in.

There's only one U-Bar curved eave and that's the eave made with the U-Bar.

Others may look like it, but that's the only way they are like it. We tell you these things as a matter of protection to yourself. If you want the finest greenhouse sold today for private estates, public institutions or florists' show houses—you want the U-Bar. See to it that you get it.

The Core Bar

It is made of Cypress steeped in a chemical preservative.

The U-Bar

It is made of steel, heavily galvanized and then aluminum painted.

THE WOOD that LASTS shall be FIRST with Good Nurserymen who also are Good BUSINESSMEN.

CYPRESS is the one Greenhouse wood that is too busy on the job of LASTING to do any rotting and "stinking." It is hardly worth while to say that it is "THE eternal standard of Greenhouse Wood"—as everybody knows it, in the profession and outside the profession of greenhousemen. Even contractors who use a cheaper "substitute" (because it is "cheaper")—they also know there is no wood grown that will really "substitute" for CYPRESS in greenhouse construction. The word "substitute" is a synonym for "inferior." The character of CYPRESS for ENDURANCE is as old as the human race; it is no new discovery. CYPRESS was the "gopher wood" of the Bible; the mummies of ancient Egypt were encased in Cypress caskets more than 5,000 years ago, and the caskets are sound today. The ancients called it the "wood eternal." It is just that.

But there's no use to talk about it, everybody KNOWS what CYPRESS is for greenhouse work. The proposition resolves itself to this; AND NOTHING ELSE:—

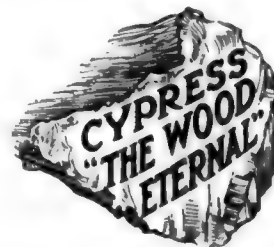

IF YOU WANT A "CHEAP" GREENHOUSE, ONE THAT WILL SMELL OF ROTTING WOOD AND WHOSE REPAIRS WILL EAT HOLES IN YOUR BANK ACCOUNT, HAVE IT BUILT OF A "SUBSTITUTE" FOR CYPRESS; IF YOU WANT A GOOD GREENHOUSE, ONE THAT WILL LAST AND SAVE YOU EXASPERATING REPAIR AND REPLACEMENT BILLS, HAVE NOTHING OF WOOD IN IT BUT CLEAR, HEART CYPRESS. ("Pecky" for the benches, "clear" for the balance of the job, from sills to sash.)

Make yourself free with our Cypress Pocket Library, it was printed for you. Vol. 1 treats of Cypress in general, including the report of the U. S. Govt. on the uses to which the wood is adapted. Vol. 3 is entitled "The Only Greenhouse Wood;" and Vol. 2 (almost ready) is very interesting to the profession, for it treats of "Pecky" Cypress, the kind so much used for benches and standards. They are free for the asking; get busy and ask.

FACTS

Questions and Answers No. 8

Q. Do you consider your mixed paint superior to white lead and oil?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is it better?

A. Our paint is a zinc and lead combination and covers more surface than white lead and oil. The paint is more white. It covers and protects cypress better than any other paint. It does not chalk, peel or crack. It is ready for use and perfectly made.

Q. Which is the cheapest?

A. Our paint lasts longest and goes farthest. It is the cheapest in the end, and the best all the time.

Q. What are your prices?

A. Per gallon, $2.00. In 20-gallon lots, $1.90, and in barrels (52 gallons), $1.80. Put up in 1-gallon cans, 5-gallon tubs and 52-gallon barrels.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

For APRIL 10 will have wide

SPECIAL INTEREST

as it will carry the full illustrated report of the great exhibition of the S. A. F. that opens at New York April 5.

IT WILL BE THE

National Flower Show Number

(The trade still remembers the National Flower Show Number of The Review published at the time of the Boston Show—nothing like it ever has appeared, before or since.)

This fine issue will tell the whole story of the show (no use making more than one bite of a cherry). It will have equal interest for those who attend the show and for those who cannot go.

Advertisers reach the WHOLE trade through this issue, including the STAY-AT-HOMES, who outnumber the exhibition-goers more than ten to one and who buy more than ten times as many goods.

HOW MUCH SPACE DO YOU NEED?

Send your advertisement to The Review BEFORE you start to the Show

Use a full page or a classified, according to the quantity of stock you want to sell; but, whatever your space, BE EARLY. New advertisements or changes of advertisements must be in The Review office, 508 So. Dearborn Street, Chicago, at 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 8, to be in time.

REGULAR RATES—$30.00 buys a full page—parts of pages in proportion

Gentlemen:

Speaking from my five year's experience with autos, what we require for the delivery of our goods is a speedy, easy-riding and roomy car. I believe you will all agree with me on that. The White is the car to give you those results. I have used it since the last of March with the same tires and have had no punctures, so I will have to hit on wood to keep my luck up. Notice the construction of the body, eight feet long inside, back of driver's seat. You can load same without stepping inside, owing to the side doors. Three ways to load and unload.

Very truly yours,
John C. Gracey

CAPT. CHRISTY. Flesh color, deepening to center.

CLIO. Satin blush; very fine new sort.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH. Bright vermillion.

EARL OF DUFFERIN. Rich velvety crimson.

FRAU KARL DRUSCHKI. The finest white in existence.

GEN. JACQUEMINOT. Brilliant crimson.

JOHN HOPPER. Bright rose, with carmine center.

LA FRANCE. Peach-blossom pink.

MABEL MORRISON. Pure white, shaded pink.

MARGARET DICKSON. White, with pale flesh center.

MARSHALL P. WILDER. Cherry rose and carmine.

MAGNA CHARTA. Dark pink; one of the easiest roses to grow.

MME. GABRIEL LUIZET. Light, satiny pink.

MRS. JOHN LAING. Rich, satiny pink.

MRS. SHARMAN-CRAWFORD. Deep rosy pink.

PAUL NEYRON. Lovely dark pink.

PERSIAN YELLOW. Hardy yellow rose.

ULRICH BRUNNER. Cherry red; grand rose.

For prices, See Above.

Ramblers and Other Climbing Roses

AMERICAN PILLAR (The Grand Single Climbing Rose). A new single-flowering variety of great beauty which appeals to everyone. The flowers are of enormous size, 3 to 4 inches across, of a lovely shade of pink, with a cluster of yellow stamens. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

MARECHAL NIEL. Bright, rich golden yellow. Field-grown, 5, $1.50; 100, $25.00.

GLOIRE DE DIJON. Color buff, orange center, very sweet-scented. Field-grown, 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

DOROTHY PERKINS. Resembles the Crimson Rambler, except in color, which is a lovely shell pink, holding a long time without fading. 4 to 5 feet, XX, 10, $1.75; 100, $15.00. 8 to 9 feet, XXX, 10, $2.25; 100, $20.00.

TAUSEND SCHON. The new Rambler Rose. The name, translated, means a "thousand beauties." Color beautiful rose, shading to pink, 5, $1.00; 100, $16.50.

CRIMSON RAMBLER. American grown. The only stock for forcing. Large, heavy plants, two years old, mossed and packed in bundles of 10. 3 to 5 feet, X, 10, $1.75; 100, $15.00. 4 to 6 feet, XX, 10, $2.25; 100, $20.00. 7 to 8 feet, extra heavy, XXX, 10, $4.00; 100, $35.00.

DELIGHT. Flowers are large, bright red, with white center. This variety is a decided acquisition. Flowers are borne in large clusters from forty to seventy-five in a cluster. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

HIAWATHA. The flowers are single, and are of a deep, intense crimson shade with the petals shading to a pure white base. Flowers very freely. Extra strong, 2-year, field-grown, flowering plants. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $18.00.

LADY GAY. A seedling from the popular Crimson Rambler, which it resembles in habit and general effect. The flowers are of a delicate cherry-pink color, which fades to soft white. Strong plants, field grown, 5 to 6 feet, 5, 85 cts.; 100, $15.00.

WEDDING BELLS. A seedling of the Crimson Rambler. The most floriferous Rose yet produced. The color is white with the upper half of the petals soft pink. Fine for forcing. Perfectly hardy. Extra strong, field-grown, flowering plants, 3-4 ft., 10, $1.75; 100, $15.00.

Flower of Fairfield

The Everblooming Crimson Rambler

This variety is a sport from the beautiful Crimson Rambler, is similar in color, more brilliant and lasting than the old favorite. Flower of Fairfield is a vigorous grower and free bloomer. It starts to bloom early in the spring and continues until late in the autumn. It is rightly termed "perpetual blooming"; 5, $1.50; 100, $25.00.

VEILCHENBLAU (Violet-Blue). Steel blue flowers of this new rose appear in large clusters, are semi-double, of medium size and keep in bloom a long time; 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

ARTHUR T. BODDINGTON, 34

for Decoration Day Forcing

Most of Our Roses are English Grown

Ramblers, Etc. Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses

Everblooming Bush, or Baby Rambler Roses

ATHARINE SEIMETH. A white Baby Rambler Rose, larger and better flowers than the type. An important fact is that it has the true rose perfume in a high degree; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

BY DOROTHY. The same in habit as Baby Rambler, but the color of the flower is similar to Dorothy Perkins. "Baby Dorothy," when planted out, flowers perpetually from spring until autumn. Bundle of 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

MRS. WM. H. CUTBUSH. A grand acquisition to the Baby Rambler class. Color intense crimson and exceptionally free flowering; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

ME. NORBERT LEVAVASSEUR (The original Baby Rambler). A dwarf-growing, ever blooming Crimson Rambler. This blooms when a small plant and forms clusters of flowers as large as the Crimson Rambler; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses

Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses are becoming more popular every year; while not so hardy as the perpetuals, with slight protection in winter they carry over in splendid shape and give a wealth of bloom all through the summer months and late in the fall till frost checks them.

The following collection is the latest offering in this beautiful and increasingly popular class and are two-year-old, English field-grown.

AMERICAN BEAUTY. Almost too well known for description, but as popular today as twenty years ago. Rosy carmine, shaded salmon; flowers large and full; very floriferous. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

JESSIE BROWN. Creamy white. Each, 50 cts.; bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

NETTIE. Coppery yellow, overspread with golden rose. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

CHARLOTTE TESTOUT. Bright satin rose, with brighter center, large, full and globular. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

YON. Originated by the raiser of Etolle de France. Perpetual flowering. Vigorous grower. The blooms are very large, with broad petals, full and globular in form; shrimp pink at the ends of the petals, center coral red or salmon pink, shaded with chrome yellow. Very fragrant. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

LIBERTY. Very free flowering, bright crimson scarlet, of an even shade throughout; floriferous. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

DEAN HOLE. Large, full flowers; perfectly formed; large petals, silvery carmine shaded salmon; very distinct and free flowering and a beautiful rose for all purposes. Awarded Gold Medal, N. R. S. of England. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

GRUSS AN TEPLITZ. No rose in commerce can compare with this as a bedder. It is a perfect sheet of richest crimson scarlet all summer. A strong, vigorous grower. Bundle of 5, 85 cts.; 100, $15.00.

HARRY KIRK. New Irish, yellow Tea Rose. The blooms are large, full, with large, smooth petals of great substance; the form is perfect, the buds long and elegant. Color deep sulphur yellow, passing to a lighter shade at the edges of the petals. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

JULIET (Novelty.) This, perhaps, is the most distinct rose ever introduced for color, which is unique. It is of the same type as Soleil d'Or, Rayon d'Or and other Austrian Briers and their hybrids. It was introduced by Wm. Paul & Son in 1910. These types require very little pruning; simply remove dead and useless wood. The following is the raiser's description: "Outside of petals old gold, interior rich rosy red, changing to deep rose as the flowers expand. A very distinct and attractive novelty, blooming both in summer and autumn. Large and full, of powerful and delicious fragrance; most beautiful." Each, 50 cts.; 5, $2.25; 100, $40.00.

KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTORIA. Almost pure white rose. Shaded a beautiful primrose. Fine for indoor or outdoor summer blooming. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

KILLARNEY. This is a grand rose for either indoor or outdoor cultivation; is a strong grower, and the blooms, which are of a beautiful pink, are borne in great profusion. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

WHITE KILLARNEY. This white queen of the Irish roses excels any other of its class. The color is pure white. White Killarney, like its prototype, is unusually hardy and without protection has stood severe winters as far north as Boston. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

LADY HILLINGDON. Deep orange yellow; medium size; long and pointed bud. A beautiful rose for all purposes, also a good forcer. Bundle of 5, $1.75; 100, $30.00.

MADAME ABEL CHATENAY. Carmine rose, shaded salmon pink. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MAMAN COCHET. The best of all roses for summer flowering and cutting.

MAMAN COCHET (Pink). Color a clear, rich pink, changing to silvery rose; very double and fragrant. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MAMAN COCHET (White). A sport from the above, with all its characteristics; color a beautiful snow white, at times tinted with the faintest suggestion of blush, the same as is often found in the Bride. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MILDRED GRANT. Cream, with a faint blush of pale rose. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MME. JULES GROLEZ. A beautiful satiny china-rose color, very bright and attractive. A distinct and pretty rose, which should be planted extensively. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MME. RAVARY. Buds golden yellow, open flowers nankeen yellow. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MOLLY SHARMAN-CRAWFORD. Large, full flower; color delicate eau-de-Nil, which, as the flower expands, becomes dazzling white. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MRS. AARON WARD. Indian yellow, occasionally washed salmon rose; very large, full elongated flowers; very free. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

PRESIDENT CARNOT. Almost pure white rose, shading to soft pink, very distinct and excellent for indoor or outdoor summer growing. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

PRINCE DE BULGARIE. Large and quite full; outer petals superb rosy flesh, with the reflex petals of a slightly lighter tint. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

RAYON D'OR (Novelty). One of Pernet-Ducher's greatest hybrids. Cadmium-yellow as the bloom begins to open, toning to sunflower-yellow when fully expanded. THE TRADE IN FLOOD AREA GENERALLY HARD-HIT

Reports from Dayton and Vicinity Still Indefinite, but Wind and Water Inflict Heavy Damages Elsewhere

A STORY of range demolition and plant devastation, probably unprecedented in the trade, comes from the Miami valley and adjacent country, following the floods that spelled such disastrous aftermath of a promising Easter season. It was a costly sequel of the western cyclone that laid to waste greenhouses and plants valued at upwards of $100,000. When all of the flood reports are received, it is not unlikely that the losses in the trade will aggregate several hundred thousand dollars.

Out of Dayton and Columbus little encouraging news has been received and the known losses among florists will require a large financial consideration to replace. At Fort Wayne, the firm of W. J. & M. S. Vesey, alone, estimates its damage at $70,000, and there were other ranges in that vicinity that fell prey to the flood.

At Dayton several of the largest ranges are known to have been inundated, with tremendous loss to greenhouses and plants, and from Hamilton, Troy, Columbus and other points come advices of similar destruction. At Toledo the wind played the greatest havoc and broken glass was the principal result. From all over the stricken territory come reports of varying losses, showing that the extent of the damage to the trade was not confined to the flood area.

The Cleveland Florists' Club, which has been investigating the extent of the flood's work on the ranges in the valley, announces that it finds a great amount of distress among growers and offers to act as go-between for those who have plants which they feel they can spare and are willing to donate to the affected trade.

Additional details of the cyclone at Omaha increase the first reports of damage sustained in that section.

First Miami Valley Reports.

News of how florists fared in the path of the flood in the great Miami valley is only a matter of conjecture, writes the Cincinnati correspondent of The Review. Hamilton, O., is the only city in the path of the rushing water from which definite information has been obtained. C. E. Critchell, who went there March 27, said that the range of J. Lodder & Sons was completely wiped out. Theodore Bock's greenhouses were not badly damaged.

It is probable, says the correspondent, that Jos. R. Goldman's plant at Middletown, O., is safe because it stands on higher ground.

Probably the only greenhouse establishments in Dayton that are left are those of John Boehmer, H. H. Ritter, Horlacher and possibly J. B. Heiss Co.,

HELP THOSE IN NEED.

The loss to florists throughout the state of Ohio on account of the flood must be heavy. Government, state and city officials, as well as societies and individuals, are doing their utmost at present to relieve suffering, and their work probably will have been accomplished by the time this is in print. A plan to give growers who have lost their entire stock by the high water a chance to again get on their feet should be put in force at once.

Reports from the flooded district are coming in slowly. We have not heard just how badly florists were damaged, but there are bound to be many large losses, and growers who went through the storms and floods unscathed should lend a hand at once to help their more unfortunate brothers.

The Cleveland Florists' Club stands ready to do its share. We would act as "go-between." Let all growers who have lost their stock send us their names; have your correspondents in Ohio cities send us the names of those needing help, with a list of stock they grow. Then let the growers who have stock to give send their names with the stock they have to donate. At this season of the year, there are many growers who have supplies of geraniums, roses, mums, carnations, etc., that would be acceptable to those who have lost their all.

The list of those who can help in this cause need not be limited to the state of Ohio. There are growers all through this country who would gladly respond with gifts of stock if the need for such donation was brought to their notice.

The Cleveland Florists' Club,
By Frank A. Friedley, Sec'y.

the correspondent writes. They all stand on points higher than the city. The chances are that the ranges of the Miami Floral Co. and W. G. Matthews were wrecked, if not completely destroyed. Both stood on the banks of the river and were probably directly in the path of the current. When the Miami river rose during former spring freshets, the water has been known to go up close to the doors of the Miami Floral Co.

The greenhouses of Henry Floeter and Edward Santo, in Cumminsville, O., are inundated. It is said that they succeeded in getting nearly all of their plants to safety ahead of the flood.

Warren G. Matthews, one of Dayton's leaders in the trade, is reported to be suffering a mental collapse and to be confined in a hospital as a result of his experiences during the flood. He is said to have suffered extreme hardships in saving his life when he and his son, Walter G. Matthews, who is associated with him in business, were rescued from a tree. Both were at first reported to have been drowned. Their stores at 16 West Third street and 32 South Main street were both in the flooded area. Advices about the effect of the storm at the Matthews greenhouses have not been received yet.

Losses at Columbus.

The trade was hard hit by the flood and business is completely at a standstill at Columbus, O., according to a letter received April 2, which was the first to come through from that city giving anything like accurate details of greenhouse and plant losses.

Sherman Stephen had a heavy loss at the east plant, as the water was in the houses about five feet. Mud and other filth washed in over the stock. His yard was flooded, trees uprooted and some even carried away. Several bodies were found in the neighborhood and a great many people were rescued at that point.

Bob Buehler was reported drowned, but he showed up later. Charles Buehler was in the midst of the flooded area and has lost about everything in the way of stock and household goods.

Wm. Brust also lost everything at his store. Nothing was left of his place but the foundation, and John Brust, his father, also lost all of his stock and goods.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. had two feet of water in the boiler shed, but no damage was inflicted beyond washing out some beds of pansies, etc.

The Riverside Floral Co. suffered considerable damage.

From Barberton, O., comes the report that the big new range of O. C. Barber was flooded. The amount of damage has not been estimated, but it is large.

W. P. & L. C. McFarland, of Akron, O., write that outside of boiler pits being flooded no extensive damage was done the florists there. They will have to replant sweet peas, which are two and one-half feet under water.

No greenhouses at Zanesville, O., were damaged, as they are all on higher ground than the water reached. The store of the Imlay Co. was in the flood district. The loss has not been determined. Two vegetable greenhouses about five miles south of town, on the river bank, have not been heard from. It is feared they are badly damaged, for they are in a place where the river is naturally swift.

The great Peters & Reed pottery at Zanesville is on safe ground. The A. E. Tile Works, the largest in the world, has water up to its second story. All the other potteries are more or less affected.

Anxious About Chillicothe.

Advices received in Chicago from Columbus relative to flood conditions at Chillicothe are uncertain in their mention of possible damage to growers. The first letter that came through from Columbus to a Chicago florist stated that the water had risen to a height of seven feet in Paint street, the main thoroughfare of Chillicothe, dwelling. The packing house and part of the dwelling burned Friday night. In the packing house were 4,500 orchids, which were lost in the fire, together with three horses, two automobiles and all books and supplies. Fire was not started in the boilers until March 30. Mr. Vesey believes he can save most of the rose stock. He expressed the belief that other losses at Fort Wayne were comparatively light.

In spite of efforts made all night to fight the incoming flood at the Flick houses on Thompson avenue, the water put out the fires and destroyed several of the greenhouses. The residence is situated on a knoll of ground near the houses and water surrounded it, so that the inmates had to call for boats to be removed. At last report, the water was within eight feet of the house itself and still rising. A new touring car and an electric car were lost. The damage to the Flick greenhouses cannot be estimated yet.

all out and everything in the houses was covered with mud.

William Miller's greenhouses at Peru, Ind., were under water and during the cold snap a great deal of the stock was saved because it was protected in this way. The mud and general filth left by the flood worked considerable damage.

The greenhouses of J. W. Rentz & Son, at Peru, are reported to have fared even worse, although details are not definite yet.

Flood conditions had disastrous effect upon business at Marion, Ind., during the Easter season; in fact, little thought was given to business in general, all devoting their time to relieving the unfortunate. At Stoebe's the force was kept busy night and day pumping water from the boiler pit and caring for the stock, there being about eighteen inches of water in the houses. At present the stock does not show the hardship through which it has gone. The Marion Floral Co. lost considerable glass by wind and hail, but was fortunate in losing comparatively little stock. Little trouble was experienced with water. All shipping orders were returned by the express companies.

No loss is reported by florists at Lafayette, Ind. The Wabash river reached the 33-foot stage, the highest in the history of the city. The only damage was along the river and the lowlands. F. Dorner & Sons Co. and Herman Roth are both located high above the flood level and had no loss. Train service is only partially restored.

Only Glass Losses at Toledo.

Greenhouses in the vicinity of Toledo, Ohio, suffered considerable damage, but the losses seem to be slight compared with those that have been sustained in other sections. The principal damage was confined to broken glass.

Peter J. Jacobs was the heaviest loser, nearly all of his glass being demolished.

Emil A. Kuhnke reported a loss of about $500.

J. L. Schiller reported a lot of glass broken and Mr. Fischer, at Woodlawn, was a heavy loser in this respect.

The Perennial Gardens Co. suffered heavy loss, nearly all of its glass going in the storm. It had to keep pumps going night and day to keep water out of the boiler pit.

F. A. Imoberstag had considerable trouble during the flood to keep fires going.

A. L. Thomas, the only florist at Troy, Ohio, lost nearly everything. Conditions there and in Dayton are reand that the growers are located on the lowest land along the river. With a depth of seven feet in Paint street, it is feared that the water reached a depth of twenty feet at the greenhouses, which, of course, would spell destruction to houses and stock. The leading growers in that vicinity are Louis Elsass, proprietor of the McKellar Greenhouses, and Chas. A. Johnson, of the Chillicothe Floral Co. No word has been received from these sources about the extent of losses, if any.

Heavy Losses at Fort Wayne.

The damage to greenhouses at Fort Wayne, Ind., will reach many thousands of dollars. The thirty-two houses of W. J. & M. S. Vesey were practically all under water, although by supreme effort most of the orchid plants, the most valuable stock in the range, were saved. The condition of the houses of the Flick Floral Co. is no better.

W. J. Vesey, Jr., writes that the firm's loss is estimated at $70,000. The water started to rise at Fort Wayne at 2 a. m. March 25 and in three hours the river rose eight feet. Its rise was so swift there was no time to save anything. On the following day, a boat was secured and the force worked two days and a night, removing orchids to the packing room and the cellar of the No advices from other florists have been received up to this time.

More Damage in Indiana.

J. A. Newby's greenhouses at Logansport, Ind., were under water to the gutters, all stock being submerged, but being under water during the cold days prevented it from being frozen. Of course, all tender stock was lost, and the damage in a general way amounts to considerable.

Mrs. O. G. McCormick's greenhouses at Logansport suffered in the same way, having from six to eight feet of water. At last reports it was not ported by the Skinner Irrigation Co. as being almost indescribable.

George D. Leedle reports that all flower stocks at Springfield, Ohio, are unharmed, suffering no effects of the flood and storm. Mail and express are going forward promptly.

Storm's Ravages in Illinois.

The greenhouses of W. G. Thomas & Son, at Sheffield, Ill., were demolished by the storm Easter Sunday night. Everything went down before the wind, even the cement wall on the south side, and a big brick chimney and the boiler house on the northeast side. The junior member of the firm had a narrow escape as he was sleeping in the furnace house, which was almost entirely crushed by the falling chimney, the corner in which he lay alone remaining untouched. They were hard hit, for their greenhouses represented years of hard work and saving.

One house was put up last fall, and the others two years ago. The firm tore down its old houses and put up others by the new model. They were all filled with carnations, roses and spring stock, all of which are a complete loss, except some plants in pots, which were removed to neighboring cellars. Already a new house is under construction, to put these plants in. Thomas & Son say that if any of the florists have rooted cuttings or stock plants they could spare, they would be very thankful for them. The dwelling house was badly damaged and a large number of fruit trees were blown down.

The greenhouses of Hagge Bros. at Deerfield, Ill., were totally destroyed by the storm, entailing a loss of $1,000 with no insurance.

Storm Details from Omaha.

The 125-mile-an-hour cyclone, which destroyed the two large greenhouses of J. F. Wilcox & Sons at Council Bluffs, Iowa, March 23, entailing a loss there of $75,000, left its trail of destruction to the trade in Omaha, also. L. H. Henderson's greenhouses in South Omaha would have been directly in its path, but before reaching Henderson's range the twister parted. One funnel struck out east across the river towards Lake Manaug, where it destroyed the summer resorts and the Wilcox greenhouses. Mr. Rice, an old-time nurseryman, and his wife were killed at Council Bluffs.

The other funnel took a more northeasterly course, striking between Fortieth and Fiftieth streets, on Center and Leavenworth streets, Omaha, barely missing S. R. Faulkner's range, but striking that of Hans Jensen, at Fortyninth and Leavenworth, and wiping it out. The residence, greenhouse office and greenhouses were a total loss, the damage amounting to $5,000. Mr. Jensen and his family took refuge before the blow in the basement, where he was buried under a pile of cement blocks. He recovered soon after his rescue, and now only a few scratches on his face remain as evidence of his experience. Joslin's conservatory was a total loss except for a few cactus which Mr. Roman managed to save out of a $10,000 collection. Paul Floth's loss reached about $600, about 1,500 feet of glass being broken, and the loss of Louis Henderson was about $100. The older Wilcox plant at Council Bluffs, and the other florists there, were out of the path of the storm. The Wilcox business went on without interruption as soon as train and wire service were reestablished.

Wind Plays Peculiar Pranks.

A peculiar freak of the wind created havoc with the greenhouses of the Elmwood Cemetery Corporation, Birmingham, Ala., unroofing most of them and destroying many plants. The engine room is located in the rear of one of the houses. When the wind reached its height the back door of the engine room was wrenched open and the roof of the room was lifted and blown across the green for 200 feet. It was only stopped in its flight by two tall trees in front of the greenhouses, where it collapsed into a mass of wreckage.

Easter profits were wiped out at the greenhouses of George Souster at Elgin, Ill., when the wind lifted the sashes from some of the frames and dashed several hundred panes of glass into fragments. No flowers were damaged. Repairs were made immediately.

About 100 lights of double strength glass were blown out and broken into bits at the greenhouses of A. J. Waggoner, west of Columbia City, Ind. The houses withstood the heavy wind storm.

Fred Hawkins reports that one of his greenhouses at Paulding, O., was blown down during the storm, but he declares that he is feeling thankful for getting off as easily as he did, after learning of damage reports from other cities.

Florists at Kokomo, Ind., were not damaged by the flood. Two places were threatened with water in the boiler room, but a few hours' extra work at night was all that was required to keep it out. The city water plant was out of commission for four days and other arrangements had to be made to get water into the boilers. Stock accumulated at the wholesale places because, for nearly a week, there was no way to ship out of town.

West Chester, Pa.—Thomas McCay, formerly located on West Market street, has opened a new shop in the Imperial hotel building.

Virginia, Minn.—Chas. A. Whittet, formerly superintendent of parks in Lowell, Mass., who accepted a similar position in this city, has arrived and entered upon his duties.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Henry Smith is adding to his plant on Bridge street two greenhouses, each 26x187 feet, for growing roses. When completed, these houses will give him a total of twenty-four.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

On account of the flooded condition of a large territory around Indianapolis, which is making mail deliveries uncertain and in some directions impossible, it would be well for all those who are entering the competition in the carnation classes at New York to bring a list of their entries along to the show with them. Your entries may reach me here, and if they do I will have your entry cards made out, but should they not reach me, it would be a great help if you have a list with you.

Please note that Sections A, B, C, D, G and classes 43 and 45 will stage April 8. Classes 42, 44, 46, 47 and 48 will be staged April 10. Through an error in printing the schedule for the entire show, classes 43 and 45 were included with the April 10 staging. Our classes 43 and 45 appear as classes 441 and 443 in the National Flower Show schedule. Entries in Section E may be staged at any time during the carnation show.

We are planning to leave Indianapolis Saturday evening, April 5, and ex-

NATIONAL BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

Entries to the bowling tournament of the National Association of Gardeners, which will be held on Thumm's alleys, Broadway and Thirty-first street, New York, Wednesday, April 9, must be filed with the secretary of the association not later than 9 a. m. on the day of the tournament. To facilitate completion of the arrangements, those intending to participate have been requested to file their entries at once, sending them to Secretary M. C. Ebel at the Murray Hill hotel, Park avenue and Fortieth street, New York, which will be the headquarters of the association during the show week. The secretary will be found at the hotel daily from 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock in the forenoon, during the show week, excepting Wednesday, when he will be at Thumm's alleys. No entries will be accepted after the tournament opens—9 a. m., April 9.

Teams of three men, members of local gardeners' or florists' clubs and members in good standing either of the N. A. G. or S. A. F., will be eligible in the team tournament. One team only can be entered from any local club or society.

All members in good standing of the N. A. G. or S. A. F. are eligible in the individual bowling tournament. Team bowlers can enter by waiving their team scores from counting in the individual tournament.

Rules governing the tournament will be posted at the N. A. G. and S. A. F. headquarters in New York City April

NEW YORKERS PLEASE WRITE.

I have just been advised by Wm. F. Kasting that the bill authorizing an appropriation of $60,000 for greenhouses at Cornell University, to be used in experimental work in flowers and vegetables, is likely to pass the senate. On behalf of the legislative committee of the New York Florists' Club, I would urge every florist in the state of New York to write to his senator at once urging him to vote for the bill. I would also urge them to write to His Excellency, Governor Wm. Sulzer, Executive Mansion, Albany, urging that he sign the bill. Stress should be laid on the fact that the florists want this appropriation, for the better development of horticulture in the state of New York, and that if the Empire State is to hold her prestige as a flower producer in competition with other states, it is essential that this bill be passed and become a law.

HUS HAS NEW SUPPORT.

A new carnation support, "an improvement designed to provide flower benches or beds with simple and effective means for supporting the stems during growth of the flowers, retaining the stems straight and supporting the bloom of the stems," has been invented and patented by Peter Hus, formerly connected with the Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, and more recently of Red Oak, Iowa. Mr. Hus is in Chicago developing his plans to manufacture his patent, which, he claims, will "materially help the growth of long-stemmed plants flowering at their upper extremities, such as carnations." Inexpensive and light construction will be a feature which, he believes, will commend his invention to the trade.

The patent certificate, briefly, describes it: "Pipe posts (1) arranged within the greenhouse along the outer edges of the flower boxes (2) or beds and secured to the floor in any desired manner. will be equipped with a plurality of resilient clips (3) adapted to surround the posts and at the same time retain hooks (7) in proper positions to engage the longitudinally extending end wires (8) of flower supporting frames (9 and 10), made of lighter wires meshed and spaced to provide openings of various sizes to accommodate the stalks or stems, also varying in sizes. As many frames as desired may be used, in tiers, the accompanying drawing showing two."

Speaking of his improvement, Mr. Hus said: "I have provided a simple, cheap and effective support for training flowers in vertical position, one which will prevent the falling or breaking of plants and which, also, will support the flowers of the plants. The device will be constructed from metal and will not be susceptible to the moisture or climatic changes of the greenhouse. By constructing the end members of the support frames of heavy wires the frame will be rendered strong and prevented from breaking."

St. Peter, Minn.—S. C. Smith has sold his greenhouses to G. H. Towley, and, with his family, has moved to Rock Island, Ill., where he will make his home. Mr. Towley has taken possession and is arranging to place an experienced manager in charge.

GENTLEMEN, YOUR SHOW IS READY!

CHICAGO'S SECOND SPRING EXHIBITION

EDUCATING THE PUBLIC.

Show an Artistic Success.

The Horticultural Society of Chicago is this week distributing its surplus in giving to the Chicago public what is practically a free exhibition of greater magnitude than any other spring show ever held in the west, and probably the largest spring show ever held in the United States, with the single exception of the National Flower Show held at Boston two years ago. It is Chicago's second attempt at a spring exhibition. The quantity of stock shows a considerable increase over that of a year ago, although the number of exhibitors is not materially increased. Finer stock it would be difficult to imagine. The two big rose groups are magnificent, and Frank Oechslein staged a group of hard-wooded flowering plants the like of which has never been seen in the west. Some twenty varieties are included. Fritz Bahr also put up a group of hard-wooded blooming plants of the commercial sizes, but including many varieties which, to quote Mr. Bahr, "are not seen as frequently as they should be." In addition to these, Mount Greenwood Cemetery has a group of geraniums, antirrhinums and sweet peas grown in tubs and trained on balloon-shaped trellises that is notable. The private gardeners are participating in the show to a greater extent than ever before and for the benefit of the society reporters for the daily papers the names of the employers only are used, so that one may read in the morning papers how A. B. Dick, E. G. Uihlein, Kenneth Barnhart, N. W. Harris, Louis F. Swift and other millionaires are capturing the blue ribbons.

The magnanimity of the society in giving a practically free exhibition was not wholly intentional; rather, it was spontaneous. The Art Institute is a splendid place for a flower show, but a five days' show never can be held there except with two days on which no admission can be charged. This time it was discovered on the eve of the show that a week had been selected in which the institute had three free days out of the five. On the opening day the attendance exceeded 5,000 and on the second day it was even greater.

The blooming plants and the roses were staged April 1. April 3 the carnations are to be staged, as well as a general display of cut roses, the sweet pea classes and the classes for miscellaneous cut flowers. At the hour of going to press the indications are for a first-class showing of carnations, as entries have been received from Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Wietor Bros., Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago Carnation Co., C. C. Pollworth Co. and the E. G. Hill Co.

Retailers' Displays.

While all the visitors want to see the exhibit with the blue ribbon on it, there really is nothing which attracts the public so much as the retailers' displays. This year the showing of cut flower work is better than usual. The Art Institute is admirably adapted to this purpose. There are numerous rooms, so that each exhibitor can have a room all to himself and treat it as he will. C. A. Samuelson, Schiller the Florist, and E. Wienhoeber Co. each were assigned a special room.

Mr. Samuelson's exhibit was the most elaborate of the lot. It consisted of numerous baskets of blooming plants and tables of smaller baskets and vases of cut flowers, while in the corners of the room were excellent groups of blooming plants, one of rambler roses and one of genistas. The showing invariably provoked an exclamation of pleasure from those who stepped within the portals.

In the Schiller room a dozen or more baskets of blooming plants were shown, the arrangement of each being a credit to the well-known skill of Miss Schiller and her assistants.

The E. Wienhoeber Co., besides showing several baskets and vases of cut flowers, decorated one corner of its room as for a wedding, with bank of palms, kneeling stool, newel posts and tall vases of Easter lilies.

At the head of the main stairway John Mangel showed two handsome sweet pea arrangements, one a large handle basket and the other a big bouquet in one of the lace bouquet holders.

T. E. Waters, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., also showed some baskets of roses, arranged for effect, believing in helping the retailers along.

Cut Roses.

The display of cut roses was one of the best which has been seen at Chicago. Not one vase was staged that was not worthy of a premium; better general average quality would be hard to obtain. The competition was so close that the premiums were pretty evenly distributed among the four principal exhibitors. It was an interesting feature that a new exhibitor of cut roses should carry off first premium for both Killarney and White Killarney. The Geo. Wittbold Co. always has exhibited in plant and retail classes, but never before in cut roses. Robert Hand assumed charge of the Wittbold Killarney houses last season and his success was shown by his capturing two first premiums in competition with three of the largest and best growers for the local market.

The only rose novelty on exhibition was Milady, from A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., which had traveled well.

The awards in the rose classes were as follows:

Seventy-five American Beauties—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Wietor Bros., second.
Seventy-five Killarney—Geo. Wittbold Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second; Wendland & Keimel, third.
Seventy-five White Killarney—Geo. Wittbold

Seventy-five Mrs. Aaron Ward—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Wendland & Keimel, second.

Seventy-five Bulgarie—Wendland & Keimel, first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

Seventy-five Richmond—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first.

Seventy-five any other rose in commerce—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, on Killarney Queen.

Rose Plants.

The rose plants in bloom were the hit of the show. Such fine quality never before has been seen at Chicago. Those who think of C. W. Johnson as a chrysanthemum or carnation grower should have seen the group of roses in pots staged by Mount Greenwood Cemetery. It contained approximately 180 plants, the greater part of them Dorothy Perkins, beautifully bloomed. The first premium of $75 was wholly inadequate. The value of the exhibit was many times the amount of the premium. The awards in the rose plant classes were:

Display of roses in pots—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Ten hybrid perpetuals—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, second; no first.

Six climbers or ramblers in three or more varieties—Vaughan's Seed Store, first.

Specimen Crimson Rambler—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, second; no first.

Specimen Tausendschon—Vaughan's Seed Store, second; no first.

Specimen American Pillar—Vaughan's Seed Store, second; no first.

Specimen Dorothy Perkins—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Specimen Hiawatha—Vaughan's Seed Store, first.

Specimen Lady Gay—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Specimen any other climbing variety—Vaughan's Seed Store, first.

Specimen plant any variety—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, silver medal; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Miscellaneous Flowering Plants.

Frank Oechslin was the principal exhibitor of spring flowering pot plants, but there were enough other exhibitors so that in most of the classes he had something of a run for the money. Several of the private gardeners, while not exhibiting in many classes, each had splendid stock for those in which they made entries. However, Mr. Oechslin had done even better than usual, not only in number of entries but in quality of the stock. His rhododendrons, azaleas and hydrangeas were especially good. His group of hydrangeas attracted the trade visitors. In it two of the new, blue French hydrangeas, Mme. A. Rivirian and Souv. de Mme. Chantard, made strong contrast with the pink of Otaksa. Several plants of Schizanthus Wisetonensis, grown by the private gardeners and entered in these classes, were a step in advance of anything previously seen at Chicago.

The awards in the miscellaneous flowering plant classes were as follows:

Six anthuriums—Vaughan's Seed Store, first; E. G. Uihlein, second.

Specimen anthurium—E. G. Uihlein, first.

Three azaleas—Frank Oechslin, first.

Twelve azaleas—Frank Oechslin, first.

Specimen bougainvillea—Fritz Bahr, second; no first.

Six Cineraria hybrida—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, first.

Six Cineraria stellata—Mount Greenwood Cemetery, first; Kenneth Barnhart, second; N. W. Harris, third.

Ten cyclamens—Frank Oechslin, first; R. J. Sutherland, second.

Specimen cyclamen—R. J. Sutherland, first; Frank Oechslin, second.

Six ericas—Fritz Bahr, second; no first.

Group of flowering shrubs—Frank Oechslin, first.

Specimen genista—Fritz Bahr, second; no first.

Six Hydrangea Hortensis—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Specimen Hydrangea Otaksa—Vaughan's Seed Store, second; no first.

Six Japanese maples—Frank Oechslin, first.

Five lilac plants—H. N. Bruns, first; Frank Oechslin, second.

Specimen marguerite—Edward Boulter, first.

Six rhododendrons—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Specimen rhododendron—Frank Oechslin, first.

Specimen Rhododendron Pink Pearl—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Twelve primulas—Kenneth Barnhart, first; Louis F. Swift, second.

Any other flowering plant—N. W. Harris, first; Fritz Bahr, second; A. B. Dick, third.

Specimen metrosideros—Fritz Bahr, second; no first.

Twelve pans valley—H. N. Bruns, first; August Jurgens, second.

Window box of vines and flowering plants—Vaughan's Seed Store, second; no first.

Window box of foliage plants—Vaughan's Seed Store, first.

Bulbous Plants.

The bulbous plants were extremely well done. Better hyacinths and tulips have not been previously shown at Chicago and the narcissi also were excellent. There were four principal exhibitors in these classes and the competition was close. The awards were as follows:

Three pans La Grandesse hyacinth—Frank Oechslin, first; August Jurgens, second; Vaughan's Seed Store, third.

Three pans any single white hyacinth—Frank Oechslin, first; August Jurgens, second.

Three pans any single pink hyacinth—Vaughan's Seed Store, first; Frank Oechslin, second; August Jurgens, third.

Three pans Queen of the Blues hyacinth—Vaughan's Seed Store, first; Frank Oechslin, second.

Three pans any single light blue hyacinth—Frank Oechslin, first; August Jurgens, second; Vaughan's Seed Store, third.

Three pans any single red hyacinth—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans any single dark blue hyacinth—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second; August Jurgens, third.

Bed of hyacinths arranged for effect—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans Empress narcissus—Fritz Bahr, first; Frank Oechslin, second; August Jurgens, third.

Three pans Emperor narcissus—Frank Oechslin, first; August Jurgens, second; Fritz Bahr, third.

Three pans Golden Spur narcissus—Frank Oechslin, first; August Jurgens, second; Fritz Bahr, third.

Three pans double Von Sion narcissus—Vaughan's Seed Store, first; Frank Oechslin, second; Fritz Bahr, third.

Three pans any other double narcissus—Frank Oechslin, first.

Three pans White Hawk tulips—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans single white, any other variety—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans single pink, any variety tulips—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans Couleur Cardinal tulips—Frank Oechslin, first.

Three pans single red, any other variety tulips—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans single yellow, any variety tulips—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Three pans, early single, any other color tulips—Frank Oechslin, first.

Six pans, double tulips—Frank Oechslin, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Collection spring bulbs other than above—E. G. Uihlein, first on collection of amaryllis seedlings.

Specimen bulbous plant in flower—E. G. Uihlein, bronze medal on seedling amaryllis.

General View of the Roses at the Chicago Spring Show, April 1 to 5, 1913.

Orchid Plants.

E. G. Uihlein was the only exhibitor of orchid plants. He was awarded first prize for collection and a silver medal for a specimen lælia.

Miscellaneous Plants.

The miscellaneous plants were not so numerous as usual. In one of the rooms the Geo. Wittbold Co. had a large and handsome group of palms and ferns, with corners of the room lightened with rose plants in bloom. In the competitive classes the private gardeners showed some splendid specimens. The awards were as follows:

Specimen adiantum—Kenneth Barnhart, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Cibotium Schiedel—Frank Oechslein, both first and second.

Nephrolepis exaltata—Vaughan's Seed Store, second; no first.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis—E. G. Uihlein, first; Vaughan's Seed Store, second.

Specimen polypodium—M. W. Harris, first.

Specimen staghorn fern—A. B. Dick, first; N. W. Harris, second.

Specimen palm—E. G. Uihlein, first; H. N. Bruns, second.

Six crotons—N. W. Harris, first.

Basket of plants—E. G. Uihlein, first.

Hanging basket—A. B. Dick, first.

Display of specimen flowering plants—Fritz Bahr, the S. A. F. silver medal; Mount Greenwood Cemetery, the S. A. F. bronze medal.

Noncompetitive Exhibits.

Metairie Ridge Nursery, New Orleans, sent fifty pots of Easter lilies, grown from bulbs produced in Louisiana. It was fine, clean stock, well flowered and of good even height.

Winterson's Seed Store had the position of honor at the foot of the main stairway for two groups not for competition, containing bay trees, boxwood, magnolias, Phoenix Roebelenii, etc. The same exhibitor also supplied a number of bay trees for decorative effect about the building.

Vaughan's Seed Store exhibited a new vivid red canna, labeled Fire Bird, of which Carl Cropp thinks highly. The same exhibitor had a large table of vegetables and a vase of winter-blooming Spencer sweet peas, among exhibits not for competition.

Miss L. A. Tonner and her sister, Mrs. Thomas Fogerty, had charge of a booth for the sale of flowers.

An exhibit of the Chicago Fish Fanciers' Club was held in connection with the flower show.

The judges were Emil Buettner, August Koch.

BRITISH NOTES.

Visitors to the National Flower Show, New York, will include Stuart Low, of Stuart Low & Co., Bush Hill Park; W. Wells, Sr., of W. Wells & Co., Merstham, and R. F. Felton, retail florist, London. These gentlemen, all members of the Perpetual Flowering Carnation Society, have been appointed as a delegation from the society.

In the Carnation Year Book there is published the result of a postal vote on the best twelve varieties to grow for profit. Twenty-seven commercial growers took part in the voting, with the result that ten American and two British varieties find favor, namely: May Day, 26 votes; Enchantress, 25; White Enchantress, 25; British Triumph, 25; Winsor, 21; Rose-pink Enchantress, 20; White Wonder, 20; Scarlet Glow, 19; Beacon, 18; Mrs. C. W. Ward, 17; White Perfection, 16; Lady Northcliffe, 14. In the voting for the twelve best varieties for exhibition there are six American and six British, an even distribution of honors; namely: American—Scarlet Glow, White Perfection, Enchantress, Mrs. C. W. Ward, White Wonder and Gloriosa. British—Carola, Baroness de Brien, Mikado, R. F. Felton, Lady Meyer and Marmion.

H. E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, is over here on a visit to Ashford, Kent, his native town, and is having a good time of it. He was a visitor at the R. H. S. show March 4 and in the evening dined at the Horticultural Club. He sails on the Mauretania, on his return trip, March 22.

Hugo Koster is the name of a new lilac, which received an award of merit from the R. H. S. March 4. It was raised by M. Koster & Sons, Boskoop, Holland. The flowers resemble in color Charles X, but they far outdistance the old variety in point of size and intensity of the lilac hue. The trusses, too, are of great size.

My notes usually finish in the minor key and the present is no exception. British rosarians especially, but rosarians the world over, have now to mourn the loss of William Cocker, senior partner of James Cocker & Sons, Aberdeen, Scotland, who passed away February 27.

SOUTHERN DAFFS AT NEW YORK.

Southern daffodils were a drug in the New York market last week. One commission house, A. L. Young & Co., received a lot of forty boxes which were in an unsalable condition. Mr. Young began giving them away to passing children and soon disposed of the entire lot, but in doing so he almost created a riot. Grown-ups as well as children scrambled for the flowers. He figures that he saved money by giving them away, as otherwise he would have been compelled to pay the garbage man to cart them away. The Review man saw one lot of about fifteen boxes of southern daffodils and fifteen boxes of violets all billed as "wagon load of flowers, $10," and it seemed to him that the buyer had the worst of it at that.

In some cases the first notice that the commission man had of a shipment of southern daffodils was the presentation of a bill for express charges on from twenty to forty boxes. Several dealers declined to receive them at all. They said that it seemed unlikely that the flowers would bring enough to pay express charges, and, even if they did sell, they would come into competition with the produce of local growers who were their regular consignors and with whom they had close and cordial business relations. Rather than do anything that might injure their regular consignors, they would forego the handling of flowers sent in this casual way, without notice, from people whom they had never heard of.

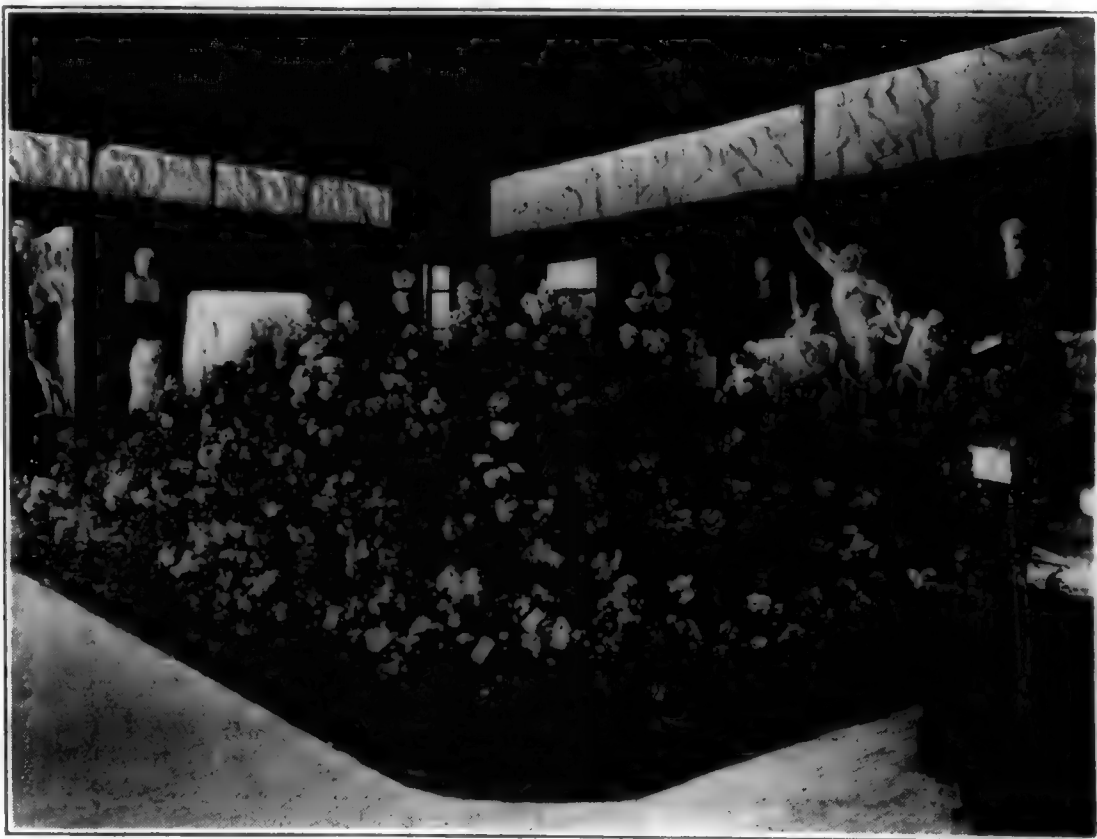

DISEASED VINCAS.

We are sending you today under separate cover several plants of Vinca variegata which are diseased. This trouble has been present since January 1; prior to that time the plants were in a splendid growing condition. Small black spots were noticed about that time around the edges of the leaves; these spots spread finally around the entire edge and then the leaves dropped off. The plants have been gone over several times and cleaned of all diseased leaves, but when new leaves grow the trouble again appears. Samples of the diseased plants have been sent to the Experiment Station, but the disease could not be identified there. No sign of a fungus or of bacteria has been discovered. We have sprayed several times with Bordeaux, but this does not stop the spots from appearing. We thought the trouble might originate in the soil, but the same spot appears on our vinca cuttings grown in pure sand. The plants are growing in houses where geraniums are the principal crop handled. As we have several thousand of these vincas, we are anxious to find some remedy, if possible, before the new buds break. We have decided to repot several hundred plants in fresh soil, first washing all the old soil from the roots. Any suggestion you can make will be appreciated.

R. B.

This particular disease is new to me. Any I have had acquaintance with were of a fungoid nature and were fairly easily controlled. I think your plan of shaking away all the soil and washing the roots prior to repotting is a good one. I would also suggest cutting back both the tops and roots well before repotting. Give a little shade until they become established, then full sunshine. Use rather small pots, so that the plants will sooner root around them. This will probably spoil your plans for summer sales, but they should be all right to plant out in the field for stock.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Readers of Dickens will recall that Mrs. Sairey Gamp's friend said of Mrs. 'Arris, "There ain't no sich pusson." Well, that's the way with the New York market the week after Easter—"there ain't no market." The commission man asked as much for his flowers as he dared, and accepted, more or less gratefully, anything that the buyer chose to offer. And there were so few buyers and so many flowers that no man might say with assurance: "These flowers will bring so much." Beauties sold at 75 cents for specials on the Saturday before Easter; on Saturday, March 29, fine long specials sold as low as 15 cents each, though in small lots 20 cents was paid. In fact, the bright sunshine brought in a large crop of fine flowers, the receipts of this grade for the week being two or three times the receipts for the preceding week. But few lower grade Beauties were received. Brides and Maids sold as low as 50 cents per hundred, the top price being $5 per hundred. The same quotations apply to Killarneys, Marylands, Sunbursts, Richmonds and Lady Hillingdons. Bulgaries were in good condition and brought from 50 cents to $6 per hundred. Chatenays were not so plentiful, bringing $1 to $10 per hundred.

Schrøderæ continue plentiful at 10 to 25 cents. Trianaæ and other dark cattleyas are scarce and firm at 35 and 50 cents. Dendrobiums and other spray orchids are dull at 5 cents a flower; they seem to have lost their vogue. Carnations are plentiful at $2 and under. Lilies are quoted at 4 and 6 cents, but with no sales of consequence. Callas are quoted nominally at 50 cents to $1.50 a dozen. Sweet peas share in the general dullness. Violets are plentiful and of the poorest quality; hundreds of thousands have reached the market in an unsalable condition. Narcissi are plentiful and cheap, though Paper Whites are becoming scarce. Hyacinths bring from 50 cents per hundred up. Daffodils are quoted at 30 cents to $1.50 for local flowers. Heavy shipments of southern grown daffodils have flooded the market. Many of these were received in poor condition and had to be thrown into the garbage can. Even those that were salable brought low prices—in many cases not enough to pay express charges. Tulips hang heavy on the hands of the dealers, who, in order to clean up, have accepted as low as 30 cents per hundred for fine double flowers. Valley held up fairly well in the general slump, 4 cents being the top-notch price until Saturday, when a cut to 3 cents was made by the stiffest seller in the market. This price was for the choicest hard flowers, with long stems; for lower grades correspondingly lower prices prevailed.

Various Notes.

W. A. Sperling, secretary of the Stumpp & Walter Co., sailed recently on the Baltic for a three months' trip to Europe on behalf of his house. He will spend most of his time in Holland, France and England.

Mr. Myer, the Madison avenue florist, has received many expressions of sympathy from his friends in the trade in the loss of his mother, who died on Easter eve at her residence, 208 East Fifty-eighth street. She is survived by her husband, three daughters and three sons.

C. A. Dards cleaned up all save a few plants at Easter and afterward made a clean sweep of these, selling to advantage in a lump. The consequence was that his store had a fresh-inviting appearance this week, in delightful contrast to the bedraggled, faded appearance of some of the stores, which carried over just enough stock to give a second-hand look to the establishment. Mr. Dards believes firmly in the possibilities for profit which lie in the securing of orders for out-of-town delivery. He has filled orders for delivery in different parts of Europe through his European correspondents, in almost every section of the United States and even in Egypt. This is a branch that can be built by advertising.

H. Warendorff—the one on Madison avenue, for there are Warendorffs scattered all over New York in the florists' business—has in his window some exceedingly attractive dollar boxes of cut flowers. These go well and enable him to meet department store competition without demoralizing his regular prices.

John S. Nicholas, 37 East Forty-second street, expects to have his new store in the Grand Central station open for the visitors to the International Flower Show. The store is to the east of the main entrance of the station, with a frontage on Forty-second street of forty-five feet and on the main corridor of fifty feet. This frontage is filled in with five enormous show windows. The fittings are to be of marble, glass and metal throughout. Wood will not show anywhere. The center of the store will be occupied by a marble and glass ice-box ten feet wide by twenty-five feet deep and nine feet high. The counters and display stands for fruits, for Mr. Nicholas will handle fruits as well as flowers, will be of white marble. The store is to be fitted up in the most lavish manner and will probably be the handsomest store in the United States. This store will be in charge of Mr. Nicholas' son, M. J. Nicholas, who has just left Cornell University. The store at No. 37 will be continued, both stores being under the general supervision of the elder Mr. Nicholas.

N. A. Naldrett, of Langport, England, arrived recently and will spend several months calling on the trade in the United States and Canada on behalf of Kelway & Son, the seed growers. His local address is 17 State street, New York, care of Thomas Meadows & Co.

Walter Mott is making a canvass of the Long Island growers for Benjamin F. Hammond (Slug Shot Hammond), of Fishkill, in advance of the flower show.

Woodrow & Marketos found their new automobile van of great value in making their Easter deliveries, which were so heavy as to impose a severe task on their delivery service.

Miss Golden, who has opened a store on Fulton street, near Green avenue, Brooklyn, was for several years with Robert G. Wilson, on Green avenue.

Simpson, Crawford & Co., of the Sixth avenue department store, have inaugurated a cut flower and plant department.

Thomas Roland, of Nahant, Mass., visited the trade this week.

H. E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, arrived on the Mauretania from a European trip.

Mrs. Roget, the aunt of William G. Badgley, of Badgley, Riedel & Meyer, died of apoplexy at her home in Summit, N. J., last week.

W. Wells, of Merstham, Surrey, England, arrived on the Mauretania and had a long session at the Prince George hotel with his American representative, Charles H. Totty, and a group of friends on Sunday evening.

R. G. Wilson, of Brooklyn, has been awarded the privilege of selling flowers to the patrons of the International Flower Show.

Excellent publicity work is being done on behalf of the International Flower Show in the daily papers. The Sunday Herald had a clever story, with illustrations of orchids, etc., which occupied nearly a page.

Wertheimer Bros. have arranged for new quarters a few steps from Madison Square park and the subway. Largely increased space will afford the firm facilities for caring for increasing business. The building is absolutely fireproof, the floors being of cement with sprinkler equipment. The fixtures will be of mahogany and several large sales offices will be provided for the reception of buyers. Six elevators will afford continual rapid service. The lighting arrangements are perfect, large windows being on all sides; artificial lighting is of the indirect system from bowl-shaped globes. In short, every modern convenience has been provided. The new home will be occupied about July 1.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

As my Easter notes miscarried on account of the flood, a word about Easter and its aftermath will not be amiss. Pittsburgh was favored with good weather Good Friday and Saturday, just the right kind to encourage people to come out, and the result was that the retailers had their best Easter. Plants had an unprecedented sale and cut flowers held up their end. There were never better flowers, for Easter roses locally came in just right. Everything else was equally good. Beauties were not in evidence and no one asked for them. The other roses were so fine they were not needed.

The one great disappointment was violets, which were good before Easter, but, owing probably to the warm weather, were affected in the shipping. It is safe to say that out of hundreds of thousands of violets there was not one really good bunch. The result was considerable dissatisfaction, but it stimulated a phenomenal run in orchids, the sales being unprecedented in this city. Bulbous stock arrived in immense quantities. For some unknown reason there is never any special demand among the best trade for this stock for Easter. It was disposed of at some price, however. There was also a quantity of shaky lilac in the wholesale houses, which did not find sale. Lilies were good and the supply was not up to the demand.

The week after Easter was rather a peculiar one and trade was good until the storm put us out of business. The railroads were tied up the latter half of the week and shipping was out of the question, but the stock was all moved out at some price.

Taking the month as a whole, it was quite satisfactory, notwithstanding the loss during the flood week.

Various Notes.

J. W. Glenn, of Kittanning, Pa., was in the city and could not get home for two days. His store, which was in the flood district, contained about three feet of water.

Arthur Langhans, of Wheeling, W. Va., lives on the island and was flooded out of his home, but they are used to that there and do not mind it much.

Some southern daffodils have been sent in by parcel post, but this plan is not a success, as the boxes take up the dampness and get badly mashed.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. duck pin team again defeated the McCallum Co. team March 28. The score will be found under the head of Bowling, on another page. Next week they will try to defeat the J. B. Murdoch & Co. team.

George Marshall, of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., was away Saturday and Monday on account of the death of his grandfather, who died suddenly in his eighty-second year.

The warm season is bringing shrubbery along rapidly. Willows and lilacs are almost in leaf and the early varieties of magnolia are showing color.

All violet and Beauty shipments were delayed last week on account of the floods, being always a day late in coming in. Clarke.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

Cincinnati is flood-bound and absolutely shut off from other parts of the country by rail except to the south. Except from Knoxville, Tenn., and Maysville, Ky., there have been no flowers shipped into this market since March 24. Naturally, all local retail business in every line but necessities is practically at a standstill. The market was, for the most of last week, well supplied with everything needed, although had there been any really active demand stock would have run short.

Unless the water recedes so as to give the local wholesalers a chance to get their cut ferns out of storage across the river, or unless shipments of these come in from outside, there is danger of a fern famine in this market. Only one wholesale firm has ferns stored where they are accessible now.

Various Notes.

Wm. Speech is now a proud granddad. His daughter, Mrs. Ehlen, gave birth to a baby boy March 24.

C. E. Critchell has been having a nice supply of home-grown lilies.

During the flood the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange is accommodating the office force of a large wholesale grocery concern whose establishment is in water. Last week the Exchange had from Bloomsbury Floral Co., at Lockland, and Hyde Park Rose Co. the great bulk of the roses that were available for use in this city.

Wm. Gardner came down from New Castle March 24 and has been unable to return. He has, however, managed to get in touch with the greenhouses there and says they are shipping to Indiana points from New Castle. None of P. J. Olinger's stock had, up to the beginning of this week, arrived for an entire week.

E. G. Gillett's only shipments from Monday until Saturday were from Maysville, Ky.

L. H. Kyrk says that he has received word from his out-of-town consignors to the effect that as soon as the railroads are open again his stock will arrive regularly. C. H. H.

DAYTON, O.

[The news-letter of which the following is a small part was post-marked in Dayton March 24, but it did not reach The Review until April 2. It contained no word of threatening floods.]

It can hardly be said of the Easter trade that it was a great improvement over that of last year, for last year's trade was exceptionally good; but it can be said that this year's business was every bit as good as last year's. The first part of the week was rather quiet, but as the end of the week came the demand increased rapidly, until on Saturday it was all the florists could do to manage the crowds of customers.

Consequently everything cleaned up nicely.

Gussie Ehlenbach, who was in Athens, O., returned to Dayton in time to help out with the Easter rush. Mr. Ehlenbach brought back with him Mrs. Gussie Ehlenbach, who was formerly Miss Mabel Hill, of Athens. The young couple were married at the home of the bride's parents March 15.

Mrs. Joseph Bittner and son, Eugene, left March 18 for Santa Barbara, Cal., where she will join Mr. Bittner, who went there last September. Mr. Bittner was formerly associated with the Miami Floral Co.

E. E. Schaefer tells us that he has recently incorporated, with a capital stock of $10,000. The firm will continue under the firm name of the Advance Floral Co.

W. G. Matthews, of the Dayton Floral Co., has been quite ill with the grip, but owing to the Easter rush, would not give up to go to bed.

R. A. L.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

The Market.

Weather conditions during the last week have been more like December than March. Nevertheless business has been exceptionally good, all flowering plants having been entirely cleaned out. Violets continue to sell well. Bulbous stock is not so plentiful, but choice roses and carnations are arriving in quantity. Sweet peas also are selling well.

Various Notes.

Andrew McCrea is back at his store. He reports his Easter trade away ahead of last year.

Alfred Osterman reports funeral work exceptionally heavy last week.

The Elm City Nursery Co. has commenced digging and shipping orders. Several carloads of stock have been shipped this week, one carload going to Plainville, Conn., where the firm is executing extensive alterations in one of the parks.

John N. Champion & Co. are still conducting their branch store, where they are doing good business. At their Chapel street store they had a large amount of funeral work, six pieces being shipped out of town March 30.

"Not enough to go around," was Alfred Nyren's complaint. His roses are in full crop and he has to cut close every day to fill his orders.

Jos. J. Sokol is busy getting his bedding stock in shape. He recently has potted over 25,000 geraniums for his Decoration day trade.

Charles Munro executed a unique decoration in the lobby of Hotel Taft, where he arranged a typical farmyard scene, with live chickens and ducks. The center was neatly turfed, with little houses for the ducks and chickens, and banked on either side with rhododendrons, genistas, roses and spiræas, most attractively set up, the reproduction making a hit with Easter visitors. He filled a large funeral order March 30 for the late Mrs. Geo. B. Clark, Milford, Conn. He had charge of the decorations for the Assembly of the New Haven Lawn Club April 1.

The New Haven County Horticultural Society held its meeting March 26, with President Howard P. Brooks in the chair. The meeting was poorly attended. The secretary read a letter from Edward Jenkins, of Lenox, Mass., regretting his inability to be present. However, the members took up and discussed Mr. Jenkins' subject, "Seed Germination."

John Siebold reports splendid Easter trade, his stock of choice carnations, violets and sweet peas being entirely cleaned up.

S. H. Moore had large orders as well as decorations for the Knights of St. Patrick's dance, which was held at Hotel Taft. The decorations were composed chiefly of orchids, gardenias and sweet peas. He also had charge of the decorations at the Lambert-Irons wedding. Here he used palms, sweet peas and orchids. He reports having had a big demand for flowering plants and the usual large amount of funeral work.

Henry W. Barnett, on Kimberly avenue, specializes geraniums in a few choice varieties, especially notable among them being W. Cleary, scarlet; Wm. Ewing, salmon pink, and a fine seedling white. M. B. F.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

All of the local florists are well satisfied with the volume of their Easter business. The demand for cut flowers and plants far exceeded that of last year and most of the stores and market stalls cleaned up well.

While delivering Easter packages a chauffeur in the employ of Z. D. Blackstone collided with a boy riding a bicycle, inflicting injuries which necessitated the removal of the latter to a hospital. C. L. L.

MARION, IND.

At the Soldiers' Home, Robert McKeand has his stock in splendid shape and the prospect for spring planting is above the average.

C. F. Wilson, of Tenth and Gallatin streets, and Mr. Rudical, of the Maple Heights Greenhouses, report their Easter trade satisfactory, in view of prevailing weather conditions.

Accumulated stock here is cleaning up nicely. Bedding stock is in excellent shape. L. S.

OBITUARY.

Theresia Paasch.

For a quarter of a century one of Chicago's well known florists, Theresia Paasch, wife of Christian Paasch, died quite suddenly March 27. The funeral was held Sunday, March 30, from the home of a daughter, 1950 Roscoe boulevard, Chicago, and was largely attended. There were many flowers.

Theresia Paasch was 52 years of age. She was born at Vornditt, Germany, where she married, coming to America with her husband in 1885, twenty-eight years ago. They soon started a flower store at what is now 1643 North Halsted street in Chicago, where they were in business for over twenty-five years, the firm becoming Paasch & Szerlinsky. The business was sold February 1, 1911, to John Steinmetz, a former employee of the W. W. Barnard Co., who is carrying it on with increasing success. The Paaschs also had a store for some years on Clybourn avenue and once had greenhouses at May street and Lincoln avenue. Mrs. Paasch for years was the buyer, visiting the Chicago wholesale houses. She leaves, with her husband, two daughters and two grandsons.

William Haerle.

William Haerle, proprietor of the El Reah Greenhouses, at Hollywood, Cal., died at the Clara Barton hospital March 23, following an operation for hernia. He was the son of a well known dry goods merchant of Indianapolis, Ind., and started in the flower business only a few years ago. He bought some dilapidated old houses that had been used for growing pines, and replaced them with modern glass on a fine piece of property in Hollywood. Of late he had grown roses only. For a year or two he went into orchid growing for cut flowers and also to some extent into the growing of lilies, azaleas and other market plants.

Mr. Haerle always had courage enough to go ahead with anything he undertook, and he grew good stock in small quantities that always found a ready market. Good-natured to a fault, he had hosts of friends and his death on Easter Sunday cast a gloom over all. The sympathy of all is with Mrs. Haerle, who had always been a most devoted helpmate and had stood by her late husband through sickness and every other trouble. The funeral took place March 27 and was attended by a large number of friends. Mrs. Haerle, it is said, intends to carry on the business at Hollywood. H. R. R.

George Rosmarin.

George Rosmarin, a pioneer florist of Alameda, Cal., died at his residence in that city on the morning of March 26, at the age of 73 years. Death was due to a general breakdown and was probably hastened by sorrow over the death of his wife, who passed away three months ago. The deceased florist had been a resident and business man of Alameda for forty-two years, having during that time conducted a large nursery and flower establishment on Bay street, near Encinal avenue. He came to Alameda from San Mateo county, where he settled forty-five years ago, coming to California from Germany, his birthplace. He was one of the earliest residents of California to devote his attention to the growing of plants and flowers commercially, and his Alameda nurseries supplied many of the floral effects seen in San Francisco some years ago. Since the great fire in San Francisco, he had gradually curtailed his business enterprises and for the last two years he had not been actively engaged in directing his nursery interests. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harry Rasmussen, of San Francisco, and Mrs. James Fegan, of Belvedere. The funeral, held March 28, was largely attended by the gardening fraternity of the vicinity. G.

Mrs. J. W. Arnold.

Mrs. J. W. Arnold, of the firm of J. W. & E. E. Arnold, at Omaha, Neb., died March 26, in her sixty-sixth year, at her residence, 1418 North Eighteenth street. She had been a resident of Omaha for forty-five years and was always prominent as a florist. Her husband died a number of years ago. She is survived by a son, Warren Arnold, of Denver, and three daughters, Mrs. E. W. Dowdall, Mrs. L. L. Raber and Mildred Arnold, all of Omaha.

Alexander Innes.

Alexander Innes, aged 36, formerly of Innes & McRae, Cheswick, Pa., died of pneumonia at his home in New Kensington, Pa. The funeral was held from the residence of Mrs. McRae in Cheswick.

Albert C. Luther.

Albert C. Luther, one of the oldest gardeners in the state of Rhode Island, died at his home in Bristol, March 11, as a result of a shock brought on by a bad fall sustained the previous week. He was born at Warren, R. I., August 10, 1830. He is survived by three sons and two daughters.

Otis P. Chapman, Jr.

Otis Pendleton Chapman, Jr., who had been in failing health for the last two years, died March 24, at his home in Westerly, R. I., in his thirty-eighth year. He was born in Westerly, and, after completing his public school course, served as a clerk in the grocery business, studying and growing dahlias as a side line. Several years ago he devoted his entire time to the dahlia business and established the Hillcrest Dahlia Gardens. He became one of the best known growers and dealers in New England. Mr. Chapman was of an industrious nature, of genial disposition and had a great many friends. He had a faithful helpmate in his wife, Mrs. Mabel Vose Chapman, who was his almost constant companion and who took an active interest in the conduct of the business in which Mr. Chapman was so successfully engaged. Besides his widow, Mr. Chapman is survived by his parents and a brother. W. H. M.

Alexander Broadfoot.

Alexander D. Broadfoot, 61 years of age, a well known landscape gardener of Washington, D. C., died recently in the Providence hospital, after an illness of six months, of a complication of diseases. He was born in Dumfries, Scotland, and came to Washington when quite young. In the early seventies he obtained employment in the Botanical Gardens, later going to the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings. He was instrumental in making many of the local parks spots of beauty and was devoted to his work. He was a friend of the late William B. Smith and was well known to many connected with the trade, who deeply regret his death. He is survived by a son, John F. Broadfoot.

C. L. L.

Joseph Bancroft.

Joseph Bancroft, founder of the firm of Joseph Bancroft & Son, Cedar Falls, Ia., died March 15, at the age of 86 years. For several years his health had been failing, and during the last few months he had needed a constant attendant.

He was born in England and married there in 1851, coming to America soon after in the slow sailing vessel, De Witt Clinton, which was making its initial trip and took six weeks to cross the Atlantic. He located first in Ohio, but in 1855 made the overland journey to Cedar Falls with his wife and two small children. He endured the hardships of pioneer life and bravely did his part toward the advancement of civilization. He always followed the trade of florist and as his business increased he associated with him his younger son, George, under the firm name of Bancroft & Son.

Mr. Bancroft took particular pride in his affiliation with the Blackhawk County Old Settlers' Association and proudly wore the badge with its date of 1855. The children who survive are two daughters and two sons, all residents of Cedar Falls, Mrs. Eliza Knickerbocker and Mrs. Mary B. Ford, J. W. Bancroft and George H. Bancroft, and there are five grandchildren, Will and Mark Ford, Harold and Tim, sons of John W. Bancroft, and the little daughter of George Bancroft.

Carl E. Glenn.

Carl E. Glenn, secretary of the American Rose & Plant Co., in Springfield, O., died suddenly in the afternoon of March 20, just after having stepped from the office into the greenhouse. He fell to the floor and was dead before any of the employees reached his side. His death was due to apoplexy. Mr. Glenn was a widower and roomed on Grand avenue. He had lived in Springfield for a number of years. Though only 28 years old at the time of his death, he had worked his way up from the position of a laborer to that of secretary of the concern. He was a member of the K. of P. lodge. The funeral was held from the residence of his brother-in-law, C. R. Malowney, 367 East Madison avenue. Burial was in Ferncliff cemetery.

Frank Williams.

Frank Williams, the proprietor of the Atlas Floral Co., Chicago, died March 30 in a sanitarium at Kenilworth, where he had been for many months. The funeral will be held Thursday, April 3, with interment at Oakwoods.

The deceased was born in Greece and was 45 years of age. Coming to America and Chicago while a young man, he adopted an American name and entered the flower trade, practically his whole life having been spent in retailing flowers to the Chicago public. From a humble beginning he worked up a large business, prior to his illness being a partner in the Alpha Floral Co. and interested in other business ventures. The management of the Atlas Floral Co. never occupied much of his time, being in the capable hands of Mrs.

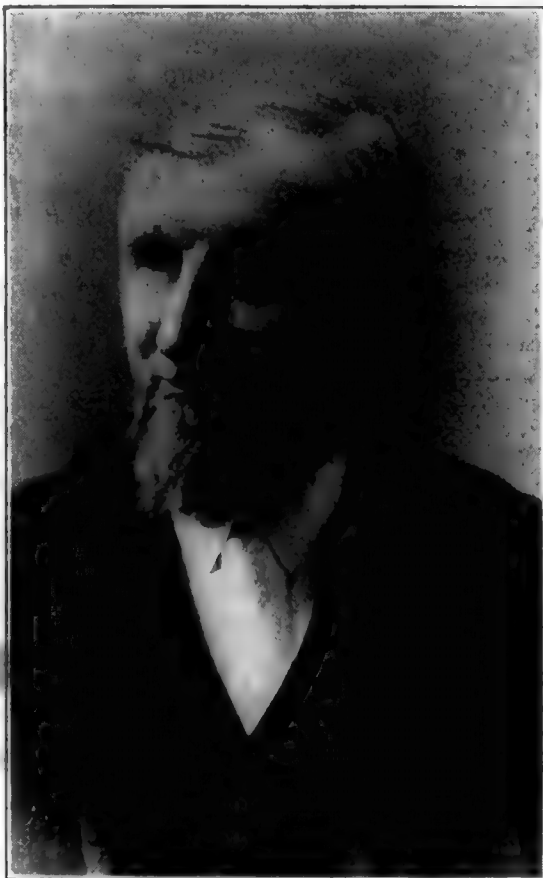

Williams, who survives. There were no children.

Frank Banning.

The man who claimed the credit for having raised Gladiolus America, Frank Banning, of Kinsman, O., died March 17 as a result of a stroke of paralysis. He was 55 years of age and had been in poor health for a long time, not being active in the business. It was from Mr. Banning that John Lewis Childs, of Floral Park, N. Y., acquired the stock of Gladiolus America, which he subsequently introduced. Other varieties of note following America were Panama and Niagara, which have recently made some stir in the trade.

Francis Brill.

Francis Brill, widely known in the trade as the pioneer of the cabbage seed industry of Long Island, died in the Hempstead Sanatorium, at Hempstead, L. I., March 24, at the age of 76 years. In his youth he was employed in the old Bridgeman seed store, at Broadway and Eighteenth street. In 1859 he began business for himself as a seed grower at Newark, N. J. In 1870 he removed to Suffolk county, L. I. In 1887 he established his headquarters at Hempstead, where he continued in active business until less than a year ago. He was prominent in politics and had represented Suffolk county in the Assembly. He is survived by his wife, one son and four daughters.

Joseph Bancroft.

Miss Jane Eadie.

Miss Jane Eadie, who had been in the florists' business at Cleveland for thirty-five years, died March 29. She started with her father, in what was then called Jas. Eadie, Florist. Five years ago the firm name was changed to the Jas. Eadie Co., and conducted by Miss Jane Eadie at the store and by James Eadie, her brother and son of the founder, at the greenhouses. The funeral services were held April 1, at Wade Memorial.

A. J. Thompson.

The trade in general will learn with regret of the death of A. J. Thompson, of 757 Campbell avenue, West Haven, Conn., of pneumonia, following an illness of two weeks. Mr. Thompson was well known in the trade, having been in business for many years. Funeral services were held at the residence, March 31, many beautiful floral tributes being silent tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

...NEWS NOTES...

Allentown, Pa.—Ernest Ashley has opened an additional store at 943 Hamilton street, with Mrs. Ashley in charge.

La Grange, Ill.—The La Grange Floral & Seed Co. is now well established in its tasteful new store, at 9 South Fifth avenue.

Lisbon, O.—John W. Scott, the West Walnut street florist, has been appointed a member of the city council, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert Johnson.

Vevay, Ind.—The greenhouse formerly owned and operated by Mrs. Charles Peters has been purchased by Wm. O. Jaynes, who will add it to his greenhouses in the upper end of town.

Denver, Colo.—The park board, headed by President McBeth, is considering the proposition of tearing down the old greenhouse at City park and erecting a range of houses that will cost approximately $40,000.

New Iberia, La.—Louis Buchner, until recently associated with Henry Kraak in the Nashville Avenue Rose Garden, New Orleans, has started in business here as florist and landscape gardener. The firm of Buchner & Kraak has been dissolved.

Creston, Ia.—Carl Gehrecke, of the Creston Greenhouses, who began business here last summer, is building one more house, to be used for roses, and is making other important improvements. He has already made good progress in establishing a trade.

Mitchell, S. D.—W. T. March, general manager for The Newburys, recently spent some time in Aberdeen, S. D., looking after some contemplated improvements on the Normal campus, aiding in the plans for the beautifying of certain new additions to the town and attending to other important landscape work.

Baltimore, Md.—John Cook and his wife and daughter, Miss Belle Cook, have returned to their home in this city, after having spent the winter at Miami, Fla. It is said that Mr. Cook has seven new roses which he will enter in competition with the floriculturists of this country and Europe for a prize of $1,000 to be offered by the city of San Diego, Cal., and also a silver loving cup valued at $1,000, to be offered in the Panama-California Exposition rose contest to be conducted as part of the floricultural department of the exposition in 1915.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

NEXT year Easter falls April 12, three weeks later than in 1913.

NEARLY a page of classified ads intended for last week's issue of The Review arrived from twenty-four hours to three days too late because of the floods.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

THE consensus of opinion is that the early date of Easter did not hurt the trade a bit—stock was ready and sold well—while it clears the way for a long and prosperous spring season.

FLORISTS in general, but retailers in particular, have not got on to the fact that they can get special delivery for a parcel post shipment by affixing the ordinary special delivery stamps used on letters. The postoffice gives special delivery parcels the same service that is given special delivery letters.

ONE of the unexpected immediate results of the big wind at Omaha has been a demand for tornado insurance on greenhouses. In cases where negotiations were in progress for raising money on mortgage to build additional glass, the lenders have this week refused to proceed unless tornado insurance was taken out by the borrower.

AN early Easter is all right; what we want no more of is the weather conditions that accompanied the earliest Easter in fifty-seven years. Fortunately, it will be ninety-five years before the florists' big day again falls so early—let us all hope that never again will it be made memorable by such storms as swept the middle west last week.

As an instance of what the floods last week did to communication, The Review received on Friday a telegram sent from New York on Monday. News letters mailed in Louisville, Cincinnati and Columbus on Monday were delivered in Chicago Saturday; those from Nashville and Washington arrived Friday, while Pittsburgh got in Thursday.

EMIL BUETTNER, of Park Ridge, Ill., has a theory that greenhouses are not crushed in a wind storm, but that they "explode" because of air pressure within. The truth of this is fairly well accepted insofar as it relates to whirling storms, which create a vacuum, and he believes it applies to other wind storms as well. When a big wind is seen to be coming, everybody closes up tight. Mr. Buettner says he would like to see the correctness of his theory demonstrated by some grower with the courage to throw his ventilators wide open on the approach of such a storm, but confesses he is not yet prepared to try it on his own place.

MOSTLY EASTERN.

One of the interesting things is the increasing percentage of eastern florists who like The Review so well they add a few words to their remittance letters. For instance, though three coasts are represented in the batch below, the majority are from subscribers in the extreme east:

The one insertion, costing $1, sold the refrigerator.—H. D. Mann Co., Syracuse, N. Y., March 25, 1913.

We think The Review is worth its weight in gold (Look out! Each Review weighs nearly a pound.—Ed.) and we would not do without it at any price. This is our first year. We started with one house, but with the aid of the paper we will be able to build two more this summer.—Chris Maier & Bro., Natchez, Miss., March 18, 1913.

Words of praise are due you for the excellent paper you publish. We get good out of every issue, especially new ideas.—Lanier Bros., San Diego, Cal.

We have used your Classified Ads and found them to bring the orders, with checks inclosed, by return mail.—James J. Bates, Akron, N. Y., March 19, 1913.

Enclosed find renewal; no use trying to keep house without it.—Arthur J. Roebuck, Winchendon, Mass., March 24, 1913.

I am a milliner as well as proprietor of a flower store and would willingly give $12 a year for a paper that would help in the millinery line the way The Review helps all florists.—Mrs. A. E. Newell, Houlton, Me., March 24, 1913.

"The way The Review helps all florists" brings to mind the story of the Scotch blacksmith, who seemed to have dominated the particular rural field in which he had won an enviable fame for his work. "They do say you shoe horses better than anybody the state wide," said a chance customer. "You must get all the horseshoeing there is about these parts." The canny 'smith shook his head sadly. "Nae, sur," he said, "there bae twenty or mare min who canna stand me rid hair an' me rid timper."

Here and there there still is a florist who don't want to be helped.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Conditions on the local market have not improved since the last report. With roses, carnations and miscellaneous stock in oversupply, prices have hit a lower mark than at any time since the first of the year. In addition to the large crops that are now being cut, the floods have cut heavily into the shipping business and many channels of outlet have been cut off for almost a week. At present conditions in this respect are becoming better with each passing day, with the possible exception of the southern territory, where the railroads and express companies have not yet reestablished means of transportation. Up until April 1 few shipments could be made to points east that had to be reached through the flooded districts of Indiana and Ohio. In some cases it was possible to get shipments to points desired by roundabout routings, but these were uncertain and losses of consignments were frequent. In other cases the local wholesalers, in their efforts to get shipments through, would find that the boxes would be returned the next day by the express companies, with the word that there was no way possible to make the delivery. These and other incidents of a like nature disrupted the local market and city buying was of little use in disposing of the oversupply.

Prices have become especially weak on American Beauties, which are now in heavy supply and are to be moved

BEAUTIES

Quality that will Revive your Beauty Business

Have your Beauty customers dropped away because you could not get the grade of stock they required? Well, just send them word that Beauties are good again, and show them ours. All lengths, and, incidentally, prices are at a point that lets you make a good profit--it will pay to push our Beauties now.

ROSES

It is a fact you easily can prove that, length for length, our Roses carry larger and finer heads than any others on this market. We ask retailers to order freely of our Killarney, White Killarney and Mrs. Ward, for we are certain that these roses will win friends for us by making friends for those who buy of us. Mrs. Ward is in full crop and a splendid seller. Remember we have a full line:

Killarney, White Killarney, Ward, Richmond, Radlance, Sunburst, Bulgarie (Mrs. Taft).

SWEET PEAS

This is the time of year when you can do a fine corsage business with our fancy, long-stemmed sweet peas. We have long-stemmed sweet peas in very large quantity--can fill orders for thousands. The longest stemmed, brightest colored, special fancy Blanche Ferry and the new winter-blooming Spencer. Others will have Spencers in May--here they are in quantity in April. You can't get them anywhere else. We are the only source of supply in this market, so why not order direct?

CARNATIONS

We believe we are receiving better average prices for our Carnations than are being received by any other house in this market for the simple reason that our stock grades highest--few low grade carnations here. And the buyers have found that it's not what you pay but what you get that determines value. We give value. The more you think about it the more certain you are to order of us.

Long-stemmed Beauties

At no time this year has our stock of long-stemmed Beauties been so fine as it is right now, and enough to supply any emergency.

Killarneys, Richmonds, White Killarneys—These are not the ordinary kind, but the kind that spells satisfaction to your customers. Largest buds, any length of stem.

CARNATIONS are in good supply—all colors and of the highest quality anyone could desire. Also SWEET PEAS, IRIS, SNAPDRAGON, GREENS. All Seasonable flowers.

only by the best of efforts. Long-stemmed Beauties are unusually plentiful and the medium and short lengths are not short of the demand, although it is easier to move the shorter ones than the extra long. Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond and other roses are also in big supply and in most houses the quality is as good as could be desired. In carnations the same holds true, and only the white are moving well. There are plenty of good pink and red, but as yet it can hardly be said that the wholesalers are able to move them without sacrifice. In miscellaneous stock the supply is heavy. Tulips are especially difficult to sell at fair prices. Jonquils and daffodils appear to be moving better than the other bulbous stock, but are not so popular that they are commanding any better than a fair price. Valley has found better sale in the last week, with the increased number of weddings. Sweet peas are in big supply and only the best are bringing anything good in the way of returns. Lilies and, in fact, all flowers in season at this time of the year are far in excess of the demand. Double violets are poor and nearing the end of their season; singles are better. Stocks are a problem; several houses have large receipts of both single and double and find it difficult to get anything like usual prices. Catleyas are a little more plentiful, but not in oversupply.

Association Meeting.

At the meeting of the Cook County Florists' Association March 27 the principal business was the installation of officers, most of whom were re-elected to serve another year. The slate is as follows: President, A. H. Kohlbrand; vice-president, Allie Zech; secretary, A. T. Pyfer; treasurer, John Zech; sergeant-at-arms, M. Fink; trustees, Walter Scott, E. C. Amling, H. N. Bruns, A. Henderson and W. J. Keimel.

Following the installation ceremony, President Kohlbrand appointed the following standing committees:

Good of the Club—Walter Scott, chairman; E. C. Amling, H. N. Bruns, Alex Henderson, W. J. Keimel.

Membership—Geo. Wienhoeber, chairman; Wm. Collatz, Ed. Armstrong, Phil Brodbeck, James Curran.

Transportation—A. Miller, chairman; A. T. Pyfer, N. P. Miller.

Sports and Pastimes—A. J. Zech, chairman; Wm. Graff, A. Miller, Otto Goerisch, John Heubner, Edw. Schultz.

The report of the trustees showed a balance of $377.99. An amendment to the by-laws was proposed to limit the tenure of president and vice-president to one term. There was discussion of publicity for the florists' business and on motion a committee was appointed, Peter Pearson being named as chairman. The association donated $25 to the flood relief fund, and a general subscription raised the amount to $101.60.

Henry Luebbe, Everett R. Peacock and E. F. Kurowski were elected to membership. Applications were received from D. Papatony, Frederick Chas. Price, Peter Tremules and Geo. Wieter.

A. C. Zvolanek, who originated the winter-blooming sweet peas, was present and gave an interesting talk on his specialty. Herman Wehrman, of Maywood, made an interesting exhibit of winter-blooming Spencers, grown from Mr. Zvolanek's seed.

Various Notes.

Chicago will not be largely represented at the National Flower Show in New York next week. Among those who will go are W. N. Rudd and wife, A. F. Poehlmann, Emil Buettner, Mrs. Buettner and their two daughters, J. C. Vaughan and George Asmus. All these will go on the 5:30 Lake Shore train April 4. H. B. Howard will go on an earlier train. Fred Lautenschlager has already gone. With the party will be H. B. Dorner, of Urbana, and C. C. Pollworth and wife, of Milwaukee. Either Peter Olsem or A. T. Pyfer may go for carnation day, with an exhibit of the Chicago Carnation Co., and doubtless several others will find they are unable to resist the attractions of the big show.

The death of Mrs. Paasch is reported in this week's obituary column.

E. Goetsch, once employed by the Geo. Wittbold Co., is here from Minneapolis for a week's visit. He is with the L. S. Donaldson Co.

Frank Johnson, sales manager for the A. L. Randall Co., returned March 29 from New York, after having seen A. L. Randall off for Europe. March 30 Carl Thomas returned to his farm at West Springfield, Pa.

Winterson's Seed Store received a carload of boxwood plants last week, which are moving out rapidly.

The meeting of the trades committee to close up 1912 convention affairs did not materialize last week. Treasurer N. J. Wieter was at the trysting place, but no one else appeared.

Tim Matchen reports that Peter Reinberg replanted several houses of roses last week, an unusually early date.

O. Johnson says that spring has arrived in earnest at Batavia. One can see it in the increase in cut as well as feel it in the atmosphere.

Paul Blome has installed a new Buchbinder refrigerator done in white, which adds greatly to the appearance of his Clark street store and affords improved display for cut flowers.

The Bohannon Floral Co. had an unusually heavy run on corsages March 29, and the store force had about all it could do to turn out the orders.

Incorporation papers have been taken out by David J. Haskins, John W. Harris and Frank Amberg under the name of the Haskins Floral Co., with capital stock of $25,000. The company has purchased the property of Reid & Chambers at Elmhurst, Ill., and expects to add considerable glass with the view of shipping extensively to the Chicago wholesale market. No plans have been announced as to what stock will be grown or the amount of glass to be erected.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., who are forehanded, carry two carloads of glass, about 800 boxes, in storage at the greenhouses. It was bought when the market was especially low and is looked on as a cheap form of insurance against loss following a storm.

has been nursing a bad case of blood poison that has affected two fingers on his right hand. The infection was the result of the Easter rush, when Mr. Klingel pitched in to help out in the packing of roses.

John F. Kidwell, president of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, says the damage done a week ago to the Wellworth Farm greenhouses was confined to the three houses that were wrecked. Quick repairs made it possible to save the stock in the other houses, while the stock of Killarneys in the three demolished houses was partly saved by lifting the plants and putting them in the undamaged range.

L. Baumann & Co. report a record-breaking business for Easter, which has kept the entire staff working nights for weeks. May 1 they will take over the building on the east of its present quarters, purchased some time ago, making a total of 34,000 square feet devoted to the manufacturing of artificial flowers, etc. F. H. Gelderman says that he is holding orders for Dayton, Columbus, Zanesville, Cincinnati and Marietta, O., until he hears from his customers in the flooded districts.

The Geo. Wittbold establishment suffered comparatively small loss in the storm March 23. About ten boxes of glass had to be replaced. At the end of one house a hole was made in the roof as if a giant hand had reached down and torn a section out.

W. H. Pontius, vice-president and secretary of the Superior Machine and Boiler Works, is again at his desk after a short illness.

The American Importing Co. has opened a branch office in Los Angeles, Cal., and will open a New York branch about April 15.

B. Abrahamson, florist at 915 Blue Island avenue, will move into the new building, erected by him next to his present quarters, about the middle of April.

Fred Munzing, who has been with Frank Oechslin for the last seven years, has bought the North Edgewater Floral Co. He says he will continue the business under the same name, wholesale and retail.

Hoerber Bros. were able to save all of the stock with the exception of the two houses that were wrecked by last week's storm. Over a car of glass was needed to repair the damage done by the storm. From the quantity of stock coming in at the store one

The Market.

Ideal weather at Easter served to increase the volume of business and facilitate deliveries. Without exception the florists here report their Easter business to have been good. Killarney roses in pink and white were plentiful. Red roses of all kinds were scarce and Beauties were out of the question entirely. Fortunately, there was little demand for them. Taft roses brought a big price, but there were few to be had. The supply of Mrs. Aaron Ward roses was short. The carnation crop was short, but the supply is increasing daily. Violets are beginning to thin out and the quality is inferior. English primroses are in demand for corsage purposes, and sell well to take the place of violets. Bulbous stock, such as daffodils, Narcissus poeticus, tulips and hyacinths, were plentiful. Hydrangeas were scarce. White lilacs did not sell well this year. Ramblers, such as Taft, Jessie, Dorothy Perkins and Tausendschon, were good sellers and brought good prices. Easter lilies were scarce and nearly every florist was sold out by 3 o'clock on the Saturday preceding Easter. Spiræas went well and rhododendrons kept moving.

Various Notes.

E. B. Beals' Easter trade was considerably better than last year. Cinerarias and cyclamens sold best of all his plants. His Easter lilies were exhausted by Friday.

T. F. Sheehan is displaying an attractive new sign, which may be seen from Main street. His Easter business was good, his supply of plants being exhausted.

J. W. Adams & Co. are supplying the trade in this vicinity with good formal box trees, both standards and pyramids.

Meacham & Hassell report their Easter business as having been brisk. They have a large stock of jardinières.

The Flower Mart, on Main street, was open for business during Easter week, and trade was excellent.

Osterman & Steele had Scotch heather of good quality and potted valley, which sold well. They arranged a number of church decorations and had to employ extra help.

Wm. Schlatter & Son report as large business as last year during the spring rush.

Nelson F. Higgins had a good Easter trade. He furnished the table decorations for a luncheon given in honor of Vice-President Marshall at the Nyasett Club on Easter Sunday. Mr. Higgins says his Easter violets were poor this year.

Several of the department stores handled Easter plants this year. Street fakers sold daffodils and violets.

F. J. Sullivan & Co. had an annex on Worthington street for their Easter business, which was good.

Henry Merrill, of Houston, Tex., well

..ANNOUNCEMENT..

THE cyclone of Easter Sunday, March 23d, destroyed our new greenhouses at Lake Manawa but the large greenhouse place on East Pierce Street was unharmed. This place has several very fine crops of American Beauties, Roses, Carnations, Violets, etc., besides a fine collection of blooming plants. We are therefore in readiness to promptly fill your orders as heretofore, and will indeed appreciate your patronage.

Easter was unusually favorable. The days were all fair and shoppers could get out to their hearts' content, and they did it. There has probably never been as big a day for the retail cut flower trade as was March 22. All the week sales had been good, but Saturday had a regular rush of buyers all day long. We have never seen so much good stock at one time in the city as there was this year and we never saw things clean up better than they did for Easter. Several report a heavier trade this Easter than at Christmas.

McIntyre Bros. suffered considerable loss from the storm that swept the country March 20. Several of their new houses were partly unroofed. The damage was temporarily repaired and the loss is fully covered by insurance.

J. F. Corbett, who is conducting a nice little local business in North Nashville, will have a fine line of bedding plants ready soon.
F. B.

Vancouver, B. C.—James Tyler, formerly of Jamestown, N. Y., and located here, reports conditions here as not favorable to the trade, carnations and roses being especially poor owing to absence of bright weather in winter. Wages are higher, he says, and living is proportionately higher. He adds that a large number of Japanese and Chinese are employed in that section and along the coast.

"May Flowering and Darwin Tulips" was the subject of an excellent address by H. Van Teylingen, of Hillegom, Holland, before the Florists' Club April 1. Charles E. The Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y., exhibited a fine vase of the white carnation, Matchless.

Floral Economies.

The Dickerson estate of sixty-nine acres, at North Wales, Pa., was purchased March 24 by the company which operates the Florex Gardens. The newly acquired property includes farm and woodland lying along the upper valley of the Wissahickon and is next to the land of the Florex Gardens. The new farm will be used as a dairy farm and will be called Wissahickon Manor. Raymond L. Mayhew, an expert dairy farmer, will be in charge. Mr. Mayhew was a successful New Jersey farmer, but has sold his farm. He will be associated with the Florex Gardens, operating the farm and dairy in connection with the greenhouses. Mr. Mayhew will have fifty cows and a modern dairy under his charge when the plans are carried out. It is well known that the Florex Gardens are owned and operated by a company consisting of D. Fuerstenberg, Eugene Bernheimer and Henry C. Geiger. The purchase of Wissahickon Manor carries into effect one of Mr. Fuerstenberg's plans of floral economies, thought about many years ago. There are two advantages in operating a dairy with greenhouses: First, the manure so necessary and often so hard to obtain; second, the hauling. The period of midsummer dullness is to be utilized for hauling coal. Two double teams, it is thought, will be sufficient for this farm. There will, it is believed, be little work for them in July and August, so that the heavy bills for hauling coal can thus be eliminated.

A Trip to Torresdale.

A trip to Torresdale is worth while if you are interested in the culture of violets, for there is the place where they are grown to perfection. R. M. Eisenhart started in the violet business some thirty odd years ago, and his place shows what can be done if you make up your mind to do it and do it right. There are eleven houses, comprising in all about 25,000 square feet of glass. They are planted with 30,000 Princess of Wales, 10,000 Luxonne and 10,000 Lady Campbell. All have done well this season. This will be a short season for violets, due to the warm winter, which starts leaf growth and stops their blooming. The Easter crop was short this year, as quite a number of the growers had thrown their plants out.

The sweet pea is another flower of which Mr. Eisenhart makes a specialty. The peas are planted between the rows of violets late in the fall, and at the time of my visit were showing color and would soon be in full crop. The earlier peas, such as Christmas Pink and Snow Drift, are followed by a later planting of the Spencer varieties, which are brought into flower in time for the June weddings, when they are much in demand.

The old style of making cuttings has given way to a more modern idea. Instead of taking runners with a few roots, that can be potted up immediately, the crowns are selected carefully and put in sand in a propagating bench, where they remain until rooted, when they are potted up and placed in one of the houses until the time comes for planting them in the field. They are then planted in rows and are cultivated frequently, to keep them growing. Mr. Eisenhart does not believe in watering in the field until it is necessary, for if once started it must be kept up, or they will get a setback from which they will never recover and will not produce as good flowers as those which are kept growing. Another good idea that was noticed was a board running along the back of the houses, forming a shelf. This was filled with violet plants in pots. This gives an extra row of plants to the house and also enables the grower to get an early crop, as they soon become root-bound and flower before those planted in the benches.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Since Easter business has been only moderate. We have fortunately not been handicapped by the disastrous climatic conditions which have afflicted the middle west, although we have had wind and rain in abundance, but temperatures have averaged unusually high for March and the markets have more flowers than can be profitably turned over. Roses are decidedly soft and values have declined. For white roses the demand has been more robust than for colored. Rather more long-stemmed Beauties have appeared and they sell well. The newer varieties are, as usual, more in request than the older ones. Carnations have done quite well considering the warm weather. Gloriosa, Rosette, Pink Delight and White Wonder are the favorite quartette. The Enchantress varieties lag behind in the race. Single violets are rapidly running out and the present week will finish most of them. Doubles are still coming of good quality.

Demand for Easter lilies and callas is light. Ten weeks' stocks no one wants, and snapdragons are abundant. Sweet peas are popular. The long-stemmed stock nets good prices. There are fewer short-stemmed ones than a fortnight ago. Bulbous stock continues in rather unwieldy supply, but a shortening up is due this week. Quite a few Spanish iris are seen, also a few Gla-an interesting lecture on "Modern Nursery Methods," illustrated by many fine views. Mr. Robinson extended an invitation to the members to visit the nurseries about the middle of April, which was accepted. Wm. Downs, superintendent of the E. S. Webster estate at Chestnut Hill, gave a talk on "Care of Greenhouses," which was well received. Thos. J. Grey, formerly of the T. J. Grey Co., who lately joined the Breck sales force, was introduced and talked interestingly of many pleasant relationships enjoyed in the past with members of the concern and older employees. Breck's orchestra, John Russell leader, assisted by the glee club, gave excellent entertainment. The full orchestra, fourteen pieces, is to appear before the Florists' Club at an early date.

Various Notes.

The main topic of conversation now is the International Flower Show. The attendance from here will be large. Some of the exhibitors will leave April 4, and an additional number April 5, but the really big delegation will not start until Monday evening, April 7, when the carnationists will be out in force. Many will travel via the Colonial line of steamers from Providence, which has been chosen as the official line of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, but quite a few will take the all-rail route, which only occupies five hours.

The Boston Coöperative Flower Market has over $750 collected for the flower show to be held April 12. There are quite a number of silver cups, cut glass bowls and specials. A watch charm, donated by Julius H. Zinn, also is included. The committee in charge is planning to make this a first-class show.

Flood Hurts the Market.

Easter business was far ahead of last year. It was beyond expectation, considering the unfavorable weather. The greenhouses and shops had everything ready for the usual Good Friday rush, having worked overtime on Thursday night, but they reckoned without their host. When they awakened Friday morning, it was to hear the most terrific roar and rattle of glass that ever greeted a florist's ear here. The wind steadily increased until late in the afternoon, when its velocity was unusually high. Everyone was discouraged, the people being unable to get out to do shopping.

On Saturday we had bright sunshine and people felt like buying flowers after the storm of Friday. Everyone was on the jump all day. All kinds of blooming plants sold well, especially tulips and rose plants. There was not much call for azaleas. Violets sold well, as did daffodils, especially single colors. It was well that Saturday was a good day, because Sunday brought a steady downpour of rain all day and made it hard to deliver. As a consequence, there was considerable stock left over.

Various Notes.

John Barrows had a fine lot of tulips for Easter; in fact, the finest ever shown in Toledo.

Suder's had a fine showing of all kinds of plants and cleaned out well.

George Bayer & Son had an attractive lot of violets for Easter and are still picking heavily.

Business has been dull since Easter, perhaps due to the flooded condition of Ohio. H. L. P.

Reports of storm damage at Toledo will be found in the general story of the storm, printed elsewhere in this issue.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

 Gentlemen:

During the past year I paid you $18.20 for a half inch advertisement in the Retail Florists Department of The Review. I received through this small advertisement, from January 1, 1912, to December 31, 1912, orders to the amount of $566.00. They came by mail and telegraph from New York to San Francisco and from New Orleans to Minneapolis. Since I allowed the senders 20%, the record is as follows:

Total value of orders	$566.00
Less 20% allowed senders..	113.20
Net value of orders.....	452.80

Here is an addition of $452.80 in business which could not otherwise have been obtained and at an expense of only $18.20.

Since my advertisement appeared only in The Review it goes to show what the retail florists through the country lose if they do not use this medium of advertising. It also goes to show that The Review is not only there with a big "R" but that it has three more big "R's" - Readers - Reliability - Results!

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Business for the week following Easter was all that could be expected in all lines. Stock of all kinds is demanding a fair price. For the better grades of stock the prices are higher than usual at this time of the year. Pot plants are still in demand and have sold steadily since Easter. Bulbous stock is not so plentiful and is bringing a good price, so growers have all their stock sold out. Carnations are not plentiful, but those on the market are fine and seem to go fast. Roses are showing better color and the quality has improved a great deal, but the shortage is still felt in this city. If the demand should become a little heavier, it will be hard work to get more. Sweet peas are much better, with longer stems and heavier flowers. The run of work this week was mostly funeral work.

Various Notes.

Henry Kusik & Co. have had a quiet week. They are handling a great deal of bulbous stock and carnations. Mr. Kusik is at Council Bluffs visiting Wilcox & Sons, from whom he has been getting heavy supplies of stock. Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports that carnations are scarce and Trade conditions last week were good, notwithstanding the storms the early part of the week. As to the supply at the different wholesale markets, we can safely say that everything is plentiful, and prices have gone down considerably. It looks as though we are in for a big glut, as the weather has turned clear and warm. This will put a stop to violets, which have already gone back as to quality. Californias are small, but the Mazzuras are keeping up well. Carnations have been plentiful and the price is down to $2 per hundred, or $15 per thousand.

All varieties are of extra fine quality,

Roses are also of the best quality, with the bulk of them of the Killarney variety, but there is also a fine cut of Richmond, Bride and Maid. Long Beauties are coming in better, with shorts quite plentiful. The markets are loaded with fancy tulips, Easter lilies, callas, valley, Romans and Paper Whites, with the demand rather slow in these. There is a scarcity in wild smilax, which is caused by the floods. Other greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Guy Reburn, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, spent last week in the city.

Dave Geddes, floral artist at Fred H. Weber's, will take in the National Flower Show, at New York, looking for new things.

The Ladies' Home Circle met at the residence of Mrs. Geo. B. Windler, March 26, though only a few braved the storm. The next meeting takes place at the home of Mrs. J. J. Beneke, April 9.

The Brix Floral Co., on St. Louis avenue, reports a large increase of Easter business, in both plants and cut flowers. Business kept up all through the week after Easter.

The trade extended sympathy last week to August Mirring, a well-known florist of East St. Louis, Ill., because of the loss of his wife, Mrs. Caroline Mirring, who died at the age of 36 years. She leaves her husband with seven children to mourn her loss. The funeral took place March 27.

The plant stands at Union Market opened March 22, and had a good trade for Easter, but the cold weather of last week closed them up again.

Anton C. Zvolanek, the sweet pea specialist, spent March 24 with the Kirkwood growers. He was taken in hand by Hugo Gross and escorted to all the growers in Kirkwood.

Sam A. Thompson, son of the late Wm. H. Thompson, millionaire banker, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Among the creditors was Thorley, of New York, for $531.80, and a few of our local florists for smaller sums.

The Retail Florists' Association held its postponed meeting March 26, at the Washington hotel. The big storm kept many from attending, only twelve being present. A banquet was held of the peas will be grown in Idaho and Montana this season.C. H. GREEN has added a new department to his greenhouse business at Fremont, Neb., and now specializes in seeds.

He has just issued a handsome and convenient twenty-page catalogue, devoted exclusively to the seed branch.ON the whole the March seed sales were satisfactory. From the states that were flooded there have been few mail orders since Easter, but the volume of mail from more favored sections has given the seedsmen's assistants all they wanted to do in rather more than a 10-hour day. Counter trade in the latter half of the month was strong throughout the Atlantic states, the frost having gone out of the ground as far north as Boston by March 17.JEFFERSON THOMAS, who has been vice-president and manager of the McFarland Publicity Service, Harrisburg, Pa., since its organization six years ago, has withdrawn to join the staff of an advertising agency. Mr. McFarland has placed the management in the hands ofHENRY METTE, Quedlinburg, Germany

SWEET PEAS IN CALIFORNIA.

"In all California this year there are not over 1,700 acres of sweet peas for seed, and of these from 1,000 to 1,200 are in the vicinity of Lompoc."

The speaker was A. C. Zvolanek, the originator of the winter-flowering sweet pea, whose original work was done at Bound Brook, N. J., but who a few years ago transferred his headquarters to Lompoc. Mr. Zvolanek was in Chicago last week on his way to the National Flower Show. He states that he now does practically no business with the seed trade, marketing his stock direct to florists, of whom he has about 4,000 customers, largely acquired as the result of advertising in The Review.

"When I left Lompoc March 20," said Mr. Zvolanek, "the sweet peas were considerably behind. A good many pieces had to be plowed under and replanted after the big freeze; it hit places that have not suffered from frost in twenty years. Precipitation also is much below the seasonal average, but most growers, as a result of last year's dry season, have made more or less provision for irrigation; I have sunk four artesian wells on my place, using 6-inch to 10-inch pipe and going down from eighty to 150 feet. In addition I can pump from seven other wells."

Speaking of the decadence of the sweet pea seed industry in the San Juan valley, Mr. Zvolanek said: "It's the aphid. The growers are discouraged; they have found no way to combat it; they are going to other places in the hope of getting a crop and all seem to have chosen the district around Lompoc. Of course we have aphid at Lompoc, too, and the result is by no means certain. I have spread my own crops over quite a wide section, a ra-dus of some sixty-five miles from Lompoc, to San Luis Obispo on the north and Goleta and Santa Barbara on the southeast. My total acreage is about 200. Of this 115 acres is in winter-blooming varieties, the old winter-blooming sorts that originated at Bound Brook and the newer winter-flowering Spencers, a few seeds of which have already found their way to growers who are making the most of them. The balance of the acreage is Spencer varieties grown under contract for the seed trade, about eighty per cent being foreign contracts."

THE SPECIALIST.

When this nation of ours was born nearly everyone was a generalist. The merchant sold a general line; the doctor was also a farmer and a horse trader and so on. As time passed some of the wiser men turned Specialists and succeeded. The doctor who is a generalist now cannot excel in any one branch of medicine, or compete with the specialist who devotes his entire time and study and practice toward one point. The merchant who sells everything cannot compete with the man who makes one class of goods his specialty. The general florist of today cannot compete with the specialist who grows one thing and grows it well. It is the same in the bulb business. With the keen competition of these days it is necessary for the individual to be a specialist in business. We are specialists in lily bulbs, and have been for some years. It is a business in itself, and done right, is not as simple as it looks. We devote more time to lily bulbs than anyone else in the business. In point of quality and price, which is the combination necessary for ultimate success, no one can excel us. Horseshoe Brand Lily Bulbs already have a reputation as the very best produced anywhere. The prices are as reasonable as good business judgment will permit.

THE LILY HOUSE

71 Murray Street

NEW YORK

Not How Cheap
But How Good

Cold storage bulbs for shipment any time.

The columns are made of two steel angles bolted together.

The sides are 7 ft. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. high. The distance in the center between the two columns is almost 40 feet.

Note the length of the double steel gusset plate that bolts together at the eave, the wrought iron post and steel rafter.

Ten bolts are used in each pair of plates.

The cross ties of the compression truss which runs from the columns across the house are double iron angles.

Thomas Roland, of Revere, Mass., Gives his

In 1911 Lord & Burnham built for me at Revere an Iron Frame, compression truss house, 50 ft. wide x 600 ft. long. This house is located on an open piece of ground across which the ocean winds sweep with terrific force.

After withstanding so successfully the terrific winds of last year, I was convinced that Lord & Burnham constructed houses were, without a doubt, the best houses to build.

When I decided this year to build a house 60 ft. wide and 550 ft. long, they received the order. Although the house has but two columns, with a space between them of 39 ft. and 8 in., the rafters are so strongly reinforced by the columns. The columns are made of double steel angles bolted together at intervals. This makes a possibility of buckling.

The use of the compression truss theory upon which all the large bridges are built, allows a construction of great

Lord & Burnham Company,

Note how securely the struts are bolted to them by bolting plates.

In order that the rafter and cross tie joining plate may come between a face of each of the column angles, they are separated at intervals by iron washers, through which bolts holding them together pass.

At intervals the roof and sides are cross tied between the posts and rafters to prevent any lengthwise give. The post tie rods are fastened to angle irons bolted on each side of the posts, fortifying them against any additional strain.

For Building a Second Lord & Burnham House:

trussing that the house is entirely rigid. separated by cast iron washers, and bolted of tremendous strength, eliminating the be the best of building practice. It is the constructed. h, while still being unusually light.

I had the sides of the house made 7 ft. 11¼ in. high, so I could have ample room to grow anything I wanted to grow at any time.

I think there can be little question as to the economy of big houses as compared to small or medium ones, both in construction, heating and operating.

FERTILIZING TOMATO SOIL

I should like to get a little advice in regard to growing tomato plants and shall appreciate any advice you can give. Last year I grew about 500,000 good plants for a factory in this vicinity. I intended to grow a million, but half of them did not mature, for which I blame the poorness of the soil. In fertilizing, I worked the first fertilizer into the ground with rakes before planting the seed. Then I scattered more fertilizer on top of the ground and, by watering, worked it into the ground, but it seems that as soon as the strength was taken up by the plants in places, they stopped growing and were not salable. I intend to grow 1,500,000 this year, but some of the ground is poor. It has not been fertilized for four or five years and I should like to find some way to make the ground rich enough to grow the plants. It is too late to haul manure, as it would not mix enough with the soil to be of much benefit. How would it be to work fertilizer in as I did last year, then give a good top-dressing with pulverized sheep manure or shredded cattle manure, and by watering work it into the soil? Do you think it would be too strong for the young plants? How about using chemicals, such as nitrate of soda? W. S.

If you can get well rotted stable manure and incorporate it thoroughly with the soil, you will find it superior to any chemical fertilizers for growing tomatoes. If you really can not secure any well decayed cow or horse manure, I should prefer to work the sheep manure or shredded cattle manure into the soil. The sheep manure is the richer of the two. If the plants seem to lack vigor when a few inches high, a further top-dressing of pulverized sheep manure can be safely given.

Chemicals, such as nitrate of soda, must be used with extreme care or they are likely to do more harm than good. If you use nitrate of soda you would better apply it in liquid form to any plants having a particularly starved look. Soak one pound in fifty gallons of water and apply it after a rainfall or when the ground has been well soaked artificially. It is better not to top-dress with any of these chemicals. I would advise against using chemicals before sowing the seed; the animal manures are much safer. Tomatoes like a light but rich soil to make their best growth.

The Market.

An Easter without good lilies is a troublesome occasion for the retailer, for with a certain class of customers no excuse goes; they want the goods. I may have been unfortunate, but I did not see a single good Easter lily this year. Those from the north were drawn, weak and soft, showing the effects of hard forcing, while the local stock was short. The rhododendrons from San Francisco, on the other hand, were superb, finely flowered and timed to the minute. Valley in pots made a good showing; the bells were large and the foliage hard and green. Azaleas were fairly plentiful, but somehow Simon Mardner does not take at Easter; it is a Christmas variety. A few plants of Bernard Andre made a nice showing. Spiræas were plentiful and good, the Japonica types being better than the newer ones. Forced lilacs, wistarias, rambler roses and tree peonies all helped out in the absence of lilies, and a few late cyclamens were also welcomed.

Cut flowers were plentiful, most of the rose and carnation growers being in full cut, and there was an abundance of all classes of bulb stock. Orchids were about equal to the demand, which was not heavy. There was an abundance of all kinds of greens.

Various Notes.

William Haerle, proprietor of the El Reah Greenhouses, at Hollywood, died at the Clara Barton hospital March 23. His hosts of friends extend their sympathy to Mrs. Haerle. A brief sketch of Mr. Haerle's business career will be found in this week's obituary column. It is said that Mrs. Haerle expects to continue the business at Hollywood.

Frank Lichtenberg made quite a hit with rambler roses for Easter and reports an excellent business.

Over 50,000 daffodils were shipped to the H. N. Gage Co. from the Montebello ranch for Easter and every one was sold.

The carnations are in fine shape at George Watson's place, at Brooklyn Heights. His roses also are fine, especially Maryland.

Murata & Co. report good business at Easter. The new office is a great convenience.

Howard & Smith report a fine clean-up at Easter and this meant selling a big lot of stock.

Rhododendrons and spiræas were the long suits with Morris Goldenson and they both won.

The new store of the Superior Nursery Co., on Central avenue, was taxed to its utmost for Easter. The Superior Bowling Club is said to be composed of "some bear cats."

O. C. Saakes reports a good Easter and he could have sold more choice cut flowers. His spiræas were exceptionally good.

H. R. Richards.

VICTORIA, B. C.

The Easter trade here was only moderately satisfactory. The chief staples, lilies, were generally late; only a few were in evidence and these disappeared early in the day. All stores had a good assortment of plants of other kinds, with spiræas and Dutch bulbs predominating. In cut flowers the surprise of the day was the small demand for carnations. In anticipation of a heavy trade, many carnations were imported. These averaged fair only. Some of them were little more than buds that showed color. The price asked, $1 per dozen, was too high and comparatively few were sold. Roses did not sell briskly. The Dutch bulbs were the freest sellers; the price, 35 and 50 cents per dozen, seemed to appeal.

The weather all the week preceding Easter was wretchedly bad. The coldest day of the winter was Tuesday, March 18. The nights are still cold and frosty and the day temperature is far below the average. The general opinion seems to be that the buyers are spending much less freely and that the future will require careful consideration.

modeled its store and now has an up-to-date establishment in every respect.

The Florists' Club met in an adjourned meeting Thursday evening, March 20. It was decided to hold a chrysanthemum show November 8 and 9, and $1,000 was pledged by the members as a guarantee fund. Henry Benthien showed a fine specimen of Spiraea Japonica, carrying thirty-five spikes of bloom. The plant was grown on his ranch near Fife. Mr. Benthien is going into the growing of this kind of stock extensively and believes it possible to produce a better grade of stock than can be shipped in from elsewhere. The next regular meeting of the Florists' Club will be held this week.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

As anticipated in my last few letters, there was a shortage in Easter lilies. The warm weather during January and February was more than the growing stock could stand without advancing rapidly, and as a consequence the early part of March found many of the wholesalers with Easter lilies in full bloom, three weeks too soon. For a week before Easter the prices had been gradually rising and last Thursday the market price was $5 to $7 for cut stems and twice those prices for pot-grown stock. Of almost everything else, however, there was a plentiful supply. The prices of roses and carnations were advanced only a shade over the prices that were in vogue for the two weeks preceding. Valley, daffodils, freesias, iris, violets, tulips, hyacinths and sweet peas also showed no material advance. There was an abundance of pot stock also. Never were azaleas in better form or color. Potted tulips and hyacinths did not move as fast as expected. Roses, wistarias, genistas and heaths, both in plain pots and attractive baskets, were in evidence everywhere.

Business in town, from all accounts, was a shade better than that of one year ago, while the shipping trade also showed a satisfactory increase. Business since Easter has been rather quiet, but the prospects are for its early resumption on a satisfactory basis.

Various Notes.

The California Floral Co. has opened a retail establishment on Center street near Shattuck avenue, Berkeley.

George Rosmarin, a pioneer florist of Alameda, died March 26, at the age of 73 years. Further particulars will be found in the obituary column, on another page. G.

The Market.

Business since Easter has been good. Nearly all the stores cleaned up practically all their stock at Easter and there has been difficulty since then in getting supplies along some lines. A number of decorations last week were a notable feature, and orders calling for several decorations next week are an indication of the revival of trade after the dull Lenten season. Several growers are replacing carnations with cucumbers, so that the stock of carnations is liable to be short from now till Memorial day. At present the this market; so the shortage will quickly be overcome. Home-grown violets are fairly plentiful, but the California stock is still being handled by the street hawkers. Bulbous stock was pretty well cleaned up at Easter. The outside narcissi are coming in and are selling well. Belated Easter lilies are in evidence in several stores. Pot plants are scarce and the local supply of greens is short.

of most of the family, all of whom were kept on the jump at her Union street place.

The Harrington Co., at both stores, did all the business it could handle. The firm's Easter lilies were fine and were soon cleaned up.

The Butler Florists did a wonderful business in their restricted space.

The Burns Floral Co. had no competition at that end of Third avenue, and, having fine stock, was attracting a large number of customers.

Mrs. L. W. McCoy had an immense stock of all kinds of flowers, and had to turn business away on account of the rush. Jean Lamley returned in time to help Mrs. McCoy out at Easter.

Rosaia Bros. made an almost complete clean-up of their huge supply and say they did more than double the last Easter business.

The Rainier Floral Co. has purchased an automobile for delivery purposes.

The Floral Market Co. was kept exceedingly busy prior to Easter in filling out-of-town orders, which were large and numerous, reflecting credit on the enterprise of this young firm.

CHOOSING A GREENHOUSE SITE.

I have an opportunity to get either one of two pieces of land on which to erect some greenhouses, and I should be pleased if some one, who knows more about the subject than I do, would tell me which site to select. One location is between two hills and is so surrounded that the wind never hits it, to speak of. Even in this New York climate, one could have the ventilators open every day, as far as the wind is concerned, and it would be less difficult to heat a house that would be so protected. However, between these hills the sun is one hour late in the morning and goes down an hour and a half early in the afternoon; that is, it takes the sun one hour to get up over the east hill and it goes down behind the west hill an hour and a half before sunset.

The other location is out in the middle of a plain, so to speak, with no hill near it and no trees or buildings. This place gets the sunshine early and late, but every wind we have sweeps across the flats worse than anywhere else. On some days the ventilators could scarcely be opened if the wind were blowing hard. Which is the better site, all other considerations being equal? A. R. E.

While it is desirable to have a greenhouse so located that it will be protected as much as possible from the prevailing winds, the matter of sunshine is of even greater importance, especially if the house is to be used for growing cut flowers. Consequently, if as much as two and one-half hours of sunshine can be gained by using the site on the plain, as compared with the one between the hills, it would be bet-

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

WM. A. PETERSON was one of the lecturers at the Chicago spring flower show this week. His subject was "How to Care for Trees."

ALTHOUGH the autumn planting season is steadily increasing in importance, there still is plenty of business for all the days of the spring.

OSCAR F. MARVIN, of Holton, Mich., addressed a recent meeting of the Muskegon County Horticultural Society on the best methods of spraying fruit trees.

P. A. DIX, of the Davis County Nurseries, at Roy, Utah, read an able paper on "Rational Nursery Legislation" at the annual convention of the Utah State Horticultural Society.

LACKING two years of rounding out a century, Mrs. Achsa Ursula Williams, mother of H. W. Williams, proprietor of the Peoria Home Nursery, Peoria, Ill., died last month at Galesburg, Ill.

THE Kentucky Normal and Industrial Institute plans the location of a nursery on its farm near here. State Forester Barton declares that the farm has all varieties of slopes required for forest trees and excellent soil.

E. F. COE, of the Elm City Nursery Co., New Haven, Conn., is in demand up and down New England for his illustrated lecture on "Japan, Its Cities, People and Gardens." He obtained the material on a trip in 1912.

OUR friend, E. W. Kirkpatrick, ex-president of the A. A. N., and Ed. R. Krone, commissioner of the Texas Department of Agriculture, are indulging in an acrimonious discussion in the Houston newspapers as to the usefulness of the department. Mr. Kirkpatrick favors its abolishment.

GUY A. BRYANT, of Princeton, Ill., and Geo. J. Foster of Normal, Ill., two prominent nurserymen, were among those who read papers at the annual convention of the Illinois State Horticultural Society. Mr. Bryant's subject was "The Salome Apple," and Mr. Foster discussed "Bush Fruits."

THE Forest Nursery & Seed Co., with greenhouses at McMinnville and Irving College, Tenn., has been incorporated in Warren county with a capital of $5,000. J. H. H. Boyd, the former proprietor, is the first incorporator named and the other incorporators are G. F. Wagner, F. C. Boyd, P. W. Moffitt, I. H. Hillis, E. R. Martin and A. P. Hill.

THE first outfit of its kind ever sent out on wheels in Iowa, a liberal portion of the horticultural department of the state college, will leave Ames, Ia., in the next few days on a special car of the Burlington railway for the benefit of the fruit growers in the southern part of the state, who cannot conveniently go to the college. Prof. R. S. Herrick, horticultural expert of the extension department, will have charge of the car, which will make Ford as its first town April 5, and Leon as its last, April 11.

O. L. HARMON has purchased twenty acres adjoining Fairmead, Cal., as a nursery site.

R. L. BEAGLES, superintendent of the United States plant introduction gardens, near Chico, Cal., is experimenting extensively in the propagating and growing of the cactus, in the hope of making the former weed of the desert a profitable product. At an expense of many thousands of dollars, the national government has erected greenhouses and provided other facilities for carrying on the experiments.

ILLINOIS NURSERIES.

Certificates of inspection were issued to 145 Illinois nurserymen for the season of 1912-13. Of that number three were special certificates. The nurseries proper cover 2,581 acres and the small fruit plantations about 275 acres. Thirty-eight dealers in nursery stock and eighty-three agents of nurseries outside of Illinois were registered for the season.

Thirty-two foreign shipments originating in Belgium and France were inspected by state officials. They consisted of 132 bales, aggregating 849,000 plants, all in good condition. Shipments of nursery stock numbering 283, originating in Germany, Holland, England and Japan, were reported but not inspected, either for lack of funds or because regarded as safe. There were also reported 177 shipments from foreign countries, consisting of 8,940 cases of bulbs and other greenhouse stock, none of which was inspected.

MANETTI STOCKS OVERSTOCKED.

Growers of Manetti stocks in England have overstayed their market, according to the Horticultural Advertiser: "When an article appears somewhat scarce, there is always a danger of overestimating the scarcity and outstanding the market. A good illustration of this is seen in the case of Manetti stocks this season. In the autumn some American buyers were advertising for Manettis in the Horticultural Advertiser, and had the greatest difficulty in securing their requirements, holders apparently declining to quote and preferring to see how matters developed later on. The result is that quite a number of growers are left with stock in hand at the end of the season which ought to have been turned into cash several months ago."

CHANGES IN QUARANTINE RULES

The following changes of plant quarantine rules are announced:

Regulation 6 of the Rules and Regulations for carrying out the Plant Quarantine Act is amended by the addition in the first paragraph of a proviso reading as follows:

Provided, however, That nursery stock which can be cleaned by disinfection or treatment may be delivered to the importer, consignee, or agent for the proper care and treatment thereof, upon the filing of a voluntary bond, with approved sureties, double to the invoice value of the property (the amount of the bond in no case to be less than $20 or less than $1 per plant in case of date palms and date-palm offshoots), conditioned upon the delivery thereof to the collector of customs 40 days from the date of arrival, and provided that the same shall not be removed from the port of entry until a written notice is given to the collector of customs by the inspector of the Department of Agriculture that the nursery stock in question has been properly treated.

Regulation 6, as amended, shall become and be effective on and after April 1, 1913, and the regulation in full shall read as follows:

On and after July 1, 1913, entry of nursery stock will not be allowed unless the invoice is accompanied by the original certificate and unless each container bears a copy certificate, issued by a duly authorized official of the country from which it is shipped, stating that the nursery stock covered by these certificates has been thoroughly inspected by him or under his direction and was found, or believed to be, free from injurious plant diseases and insect pests: Provided, That for stock to be shipped between October 1 and May 31 such inspection shall be made on or after the 1st of October and for stock shipped during the growing season inspection shall be made at the time of packing: Provided further, That on and after July 1, 1913, nursery stock from countries which do not maintain official nursery stock inspection will be admitted into the United States only for experimental purposes and in limited quantities. For such importations a special permit will be required. (See Reg. 5.) Applications for such permits should be addressed, in writing, to the Federal Horticultural Board, specifying the amount and kinds of nursery stock which it is intended to import. Any such shipments will be allowed to enter only through a port which the Secretary of Agriculture will designate in the permit. Such nursery stock shall not be delivered to the importer or consignee until it has been examined by an inspector of the Department of Agriculture and found to be free from plant diseases and insect pests: Provided, however, That nursery stock which can be cleaned by disinfection or treatment may be delivered to the importer, consignee, or agent for the proper care and treatment thereof, upon the filing of a voluntary bond, with approved sureties, double to the invoice value of the property, (the amount of the bond in no case to be less than $20 or less than $1 per plant in case of date palms and date-palm offshoots) conditioned upon the delivery thereof to the collector of customs 40 days from the date of arrival, and provided that the same shall not be removed from the port of entry until a written notice is given to the collector of customs by the inspector of the Department of Agriculture that the nursery stock in question has been properly treated.

Prior to July 1, 1913, it will not be required that the original certificate of inspection accompany the invoice, but each container of imported nursery stock must bear a copy of the certificate of inspection in the form authorized by the responsible inspection official of the country of origin.

Prior to July 1, 1913, nursery stock from countries which maintain no official nursery-stock inspection will be admitted into the United States only through the ports of New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Jacksonville, New Orleans, Honolulu, and San Juan after examination by inspectors of the Department of Agriculture at CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Shipping was at a standstill last week. Few roads and express companies would accept perishable stock of any kind. On roads bordering the lake, traffic was not interrupted and shipments of cut flowers got through. This, of course, soon loaded up the local market and prices dropped.

Roses are much improved in quality, and the supply is plentiful in pink and white, but red is shy. Beauties, such as they are, may be said to be in good supply. Carnations have not moved so slowly at this season for years. Fancy valley, Spanish iris, snapdragon and sweet peas are seen daily. There is plenty of bulbous stock on the market. Several large growers held a good portion of this class of stock for late flowering, instead of getting it all in for Easter, and it is well they did, for bulbous stock was a glut at that time.

Maidenhair fern is more plentiful. Plumosus and other greens are equal to the demand.

Various Notes.

The sympathy of the trade is extended to Jas. Eadie in the loss of his sister, Miss Jane Eadie, who passed away March 29.

Frank R. Williams, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., is much improved in health and considered out of danger by his physician. A rose thorn picked up during the Easter rush developed into blood poisoning, and March 23 Mr. Williams was taken to his home with his finger and arm giving him much pain. A speedy recovery is the wish of his friends.

ASTILBE ARENDSI

This new type is the result of crossing A. Davidii with A. Japonica compacta, astilboides and Thunbergi. The plants are of very vigorous growth, 2½ to 4 feet high, producing many branched, feathered heads of flowers. They prefer a half-shady, moist position, in any ordinary garden soil.

Ceres. Much-branched panicles of delicate, light rose colored flowers, with peculiar silvery sheen.

Juno. Strong, upright grower; plumes of a deep violet-rose color.

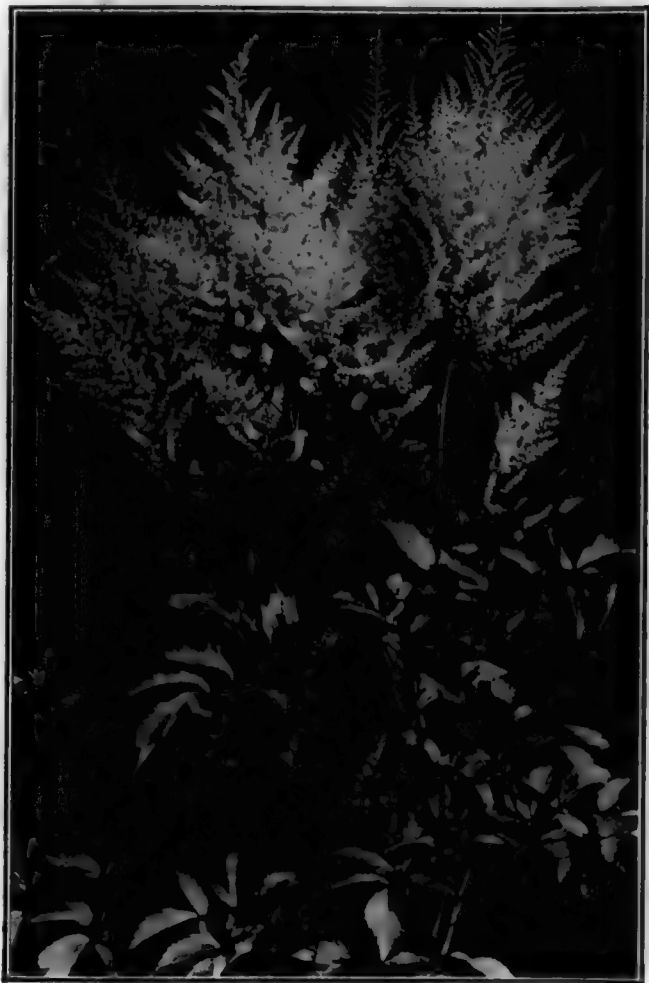

Salmon Queen. Much-branched, graceful panicles of a beautiful salmon-pink.

Venus. Similar to Ceres, but of bright, deep violet-rose color.

Vesta. Very graceful plumes of light lilac-rose.

White-Plumed. Dense pyramidal plumes of silvery white flowers

ARTEMISIA LACTIFLORA

A splendid, hardy herbaceous perennial, with erect stems 3½ to 4½ feet high, clothed with elegantly cut, dark green foliage and terminated by panicles of Hawthorn-scented, creamy white, Spiraea-like, light and graceful flowers. It is at its best from the latter part of August to the end of September, and is particularly valuable on this account, being unlike any other plant in bloom at that time.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Indianapolis has been in the path of the flood during the last week and there has been no business for the florists. The trade has been exceedingly fortunate, however, as the writer knows of no one who suffered damage from the high water. This was the worst flood in the history of Indianapolis, as miles of territory were entirely covered with water and about 5,000 dwellings were partly submerged. The telephones, steam and electric cars were put out of business. The greatest inconvenience suffered by the florists was caused by the shutting down of the water works. The water supply was off for about four days, which made it difficult to feed the boilers and water the plants. Business has been at a standstill.

Various Notes.

Albert Pittet was high and dry on a hill in the neighborhood of the river and the flood district.

The National Coöperative Show Gardens, of Spencer, Ind., is sending a representative to the Pacific coast to select a location for a branch garden.

Herman Junge spent about three days at Cumberland last week, with all communications cut off on account of the flood. H. L. W.

Texarkana, Tex.—E. L. Kiley, of Paris, Tex., has opened a branch retail store on East Broad street.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Fred Lewis, of Buffalo, who is taking the baths, announces his purpose to build in this city a large greenhouse for vegetables, in conjunction with which he will conduct a flower and plant store.

Houston, Tex.—In a recent industrial edition of the Chronicle the florists made a specially good showing. R. C. Kerr had an advertisement of over half a page, showing cuts of his place, and so did the Brazos Hotel Greenhouses, Geo. M. Cosh, manager, while H. H. Kuhlmann and the I. M. Johnson Co., landscape architects, were well represented.

This variegated carnation, sent out by Mr. Peter Fisher last season, is the finest variegated variety, and one of the very best carnations of any color, ever sent out.

It has immediately attained a commanding position among the very choicest sorts, and will add to Mr. Fisher's already enviable list of introductions. It is indispensable.

It is a very early and free bloomer, matures quickly, making very perfect flowers of the largest size on long stems; does not split the calyx.

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

The Market.

Easter trade, coming before the flood, was heavy and there were loads of stock; in most lines there was about enough to go the rounds. Plant trade was heavy, with a fine assortment. Easter lilies were rather scarce with some growers. Plant trade kept up until a late hour Saturday night and things were cleaned-up in good shape. In cut flowers everything was quite plentiful, except Beauties and good Richmonds. Other roses were abundant. Carnations were quite plentiful, but were about all cleaned up. Violets were all sold out early and there was a great scramble for them from noon on. Sweet peas were as much in demand as violets and they were cleaned up early. There was an enormous quantity of bulbous stock. Murillo tulips were at their prime and found ready sale. Daffodils also sold well from the start and at a late hour many of them were cut off the plants, as all cut ones were used up. Lily of the valley proved a good seller, especially after the violets and sweet peas were exhausted. J. M.

PRINCETON, ILL.

The W. E. Trimble Greenhouse Co., March 29, had a narrow escape from a disastrous fire. The blaze, which originated in a barn, 18x48, destroyed that structure, together with its contents, and also three houses of carnations located just north of the barn and in the direction of the high wind blowing at the time. The glass and rafters were ruined and the carnation plants were cooked, but the iron gutters and posts appear to be undamaged. Rebuilding will begin as quickly as material can be delivered. The larger range of rose and carnation houses was not injured and here about 2,000 roses and 1,500 carnations are being cut daily.

PETER REINBERG

30 E. Randolph St., CHICAGO

ORLANDO, FLA.

It is remarkable how well many of our tender roses do in this climate, planted out in pure white sand with an occasional sprinkling of commercial fertilizer, which the next heavy shower may send three or four feet below the surface. Crimson Rambler roses absolutely refuse to flower, but I have seen Baby Rambler do fairly well. It seems strange to put in a bed of coleus cuttings in the open ground in February, but every one of them rooted nicely. Poinsettias are in full bloom yet and do nicely here. When it is desired to increase the stock, a piece is cut off and stuck in the sand and the following year there is quite a tree. To be successful with vegetable growing, which is one of the principal industries here, most of the truck gardens are supplied with the Skinner overhead sprinkling system.

This year's orange crop has been large, but the outlook for next year is not promising, as many of the groves are not flowering so freely. Florida is full of real estate men looking for "easy marks" to buy orange groves and swamps. For the groves they will ask from $500 to $1,000 per acre. I have seen good oranges sold on the trees at 19 cents per box. None of my money will go into oranges, for commercial fertilizers cost too much and groves must be fertilized three times each year. When you purchase real estate here you simply buy air and climate, but they certainly are fine. After another week in Florida I will return to my home in Sharon, Pa., reaching there about the middle of April, having spent four months in the land of sunshine and flowers.

New American Beauty GERANIUM

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 our new American Beauty Geranium.
For the first time, after working on it for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty Color. The individual blooms measure 2½ inches across. It is semi-double, medium dwarf, of stately shape. It has come to stay as a money maker. Prices to the trade: 2½-in. pots, 50c each, $5.00 per doz.; 3-in. pots, $1.00 each, $10.00 per doz., cash.
Write for circulars in natural colors and prices on large lots.

NEW GERANIUM - "HELEN MICHELL"

Will be Exhibited at the NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW, New York, April 5 to 12, 1913

VISITORS to the show should not overlook the Michell Exhibit, on the main floor, near the elevators, where our representatives will be glad to meet you.

The new geranium, "Helen Michell," can now be seen in its glory at our Plant Establishment at Andalusia, Pa., and we invite all growers interested in this flower to give us a visit, either before going to New York or on the return trip. Andalusia is situated fourteen miles from Philadelphia, on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Philadelphia and New York. Our nursery is directly next to the station. Orders booked now for delivery January, 1914.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y.

The regular monthly meeting of the Oyster Bay Horticultural Society was held in the Board of Trade rooms March 28, at 7:30 p. m. President Duthie occupied the chair. The executive committee reported progress on the schedules for the spring and summer shows.

John E. Colenso, T. E. Vaptsaroff, Sebastian Yacker and William Simpson were elected to active membership; Theodore Sommers, George Fletcher and Gus Powers were elected to associate membership; James Beaton and John McIntyre were proposed.

Alfred Walker, Duncan Beaton and George Milne acted as judges and their decisions were as follows: Antirrhinums, Frank Kyle, first; Wm. D. Robertson, second. Pot lilies, Wm. D. Robertson, first. Three lettuces, Frank Petroccia, first. Vase of violets, Frank Petroccia, cultural certificate. Two pots of valley, James Duckham, cultural certificate. The exhibitors gave interesting talks on their different methods of growing the stock, and the talks were greatly enjoyed by all present.

Other four members were appointed to assist the executive committee in getting the schedules ready.

The secretary offered a prize of $5 for twelve varieties of sweet peas, twelve to a vase, to be competed for at the spring show. Charles Boothman presented a beautiful carving set for four varieties of strawberries, also to be competed for at the spring show. These gentlemen were awarded the thanks of the society for their generosity.

The exhibits for April will be three heads of lettuce, twelve carnations and one flowering plant. J. T. I.

Houston, Tex.—George M. Cosh, manager of the Brazos Hotel Greenhouses, says business has been so good that work has been begun on an addition that will double their glass area at Main and McGowan streets.

Dixon, Ill.—C. H. Fallstrom, proprietor of the Dixon Flower Shop, and Louis Knice, superintendent of N. H. Long's greenhouses, have purchased Mr. Long's establishment and business and will take charge June 1 as the Dixon Flower Shop. Mr. Fallstrom will conduct the store, while Mr. Knice will manage the greenhouses.

My Original SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON

is reaching every part of the globe. It is traveling upon its record and good looks, and has more admirers than all other antirrhinums combined. There may be an occasional pleasing sport, but aside from this, seedlings will have every characteristic of their illustrious parent—the FAMOUS SILVER PINK. It is a distinct type, and is best described by the original name that we gave it. Its soft, silvery shade of pink is not found in any other flower, and is at its best in full sunshine, both indoors and out. Silver Pink has an established record. Plant it and you will have the best. It is truly a high-class novelty, and we offer it at small cost.

Price of seed—my own growing—$1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds; 3 packets, $2.50, delivered. Can still supply plants for bedding at $3.00 per 100, 200 for $5.00, by express. Cash must accompany all orders.

Report of Judges, Novelty Night, Cleveland Florists' Club, Feb. 10, 1913:

"G. S. Ramsburg, Somersworth, N. H., a vase of Silver Pink snapdragon, a beautiful variety and highly recommended by the committee."

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Growers and retailers are catching their breath after the biggest Easter in their experience. The sales for this season doubled those of former seasons and there was hardly a report of any dealer not cleaning up everything he had. As a rule the week following Easter is dull, but this year has proved an exception. "The College Hero," in which upwards of 700 youths and misses of the fashionable set appeared at the Providence Opera House, called for large orders every evening. Funeral work has also continued brisk. Prices have dropped back to normal, with a plentiful supply of everything except violets, which are beginning to run short.

Various Notes.

Stephen J. Toher, 58 Concord street, is erecting an addition to his greenhouses on Collyer street.

Johnston Bros. conducted a large branch store on Westminster street during the Easter rush.

The Home Nursery, owned by Nathan D. Pierce, who recently died, will be continued under the direction of Mr. Pierce's widow.

The commission on the layout of the extension of Waterman street has awarded the W. E. Barrett Co. $8,000 as damages resulting from the demolition of the building long occupied by the firm. The company has removed into the next building.

Stephen Green, representing Bayersdorfer & Co., of Philadelphia, was a business visitor in the city.

James Hay, of East Greenwich, is considering establishing a new range of greenhouses for himself. He is a brother of William Hay, of Oakland and this city, and Lawrence Hay, of East Providence.

S. S. Skidelsky, of Skidelsky & Co., Philadelphia, was a caller on the trade last week.

John H. Brown, of Warren, has purchased of the heirs of Walter S. Nichol his greenhouses and also a tract of land at Hampden Meadows.

Eugene McCarron furnished the plants and decorations for the memorial service of Providence lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, March 30.

James B. Canning received his new delivery car in time for use at Easter.

A greenhouse 20x50 feet, belonging to W. A. Farland, of Chace street, Fall River, Mass., was burned to the ground March 29. No insurance was carried.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

The beautiful weather which prevailed during Easter week passed off into cold rain, turning to snow. The weather changed Sunday afternoon and continued all last week. As a result business was quiet, due, to a large extent, to the usual dullness after Easter. Stock is plentiful, especially the lilies, and some extremely low quotations have been issued. Roses took a drop and much stock was carried over. Carnations are on for the spring crop and low prices prevail.

Various Notes.

Automobiles are the latest fad. Everybody buys them now. Two new ones were added last week. J. B. Wiese purchased a new Stewart for delivery. Mr. Altman, of Altman's Flower Shop, said that business was so good Easter he had to place his surplus somewhere and so he bought a large seven-passenger Oakland.

Much interest is manifested in the big show in New York and it is reported several members will attend from here.

Arthur Kowalski, head man for Altman's Flower Shop, was taken seriously sick Easter afternoon and had to be taken to the hospital. It is reported he will be confined five or six weeks.

Miss Sauer, who has conducted the store at 1375 Main street for the last two years, has sold out. The business will be carried on by Miss Burns, of this city.

Charles Holser, of the William Scott Co., was on the sick list last week, due to the long strain at Easter time.

David Scott is shipping select peas, called the Pink Beauty.

The bowling club has been having lively meetings during the winter and is just about to close the season. High scores were made and some good bowlers have developed. The old stand-bys have carried off the honors, Charles Sandiford being the proud possessor of the first prize, which was a glass of Pilsner and a cheese sandwich. Mr. Sandiford greatly appreciated this prize, as he is fond of cheese. Joseph Streit was given a vote of thanks for his able management throughout the year.

CALADIUMS.

FANCY LEAVED CALADIUMS.

A limited number of the most brilliant and beautiful new and rare caladiums for sale from the largest collection in the world—over 2000 named kinds grown. Predominating colors are vivid red, transparent pink, rose and claret; they are more exquisite than the most brilliant flowers and far more lasting, they vie in splendor with the diamond, the ruby, the emerald, the amethyst, and their metallic hues are as scintillating as those of the humming bird. The leaves last in a cut state for two weeks in full beauty. Prices, $15.00 to $25.00 per 100. H. Nehrling & Son, Palm Cottage Gardens, Gotha, Fla.

18,000 caladiums, moss started, no eye rot, every eye guaranteed perfect, medium, $4.00; large, $6.00; mammoth, $10.00 per 100.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers to date. Hardy, field-grown plants from seed sown in August, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong with extra good roots; just right to transplant for blooming in May. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, $4.00 per 1000. Cash with order.

L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

PEONIES."PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."

This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes the old and new as well as the plebian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."

We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales 1913. Send for both of the booklets.

Our catalogue of everything you need mailed on application. Write for it today.

In a late number of the Market Growers' Journal, in a symposium on tomato growing, five of the six writers commended BONNY BEST. One calls it a "top-notch," another says his patrons would take no other if Bonny Best was on the wagon. The qualities mentioned are earliness, almost the first; most desirable in size, smoothness, velvety red, thriftiness of plant, long bearing season, great productiveness, excellent for early or main crops. We have thousands of plants of this variety, transplanted, tough, stocky, well rooted, extra fine strain, sure to please, $1.00 per 100. Ready now.

The rush March 22 was hard to handle. All the stores worked all night Saturday and it was not until 6 p. m. Sunday that the last deliveries were made and the heaviest week's business finished that the florists ever handled, despite the storm of Friday. Prices were but slightly increased over normal and in consequence people bought more freely than they otherwise would. The plant supply was extremely large. It was noticeable that customers preferred a short to a tall plant. In cut flowers lilies took the lead, then roses, carnations and violets, bulbous stock following closely. Plant sales were larger than cut flower sales. Geo. F. Crabb.

LOUISVILLE.The Market.

There was an abundance of stock for Easter. While the report was general that lilies would be scarce, there seems to have been enough to go around. Roses, carnations, sweet peas, valley, violets, etc., were equal to the demand. Blooming plants were unusually fine, particularly bulbous stock, which found splendid sale, considering the quantity of such stock in the market.

As far as reported, there seems to have been a slight increase in Easter business. A large number of orders were telegraphed out of town, due mainly to the efforts of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

And a local department store was able to sell carnations at 35 cents per dozen the Saturday before Easter.

It Wins its way by service L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter

(Ball Bearing—Long Wearing)

In buying a typewriter you want a satisfactory answer to three questions:

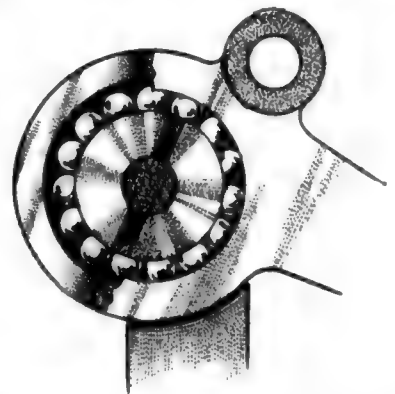

*What will it do for me?
How well will it do it?
How long will it do it?*

By answering these queries with the needs of the typewriter owner and user in mind, the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Company has attained the front rank in the typewriter field.

Some people think that a typewriter is a typewriter and that is all there is to it. Machines may look alike but there is a lot of difference in efficiency.

The new Model Five is built not only for straight correspondence but for tabulating, billing and in fact for every service needed in the average business.

Its ball bearings at all points where friction develops through action, permit close adjustment and insure correct and accurate typewriting.

We would like the opportunity to tell you more about it.

OMAHA, NEB.

The Market.

The Easter trade was one of the best Omaha has had. The weather was good and made the delivery easy. Stock generally was plentiful. Easter lilies were scarce. L. Henderson seemed to have more than anyone else and willingly helped others out. Prices were moderate. Roses sold well from $1 to $2 per dozen; lilies, 20 to 25 cents per flower; carnations, 75 cents to $1 per dozen, and azaleas, lilacs and other spring plants brought good prices.

Greenhouse Heating.

ACCORDING to one greenhouse fireman, the extortionate prices imposed by the coal barons are not unmixed evil. "I wish the stuff cost twice as much," he says, "then a man would get a little more credit for saving it."

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

THE WASTE IN SMOKE.

"As to the common fallacy that smoke necessarily represents a large waste of fuel," says an expert in Power, "a chimney may be smoking badly and yet the amount of heat lost by incomplete combustion may be negligible. The writer has tested the gases at the base of a number of smoky chimneys and has found that an average of one per cent of carbon monoxide in the gases is seldom reached. As high a percentage as this is only obtained when there is little dilution with excess air and when the carbon dioxide present is high, say, ten to twelve per cent. Assuming the composition of the fuel gases to be carbon dioxide (CO₂) twelve per cent, carbon monoxide (CO) one per cent, oxygen six per cent, nitrogen eighty-one per cent and the calorific value of the fuel to be 12,500 B.t.u. per point, the heat lost by incomplete combustion represents about five per cent of the total available heat in the fuel, which is much less than many imagine."

NO MORE THIN PIPE.

The so-called "standard" iron pipe is a good deal thicker than it need be for many purposes, especially in the smaller diameters. Consequently it has been the practice of the mills to draw pipe to order of less than the standard thickness for use under conditions in which the standard pipe was not necessary, and this pipe, of the same outside diameter as the standard, threaded and coupled like it, similar in every particular except in thickness and weight, has been known as "merchant" pipe.

The reduction in weight per running foot has been kept within limits and the merchant pipe subjected to the

WHAT THE USERS SAY ABOUT KROESCH BOLLERS

Cast Iron Boilers Break Down

Have fired greenhouse boilers since 1885, both steam and hot water. Yours suits me the best. I have two of your boilers. At one time I had two cast iron boilers working together, and during a blizzard the rear section of one boiler gave out and the front section of the other sprung a crack a couple of months later. No more cast iron boilers for me. I came very close to freezing out in both instances.

G. M. THOST, De Soto, Mo.

Would Not Have a Cast Iron Boiler for a Gift, Since I Tried the Kroeschell

The No. 6 Boiler is heating my entire range. I believe it would take care of 18,000 square feet. Have no trouble to keep temperatures of 55 to 60 degrees—I could keep 80 to 90 degrees if I had to. During the coldest nights I fired at 9, 12 and 3 o'clock. The boiler has given entire satisfaction—in fact, more than I expected. Previous to this I had a cast iron boiler, but would not have it for a gift now. If I know of any one needing a good boiler I shall recommend the Kroeschell Boiler above all.

JOHN LIEFZAU, Geneva, Ill.

The Kroeschell does Our Work Easier Than Cast Iron Boilers and Saves Twenty to Twenty-five Per Cent Fuel

The No. 4 Boiler is heating 10,000 square feet of glass—it would take care of 13,000 square feet easily. Have no trouble to keep temperature of 50 and 60 degrees in coldest weather. The boiler has given perfect satisfaction. We had two cast iron boilers, one rated for 1200 feet of pipe and one rated for 1500 feet. These boilers never did the work at their best and when the greenhouses were new. According to our experience with yours we will save twenty to twenty-five per cent of fuel.

HILD BROS., Lake Forest, Ill.

Try the Kroeschell First—It's Ahead of Them All

I have had eight or ten other types of boilers. The Kroeschell is the best I have ever used. Your boiler heats the water very quickly—almost as fast as steam.

Yours very truly,

BATAVIA, N. Y.

Business at Easter was highly satisfactory for all the members of the craft here. Gustav Noack had not only an excellent demand for cut flowers and such plants as azaleas, tulips, hyacinths, daffodils, etc., but was almost smothered with funeral work. He says it was the best Easter he has had since he embarked in the business.

L. C. Stroh & Sons had about all they could handle, both at the greenhouses and at one of the best drug stores, which they use to help them out on such special occasions.

The William Scott Co., of Corfu and Buffalo, which does not believe in being outdone, was in the field, as it has been for the last few seasons, at Leadley's store. They, like the others made a clean sweep. Of course, to those who saw the display this announcement is no surprise, as the flowers were of the usual Scott quality.

There was a strong wind here on Friday, March 21, but, while severe, it did little damage, aside from making greenhouse men nervous. A. A. K.

One of the largest realty deals recently negotiated downtown is the lease of the property at 83 Tenth street, south, for 100 years by R. A. Latham and O. H. Carlson, who have just effected a business consolidation and who will erect this spring a fireproof building especially adapted to the retail florists' business. The terms of the lease place a high value on the ground, which fronts forty-two and one-half feet and has a depth of 110 feet. For the first twenty-five years the annual rental will be $1,500 per front foot, for the next twenty-five years $1,800 per front foot and for the balance of the lease term $2,000 per front foot. The conservatory will be a special feature of the building and will be supplied from Mr. Latham's country nursery and from Mr. Carlson's large greenhouses in northeast Minneapolis.

Three Kinds of Construction

Half Iron Frame

FOR HOUSES up to certain width limits this construction has many strong advocates.

It has the same side posts and eave plate used in our regular All Iron Frame.

The purlins are all angle iron with each bar screwed to them.

The columns are pipe.

The gables are strongly reinforced with posts and angle irons.

For the money, is exceptional value and a logical step towards the All Iron Frame which most growers eventually build.

All Iron Frame

SOME GROWERS sometimes argue that this construction costs too much. Over and over again, we have proven it costs but surprisingly little more than the Half Iron Frame.

It's enough sight easier to erect, and what you pay extra in cost of materials you practically make up in decreased erection expense.

Everyone admits it's the most enduring.

Cantilever

THIS IS the newest thing in the field today.

The idea upon which it is based, however, is not new. It's as old as iron bridge building. Although there are fewer rafters, columns and purlins used, the framework itself is lighter in result than flat rafter constructions. The specially constructed rafters are 12 feet instead of 8 apart.

The glass is 20 inches instead of 16.

We will gladly write you full particulars. Or better yet, come and talk it over with you.

The Big Blow That Did Not Blow Enough to Blow Down Any L and B Big Houses

THE RECENT far-reaching destruction throughout the middle west of all sizes of variously constructed green-houses points an object-lesson we have been endeavoring to impress on growers for years.

Over and over again we have used these pages to show up the wind-resisting strength of our Iron Frame Construction.

Some of the "wise ones" have gone so far as to flatly state that our houses "had too much iron in them," or that we "were unnecessarily fussy about the number of columns" we placed in a house.

Yes, and we have even been accused of being "behind the times" by not adopting some of the new-fangled framing methods. It now happens that two of the biggest iron frame houses in the west were new-fangled construction, and in that blow they went down like a pack of cards.

Not a single Lord and Burnham house suffered.

Of course, glass was broken, but the framework on all sides stands as firm and true today as when erected.

It is apparent, then, that many growers have been led to put too much confidence in certain kinds of frame houses.

The recent destruction of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of houses simply backs up what we have been continually claiming, and that is—half the iron frame houses being put up by firms with but a few years' experience in this type of construction are nowhere near as safe and sure as our Pipe Frame.

It's not a question of how much iron we use in a house, but how that iron is put to use. Mind, we don't claim that our iron frame houses will never be blown down (although one never has), but we do claim that if any house will stand a blow Lord and Burnham's will.

Drop in at our show at the International Flower Show and talk over our blow-proof houses.

If you can't come, let us come to you.

HAPPY GREENHOUSE FACT:

"With CYPRESS You Build But Once."

"With any other material you're 'billed' perpetually."

You save many times over (by avoiding repairs and replacements) what slight premium you pay a high-class contractor for using Cypress at first. It is worth good money to you if you will but profit by the following suggestions:

DON'T buy sash or other woodwork that is painted. Paint covers sap, checks and a multitude of other wood sins. Insist on seeing the raw wood.

DON'T buy excessively kiln-dried wood—air-dried is immeasurably better. Greenhouse lumber that has to travel 3,000 miles may be excused if it is kiln-dried to death to save freight over the mountains, but that excuse doesn't make it any better for you.

DON'T forget that you are wasting valuable time whenever you stop and listen to a whimwham about some "substitute" wood for heart Cypress. There can't be any substitute until nature invents a new species of wood. (Nothing to it but PECKY Cypress for Benches.)

DON'T fuss at the building contractor if he insists on putting a smooth surface on your work—it is to your advantage. Cypress takes that smooth surface. And takes paint perfectly if you want it to. Yet lasts generations without any paint.

DON'T laugh at the statement that Cypress sash has been in uninterrupted use in a greenhouse for 45 years. It can be proved. Can a "substitute" wood equal the record? Isn't that a money-saver?

JUST FIGURE your construction costs by the year and you'd pay twice the slight additional price of "The Wood Eternal" over the short-lived woods.

Send us your name, Mr. Greenhouse Man, for one or more of the valuable booklets in our free Cypress Pocket Library. Vol. 3, "The Greenhouse Wood;" Vol. 16, "Cypress for Porches;" Vol. 30, "Cypress for Pergolas, etc.," and Vol. 28, "Cypress for Trellises and Arbors." Free as grace. WRITE.

FACTS

Questions and Answers No. 9

Q. Should a cypress hotbed sash be free of sap?

A. Yes, by all means. Hotbed sash do not last as long as greenhouses and are exposed to conditions that cause rot, and decay very rapidly. All of our sash are absolutely guaranteed free of sap.

Q. Do you charge more for your sash than other manufacturers?

A. As a rule our prices are lower. Send for our catalogue No. 16, which gives prices on all sizes.

Q. Do you really think double glass sash are good?

A. Yes. There are thousands in use.

Q. In what way is your zero double glass sash better than other kinds?

A. Every light of glass sets in a notch all by itself and is independent of the others. It rests on the wood its entire length and is held in place by a clear cypress strip. This makes a better air space than any other sash has. Makes repairs easy. Both sides are glazed the same way.

Q. Do you carry a stock of sash ready to ship?

A. Yes. We usually ship in 24 hours after order is received.

If you contemplate painting your houses this year it will be well for you to investigate the merits of which I use exclusively in the erection of the large ranges of glass that I erect on private estates and public parks. I have increased my plant to take care of the demands made upon me for this paint by florists in all parts of the country. The LUTTON reputation for high-class material is back of this product. Send for a sample free of cost, and then you will send your order. We also furnish materials for the complete erection of modern Iron Frame Greenhouses. Some of the largest growers in the country will testify to this fact.

You Can Save Money Easily by the Simonds Vacuum Heating Way

SIMILARLY TO THE J. W. DAVIS CO., DAVENPORT, IOWA, OR THE GEO. H. MELLEN CO., SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.

A Davis House, 43 x 600, All in Sweet Peas.

Here are two briefs from well-known plants:

Simonds Heating & Spec. Co.,
Grand Rapids, Michigan.

ASHTABULA, OHIO, Feb. 15, 1912.

Gentlemen:—We have before us your inquiry regarding the continued operation of our Simonds Vacuum System and we are very glad to report as follows: One block of glass containing about three acres was fitted out with this system in the summer of 1906, and another block of about two acres in the summer of 1909. We are at this writing just drawing a long breath after six weeks of intense cold and stormy weather.

Neither plant has given us one moment's trouble, and we are well pleased with general results. We are able with this system to develop additional heat in any portion of the plant, and find radiation equally effective under the glass farthest removed from the boilers.

We think we made no mistake in selecting this method of heating and would put in the same if we had it to do again.

Wishing you success, we remain,

Truly yours,

DUNBAR & HOPKINS.

The Florists' Review editorially says in their issue of March 27th:

"Few men ever have investigated the subject more fully than did Mr. Davis, of the J. W. Davis Co., Davenport, Iowa, before deciding on the character of his new establishment. The Simonds Vacuum System is used throughout, and during the winter now closing excellent results have been secured, the houses having been heated on about one and one-half pounds of steam pressure in the most severe weather this winter."

THE ONLY PROOF IS THE OPINION OF USERS

You'll profit by looking into the merits of the Simonds One Pound heating way. It means the end of all your heating troubles and a plant fully protected against the coldest zero weather at a constant saving of fuel.

Write us—without obligation whatever we will advise you how you can get better heat with far less fuel. Won't you write us today?

Our Ohio Representative

In order to serve you better, we have opened an Ohio branch, where one of the most efficient greenhouse heating engineers in the country is at your service with a broad knowledge of every condition.

Ramblers and Other Climbing Roses

AMERICAN PILLAR (The Grand Single Climbing Rose). A new single-flowering variety of great beauty which appeals to everyone. The flowers are of enormous size, 3 to 4 inches across, of a lovely shade of pink, with a cluster of yellow stamens. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

MARECHAL NIEL. Bright, rich golden yellow. Field-grown, 5, $1.50; 100, $25.00.

GLOIRE DE DIJON. Color buff, orange center, very sweet-scented. Field-grown, 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

DOROTHY PERKINS. Resembles the Crimson Rambler, except in color, which is a lovely shell pink, holding a long time without fading. 4 to 5 feet, XX, 10, $1.75; 100, $15.00. 8 to 9 feet, XXX, 10, $2.25; 100, $20.00.

TAUSENDSCHON. The new Rambler Rose. The name, translated, means a "thousand beauties." Color beautiful rose, shading to pink, 5, $1.00; 100, $16.50.

CRIMSON RAMBLER. American grown. The only stock for forcing. Large, heavy plants, two years old, mossed and packed in bundles of 10. 3 to 5 feet, X, 10, $1.75; 100, $15.00. 4 to 6 feet, XX, 10, $2.25; 100, $20.00. 7 to 8 feet, extra heavy, XXX, 10, $4.00; 100, $35.00.

DELIGHT. Flowers are large, bright red, with white center. This variety is a decided acquisition. Flowers are borne in large clusters from forty to seventy-five in a cluster. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

HIAWATHA. The flowers are single, and are of a deep, intense crimson shade with the petals shading to a pure white base. Flowers very freely. Extra strong, 2-year, field-grown, flowering plants. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $18.00.

LADY GAY. A seedling from the popular Crimson Rambler, which it resembles in habit and general effect. The flowers are of a delicate cherry-pink color, which fades to soft white. Strong plants, field grown, 5 to 6 feet, 5, 85 cts.; 100, $15.00.

WEDDING BELLS. A seedling from the Crimson Rambler. The most beautiful Rose yet produced. The flowers are white with the upper half of soft pink. Fine for forcing. Extra strong, field-grown, flowering plants, 3-4 ft., 10, $15.00.

Flower of Fairfield

The Everblooming Crimson

This variety is a sport from the beautiful Crimson Rambler, is similar more brilliant and lasting than the favorite. Flower of Fairfield is a free grower and free bloomer. It begins to bloom early in the spring and continues until late in the autumn. It is rightly termed "perpetual blooming." Bundle of 5, $1.50; 100, $25.00.

VEILCHENBLAU (Violet-Blue). The blue flowers of this new rose are in large clusters, are semi-double, medium size and keep in bloom a long time; 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

ARTHUR T. BODDINGTON

For Decoration Day Forcing

Most of Our Roses are English Grown

Rambler, Etc. Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses

Blooming Bush, or Baby Rambler Roses

ROSE SEIMETH. A white Baby Rose, larger and better flowers than the type. An important fact is that it is the true rose perfume in a bush; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

DOROTHY. The same in habit as Baby Rambler, but the color of the flowers is similar to Dorothy Perkins. "Dorothy," when planted out, blooms perpetually from spring until fall. Bundle of 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

M. H. CUTBUSH. A grand addition to the Baby Rambler class. Intense crimson and exceptionally free flowering; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

ROBERT LEVAVASSEUR (The Baby Rambler). A dwarf-growing, blooming Crimson Rambler. Blooms when a small plant and clusters of flowers as large as those of the Crimson Rambler; 5, 85 cts.; 100, $16.00.

Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses

Hybrid Tea, or Everblooming Roses are more popular every year; while they are as the perpetuals, with slight variations in winter they carry over in shape and give a wealth of flowers through the summer months to the fall till frost checks them.

The following collection is the latest in this beautiful and increasing class and are two-year-old field-grown.

BEAUTY. Almost too well described, but as popular as twenty years ago. Rosy carmine shaded salmon; flowers large and free. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

BROWN. Creamy white. Each, 75 cts.; 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50. Coppery yellow, overspread with rose. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

TESTOUT. Bright satin rose, brighter center, large, full and free. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

Originated by the raiser of Etoile de Hollande. Perpetual flowering. Vigorous grower. The blooms are very full with broad petals, full and globular form; shrimp pink at the ends of petals, center coral red or salmon shaded with chrome yellow. Very free. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

LIBERTY. Very free flowering, bright crimson scarlet, of an even shade throughout; floriferous. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

DEAN HOLE. Large, full flowers; perfectly formed; large petals, silvery carmine shaded salmon; very distinct and free flowering and a beautiful rose for all purposes. Awarded Gold Medal, N. R. S. of England. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

GRUSS AN TEPLITZ. No rose in commerce can compare with this as a bedder. It is a perfect sheet of richest crimson scarlet all summer. A strong, vigorous grower. Bundle of 5, 85 cts.; 100, $15.00.

HARRY KIRK. New Irish, yellow Tea Rose. The blooms are large, full, with large, smooth petals of great substance; the form is perfect, the buds long and elegant. Color deep sulphur yellow, passing to a lighter shade at the edges of the petals. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

JULIET (Novelty.) This, perhaps, is the most distinct rose ever introduced for color, which is unique. It is of the same type as Soleil d'Or, Rayon d'Or and other Austrian Briers and their hybrids. It was introduced by Wm. Paul & Son in 1910. These types require very little pruning; simply remove dead and useless wood. The following is the raiser's description: "Outside of petals old gold, interior rich rosy red, changing to deep rose as the flowers expand. A very distinct and attractive novelty, blooming both in summer and autumn. Large and full, of powerful and delicious fragrance; most beautiful." Each, 50 cts.; 5, $2.25; 100, $40.00.

KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTORIA. An almost pure white rose. Shaded a beautiful primrose. Fine for indoor or outdoor summer blooming. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

KILLARNEY. This is a grand rose for either indoor or outdoor cultivation; is a strong grower, and the blooms, which are of a beautiful pink, are borne in great profusion. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

WHITE KILLARNEY. This white queen of the Irish roses excels any other of its class. The color is pure white. White Killarney, like its prototype, is unusually hardy and without protection has stood severe winters as far north as Boston. Bundle of 5, $1.25; 100, $20.00.

LADY HILLINGDON. Deep orange yellow; medium size; long and pointed bud. A beautiful rose for all purposes, also a good forcer. Bundle of 5, $1.75; 100, $30.00.

MADAME ABEL CHATENAY. Carmine rose, shaded salmon pink. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MAMAN COCHET. The best of all roses for summer flowering and cutting.

MAMAN COCHET (Pink). Color a clear, rich pink, changing to silvery rose; very double and fragrant. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MAMAN COCHET (White). A sport from the above, with all its characteristics; color a beautiful snow white, at times tinted with the faintest suggestion of blush, the same as is often found in the Bride. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MILDRED GRANT. Cream, with a faint blush of pale rose. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MME. JULES GROLEZ. A beautiful satiny china-rose color, very bright and attractive. A distinct and pretty rose, which should be planted extensively. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MME. RAVARY. Buds golden yellow, open flowers nankeen yellow. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MOLLY SHARMAN-CRAWFORD. Large, full flower; color delicate eau-de-Nil, which, as the flower expands, becomes dazzling white. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

MRS. AARON WARD. Indian yellow, occasionally washed salmon rose; very large, full elongated flowers; very free. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

PRESIDENT CARNOT. Almost pure white rose, shading to soft pink, very distinct and excellent for indoor or outdoor summer growing. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

PRINCE DE BULGARIE. Large and quite full; outer petals superb rosy flesh, with the reflex petals of a slightly lighter tint. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

RAYON D'OR (Novelty). One of Pernet-Ducher's greatest hybrids. Cadmium-yellow as the bloom begins to open, toning to sunflower-yellow when fully expanded. Fine, bronze-green foliage, glossy and absolutely immune from the attacks of mildew. Flowers large, full, of fine, globular form; superb. Each, 75 cts.; 5, $3.25; 100, $60.00.

RICHMOND. The well-known red rose of commerce. Bundle of 5, $1.00; 100, $17.50.

ROSE, ETOILE DE FRANCE. Superb crimson-red velvet, the center of the bloom vivid cerise red. The queen of the everblooming red roses. The most free-blooming and vigorous red rose ever introduced. Bundle of 5, 85 cts.; 100, $15.00.

BUDLONG'S BLUE RIBBON VALLEY

Received Highest Honors —at the— Chicago Flower Show

Not only is our Blue Ribbon Valley recognized by city buyers to be the best valley on our Chicago market, but it was likewise recognized by the judges at the Chicago Spring Flower Show to be the best valley exhibited, receiving highest honors or the Blue Ribbon award over all other Chicago market brands of cut valley with ease, although the judging was most critical on every point. We exhibited cut valley. Hence we undisputedly assert that Budlong's Blue Ribbon Valley is without its equal on this market.

The valley which we exhibited was not grown especially for this event, but was selected from our daily supply—the same you get when you order valley from us.

It costs you no more—why not use the best for your trade?

Also large supplies of Beauties, roses, carnations, sweet peas, and other seasonable spring stock and greens at the lowest market prices.

HONEST DEALINGS OUR MOTTO GOOD VALUES

We aim to please in every respect, and out-of-town customers will be benefited by sending us their orders; by so doing you will find we can save you money.

 We grow our own stock, thereby assuring you of getting absolutely fresh stock, besides SAVING YOU THE COMMISSION MAN'S PROFIT.

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW CHARMS NEW YORK

Grand Central Palace Scene of an Exhibition Without Parallel in the History of the Trade

It takes no second look at the third National Flower Show to demonstrate that the committee of which Charles H. Totty is chairman has done its work well.

New York has worked for two years, with the aid of many at other places, for the success which is being achieved in America's metropolis this week. With the high mark set at Boston in 1911, it was a big task to equal, not to say excel that record, but the work of many men, many minds and many months has resulted in an exhibition of which all America may well be proud. The arrangements were as nearly perfect as experience could make them and the show was ready on the stroke of 6 o'clock Saturday evening, April 5, when the public was admitted. At noon it seemed inconceivable that so much could be accomplished, but every exhibit was in its place, the judges had completed their work and every detail had been attended to when the doors were thrown open to an already waiting line of visitors. The show continues till 11 p. m. Saturday, April 12.

There is magnificent material in this show. The quality of some of the exhibits never has been equaled before in America, not even at the Boston exhibition, which easily eclipsed everything in the more distant past. It is again to the private gardener that the greater part of the credit for the display must be given, although some of the commercial growers have not only brought large quantities but show splendid quality; still, without the gardeners the show would be nowhere. They have the skill, they took the time and they produced the results.

In extent this show is about the same as the last National Show, at Boston. In some respects it excels in quality, but in others it falls short. It is not so strong either in roses or in bulbous flowers, but it is stronger in hardwooded plants, in trade exhibits and especially in hydrangeas. Few, if any, in the trade have seen elsewhere such beautiful pot plants as the new French hydrangeas now on exhibition in the Grand Central Palace. In orchids, too, the show is stronger than any other given by the S. A. F. and it is expected that as the week develops the special flower societies will make displays in the sections under their charge that will eclipse all previous records.

It is almost a misnomer to call this the International Show. The original title was National Flower Show and it would better have been retained; the international feature is imparted more had to go onto the third floor. The stairs to the second floor are not good, and by no means all the visitors see all the show. Again, too, the floor space is broken into by rows of massive columns, which cut off the view. Because of these adverse conditions, the show does not present the beautiful picture that is possible only where the display can be staged on one unobstructed floor, such as is available in the Coliseum at Chicago or the Armory at Baltimore, where the last two S. A. F. conventions have been held. There are some wonderfully beautiful views in the present show, but the visitor does not find them spread at his feet; he has to hunt them up for himself. It may be a criticism, but it is nobody's fault; the only building in New York that has a large unobstructed floor space is being used this month by a circus, so that at the moment New York has in progress two "greatest shows on earth."

How thoroughly the world has been ransacked in the search for new plants of commercial value is shown by the paucity of new plants in the present exhibition. There are, of course, the usual number of new roses, carnations and other cut flower subjects, but there are surprisingly few outstanding novelties in plants of value to the florists. The trade appears to advance nowadays more by means of improved culture than it does by the acquisition of new subjects for the plantmen to work with.

In this show the trade exhibits have assumed a new importance. In anticipation of a large attendance of florists, there was the usual demand for space on the part of those who wished to put their wares before the trade buyers, but the notable increase is in the exhibits that are planned with the one idea of attracting the business of the seed, bulb and plant buying public. And a number of these so-called trade exhibits are not one bit less meritorious from an exhibition standpoint than are the leading competitive exhibits. Possibly the one exhibit most likely to be remembered by the casual observer is one designed simply to sell bulbs and seeds;

Yours very truly,

C. H. Totty

by the presence of several well known Europeans on the board of judges than it is by foreign exhibits, for the latter are so few as to be inconspicuous. The show as a whole, however, is not open to criticism; only good can be said of it. It is true that the building in which the show is being held, while one of the finest in New York, is not well adapted to flower show purposes. While large in area, two floors are not sufficient to hold the show and the overflow but the commercial feature has been carefully kept in the background; the general effect is what has been sought.

On the whole, it must be said that the third National Flower Show has marked another advance. It has carried the trade a step farther than it ever has gone before, and it is bringing flowers more conspicuously to the attention of the people of New York than they ever have been brought before. The attendance on the opening night was not up to expectations, for New York is proverbially difficult to get to sit up and take notice, but the crowds are increasing. About the time the close is in sight the people of Gotham will awaken to the fact that to miss this show is to miss a chance the like of which they never have had before.

The attendance of those in the trade is large, and it, too, is growing. During the eight days the show runs, pretty nearly everybody east of Buffalo will see it, but the west is not turning out as was expected; not so well as it did at Boston two years ago.

SOME SPECIAL FEATURES.

Quality High Throughout.

The present International Show proves that New York can put up a display equal to any other city in America. It remains to be seen whether the financial outcome will be perfectly satisfactory, but certainly those who have labored so hard for this show deserve all possible praise and it is hoped the ledger will show a balance on the right side.

Compared with the Boston show in 1911, the present exhibition is of about equal size. The floor on which the bulk of the plant exhibits are staged is considerably smaller in area than the hall of Mechanics' building, Boston, and the many massive columns detract in some degree from the beauty of the show as a whole. Large exhibits are so cut up as to lose in some degree their individuality, but the view from the upper floor when artificial light is used is extremely pleasing.

The Large Groups.

Large groups such as W. A. Manda, Farquhar & Co., M. H. Walsh and Thomas Roland had at Boston were not to be seen here, the exhibits being more broken up. Mr. Roland's group was again the star feature of the exhibition. It was a pity that he could not arrange it as pleasingly as he could have wished, but the whole collection showed superb culture and proved the Nahant grower to be a master hand in the growing of hard-wooded plants. In this remarkable group acacias were a strong feature and included many beautiful specimens of A. pubescens, heterophylla, Drummondii, armata, armata pendula, longiflora and cordata. Ericas included melanthera, Caffra densa, rosea and codonodes. Some grandly flowered specimens of Bougainvillea Sanderiana gave a pleasing touch of color to the whole. Mr. Roland also had a nice crop of cyclamens.

Orchids were splendidly shown and in far greater profusion than at Boston two years ago. In Messrs. Roehrs' beautifully arranged group I noted, among other good things, Brasso-cattleya Langleyensis, Brasso-cattleya Thorntonii, Laelio-cattleya Hyeana, Dendrobium thyrsoflorum in quantity, Oncidium Marshallianum, Cymbidium Sanderæ, Odontoglossum Harryanum crispum, Odontoglossum Rolfeæ, odontiodas in variety, Dendrobium Artemis and Dendrobium Bronkhartii.

The Orchids.

James Goodier, gardener to C. G. Roebbing, Trenton, N. J., also had a superb and tastefully arranged group. Some of his best varieties were the beautiful Cattleya suavior C. G. Roebbing, Cattleya intermedia alba, Cattleya Skinneri alba, the pure white Dendrobium nobile Ashworthianum, Miltonia Bleuana, Odontioda Charlesworthi, Dendrobium Apollo grandiflorum, Dendrobium Cybele nobilior, Cypripedium Maudiae magnificum and Epi-cattleya Guatemalensis.

Lager & Hurrell were, as usual, represented by a fine group, which included Cymbidium eburneum, Dendrobium Jamesianum, Miltonia Rozlii alba, Odontiodas Sanderæ and Bradshawia, Brasso-lælia Veitchii, Phalænopsis Rimestadiana, Brasso-cattleya Langleyensis, Cattleya Wellsiana and Odontoglossum Hibernicum. W. A. Manda had a lot of choice odontoglossums, oncidiums, cattleyas, miltonias, dendrobes and cypripediums. Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J., showed some choice orchids, as did a number of other trade and private gardeners, and this portion of the show was one of the strong features.

The hybrid amaryllis from William Duckham, gardener to Mrs. D. Willis James, were superb, and among the best I have ever seen at any exhibition. They had a wide range of colors, some being nearly white, while others were deep crimson. From Howard Gould, Castle Gould, a nice collection of these also came.

The rose groups from William Duckham and Samuel Untermeyer, W. H. Waite, gardener, were both tastefully arranged. Mr. Waite won, but many good judges preferred Mr. Duckham's group. Mr. Duckham showed some fine specimen Phoenix Roebelenii and several collections of stove and greenhouse plants that denoted high culture. The Julius Roehrs Co., W. A. Manda and several others had some fine specimen foliage plants.

The French Hydrangeas.

The groups of the new French hydrangeas Mme. Mouillere and General de Vibraye, from Louis Dupuy, were a great attraction. The trusses and individual flowers of the former were of remarkable size. Mr. Dupuy also had a good group of roses, one of ericas and a number of acacias.

The trade exhibit of A. N. Pierson, Inc., was a great credit to Wallace R. Pierson. Splendidly grown Adiantum Farleyense were used in profusion; also Cattleya Schrodæra, rambler roses, and cut roses in variety.

Peter Henderson & Co.'s bulb garden charmed everyone. The verdant lawns and beds of single and double early tulips, as well as Darwin and other late tulips, narcissi and hyacinths, with suitable backgrounds of evergreens, formed one of the most refreshing exhibits in the lower hall.

F. R. Pierson Co. had an extensive collection of nephrolepis. They also came out well in many competitive classes. Buxton's Killarney Pink snapdragon here also attracted much attention. The Mount Desert Nurseries, Bar Harbor, Me., had twenty-five varieties of astilbes, a number of which will be found referred to in the notes on novelties.

Marguerites a Feature.

Madsen & Christensen, Wood Ridge, N. J., and Mrs. Oliver Hoyt, Stamford, Conn., had beautiful displays of marguerites. Specimen plants, half a dozen in number, of Begonia Gloire de Sceaux from W. B. Thompson, R. I. Crossman, gardener, were also noteworthy, as was Mrs. H. McK. Twombly's large specimen clivia from her superintendent, Robert Tyson.

Gardenias from J. T. Pratt, J. W. Everett, gardener, were fine. C. B. Newbold, J. W. Pepper, gardener, had some of his immense Azalea Indica grandly flowered. His Cibotium Schiedeii, over fifteen feet across, was also a magnificent specimen. He also had good standard wistarias and many other plants.

Knight & Struck's table of hardwooded plants contained many gems, all finely flowered. A few of the best were Erica translucens, Fabiana imbricata, perspicua erecta, ventricosa magnifica, rosea and cupressina; Aotus gracillima, Diosma ericoides, Boronia elatior, Agapetes buxifolia and Acacia cordata.

William Tricker's exhibit contained a few gems. Among others I was charmed to see Daphne Gwenka, Azalea Azamashikori and Andromeda speciosa.

Schizanthus Par Excellence.

Schizanthus were a strong feature here. The prize-winning six from C. K. G. Billings, James Bell, gardener, were splendidly grown. Cineraria stellata were shown in quantity, but the season was late for these. Cyclamens were not up to the standard of the Boston shows. H. Papworth, of the Metairie Ridge Nursery, New Orleans, La., had a truly remarkable display of Lilium Harrisii, which were in grand condition after their long journey.

William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., made an exhibit of pansies which almost took away the breath of many of the old-timers. He was unfortunate in being given a poor location on the third floor. His pansies should have had a prominent place on the main floor.

A. C. Zvolanek had sixty varieties of winter-flowering Spencer sweet peas, which contained some gems. These will soon knock the old grandifloras out of the running.

Bobbink & Atkins, Julius Roehrs Co. and W. A. Manda all had extensive collections of coniferous evergreens, boxwoods in many forms, ivies and bay trees. Mrs. H. McK. Twombly had some bay trees of remarkable size.

William Ziegler, Jr., had a collection of the finest commercial-grown hydrangeas of the new French types I have yet seen.

Anton Schultheis and other specialists were well to the front, as usual, with Dutch bulbous plants.

L. E. Small, Tewksbury, Mass., showed a vase of bachelor's buttons that for length of stem and size of flower were quite out of the ordinary.

Flower lovers are proverbially art lovers as well, and consequently many found pleasure in a display of pictures in oil and pastel by Mary Helen Carlisle, of London, showing famous old English gardens.

W. N. Craig.

THE TRADE EXHIBITS.

Business End of the Big Show.

The trade exhibits at the International Flower Show in New York this week are a big feature; the number and extent are scarcely less than at the annual August conventions of the S. A. F. and, indeed, the same exhibitors, as a rule, are there, with the addition of large and costly displays by New York seed houses and others aimed to attract the patronage of the general public rather than that of the trade visitors. The high rental, causing space to be sold at from $1 to $1.50 per square foot, has, of course, resulted in most of the exhibitors in the business section keeping their displays from spreading over any more space than is necessary, but at that several firms are paying from $1,000 to $1,500 for their floor rent, and spending in some cases a good deal more than that on the exhibits themselves. A number of the trade exhibitors have kept the commercial end in the background, so that their displays are as attractive as those entered for the blue ribbons instead of for the gold dollars. This feature of the show was handled by Secretary John Young, and he is to be credited with having developed one of the best departments of the show. A brief review of the exhibits follows:

Baskets and Ribbons.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, shows a general line of the better qualities of ribbons and corsage ties, a feature being made of colors to match the newer varieties of flowers, such as Mrs. Russell and Irish Fire Flame roses. In the ties the increasing popularity of sweet peas for corsage wear is recognized by a range of colors affording a match for all the newer varieties of Spencer peas.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, brought a large auto truckload by road ninety miles. The display includes a line of baskets, bouquet holders, perpetuated foliages, metal wreaths and Memorial day supplies. Among the newer things is an arm basket finished in gold, for wedding uses, decorated baskets with colored flower garlands, the Ideal basket for long-stemmed flowers, a tumbler basket in colors, shown filled with cut flowers; also curled-edge waterproof crepe paper in all colors for pot covers.

Lion & Co., New York, show a line of ribbons and chiffons, featuring a new glase ribbon, a jacquard ribbon to match the leading flower colors, and a double band chiffon.

Reed & Keller, New York, have a large display of baskets, wirework, vases, foliage wreaths, pot covers and metal designs, using 300 square feet of space. A new wire design is a model of the battleship New York. A new plant stand is called the Ecclesiastical. Baskets are shown in the popular Bulgarian colors, and the bright tints are said to take surprisingly well. Several light, graceful forms of Parisian plant baskets and cut flower vases for table and other decorations are shown.

Schloss Bros., New York, have a fine display of ribbons, chiffons, corsage ties and bouquet holders. A novelty is figured chiffon over ribbon. A table decoration centerpiece of ribbon also is new.

Russin & Hanfling, New York, show a large line of novelty baskets, featuring an antique finish in green and pink. They have a considerable showing of Princess baskets, favor baskets and decorated baskets, also a decorated American Beauty vase. In addition to metal wreaths they have a new thistle wreath in several colors.

H. G. Dreyer & Son, Cleveland, stage a large line of decorating plant stands and attachments.

M. Adler, New York, has a table exclusively of corsage pins in many styles.

J. G. Neidinger, Philadelphia, has a large display of wreaths of wax flowers, wreaths of prepared foliage, trimmed with artificial flowers, and some special shapes in tall baskets and vases for long-stemmed flowers.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, have a booth with desks, chairs and a stenographer for the use of the trade visitors, with salesmen to extend any courtesies to those who may not know where to find the things they want in New York.

Plants.

A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., has a beautifully arranged group occupying a corner and extending high on the wall. The staging necessary was built at home and shipped with the plants. The place of honor in the center, surrounded by splendid Farleyense ferns, is, of course, occupied by Milady rose. There are rambler roses in variety, some of them trained with special skill and profusely flowered. Cattleyas show up well, as do hydrangeas, azaleas, both Indica and mollis; bougainvilleas and spiræas. Many palms are used in the background and the lower staging is used to display bedding stock in variety. Carnation blooms show the stock now being cut at Cromwell.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, has a display of plants principally of the sizes florists buy for growing on. A large number of varieties of crotons is the leading feature, but the exhibit includes ferns in variety, roses, hydrangeas, pandanus, dracenas, palms, begonias, Ficus pandurata, ivies and many other plants.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., has two tables of ferns, showing Harrisii, elegantissima, compacta, magnifica and muscosa in various sizes. As a part of the exhibit are some splendid vases of Buxton's Pink snapdragon, from George E. Buxton, Nashua, N. H., and Carnation Princess Dagmar, from M. A. Patten & Co., Tewkesbury, Mass. This carnation is of deep crimson, of largest size, on wonderfully stiff stems considering their length, and lights up beautifully. Another feature of the display is Begonia Gloire de Chatelaine, a continuous bloomer and good bedder, not new but not so well known as it should be.

Roman J. Irwin, New York, has a well arranged bank of plants surrounding several plates of gladiolus bulbs. Most of the stock is in sizes for the trade to grow on and includes Adiantum Farleyense, genistas, begonias, cannas, asparagus, ferns in variety, cyclamens, gardenias, English ivy, lemon verbenas, Calla Elliottiana, 2½-inch roses, carnation cuttings, mum cuttings, and field grown roses.

H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, has as the chief feature of its exhibit Geranium Helen Michell, a large number of plants carrying fine tresses of flowers. Michell's royal purple salvia is another novelty. New hybrid freesias in colors are shown, also Gerbera Jamesoni hybrida, Phlox Laphami, Perry variety; and Lilium plentiflorum, a type of giganteum.

Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa., has a group of kentias, both Forsteriana and Belmoreana, in all sizes and made up plants; also Cibotium Schiedei and Phoenix Ræbelenii, the plants on which the company specializes.

Knight & Struck Co., New York, have one of the best displays in the trade section, hard-wooded flowering plants in twenty-seven varieties. Notable in the collection are the new Bauera rubioides, Boronia elatior, Hardenbergia monophylla, Coronella glauca, Acacia cordata, Aotus gracillima, Genista elegans and such odd varieties of Erica as translucens, ventricosa magnifica, perspicua erecta and Sindryana.

Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., have a corner of one floor for a unique exhibit of English ivies grown in tubs and trained in many unusual forms, like horses, knights, etc. In another part of the hall they have a display of plant tubs, some of them of great size and unusual shape.

Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., has a pond of water lilies, including seven varieties of Nymphaea, among them the new N. Daubeniana; also plants for the edges of water gardens, some choice hardy azaleas, Daphne Genkwa and andromedas.

Mt. Desert Nurseries, Bar Harbor, Me., has a group of astilbes (spiræas) in which there are thirty-six plants and nearly as many varieties, white and pink.

P. H. Goodsell, New York, shows fifteen evergreens in tubs, including some broad-leaved varieties.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston, have a group of new and rare plants from the north of China, collected by E. H. Wilson. Prominent in the display is Lilium myriophyllum.

Bulbs and Seeds.

Ralph M. Ward & Co., New York, have an exhibit of Japanese lily bulbs in the original cases, to which plate glass tops have been fitted. The line includes giganteums in all sizes, auratum platyphyllum, album Kretzeri, auratum 15 to 20-inch in circumference and magnificum 19 to 24-inch. There is a table of literature on bulbs.

J. M. Thorburn & Co., New York, occupy almost all of one end of the building with a cottage garden scene, with pansy beds in the front and borders of Dutch bulbs in bloom. This is flanked on either side by groups of hard-wooded plants in flower, palms, agaves, begonias, caladiums, lilies, cycas and large cacti, with some vases of cut flowers, principally gladioli. At one end is a large display of vegetables. A stereomotorgraph shows a never-ending succession of garden views in colors.

John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, N. Y., has a display of miscellaneous bulbs in upwards of fifty varieties, principally gladioli, amaryllises and lilies. Blooming plants of Calla Elliottiana, amaryllis and watsonia are shown in flower; also a blooming plant of Chrysanthemum Glory of Seven Oaks, yellow. Some big squashes are a novelty at a flower show. Attention is called to Felicia amelloides in flower. Some palms and vases of cut gladioli complete the exhibit.

Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y., has a table of gladiolus bulbs, the varieties being Peace and War. He also has an automatic lantern throwing a never-ending succession of colored pictures on a screen, illustrating the processes of preparing the bulbs for planting, cultivation, harvesting the blooms, harvesting the bulbs, etc., as done at Meadowvale farm.

Peter Henderson & Co., New York, have one of the most elaborate of the trade exhibits. It occupies 1,000 square feet of space and the commercial feature is kept in the background. A typical scene in Holland has been worked out, with a Dutch cottage at the rear and a bulb garden in the foreground. The space is sodded and the bulb beds and borders are made of stock in pots so sunken as to appear to be planted out. The sign reads "Holland in America."

feature of lawn supplies, including a large display of grass seeds in glass jars and lawn mixtures in cartons and bags. They also show lawn and garden tools.

B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass., has a display of Cedar Acres gladiolus bulbs and gladiolus literature.

W. E. Marshall & Co., New York, have an attractive showing of lawn grass seed, packets of vegetable and flower seeds, garden tools and bulbs in bloom.

C. Keur & Sons, Hillegom, Holland, have a table of bulb literature, with four of the firm's representatives in attendance.

Cut Flowers and Plants.

Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., has a table on which the conspicuous feature is the Mrs. George Shawyer rose. Northport carnation also is shown. Here also are the only chrysanthemums in the show. Several vases of the standard varieties of carnations and roses complete the display.

Max Schling, New York, has one of the most attractive exhibits, not only in the trade section but in the whole show. It is entirely retail work. The baskets of blooming plants are not only well arranged but the color combinations, with ribbons, are excellent. A miniature table decoration is shown in the center and in the foreground are vases of cut flowers. Mr. Schling will change the stock from day to day to keep the exhibit fresh.

R. G. Wilson, Brooklyn, has a large group of plants and cut flowers, a purely retailers' display arranged for effect, Carnation Brooklyn being the central and most conspicuous feature. Mr. Wilson also has the privilege for the sale of flowers in the exhibition hall.

Building Material.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York, has an especially fine display. It is a complete private greenhouse establishment. The house itself is 20x40, of curved eave iron frame construction, with a completely equipped workroom at the rear and a round sectional hot water boiler in a half basement. The 4-way piping system is carried out to the last detail. The worm gear ventilating apparatus is where the visitors can try how easily it works. The benches are the cast iron pattern and are filled with blooming plants. Beneath the eaves are transparencies showing private greenhouse establishments and commercial ranges the company has built. The exhibit in its entirety occupies 1,000 square feet and in that part of the hall space was sold at $1.50 per square foot.

Hitchings & Co., New York, have a full sized section of a curved eave conservatory with their worm gear ventilating apparatus. The benches are galvanized iron with slate bottoms. A large line of greenhouse fittings is shown and in the center of the house is a Hitchings sectional hot water boiler. The benches are filled with plants in bloom, to give the effect of such a house as the amateur might well aspire to have for his own.

The Metropolitan Material Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., has a section of an iron frame greenhouse showing the same space covered by one span and by two spans, the latter embodying a newly patented iron gutter. The bars between the iron eave and iron wall plate are held without nails or screws. A new worm gear ventilating machine is shown in three styles. There is an iron frame bench with end supports for string wires. A new putty machine is shown, with one spout for repairs and two spouts for new work.

The King Construction Co., North Tonawanda, N. Y., shows a model greenhouse of its flat iron rafter construction on concrete walls, embodying side as well as ridge ventilation. A number of large framed photographs of commercial establishments and private conservatories the company has built hang on a screen that closes the back of the booth.

The Pierson U-Bar Co., New York, has a conservatory of the curved eave construction, with tile bottomed iron frame benches, showing ventilation in the concrete wall below the benches as well as at the ridge. The house is completely piped for hot water heating. A large number of photographs are shown of ranges of this and other types built for its customers.

Means & Thacher, Boston, show their Winner brand greenhouse paint and putty, also the greenhouse construction materials of the Geo. M. Garland Co., Des Plaines, Ill., for which the firm is New England agents. The latter includes the Garland cast iron gutter, the Garland truss house and the movable form, also bench frame and greenhouse fittings.

The Mead-Suydam Co., East Orange, N. J., shows its mold for making reinforced concrete greenhouse benches, the Wilson-Hoyt patent, a few pieces from its line of concrete lawn vases, flower boxes and architectural concrete.

C. B. Weathered & Son, Jersey City, N. J., show a section of a curved eave conservatory with worm gear ventilator machine and iron frame bench, also photographs of their construction.

The Quaker City Machine Co., Richmond, Ind., shows the Challenge chain gear ventilating machine and a line of greenhouse fittings, all nicely finished in gold with green trimmings.

Heating Specialties.

The Johnston Heating Co., New York, shows a large return tubular boiler, also a new circulator for accelerating the movement of hot water in heating coils, the latter in operation, driven by an electric motor and throwing a large volume of cold water.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, shows a new model boiler for steam or hot water, made in sizes up to 3,000 feet of radiation in capacity. It has no flues; direct heating surface, downward fire travel, self-cleaning. Drawings and photographs show heating plans, piping systems, generator attachment, etc.

Wm. S. Haines & Co., Philadelphia, show an expansion controller valve for vacuum heating systems.

The American Auxiliary Heating Co., Boston, shows two Castle automatic circulators for speeding up the flow in hot water heating systems.

Hubert V. Pearce, Detroit, shows the Pearce return steam trap and boiler feeder for draining the coils in steam heating plants.

J. P. Dahlborn, Weehawken Heights, N. J., shows the Hontsch hot water boiler in two styles, five sizes of one of them. It is made in Germany.

Insecticides and Fertilizers.

Hammond's Slug Shot Works, Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y., has a display of greenhouse paint and putty, Slug Shot, Grape Dust, Thrips Juice, copper solution and other insecticides, also a paint and gutter cleaner.

The Lemon Oil Co., Baltimore, has a table of its Standard insecticide.

The New York Stable Manure Co., Jersey City, N. J., has a stand to show dried and ground horse manure.

The Consumers Fertilizer Co., New York, has a booth for the display of Mak-grow odorless fertilizer, with literature on fertilizers by George T. Powell.

The Bon Arbor Chemical Co., Paterson, N. J., has a booth to show Bon Arbor fertilizer and Radix worm eradicator.

The Plantlife Co., New York, shows an insecticide said to have as its principal ingredient refined tobacco sand.

Miscellaneous.

The Revere Rubber Co., Boston, has the same pergola of Revere hose that has been shown at florists' conventions in various parts of the country and in addition an enormous reel of hose that stands higher than a tall man's head. The center of the reel, however, is a miniature garden scene in which a gardener is sprinkling with real water running through a tiny hose. The view is through a plate glass front, a distinctly novel exhibit.

The Caldwell Lawn Mower Co., Newburgh, N. Y., has an attractive display of mowers, propelled by man, beast and motor.

J. Horace McFarland Co., Harrisburg, Pa., has a display of horticultural literature and a number of publishers of gardening and outdoor magazines and books have booths.

John C. Hatcher, Amsterdam, N. Y., has a display of Asparagus Hatcheri, both cut strings and plants in pots for benching.

Gt. Van Waveren & Kruijff, Philadelphia, have a group of the new pink spiraea that bears the name America.

The Industry Moss & Peat Co., Waretown, N. J., has a display of sphagnum moss.

Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., has a table of plants, including freshly imported cattleyas and a general line of decorative stock in commercial sizes, the larger plants for retailing being shown in the exhibitors' decorative groups and other entries for competition.

Arthur T. Boddington, New York, has an "office" decorated with some attractive boxes of tulips, etc.

The Aphine Mfg. Co., Madison, N. J., has a table of its insecticides, Aphine, Fungine, Sketorid, etc.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., has a table of new plants, principally Polypodium Mandaianum, in the center of which are the diplomas, medals and cups won by him at the recent London International Show.

Warnaar & Co., Sassenheim, Holland, have a group of the new narcissus named King Alfred that are of splendid quality.

J. L. Dillon, Bloomsburg, Pa., has a display of young rose plants in 2½-inch pots.

NOVELTIES AT NEW YORK.

New Spiræas.

The familiar expression, "What have you new?" was, as usual, heard on every hand. Nothing sensational in the novelty line was to be seen, but there were some good things, nevertheless, which will become popular in a year or two. The group of twenty-five astilbes from the Mount Desert Nurseries, Bar Harbor, Me., A. E. Thatcher, manager, attracted much attention, while some of the older sorts, like Gladstone, Peach Blossom and astilboides, were included. The bulk were new hybrids, mostly raised by Aug. Haerens, although a few were Lemoine's. These are rather later growing than the older sorts, being the result of crosses between Chinese varieties, such as grandis and Davidii, on Peach Blossom and other dwarf varieties.

A few of the best of these, which have great possibilities both for pot plant and outdoor culture, are: Vesta, pink; Venus, beautiful deep pink; Haerens No. 4; Silver Way, charming pale pink; Mme. Rose, one of Lemoine's pink, foliage fine; Ceres, peach pink; Juno, deep pink, and Panache, another Lemoine variety.

The French hydrangeas, such as General de Vibraye and Mme. Mouillere, although not entirely new, were never before seen in as fine condition as here. The plants as grown by Louis Dupuy possess wonderful commercial possibilities.

New Chinese Plants.

Among the new Chinese plants collected in China by E. H. Wilson, and old gracilis; Deutzia longifolia, delicate pink, a fine acquisition; Exochorda grandiflora Wilsoni, a glorified form of the well known Pearl Bush; Lonicera Maackii Podocarpa; Berberis Wilsoni and B. laevis, each with striking foliage; Ampelopsis Henryana and Thomsoni, with beautiful foliage like Cissus discolor; Azalea Kaempferi; Cotoneaster horizontalis; Syringa Wilsoni; Berberis Gagnepainii; Ampelopsis Leeoides; Spiraea Henryi, white, very free flowering, and Vitis megaphylla.

New Orchids.

Quite a few new orchids were in evidence. From Sir Jeremiah Colman, Gatton Park Gardens, England, came the fine hybrid odontoglossum, Queen of Gatton, a cross between O. triumphans and O. percellum. Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J., showed Cattleya Cappei alba, pure white, a cross between two other white cattleyas and fairly intermediate. Laelio-Cattleya Highburyensis, from C. Sandiford, gardener to J. J. Albright, Buffalo, while not entirely new, was finely flowered.

The most noteworthy orchid, probably, in the orchid department was a beautiful plant, carrying two fine spikes, of the brilliant Odontioda Bradshawii from Sir Jeremiah Colman. This is a cross between Cochlioda Noezliana and Odontoglossum crispum var. Mary Colman, awarded a gold medal.

F. R. Pierson Co. showed the comparatively new, bright fibrous begonia, Gloire de Chatelaine, equally good as a pot plant or for bedding. They also had a fine vase of Patten's sensational new carnation, Princess Dagmar. Another foreign exhibit was a group of Narcissus King Alfred, the finest of the newer large golden yellow trumpet daffodils, from Warnaar & Co., Sassenheim, Holland. A deep pink spiraea named America, from Gt. Van Waveren shown by R. & J. Farquhar & Co., of Boston, the beautiful Lilium myriophyllum stood out prominently. Bulbs in 2½-inch pots were flowering, some carrying as many as three buds each. Some fine new shrubs were also included here. Some of the more striking were: Deutzia discolor, a big improvement on the & Kruijff, was another pleasing novelty.

Miscellaneous Plants.

Among the red roses the dwarf polyantha, Bordure, of a pleasing pink shade, was the best. Silver Moon and Dr. Van Fleet also had their admirers.

Exhibits of Roman J. Irwin and W. E. Marshall & Co., at the National Flower Show This Week.

These were well shown by Percy Chubb, Glen Cove, L. I.

The Robert Craig Co., as usual, had a number of charming new crotons and dracænas. A sport from Nephrolepis Amerpohlii, named N. Smithii, is also a new variety which is going to make a strong bid for popular favor. Ficus utilis and the older F. pandurata are features here. The former is being heavily propagated and ten houses are now devoted to it. As a commercial plant it is sure to stand in the front ranks. A new, large-flowered impatiens from J. Canning, gardener to A. Lewisohn, will probably prove useful in a moderate way. The blooms equal in size one of the large-flowered achiemenes.

Among ferns, Cyrtomium falcatum Rochfordianum was most prominently shown among the newer sorts. Platyceriums, although not new, were evidently popular with visitors, judging from the way they scrutinized them. These were remarkably well shown by W. A. Manda and a number of other exhibitors.

The jurors awarded the gold medal for the best new plant to Lilium myriophyllum, from R. & J. Farquhar & Co., and in this they made no mistake. Taken all in all, the novelties were well up to the average, even though nothing remarkable. W. N. Craig.

THE ROSES.

The American Rose Society took charge of affairs for Monday, April 7, and the addition of the cut blooms added wonderfully to the attractiveness of the show. Without question it was the finest display of roses that ever has been made anywhere in the world. In no other country would such quality ever be possible and it excelled all previous exhibitions in America. Never before has a rose show brought out such a magnificent lot of flowers. The quality was a revelation, even to the growers themselves. For length of stem, size of flower and perfection of form and color nothing to equal this rose show as a whole ever has been staged. And the quantity was greater than has heretofore been seen. The number of entries excelled everything in the history of the American Rose Society, and the quantity of stock staged was so great that the work could not be accomplished until the time limit had been extended; then the judging was slow, because of the large number of entries and the fact that competition was so keen. It was evening before all the work was completed.

There were eight entries of 100 Beauties! Also there were seven entries of fifty Beauties, and six of twenty-five. It was all eastern stock except for one exhibitor. And Chicago carried off the prizes! Poehlmann Bros. Co. was first for 100 Beauties and for fifty Beauties. That surely is "going some" for flowers that had been in the boxes for forty hours. And these were not the only Poehlmann successes. The list of awards tells the story.

The competition was equally close on the other roses, and the prizes were well distributed, although A. N. Pierson got seven ribbons on eight entries. Such Killarneys have not previously been seen. Not an entry out of the ten on the floor but had stems better than five feet long! The buds easily measured four inches in length, but it was noticeable that the awards went to the exhibits that were well developed rather than to those that were on the tight side, in condition to be at their best after the more open flowers were on the down grade. The White Killarneys were of equal quality. The Killarney Queen are worth a special mention. Both A. N. Pierson and F. R. Pierson Co. had vases of this variety that were in every way in the Beauty class; for length of stem and size of flower they were probably the best examples of rose culture ever put on exhibition.

No surprises were sprung in the way of new roses. Mrs. Russell was extremely fine and was the center of special interest because so many growers have bought stock of it. Milady, another of this season's debutantes, was shown by the disseminator in excellent shape. Robert Scott & Son showed Irish Fire Flame in the best shape it has yet been seen. They also had a vase of Killarney Brilliant, another Killarney sport, that was not for competition but looked specially good. W. H. Elliott had only one entry, Mrs. Wakefield Christy Miller, not a new rose, but one that is not generally grown.

The judges were George Asmus, Adam Graham, Patrick Welch, Philip Breitmeyer, A. B. Cartledge and Harry Papworth. The awards were as follows: competition. It was principally interesting from the fact that, while the work was commendable, the competition was participated in by only two New York retailers where many supposed they would all jump at the chance of advertising to the high class crowds who are attending the show. Alfred T. Bunyard and Max Schling are the two who entered; they went into every class, as did one retailer from Buffalo and another from Boston. The tables were especially attractive. The awards were:

Fifty Killarney—First, Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass.; second, Joseph Heacock, Wyncote, Pa.

Corsage bouquet of roses—First, S. A. Anderson, Buffalo; second, Alfred T. Bunyard, New York.

Bridal bouquet of roses—First, Max Schling, New York; second, Alfred T. Bunyard.

Basket of roses—First, S. A. Anderson; second, A. T. Bunyard.

Table decoration of roses—First, A. T. Bunyard; second, Max Schling.

Mantel decoration of roses—First, A. T. Bunyard; second, Max Schling.

THE CARNATIONS.

The American Carnation Society took charge of the program Tuesday, April bury, Mass., show three fine vases of Princess Dagmar, a large dark crimson; also Mrs. C. W. Barron, a flaked variety originated by Dailedouze. Albert Roper, Tewksbury, Mass., has Miss A. Coombs, silvery pink, and one of the surprises of the show. Dailedouze Bros., Brooklyn, have Enchantress Supreme, a salmon pink sport of Enchantress. The Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y., show Matchless, glistening white; also Virginia, white, with flushed center. Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass., has Gorgeous, dark pink, in the same form as last year. John Barr, South Natick, Mass., has Mrs. B. P. Cheney, a splendid variegated. A. S. Burns, Jr., Spring Valley, N. Y., shows Electra, bright red, of excellent promise. C. S. Stout, Biddeford, Me., has a large white sport of Winsor. Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., show Wm. Eccles, scarlet, and Lady Northcliffe, white. W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., has Morningside, a new salmon pink of promise. Henke Bros., Watervliet, N. Y., also have several seedlings worthy of mention, and there are a number of novelties of which only a few flowers are shown. On the whole, it is a showing of new varieties that is remarkable for large size of flowers, length and strength of stem, purity of color and the fact that each one excels anything known a few years ago.

The awards were:

One hundred white—Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y., first, on Alma Ward; E. A. Stroud, Strafford, Pa., second, on White Perfection.

One hundred flesh—F. B. Adams, Blue Point, N. Y., first on Salmon Beauty; no second; E. A. Stroud, third, on Pink Delight.

 Twenty-five blooms red forcing rose, not yet disseminated—First, A. N. Pierson, on Milady.
 The retail work in which roses were to be used brought out an interesting

8, and with its addition to the exhibition the popular interest and the attendance visibly increased. The city at last began to take notice of the fact that the greatest flower show this country ever has seen is in progress in New York.

But the showing of carnations is not the best the American Carnation Society ever has made. In point of quality it is of a high order, probably higher than ever before has been seen at so late a date, but the quantity is decidedly lighter than usual. It is lighter than at Detroit last year and lighter than at Boston two years ago. It is remarkable that of the 200 vases entered not much more than half showed up. Part of this is due to floods in the west, but delayed trains do not explain the failure of local growers to stage their entries.

It was in the standard varieties that the falling off occurred, for the show is rich in novelties and there is keen competition for the medals.

S. S. Skidelsky, Philadelphia, has Philadelphia, silvery pink, of large size. J. D. Cockcroft, Northport, L. I., shows Northport, bright pink, a center of interest. F. B. Adams, Blue Point, N. Y., has Salmon Beauty, a salmon pink Enchantress. M. A. Patten & Co., Tewks-Kroeschell medal for twelve largest flowers—M. A. Patten & Co., on Dagmar.

Hitchings cup—Cottage Gardens, on Alma Ward.

FLOWERING PLANTS.

It is in the following plant department that the show is strongest. Sixty-seven classes were scheduled and practically all brought out entries, the greater part of the premium money being won. The following is the official list of awards:

Acacias, collection, 100 square feet—First, Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.

Acacias, six plants, not less than three varieties—First, Thomas Roland; second, Louis Dupuy, Whitestone, L. I.

Acacias, three plants, one or more varieties—First, Thomas Roland; second, Anton Schultheis, College Point, L. I.

Acacia, specimen plant—First, Thomas Roland; second, Mrs. F. A. Constable, J. Stuart, gardener, Mamaroneck, L. I.

BULBOUS PLANTS.

The bulbous plant classes for commercial growers were not so strong as they might well have been in consideration of the liberal character of the premiums, but Anton Schultheis, of College Point, should be given full credit for excellent quality and an entry in practically every class open to him. The official list of the awards is as follows:

Bulbs in bloom, collection of hyacinths, tulips and narcissus, 100 square feet—First, Anton Schultheis, College Point, L. I.

H. F. Michell Co. silver medal to be awarded as an additional prize for the group of lilies winning first prize, as per regular schedule—First, Anton Schultheis.

title it had assumed, the International Exhibition, for here were two entries from England, brought over by W. Wells for Sir Jere. Colman. And it was in the open orchid classes that as good competition developed as in any section of the opening day of the show. While the principal features were the 100-foot groups of Julius Roehrs Co. and James Goodier, there were two other excellent groups and nine good competitors in the classes calling for only one plant each. The awards were as follows:

Any other bigeneric hybrid—First, W. A. Manda; second, Lager & Hurrell.
Odontoglossum—First, Julius Roehrs Co.; second, Sir Jere. Colman.

 Violets, 100 single—Second, Howard Gould, W. W. Vert gardener, Port Washington, L. I.

NEW PLANTS.

There were gold, silver and bronze medals galore offered for new plants, a place being provided for practically anything that might develop, but nothing startling came of it. W. A. Manda was the principal exhibitor in these classes, with a lot of stock of interest and value to private gardeners, but not likely to prove of great importance commercially. A. C. Zvolanek's new Spencer peas promise well commercially, but they are not now what might be called unknown. The awards were:

Anthurium, flowering—Second, W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; no first.
 Conifer, hardy—First, W. A. Manda.
 Cycad, species—First, W. A. Manda.

NATIONAL SHOW MANAGERS.

The management of the National Flower Show is vested in a standing committee of the Society of American Florists, of which Chas. H. Totty is chairman. The other members of the committee are Wm. P. Craig, Philadelphia; W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park, Ill.; George Asmus, Chicago, Ill.; Thos. Roland, Nahant, Mass., and W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.

The Local Governing Board, all members of the New York Florists' Club, in direct charge of local arrangements, consists of F. H. Traendly, Walter F. Sheridan, W. H. Duckham, Joseph A. Manda and Harry A. Bunyard, the latter also being chairman of the Board of Judges, who numbered, as originally appointed, nearly seventy.

W. H. Duckham, of Madison, N. J., was appointed manager of the competitive exhibits and John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., was manager of the trade exhibits.

Coöperating with the Society of American Florists in this exhibition were the following organizations: New York Florists' Club, William H. Siebrecht, president; American Rose Society, Adolph Farenwald, president; American Carnation Society, Philip Breitmeyer, president; American Sweet Pea Society, William Sim, president; American Gladiolus Society, I. S. Hendrickson, president; Chrysanthemum Society of America, Chas. H. Totty, president; National Association of Gardeners, Wm. H. Waite, president; New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers, Louis Dupuy, president.

TELEGRAPH DELIVERY.

The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association held a meeting at New York April 9, President Irwin Bertermann in the chair. Secretary Pochelon reported splendid progress in the exploitation of the organization, with a steady gain in membership, but a far more rapid increase in the business exchanged between members. Treasurer Rock reported all available funds going into extension work, and there was general discussion of ways and means of extending the work.

Knightstown, Ind.—Russell Richardson is now proprietor of the establishment which has been conducted here for some time under the name of the West View Floral Co. and which still bears that name. S. S. Jones, one of the former owners of the business, is now in the trade at Elkhart, Ind., and he also has retained the title West View Floral Co. as his firm name.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Officers Elected.

President—Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.

Vice-president—Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa.

Treasurer—Harry O. May, Summit, N. J.

Secretary—Benj. Hammond, Fishkill, N. Y.

Executive committee—J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, and S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia, to succeed J. A. Valentine and W. R. Pierson, whose terms expire.

Annual Meeting.

The interest in other matters was so great that it was impossible to get together a large attendance for the annual meeting, held in New York April 8, but a profitable session was held. President Farenwald presented his annual address and Secretary Hammond read his report. Treasurer May added to the general satisfaction by reporting total receipts of $2,787.77, as against expenditures of only $1,921.16, leaving a balance of $866.61 in the general fund and $3,250 in the permanent fund.

There was a discussion of ways and means of increasing the membership and widening the scope of the society's usefulness, participated in by E. G. Hill, James Simpson, Philip Breitmeyer, J. H. Dunlop and others. The upshot was the adoption of a resolution instructing the president to appoint a committee of three to formulate a plan for a campaign.

The subject of a rose garden for testing purposes under the care of the national government, at Washington, being up, it became apparent that the Department of Agriculture is interested in such a project and is only waiting for some official action by one or another of the national societies. It is not intended to in any way conflict with the project at Hartford, to which the society has given its backing. After some talk, all in favor of the projected government trials, a motion was adopted instructing the president to appoint a committee of three to take the matter up in an official way with the Department of Agriculture and to work in conjunction with any other organizations that may interest themselves in the matter.

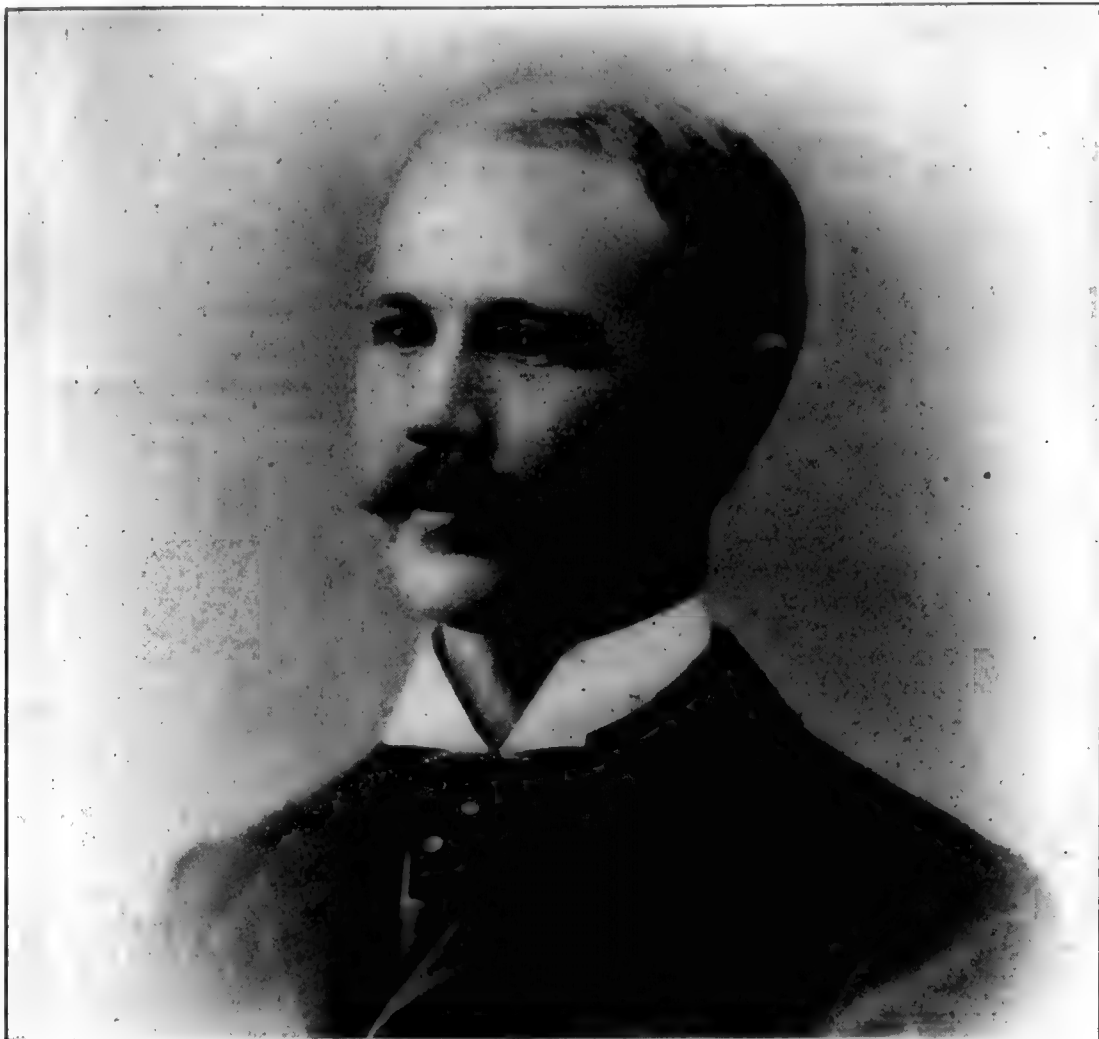

There being no invitations from horticultural bodies for the 1914 annual meeting, the selection of next meeting place was left to the incoming officers.

MR. FARENWALD'S ADDRESS.

[The following is the address of President Adolph Farenwald at the national convention of the American Rose Society, held in connection with the National Flower Show in New York, April 5 to 12, 1913.]

A little over a year ago we met in Detroit, under raw, chilly conditions. Although the weather was so much against us, the American Rose Society can look back to it with pride only. The exhibition was never surpassed in quality and quantity. Our members showed a loyalty and enthusiasm which was highly commendable—to go at such an unfavorable time of the year, and in severe winter weather. It was a great pity that this splendid show was not better patronized by the public.

Our membership is slowly increasing, but not at the rate it should be for such a worthy cause—the advance of the queen of flowers, the mainstay of the business, the bread and butter of almost everybody in it. Why are so many standing pat, when we need them so badly? Do they think we have reached the highwater mark of popularity? I hardly think so. There is plenty of room for expansion. So we need you, Mr. Stand Pat. See the hustle and bustle everywhere in our business today; better to unite, to come together, to help one another; that is the spirit of the times. Anybody who shuts his eyes to these conditions and refuses his help is not worth his salt. That's my candid opinion.

Thomas F. Roland.

(Member National Flower Show Committee.)

Opposes Amateur Membership.

Regarding our amateur membership agitation, I want to express myself as against that movement, for various reasons. We are a body of commercial men, specialists. We are not in it for pleasure, though most of us derive pleasure from attending to the queen of flowers, but pleasure does not pay our coal bills and others, so with us the financial side of the question is the primary issue. All this does not interest the amateur, and the history of our society will back me up in what I say. The most of you will remember our early struggles with this amateur problem. It was useless to attract the amateur to a body of professional men. It was a waste of effort in every way; it brought our society down to its knees; only the untiring, loyal work of our commercial members saved it from utter collapse.

Let us take a leaf from this past history, and give it up. Let our efforts be directed to the making of a strong commercial society, so that we are not swayed first one way and then the other, vainly trying to accomplish something we are not able to do, as has been proved so long ago. The public is gradually being educated to the value of roses in home decorations, and the most enthusiastic amateurs will finally start their own societies, with a sprinkling of professional men among them, as the horticultural societies are doing today. Those are the true amateur societies, which will grow and prosper, but in my estimation no commercial body of men can interest the amateur.

For a National Society.

Affiliation is the watchword of today. Some little while ago the present president of the S. A. F., J. K. M. L. Farquhar, said to me, "How can the Rose Society and S. A. F. come into closer touch with each other?" I confess, I don't know that we could get closer. We are an offspring of the S. A. F., doing the work which the S. A. F. is not able to do—specialize in a certain line, the growing of roses for cut flowers. I do not think we have a member who is not a member of the S. A. F. as well. To give up any of our privileges would mean to give up our society, which would be a detriment to the business. I am sure the American Rose Society would always willingly work in conjunction with the National S. A. F. This vital question of affiliation I have outlined previously, urging the merging of the florists' clubs' membership into a national society, to increase its membership and its usefulness. But let our Rose Society keep up its own good work, nation-wide, as we have been doing, creating and stimulating a love for the queen of flowers.

Battle Creek, Mich.—S. W. Coggan led the discussion on gladioli, which formed the principal part of the program at the entertainment recently tendered the Battle Creek Horticultural Society by the Grand Trunk Horticultural Society.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Officers Elected.

President—R. T. Brown, Queens, N. Y.

Secretary—A. F. J. Baur, Indianapolis.

Treasurer—Fred E. Dorner, La Fayette, Ind.

Director—S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass.

Judges—Eugene Dailedouze and C. W. Johnson.

Annual Meeting.

In calling the annual meeting of the American Carnation Society to order at the Grand Central Palace, New York, April 9, President Breitmeyer expressed his pleasure that only twenty per cent of the total membership should be absent when there were so many other things to divide their interest. He delivered the annual address and Secretary Baur presented his report, the recommendations being referred to a committee consisting of Wm. Nicholson, H. B. Dorner and R. T. Brown, to report at a later session. E. G. Hill and Eugene Dailedouze were named as committee on final resolutions.

Treasurer F. E. Dorner presented the following summary of the financial standing of the American Carnation Society as of February 22, 1913:

Miscellaneous Business.

Secretary Baur presented the report of the committee on the Dorner memorial medal, showing $1,028 on hand, the first gold medal already struck, and the decision of the directors that the medal purchased with the interest be awarded each year to the best undis-seminated seedling three years in cultivation scoring eighty-five points or over. The committee was discharged, with thanks. W. N. Rudd urged that the award should not go to a variety scoring less than ninety points, and the directors were instructed to consider the change in the rule for next year. On motion of E. G. Hill, the first medal struck was ordered presented to the widow of the late Mr. Dorner. Fred E. Dorner, in accepting the tribute paid his father, spoke feelingly of the family's grateful appreciation.

The society's share in the gate receipts of the Detroit show was voted to the Detroit Florists' Club.

S. S. Skidelsky brought up the matter of the losses sustained by members in the flooded districts, a letter being read from J. A. Newby, Logansport, Ind., in which he said the water had been ten feet deep in his greenhouses and that he had lost all his stock. Mr. Skidelsky and J. A. Evans were appointed a committee to devise a plan by which the society might be of assistance to flood sufferers.

The report of the judges was read and a protest by Henry Weston as to the award for the twelve largest flowers was referred to the directors, the opinion being that the society should not reverse its judgment.

SECRETARY BAUR'S REPORT.

[The following is the report of Secretary A. F. J. Baur, of the American Carnation Society, read at the meeting held in connection with the National Flower Show at New York, April 5 to 12, 1913.]

We are able to report progress in all departments this year, save one. This one exception being one of the most important departments, and of vital importance to the society, we will ask you to carefully consider a number of recommendations which will be submitted at the end of this report.

The proceedings of the last convention were distributed to all paid-up members, as is customary. These proceedings did not include any statement from the treasurer of the Detroit Florists' Club, who had charge of the gate receipts at the exhibition in that city in January of last year. This statement was submitted, however, to our board of directors at its meeting in Chicago last August. Its action thereon will be presented at this meeting for approval.

At the directors' meeting there was also drafted a schedule of premiums for the carnation show which is running now. Alterations were made in the rules governing entries for competition, eliminating all restrictions in regard to membership in this society, except in the A. C. S. medals class, which is reserved for our members only. Including premiums from all sources, the schedule carries a larger total than any previous list, which means that there is offered at this exhibition more in money, medals and plate than ever before has been offered for carnations at any one exhibition. The National Flower Show committee agreed to pay the first $1,000 cash premiums awarded. A special effort was made to interest the retail men in the exhibition by offering liberal premiums in a number of attractive and practical classes.

On account of the flood conditions which surrounded Indianapolis immediately following Easter, at which time the entries were supposed to be sent in, preventing all mail matter from reaching the secretary's office, it was impossible to enforce the time limit on the filing of entries. All entries which reached the secretary before leaving for New York were accepted without any assessment of fine.

During the past year the Fred Dorner Memorial Fund campaign was brought to a successful conclusion. A detailed report will be submitted at this meeting.

New Audit a Success.

In obedience to instructions given at the Detroit meeting, a public accountant was engaged to check over the books of the secretary and treasurer. This was done February 20, 1912, and again February 28, 1913. As is shown by the audit, all funds are properly accounted for. There can be no question as to the wisdom of this procedure, and, as your secretary, we wish to express our appreciation of the establishment of this custom. The first audit was made in time to be published in the proceedings of last year's convention. This year's audit will accompany the treasurer's report.

All bills have been paid promptly on vouchers drawn by the secretary and signed by the president.

A number of seedling varieties and one sport have been registered with this society since the last annual report appeared. Besides these there have been registered with the Perpetual Flowering Carnation Society of England some thirty-five seedlings and sports. Duplication of names already used is carefully guarded against. We find among the list a considerable number of names without any record of color, originator or date of dissemination; in fact, nothing whatever to identify the variety. In all such cases we would recommend that the name shall be available for naming new varieties.

During the past year death has claimed two of our members, J. F. Wilcox, of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Chas. Knopf, of Richmond, Ind. Both of these men were well known to most of us and highly esteemed.

The one department in which we are unable to report progress is that of membership. Ever since the meeting in Boston, two years ago, the membership has decreased in number. About the usual number have run delinquent each year, but less than the usual number of new members have been added. During the past year the delinquents were forty-five, while the accessions were only twenty, making a decrease of twenty-five for the year. There are now 261 annual members in good standing, and twelve life members.

To Increase Membership.

We can account for this in only one way, and that is the letting-down of all barriers to outsiders coming in and getting all the benefits, which rightfully should be reserved for our members only. This society cannot endure for long if this policy is continued, and we would respectfully submit the following recommendations for your careful consideration:

We should hold our conventions regularly each year, regardless of national or other exhibitions, and we should hold our conventions and exhibitions alone.

Our regular meeting date (the last Wednesday in January) should be strictly adhered to.

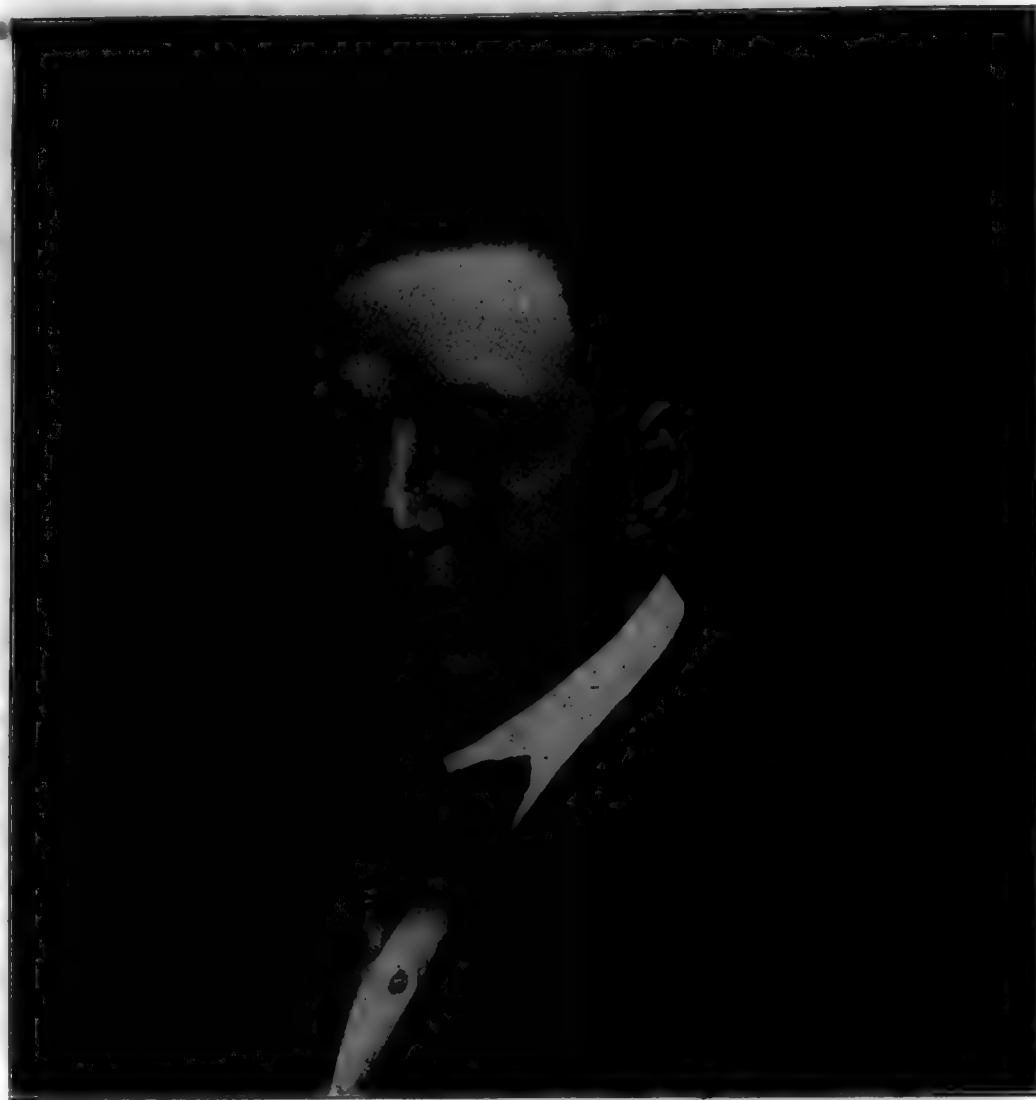

The idea of alternating the meetings from east to west is conducive to a growing membership and should be continued.

We should allow no admission fee to be charged the public at the door of the exhibition, as the charging of a fee, be it ever so small, tends to reduce the number of visitors.

Only members in good standing should be allowed to compete for premiums of any kind, including certificates of merit. No one except members of this society and of the local entertaining society should be allowed to attend any of the social functions connected with the convention.

Efforts should be continued to interest the retailers in the exhibitions. There should be more decorative work on exhibition than has been seen heretofore. If competitive classes will not bring them, then some other means should be devised.

A campaign for new members should be instituted, and we would suggest that a committee be appointed at this meeting to formulate a plan for such a movement. Instead of decreasing, our membership should at least keep pace with the growth of the carnation industry.

Harry A. Bunyard.

(Member Local Governing Board and Chairman Board of Judges.)

The thanks of this society are due the trade press for printing promptly, and gratuitously, all matter sent for publication.

DORNER MEMORIAL FUND.

[The following is the final report of the Fred Dörner Memorial Fund Committee, as presented at the meeting of the American Carnation Society in connection with the National Flower Show in New York, April 5 to 12.]

At the time of the last meeting in Detroit, the canvass among the members of this society for small contributions to the Fred Dörner memorial fund, which had been ordered at the Boston meeting, was completed. A total of some $437 had been collected in contributions of $1 and $2 amounts. Instructions were given to continue the soliciting of contributions, and to take advantage of numerous offers of larger amounts which had been made to the committee. These additional contributions swelled the total to $979, of which $439 are in $1 and $2 contributions, and the remaining $540 in amounts ranging from $5 to $20.

We are pleased to state that the Perpetual Flowering Carnation Society of England generously sent in a draft for $10.

These funds were deposited by the treasurer to draw interest, which up to date amounts to $39.71, bringing the total in the fund up to $1,018.71.

The board of directors, at its meeting in Detroit January 12, 1912, delegated J. A. Valentine to secure designs for a medal, which is to be bought each year with the interest accruing from this invested fund. Mr. Valentine submitted, at the directors' meeting in Chicago last August, a design from Henning Ryden, an artist in New York city, which the board approved, with instructions that Mr. Ryden be commissioned to prepare a set of dies for striking these medals. The Messrs. Dörner have agreed to bear the expense of having these dies made. This matter was turned over to them for final execution. The dies have been made and a 10-karat gold medal delivered to us.

At this same meeting in Detroit, Peter Fisher was delegated to devise a plan for awarding this medal. Mr. Fisher submitted the following plan to the board at the Chicago meeting and it was approved by the board:

"A gold medal will be awarded to the best 100 blooms of any undisseeded seedling carnation, sports not admissible. The variety must have been in cultivation not less than three years and must score not less than eighty-five points, judged by the American Carnation Society's scale of points. The medal is to be awarded to the originator, who need not necessarily be the exhibitor, and can be awarded to the same variety only once. To be eligible to compete for this medal, fifty blooms of the variety must have been shown at a previous exhibition of the American Carnation Society in a preliminary class, and scored not less than eighty points."

With this report, the work of this committee is finished. The fund is deposited with the La Fayette Loan & Trust Co., where it draws four per cent interest. The committee wishes to thank each and every contributor for the ready response with contributions. A complete list of contributors is on file in the secretary's office.

Joseph A. Manda.
(Member Local Governing Board.)

JUDGING AND JURORS.

The judging of as big a show as the International is a task the magnitude of which few men appreciate. The stock being scattered all over an enormous area, arranged for effect instead of for the convenience of the jurors, makes an immense amount of running backward and forward. It is a point on which previous exhibitions have been more or less lame and Chairman Totty determined to have it go better at New York. He asked Manager Duckham to have all the competitive classes ready at 2:30 p. m. on the day the show opened and appointed Harry A. Bunyard as chairman of the board of jurors, which was made large enough so that, working in groups of three, the whole show could be judged by the time the doors opened to the public. Mr. Bunyard perfected an elaborate system of recording the awards, employing ten typewriters, so that the moment the messenger arrived with the last slip from the judges the typewritten lists of awards were ready for distribution to the press. The system worked perfectly. There was no delay and the work was handled with neatness and dispatch.

The official list of judges, to work in sets of three, as shown, was as follows:

Harry Turner, chairman, Yonkers, N. Y.
A. H. Wingett, Lenox, Mass.
W. F. Gude, Washington, D. C.
Lawrence Cotter, Jamestown, N. Y. (chairman).
J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Iowa.
William Falconer, chairman, Pittsburgh, Pa.
William Turner, Oceanic, N. J.
William Hertrich, San Gabriel, Cal.
H. W. De Graaff, chairman, Leiden, Holland.
A. E. Thatcher, Bar Harbor, Maine.
Edward Reagan, Morristown, N. J.
J. F. Huss, chairman, Hartford, Conn.
Nicholas Butterbach, Oceanic, N. J.
Robert W. Clucas, Sparkill, N. Y.
Stuart H. Low, chairman, London, England.
Louis Burk, Philadelphia, Pa.
Harry Papworth, New Orleans, La.
Arthur Herrington, chairman, Madison, N. J.
Andrew Meikle, Newport, R. I.
Otto Koenig, St. Louis, Mo.
Leonard Barron, chairman, Garden City, L. I.
Harry Eyres, Albany, N. Y.
Harry Philpott, Winnipeg, Canada.
E. H. Wilson, chairman, Boston, Mass.
Robert Cameron, Cambridge, Mass.
Prof. J. B. Cowell, chairman, Buffalo, N. Y.
Theo. Wirth, Minneapolis, Minn.
G. McWilliams, Whitinsville, Mass.
W. N. Craig, chairman, North Easton, Mass.
Geo. H. Cooke, Washington, D. C.
William Eccles, Oyster Bay, N. Y.
Chas. Sandiford, chairman, Buffalo, N. Y.
F. Meinhardt, St. Louis, Mo.
R. E. Ballentyne, Canandaigua, N. Y.
W. W. Wells, chairman, London, England.
Colin Ogston, Rochester, N. Y.
Edward Kirk, Bar Harbor, Maine.
Charles Knight, chairman, New York, N. Y.
George Robinson, Montreal, Canada.
Michael Keller, Rochester, N. Y.
Emil Buettner, Park Ridge, Ill. (chairman).
J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.
W. L. Rock, Kansas City, Mo.
A. J. Loveless, chairman, Lenox, Mass.
Charles Plumb, Detroit, Mich.
John H. Dunlop, chairman, Toronto, Canada.
A. B. Cartledge, Philadelphia, Pa.
Phillip Breitmeyer, Detroit, Mich.

If any judge was not on hand at the appointed hour, his place was at once filled and the work proceeded.

The jurors were entertained at supper by the exhibition directors in the restaurant of the Grand Central Palace after judging had been completed. An excellent repast was served to seventy-five gentlemen. At the head table were J. K. M. L. Farquhar, C. H. Totty, William H. Duckham, Stuart Low, M. M. De Graaf, W. Wells and H. A. Bunyard.

NATIONAL GARDENERS MEET.

The National Association of Gardeners held a special meeting at New York April 7, President W. H. Waite occupying the chair. Mr. Farquhar, president of the S. A. F., was introduced and made an inspiring address. He was followed by James Kennedy, president of the Boston Gardeners' and Florists' Club, who talked enthusiastically. Both gentlemen urged the gardeners to be true to the best traditions of the craft, to strive for better things, to hold themselves and their art in not too low esteem and to demand their due.

Secretary Ebel announced that the summer meeting will be held at Boston in June and the next annual meeting in New York in November in connection with the autumn show of the Horticultural Society of New York.

Tuesday evening, April 8, the gardeners entertained their friends at a smoker at the Murray Hill hotel, with an abundance of refreshments and a fine program.

Wednesday, April 8, the big bowling tournament was pulled off at Thumm's alleys, beginning in the morning and not being concluded until late in the evening.

AMERICAN GLADIOLUS SOCIETY.

The American Gladiolus Society was unable to stage any exhibits in the competitive classes on the schedule, the blooms not being available at this season. Several members brought a few spikes of novelties, but there were no awards. A meeting was held, at which it was voted to combine the offices of financial and recording secretaries and create a new office of editor of the bulletin, to be filled by appointment.

Fulton, Ill.—Arthur Still has purchased land on which he will erect greenhouses for growing cucumbers. His site adjoins the J. E. Kirman plant, where he was employed several years.

Clinton, Ia.—The J. R. Bather Co. has removed its downtown headquarters from 415 Second street to 233½ Fifth avenue. The new establishment is a thoroughly up-to-date one, with a conservatory in the rear.

Butler, Pa.—The business of Anton Krut has been incorporated, under the name of the A. Krut Floral Co. The capital stock is $20,000. The incorporators are Anton Krut, Mary C. Krut and Margaret A. Krut.

Texarkana, Ark.—E. L. Kiley, who recently came here for the purpose of starting in business as a florist, has completed a deal whereby he secures the greenhouses and other property of the firm that was known as the State Line Floral Co., on State Line avenue. He will make such improvements as will be needed to put the establishment in first-class condition.

HEAVY LOSSES AT DAYTON.Flood Reports Still Incomplete.

A member of the Reeser Plant Co., of Springfield, O., representing the wholesalers of that city, went to Dayton April 2 to offer whatever aid was necessary to flood sufferers in the trade. He found that Warren G. Matthews was the largest loser, his greenhouses, with 20,000 feet of glass, being entirely washed away. The two downtown stores of Mr. Matthews were ruined and his home was flooded above the second floor. It was thought at first that he would not be able to stand the physical strain, but he is recovering and will get well. His family was saved. Mr. Matthews' property loss is estimated at $35,000.

The stores of the Heiss Co., M. & L. Johnson, J. F. Young, the Advance Floral Co. in the Arcade and a store in the Arcade conducted by Greeks were entirely ruined, and the losses will range from $1,000 to $5,000.

The Miami Floral Co. had a narrow escape. Its boiler pits were flooded and its fires were extinguished, but the flood found a new channel before getting in any destructive work there and the plant was saved. It is now in operation.

W. H. Ritter's greenhouses were flooded by backwater. The damage, while heavy, will be repaired soon.

The greenhouses of Horlacher, John Boehner, Schmidt & Son, the Heiss Co., the Advance Co., S. H. Ritter and J. H. Broxey escaped entirely.

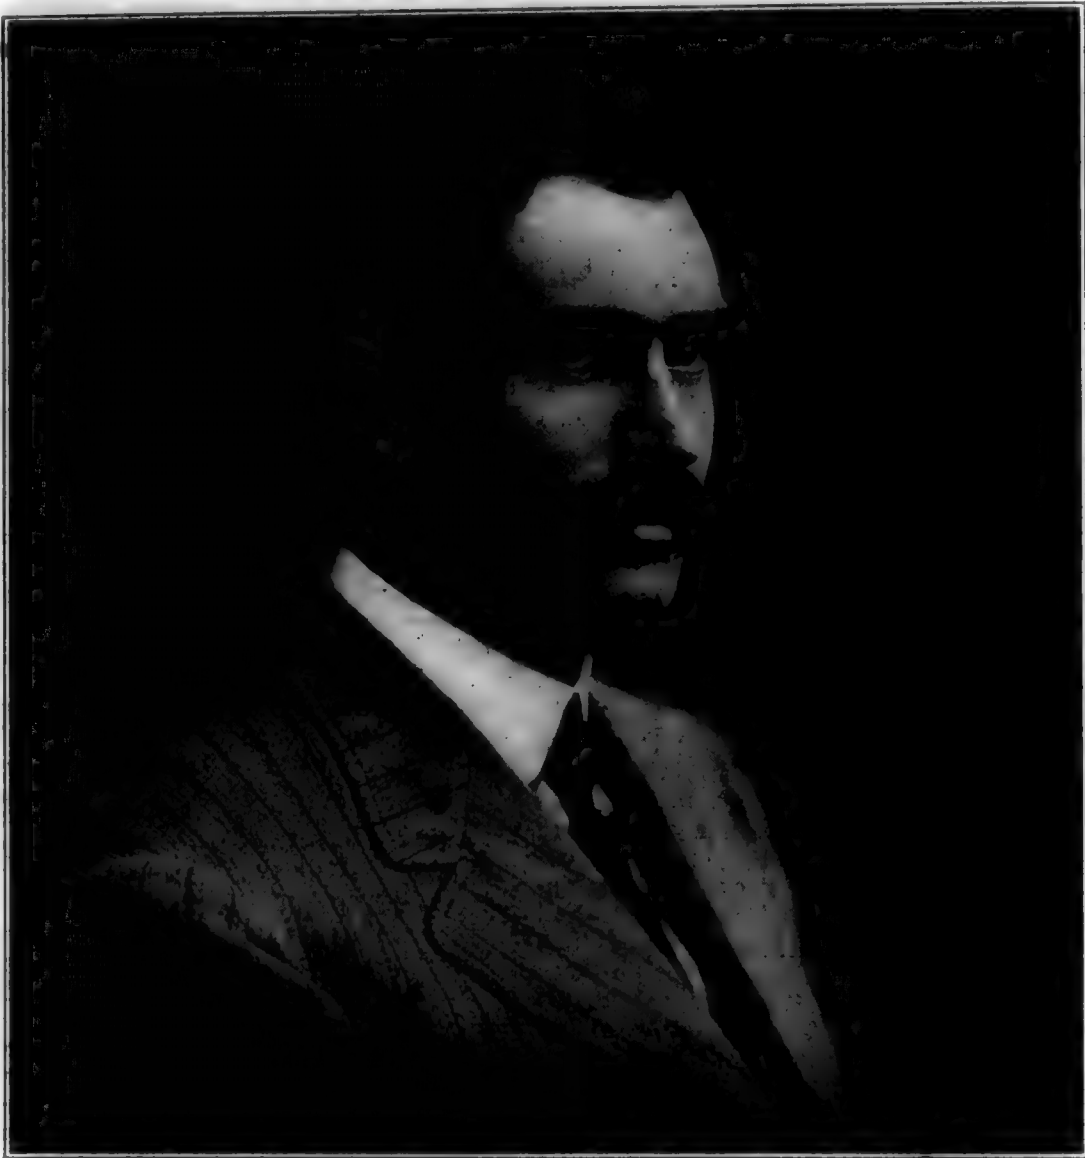

Under date of April 5, the Dayton correspondent of The Review wrote that, owing to the crippled condition of the telegraph and telephone systems and the wrecked state of bridges and tracks, it was impossible then to add further to the details of the flood that have been published in The Review.

Heavy Losses at Hamilton.

John Lodder & Sons, at Hamilton, O.,

Flood's Highest Point.

Wm. H. Duckham.

(Member Local Governing Committee and Manager Competitive Section, National Flower Show.)

with nearly 150,000 feet of glass, lost practically everything, being located near the river, which more than covered the ridge of their greenhouses. Floating houses, sheds and wreckage crashed into the glass and there is little remaining of their plant.

Theo. Bock stayed by his greenhouses while the water was rising. Resting on an improvised bed on his potting bench, he watched the water go to within six inches of the top of the bench. The stock of all of his houses but one was covered with water and mud, that one escaping by only a few inches. Mr. Bock writes that his plant is just getting dried out, and he makes no estimate of his loss.

The store of W. J. Grey, Jr., was completely wrecked.

Henry Hesse was above the flood line, but the bridge over which he must cross to reach his market went down, cutting him off for some time.

Jacob Raquet's range was not touched and that of Karl W. Heiser escaped, although his peony field was covered.

Devastation in Indiana.

The Riverside Floral Co., at Muncie, Ind., was flooded, but the damage was confined to the rose houses, where the plants were badly mildewed and practically ruined. The temperature fell to 38 degrees in the rose houses and 36 in the carnation houses. The mushroom beds were under twenty-two inches of water, but they are still producing good cuts.

The Muncie Floral Co. was caught hard, being in direct line of the levee-break and the range being covered, but the stock does not appear to have suffered to a great extent.

Simon Humfeld's shrubs and trees were washed out, his range at Muncie being covered by four feet of water, and his residence was damaged.

The greenhouses, dwelling, barn and hotbeds of Martin Weber, at Brookville, Ind., were completely wiped out. The family was rescued from the roof of the dwelling after severe experiences. Not a thing was left.

Samuel J. McMichael, of Findlay, O., lost about everything he owned, his household goods as well as his stock being ruined. Mr. McMichael's loss follows a recent illness, which confined him to his bed for five weeks.

Growers Have Narrow Escapes.

Although the tornado and flood losses in Terre Haute, Ind., were enormous, the only loss to the trade reported was two boxes of glass at the new plant of Heintz & Weber.

John Adgate & Son, of Warren, O., were affected by the flood, and they were the only ones in the trade who suffered loss in the vicinity of Youngstown, where all of the growers are located on high land.

W. C. Scovell, of Malta, O., reports a loss of about $700 in plants. His greenhouses were flooded for two days.

Fischer & Scheick and John Murchie, of Sharon, Pa., sustained losses of about $500 each, the damage being confined to cut flowers and plants in their stores, which were covered with five feet of water.

CHICAGO SHOW HAS EXTRA DAY

EXHIBITION OPEN SUNDAY.

Attendance Reaches 77,550.

A fully illustrated account of the first days of the Chicago spring flower show, up to the date of publication, was given in last week's Review. The show closed April 6 with an attendance that exceeded last year's figures by more than 30,000 and the Horticultural Society is well satisfied. The total figures show that 77,550 people passed into the show during the six days in which it was open to the public. Saturday ran the highest, 22,675 being the number that visited the exhibit that day. Sunday was an extra day, and it was not announced until Sunday morning that the flowers would remain on exhibition. As a result of adding another day, 22,437 additional people had the chance to see the display. The largest day on which admission was charged was April 4, when the count showed that over 4,000 out of the 5,367 who visited the Art Institute paid the nominal fee.

Carnations.

The carnation classes brought out some keen competition and the prizes were fairly well scattered, although the E. G. Hill Co., of Richmond, Ind., got the bulk of the blue ribbons on carnations grown for commercial purposes. In seedlings not yet disseminated the C. C. Pollworth Co., of Milwaukee, took two classes, while Avid Andersen and Patten & Co. captured a bronze medal each. In the flesh pink the tables were turned and Pink Delight, grown by E. G. Hill Co., won first prize, and the same variety grown by the Chicago Carnation Co. took second, with Enchantress from Poehlmann Bros. Co. third. Last year Pink Delight ran third. White Perfection, grown by Wietor Bros., was first in the white, and Scarlet Glow, exhibited by Poehlmann Bros. Co., secured the blue ribbon in the scarlets. Dark pink was won with Rosette from the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association. Light pink went to the E. G. Hill Co., with Mrs. C. W. Ward as the winner. Benora, also entered by the E. G. Hill Co., got first in the white variegated class.

The awards to commercial carnation growers were as follows:

One hundred flesh pink—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Pink Delight; Chicago Carnation Co., second, with Pink Delight; Poehlmann Bros. Co., third, with Enchantress.

One hundred light pink—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Mrs. C. W. Ward; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Gloriosa; Wietor Bros., third, with Winsor.

One hundred white—Wietor Bros., first, with White Perfection; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Wodenethe; Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, third, with a seedling, No. 14,009.

One hundred dark pink—Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, first, with Rosette; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second, with Lawson; Wietor Bros., third, with Washington.

One hundred red or scarlet—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with Scarlet Glow; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Commodore; Chicago Carnation Co., third, with Victory.

One hundred white variegated—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Benora; Chicago Carnation Co., second, with a seedling, No. 94; no third.

SEEDLINGS, NOT DISSEMINATED.

Twenty-five white—C. C. Pollworth Co., bronze medal.

Twenty-five flesh pink—C. C. Pollworth Co., first, with a seedling, No. 242.

Twenty-five red or scarlet—Avid Andersen, bronze medal, for a seedling.

Twenty-five blooms any other color—Patten & Co., bronze medal, for Princess Dagmar.

Miscellaneous.

The miscellaneous division was well patronized with entries, and in valley the competition was unusually strong. J. A. Budlong exhibited "Blue Ribbon" valley and carried away the coveted prize of the final showings staged April 3. Poehlmann Bros. Co. won on roses for quality, quantity and arrangement, with Richmond roses arranged by T. C. Waters. On sweet peas only one entry was listed for competition and Loeffler & Benke, of Watertown, Wis., took away the first prize with their sweet pea named Attraction. Other sweet peas were exhibited. Gustav Swenson, Elmhurst, Ill., showed a vase of his winter blooming Spencer called Selma Spencer, and H. Wehrman, Maywood, Ill., staged a vase of lavender Spencer sweet peas named Valencia. Loeffler & Benke also won first in both single and double violets. For the most novel and attractive exhibit not covered by other classes, the E. G. Hill Co. was awarded a grand silver medal for a display of amaryllis.

The awards were as follows:

Two hundred and fifty lilies of the valley—J. A. Budlong, first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second. Display of cut roses, quality and arrangement considered—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with Richmond roses.

One hundred sweet peas—Loeffler & Benke, Watertown, Wis., first, with Attraction.

Display of antirrhinums—Hunt Bros., first.

One hundred double violets—Loeffler & Benke, first.

One hundred single violets—Loeffler & Benke, first.

For most novel and attractive exhibit, not covered by other classes—E. G. Hill Co., grand silver medal, for display of amaryllis.

Private Gardeners' Exhibits.

Private gardeners set up some displays of flowering plants, with Edward Boulter, Paul Dieball and A. B. Dick receiving the favorable attention of the judges.

Specimen cyclamen—Ed. Boulter, first.

Group of cyclamen, not less than six plants—Paul Dieball, first.

Group of primulas—Paul Dieball, silver medal.

Flowering plants—A. B. Dick, first.

Special exhibit, not eligible to compete in other classes—Edward Boulter, silver medal.

Berwick, Pa.—D. W. Davis has given up the store he opened last season. He is favorably located near the center of town, has an attractive establishment and found his patrons preferred to trade there.

Chambersburg, Pa.—Byer Bros. are in the enviable position of having more business than they can at times well attend to. The cut flower end is entirely retail. A big business is done in rooted cuttings.

South Bethlehem, Pa.—Charles Vorkeller furnished the bulk of the fine floral pieces at the funeral of a steel magnate recently. An immense standing wreath, composed of white carnations, valley and double violets, called forth much praise.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Again we have to report a dull and heavy market. Many wholesalers declared the conditions were even worse than they were during the week following Easter. Receipts were heavy, demand light and prices consequently low. Nevertheless, there was a fairly good clean-up on Saturday except as to carnations and violets, considerable quantities of which were carried over. Beauties were plentiful and in good condition. Specials brought 20 cents. Killarneys sold all the way from 50 cents to $6 per hundred, the bulk of the sales being at $2 and $3. Lady Hillingdons, which brought high prices last year, have become so plentiful that they bring little more than Killarneys. Sunbursts go at $1 to $10 per hundred. Maids and Brides are at about the same figures as Killarneys; the top bring a trifle higher. Carnations are plentiful and cheap, standard sorts going at 75 cents to $1.50 per hundred and specialties being had at $2, though for small lots of choice flowers up to $3 has been paid. Cattleya Schröderæ are a little stronger, bringing from 15 to 30 cents. Trianae are scarce and good flowers bring as much as 75 cents. Mossiæ are coming in better and bring about the same as Trianae. Valley is a little firmer than last week, 4 cents being obtained for small lots of long No. 1 flowers. For the average flowers, 2 and 3 cents prevail. Tulips are plentiful and cheap, though the choicest kinds, such as Flamingo, bring as high as 35 cents per dozen. Narcissus poeticus ornatus sells at four to six bunches for $1. Few Paper Whites are shown, southern selling as low as 10 cents per bunch and sluggish at that.

Sweet peas have a wide range, the top price being $1 per dozen bunches for long-stemmed Spencer. Violets are plentiful; the quality has been a little better during the last few days but still poor. In small lots as high as 25 cents per hundred has been paid for choice singles, but by the box $10 per thousand is the ruling quotation. The market is flooded with lilies and fine flowers can be had at 3 cents, though some quote 5 cents for the best. Callas also are in full supply and sell at 50 cents and $1 per dozen. Some fine antirrhinum is coming in and goes fairly well at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1 per bunch. Phlox is dull and almost unsalable. Pansies are coming in freely and sell well but at low figures. An abundance of mignonette of poor quality is reported. Lilacs are of good quality, plentiful and cheap.

The market was deserted April 5 by the proprietors, nearly all of whom were found at the National Flower Show in the Grand Central Palace.

Various Notes.

The new six-cylinder Pope-Hartford touring car with a New Jersey license displayed on the front, which has made its appearance recently on West Twenty-eighth street, is the newest love of A. M. Henshaw, of Henshaw & Fenrich, the wholesalers.

Anton C. Zvolanek arrived in New York from his California farm April 5, going to the flower show, where his son has prepared a display of winter sweet peas grown in his houses at Boundbrook, N. J. Mr. Zvolanek has twenty-three acres in winter sweet peas at Lompoc, Cal., where he grows them for seed.

Victor S. Dorval, of Woodside, Long Island, in discussing the situation from the growers' standpoint, said that the glut of cut flowers in the market was due to the mild weather. "Some growers complained about the excessive cold of last season, on account of the coal burned," he continued, "but, as a matter of fact, that cold season was better for growers than the passing mild one. In seasons like this, the flowers cannot be held back. They all bloom at the same time, the market becomes glutted and prices drop."

William Kessler had a little flower show of his own in his Twenty-eighth street window last week, the star feature of which was a standard marguerite, or Paris daisy, measuring five feet nine inches in diameter and literally covered with blossoms. Mr. Kessler counted 2,400 and then got tired. The plant was one of an 18-month-old lot grown by Madsen & Christensen, of Madison, N. J., some of which took first prizes at the International Show.

Roman J. Irwin, of 3097 Broadway, reports an unusually active demand for commercial cuttings and small pot plants. His orders have been particularly heavy for chrysanthemums and 3-inch cannas.

William Plumb has been appointed manager of the Beechwood Heights Nurseries at Boundbrook, N. J.

A. C. Zvolanek, of Boundbrook, N. J., has just returned from his California branch, and stopped over in New York April 5 in time to enjoy the opening of the National Flower Show.

Moore, Hentz & Nash, F. R. Pier-son and H. M. Robinson & Co. form an interesting trio, having established their headquarters on the first floor of the Coogan building.

The regular monthly meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held April 14 at its rooms in the Grand Opera House building. There will be many interesting events discussed, including the National Flower Show. Exhibits of novelties will add to the interest of the evening, and the house committee promises a fitting welcome to all guests who may remain in the city after the close of the exhibition.

The annual banquet of the Club at Hotel Astor, April 10, is expected to transcend all its predecessors in attendance and brilliancy.

Wertheimer Bros. did not enter any of their recent creations at the National Flower Show, for the consideration of the judges, but preferred to wait for the convention of the S. A. F. at Minneapolis. The firm's automobile was kept busy carrying customers between the Grand Central Palace and the store.

Louisville, Ky.—Emil Frederick, aged 61, formerly a florist here, committed suicide by shooting himself March 29. Domestic troubles are said to have prompted the step. He came to America from Germany thirty years ago. He was in business at one time at Mount Sterling, Ky.

Charleston, S. C.—Mrs. F. L. Aichele and her son, F. J. Aichele, are the proprietors of the Carolina Floral Store and the greenhouse establishment run in connection with it. They state that John Salmon, of Baltimore, was not the purchaser from C. M. Newman, as recently returned in Charleston papers, as he "merely forwarded part of the money for the purchase."

CHICAGO SHOW HAS EXTRA DAY

EXHIBITION OPEN SUNDAY.

Attendance Reaches 77,550.

A fully illustrated account of the first days of the Chicago spring flower show, up to the date of publication, was given in last week's Review. The show closed April 6 with an attendance that exceeded last year's figures by more than 30,000 and the Horticultural Society is well satisfied. The total figures show that 77,550 people passed into the show during the six days in which it was open to the public. Saturday ran the highest, 22,675 being the number that visited the exhibit that day. Sunday was an extra day, and it was not announced until Sunday morning that the flowers would remain on exhibition. As a result of adding another day, 22,437 additional people had the chance to see the display. The largest day on which admission was charged was April 4, when the count showed that over 4,000 out of the 5,367 who visited the Art Institute paid the nominal fee.

Carnations.

The carnation classes brought out some keen competition and the prizes were fairly well scattered, although the E. G. Hill Co., of Richmond, Ind., got the bulk of the blue ribbons on carnations grown for commercial purposes. In seedlings not yet disseminated the C. C. Pollworth Co., of Milwaukee, took two classes, while Avid Andersen and Patten & Co. captured a bronze medal each. In the flesh pink the tables were turned and Pink Delight, grown by E. G. Hill Co., won first prize, and the same variety grown by the Chicago Carnation Co. took second, with Enchantress from Poehlmann Bros. Co. third. Last year Pink Delight ran third. White Perfection, grown by Wieter Bros., was first in the white, and Scarlet Glow, exhibited by Poehlmann Bros. Co., secured the blue ribbon in the scarlets. Dark pink was won with Rosette from the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association. Light pink went to the E. G. Hill Co., with Mrs. C. W. Ward as the winner. Benora, also entered by the E. G. Hill Co., got first in the white variegated class.

The awards to commercial carnation growers were as follows:

One hundred flesh pink—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Pink Delight; Chicago Carnation Co., second, with Pink Delight; Poehlmann Bros. Co. third, with Enchantress.

One hundred light pink—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Mrs. C. W. Ward; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Gloriosa; Wieter Bros., third, with Winsor.

One hundred white—Wieter Bros., first, with White Perfection; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Wodenether; Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, third, with a seedling, No. 14,069.

One hundred dark pink—Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, first, with Rosette; Poehlmann Bros. Co. second, with Lawson; Wieter Bros., third, with Washington.

One hundred red or scarlet—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with Scarlet Glow; E. G. Hill Co., second, with Commodore; Chicago Carnation Co., third, with Victory.

One hundred white variegated—E. G. Hill Co., first, with Benora; Chicago Carnation Co., second, with a seedling, No. 94; no third.

SEEDLINGS, NOT DISSEMINATED

Twenty-five white—C. C. Pollworth Co., bronze medal.

Twenty-five flesh pink—C. C. Pollworth Co., first, with a seedling, No. 242.

THE RETAIL

FLORIST.....

THE TREND OF THE TRADE.

Future of Retail Flower Selling.

I have read with much interest the article in The Review of March 20, "The Trend of the Trade." In reference to general conditions existing with grower and retailer, I regard the field too great to permit the large grower to retail his own product. Those of us who daily come in contact with the grower and with the retail customer are in position to observe quite a difference between the two lines. Each one adapts himself to his own, and I must confess that the successful retailer never was cut out for a producer, and the grower was not cut out to be a retailer. One of the principal assets in retailing is personality, the kind that makes the handling of customers an art. The successful retailer must be a good student of human nature. He must be able to discern whether the customer should purchase an article for $2 or $20 and, incidentally, must be able to do so in a manner that will give the customer complete confidence. Conditions and situations constantly arise that tend to show the difference between the two lines.

Retail conditions, from my point of view, are bound to improve many fold. We are alive to general business methods in all other lines and are adapting ourselves to them, such as constantly improving the character of our merchandise, seeing that our employees are capable of giving our customers the best attention, reaching distances by utilizing the motor delivery system, and extending our scope by the use of the telegraph delivery system, which has worked wonders for us in developing new business.

Value of Special Sales.

To my mind, our florist business has only just started. With little effort, we can increase our volume of business by introducing specialties at popular prices that will appeal to the masses, using the newspapers as our direct mouthpiece to the public. We have proved to our own satisfaction that, as long as we maintain our reputation for honest and fair dealing methods, we have no difficulty in disposing of our product, whether flowers or plants. For instance, when the market is strong on roses we will introduce a special sale of roses in baskets, and if it is strong on flowering plants we will take advantage of a like condition. Our object in having these sales is not so much the long dollar as it is the acquisition of new business. To enjoy good, healthy condition, every business, whether flower or merchandise or manufacturing, needs to reach out for new clientele.

We should be careful to take advantage of new stock, and market it in such manner that it will reflect good business returns by way of giving our customers the benefit of every purchase. Incidentally we should maintain our character and tone at high-water mark, instead of appearing to conduct our business along the lines of department store methods. One of our most valuable assets is our practice of never permitting a patron to leave our establishment dissatisfied. Should there be the least sign of discontent on the part of a customer, we immediately dispatch a new plant or new flowers, as the case may be, or even refund the purchase price when advisable. This plan, constantly and conscientiously carried out, has materially helped us to hold new customers. Our motto is, in this respect, "The customer is always right, and we are always wrong."

Advertising Is Profitable.

My way to handle the glut in market conditions would be to induce more retailers to take up the plan of selling on a liberal scale, giving the public at all times the benefit of their buying, and to hold sales that would do credit to the craft in general, giving them attractive and dignified publicity through the medium of newspaper advertising, never too spectacular. Result-producing advertising cannot be handled in a haphazard manner. Carefully outline your advertisements, change them often and be a consistent and persistent advertiser. Do not advertise two or three times and then stop. Hammer away steadily and success will surely crown your efforts. If necessary, get in touch with a good advertising man. Don't think about doing it, but do it and do it right. We are profitably carrying on an extensive publicity campaign in Boston. We use cards in the cars, attractively designed and lithographed in colors, changing our subjects from six to twelve times a year. We also use billboards and bulletins, displaying artistically executed announcements painted four times a year on galvanized iron boards. We make generous use of printers' ink in the several newspapers of Boston. From a small beginning, we are now spending from $12,000 to $15,000 during the season on advertising alone. The prospect for 1914 is that we will almost double our appropriation for publicity, as we feel justified by the results obtained.

Make Good Your Promises.

Another point that occurs to me as being wise is to plan special sales, taking advantage of certain days of the year, such as May day, St. Valentine's day, St. Patrick's day, Mothers' day and the like, as they come along. Make special effort to do things on these days and do them well. A series of advertisements in advance relative to such days as Easter will produce tangible results. Our recent Easter advertisements, pointing out that there would be absolutely no increase of prices on Easter flowers and plants, brought considerable good, healthy business. In making such announcements, however, you must adhere to your promises to be successful.

For the man who wants volume, the conditions in our city are the same as in all large cities, but if he permits volume to affect the character of his shop it can easily lead to the downfall of his business. We aim for the highest standard and try to maintain it at any cost by handling only the best obtainable and giving the public the benefit.

Coöperation Among Employees.

Special attention must be given at all times to window display. Not a little depends upon the daily showing that we make in our windows. We feel that our window is our silent salesman and we are particular to a degree to keep it up to the high water mark of attractiveness and originality in display, stock and cleanliness. We also make it a point to hold flower shows of our own and advertise them in a way that has the effect of special sales. They tend to keep up our standard as leading florists and are invariably appreciated by the flower-loving public. Another feature is our special efforts in advertising our violets. For some time we have used this one item, because we felt that it was an article in most demand and generally used. Our specializing in violets has kept us before the public for some years.

An important factor in the success of our business has been the admirable coöperation of our employees. We arrange a series of dinners for them, we get the best work and attention out of each and every one of them, we keep in general touch with all, from office boy to chief, and the results are apparent in every department.

I am confident that if these ideas and rules are adopted and adhered to the retail florist's business can be conducted with as great success as any other individual business.

Henry Penn.

THE TEARFUL SWINDLER.

This is written for the purpose of giving our brother florists some information which may frustrate any attempt to play the same game as was worked in Omaha, Council Bluffs and Sioux City.

On Saturday, March 22, a well dressed man, about 45 years old, about five feet ten inches in height, rather stout, weighing about 185 pounds and having a dark but ruddy complexion, came into our store and, with tears in his eyes, ordered a wreath, to cost $12. His "only daughter had died." His check for $21.60, signed by James Morgan, Morgan Court Co., was cashed and Geo. R. Carter, payee and endorser, has passed on, probably working the same scheme in other towns.

We trust that space may be spared in The Review to mention this.

Rocklin & Lehman.

Columbus, Miss.—The greenhouses of T. G. Owen were recently visited by about fifty students from the A. and M. College at Starkville. The party was under the guidance of Professor McKay. The greenhouses, it is said, now contain more than 200,000 square feet of glass and the stock comprises an unusually wide range of varieties.

BOSTON, MASS.

The Market.

A little improvement is now noticeable in the market, due in some measure to the falling off in supplies of bulbous stock, violets, etc. Carnations are somewhat better than a week ago. As usual, the pink shades sell the best. Rosette is now arriving in extra fine shape from a number of growers. Roses are probably the weakest spot in the market and are hard to move. There seems to be a surplus of all sorts, but particularly the Killarneys and yellow varieties. Lady Hillingdon, as seen in the market, is of excellent quality. Single violets are practically over; the flowers are small and off in color, the prices being advanced as the supply decreases; doubles are still quite good. Sweet peas are now coming into their own and with the passing of violets are in a stronger position; the finest stock carries 18-inch to 20-inch stems. Valley has not been plentiful and has cleaned up well. Bulbous stock is on the decline; the indoor supply is nearing an end. Spanish Iris is more abundant. Snapdragons are excellent, but the demand is slow except for the pink shades. English primroses are now overplentiful. Ten weeks' stocks no one seems to want. Of lilies and callas there is an oversupply. Adiantum is not yet plentiful, but there is an adequate supply of Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri.

Various Notes.

The Boston Coöperative Flower Market is displaying a beautiful collection of special prizes for its market exhibition, to be held April 12. W. H. Elliott, John McFarland, J. M. Cohen and James Wheeler are heads of committees which are working strenuously for the success of the show and their labors are going to be well rewarded.

Scott Foster, of Wamesit, near Tewksbury, is a good carnation grower. His specialties are Beacon, Pink Delight, Gloriosa, Rosette and White Wonder. These are now sold at the Boston Flower Exchange by George Marshall, who also sells for Lewis Smith, of Tewksbury.

Henry M. Robinson & Co. are installing commodious new ice-chests in the basement of the Boston Flower Exchange and hope to move into their new quarters during the present month.

Penn's windows last week contained fine displays of hydrangeas and Adiantum Farleyense.

Wm. T. Walke, of Salem, is shipping some good Killarney, White Killarney and Hillingdon roses to J. M. Cohen at the Boston Coöperative Market; also some fine pink snapdragons.

Remember the club meeting in Horticultural hall, April 15. There will be lectures by F. E. Palmer and Wm. Carswell. We shall also hear echoes of the New York International Show.

Frank J. Dolansky is cutting as many as twenty-five to thirty dozen Cattleya Schroederae a day, but finds a ready sale for them. His gardenia crop is beginning to shorten up a little.

Buxton's Killarney Pink snapdragon, as handled at the Boston Flower Exchange by W. D. Hastings, is superb and there is no wonder that it moves quickly.

The visitors to the New York show started to leave April 4. The aggregate attendance from here was several hundred. About half favored the Fall River and Providence steamers, the balance preferring the all-rail route.

Arthur Mills, who has been orchid grower for some time with F. J. Dolansky, has accepted a similar position with E. B. Dane, Chestnut Hill, Mass. Mr. Dolansky and his salesman, F. J. McDonald, are both at the New York show.

John Walsh, of Melrose Highlands, former manager of the Park Street Flower Market and one of the most esteemed members of the trade, has the sympathy of a host of friends in the death of his wife, which occurred April 1.

The Flower Growers' Sales Co. reports an unusually good call for valley, sweet peas and roses, shipping orders for these being numerous.

W. B. Goodenow is having excellent success with double violets this season and will be able to pick for several weeks yet. H. F. Calder, of Norwood, and J. T. Gale, of Tewksbury, are other large shippers of these.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

Local market conditions, as far as the retail trade is concerned, are rapidly nearing their normal condition. The waters have receded and all businesses in the affected district have resumed or are resuming operation. The downtown retail district, which has practically been deserted for a fortnight, is again crowded with buyers. Of this general improvement a liberal share is coming to the local retailers. The wholesale market at the time of this writing is far from resuming its natural stride. It is handicapped by the poor train service, both on outbound and incoming trains. It is only to the south that trains are running on schedule time. The balance of them must reach the city by a roundabout way, and it is this balance that brings in the heavy supply of roses, as well as carrying a large quantity of flowers from this market to out-of-town customers. Some growers last week tried to get a few shipments through in spite of conditions; the shipments arrived, but several days late. Most of the wholesalers who get heavy supplies from points north and west have made arrangements with the express companies that will enable their stock to come to town promptly.

Business last week was only fair. Carnations formed the great bulk of the supply. There were many of them and they easily took care of all requests. By the close of the week the market for them was so easy that sacrifices had to be made to effect clearances. The rose supply was short, but there were no exceptionally heavy calls upon it.

Other offerings include Easter lilies, callas, sweet peas, valley and snapdragons. The green goods market is well supplied in every line.

Various Notes.

Advices from Hamilton since the water has receded state that the Lodder greenhouses there were not so badly damaged as was at first reported. Gus Adrian, who was there last Thursday, says that about all the stock was ruined. The damage to the range consisted of the crushing of three houses directly in the path of the current. About twenty feet was taken off the end of another. In the balance of the houses about 500 panes of glass were broken. Directly below the greenhouses, where the ground was formerly quite low, there has been deposited by the water enough sand, gravel and debris to raise a hill about twenty or twenty-five feet high.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Critchell left on the C. & O. at noon Sunday, April 6, to attend the National Flower Show.

On Thursday, April 3, E. G. Gillett went to Dayton, O., to look after some of his and his wife's relatives who were in the affected district there. He describes his impression of the city as one "destroyed from the second floor to the ground." Earl Ohmer, his nephew, and a cousin of Clarence Ohmer, of West Palm Beach, Fla., did heroic rescue work at a time when the waters were the fiercest.

While P. J. Olinger was unable to get his stock into the city, he shipped from New Castle to Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis. By the time these notes are off the press he expects to be getting his stock regularly.

On Tuesday, April 1, L. H. Kyrk received a shipment of trees from Maryland that left there March 24.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has been getting fine Sprengeri from the south.

Jas. P. Keller, of Lexington, Ky., was a caller last week. C. H. H.

OBITUARY.

Hugh P. Campbell.

Hugh P. Campbell, of Shamokin, Pa., died April 1 and the funeral took place April 5. He had a retail store in Shamokin, as well as greenhouses. He was successful in business, genial in disposition, and much respected and beloved in his community.

W. B. SANDS.

W. B. Sands, one of the most widely known members of the trade in Maryland, died at his home at Lake Roland, near Baltimore, Tuesday evening, April 8. He was about 65 years of age. For many years he was engaged in agricultural journalism, later building greenhouses in the suburbs of Baltimore. Mrs. Sands died some years ago. Several sons survive and are to continue the business.

Chinchilla, Pa.—The greenhouse of Earl Streeter was recently damaged by storm.

Lockport, Ill.—The Labo store is closed, leaving Lockport without a florist's establishment.

Auburn, N. Y.—Harry H. Ramsey is successor to Herbert M. Hills in the business at 84 Lake avenue.

Crown Point, Ind.—Plans have been prepared for a new floral hall to be built here at a cost of $30,000.

Ellsworth, Me.—Miss Mary A. Clark decorated the First Congregational church for the Achorn-Giles wedding March 26.

Dayton, O.—The Advance Floral Co. has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are Ernest E. Schaefer, A. C. Ehlenback, Caroline M. Schaefer, W. Allen Barber and Robert Oldham.

THE great quinquennial exhibition at Ghent opens April 26.

AN English firm has developed a cyclamen that has large, bright rosy salmon flowers and foliage that is broadly banded with silver, a distinct break. The name is St. George.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

PREPARED magnolia leaves are not being used any less freely this season than last—rather the contrary—but the production has been increased to the point where an oversupply is threatened.

THE decorators have been unable to get hold of wild smilax for about a month, but it is expected shipments from the south will soon be resumed, as the worst of their floods were before Easter.

SHIPPERS would appreciate directions with the order when the buyer has a preference as to which express company shall handle a shipment, rather than a complaint after the shipment has arrived that the wrong company was used.

It develops that two retail florists are each spending about $15,000 per year in advertising, principally in the daily newspapers of their cities, and that each is so well satisfied with the results obtained this season that the expenditures will be increased for the season that opens in the autumn.

HAND IN HAND.

Wherever you find a newspaper that has a strong standing with its readers, there you find a publication that brings excellent returns to its advertisers. Here are extracts from letters that show how it works:

I herewith hand you the dollar for the renewal of my subscription; would rather miss two or three square meals than one issue of The Review. —J. W. Myer, Gridley, Cal., March 26, 1913.

The Review is to the florist what water is to a fish; I will take great pleasure in recommending The Review to anyone who is in doubt or who is looking for the most interesting and up-to-date paper in the florists' world.—Wm. Robertson, Saginaw, Mich., April 2, 1913.

Please discontinue my advertisement; the few insertions have brought me orders from all over the United States and it has paid me well.—Max Scheinuk, New Orleans, La., March 24, 1913.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

Kelway & Son, Langport, England, special list of vegetable and farm seeds; V. Lemoine & Son, Nancy, France, seeds, bulbs and plants; Ralph M. Ward & Co., New York, N. It will interest many readers to know that the young woman who adorns the title page to this issue of The Review is Miss Ann Swinburne, who is a member of Klaw & Erlanger's company in "The Count of Luxembourg."

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

With more stock on hand than could ordinarily be handled on this market under normal conditions, business for the last week has almost lapsed into a state of coma through the inability of the wholesalers to make shipments to points east and south. The local wholesalers have been completely baffled in their attempts to combat the situation, for while the floods appear to have receded, the damage done to railroads throughout Ohio, Indiana and southern Illinois, to say nothing of the various southern states located on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, has made it impossible for the express companies to operate with the usual dispatch. Shipments that are consigned to the affected territories are accepted by the express companies subject to delay and at the risk of the shipper. In many cases where the wholesaler has attempted to get shipments through, the delays have amounted to from five hours to two days, while in some instances the deliveries to southern states could not be made at all and were returned.

The situation has not been improved by the warm, sunny weather of the last week and stock of all kinds is greatly in oversupply. Thus, with almost two-thirds of the shipping territory cut off and with the great in-

A National Flower Show Every Day in the Year

THERE is a display of the nation's best in our store 365 days each year. While the bulk of our great supply is locally grown, both coasts contribute their choicest products to our daily stock. And the quality is the BUSINESS-WINNING QUALITY. Retailers make money handling our stock.

BEAUTIES

Have your Beauty customers dropped away because you could not get the grade of stock they required? Well, just send them word that Beauties are good again, and show them ours. All lengths, and, incidentally, prices are at a point that lets you make a good profit—it will pay to push our Beauties now.

FANCY ROSES

It is a fact you easily can prove that, length for length, our Roses carry larger and finer heads than any others on this market. We ask retailers to order freely of our roses, for we are certain that these roses will win friends for us by making friends for those who buy of us.

SWEET PEAS

This is the time of year when you can do a fine corsage business with our fancy, long-stemmed sweet peas. We have long-stemmed sweet peas in very large quantity—can fill orders for thousands. The longest stemmed, brightest colored, special fancy Blanche Ferry and the new winter-blooming Spencer. You can't get Spencers anywhere else. We are the only source of supply in this market, so why not order direct?

CARNATIONS

The buyers have found that it's not what you pay but what you get that determines value. We give value. The more you think about it the more certain you are to order Carnations of us.

crease in the supply of stock, the market is probably bringing less in the way of returns than it has since the summer months. Roses are in big supply and the stock is generally of good quality. Beauties still are being cut in quantity, but, though of the best color, with good, strong stems, the prices obtained are far below the usual run. In some cases the dealers are forced to take what they can get in order to move them at all. Killarneys are likewise being cut in large numbers and the local retailers are taking advantage of the quality and low prices to advertise sales in the daily papers. This has helped to some extent to move off the surplus stock, but there is still more than enough for the local demand. Richmonds are in good supply, but not nearly so abundant as the Killarneys and Beauties, while Mrs. Ward, Maryland, Sunburst and the various other roses do not appear to be in full crop at present. However, there are plenty of these to meet all the calls.

Carnations are in big supply and all colors are being shipped in quantity. Good stock is scarce, however, as the warm weather that has prevailed has not served to improve the quality. Prices, too, have suffered somewhat and only on the best do the wholesale men realize any returns worth while. Sweet peas have been cut in even larger numbers during the last ten days and there are plenty to fill all demands. Outdoor bulbous stock has been arriving on the market at intervals, but there is no great amount of satisfaction to be gained, for most of the stock has been delayed in transit and it is hard to obtain any first-class stock. Valley seems to be getting as good a call as anything else and the spring wedding season is undoubtedly aiding the sale, for there is not any too much of the high grade valley to be had and prices are generally firm. Violets are rapidly decreasing in supply and but few are good enough to ship.

Various Notes.

Erne & Klingel say the run on roses has been good during the last week and they cleaned up unusually well considering conditions.

Last week John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., escorted a party of flower show trade visitors on a tour of inspection of the Maywood and Elmhurst growers. Maywood has been nicknamed Peaville. It is said there are only two growers in the colony there who do not devote more or less space to sweet peas.

O. W. Frese says that he does not remember a time in his many years' experience when it was so difficult to handle shipping orders as has been the case in the last two weeks. The floods so interrupted the telegraph and express service that one never knew what could be done. Conditions are now much improved.

James Psenicka and W. Bezdek, who started in business as the Northwestern Floral Co., are in a peculiar situation. They are good friends, but decided to dissolve partnership. There were twelve houses, divided by a road, seven on the south side, five on the north, but only one heating plant. Mr. Bezdek took the larger section, paying for the extra size, and will heat the other range until May 1, when Mr. Psenicka expects to have his own boilers working. Both

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

After the heavy rains of last week, the weather has become much cooler and stock has improved considerably. Trade has been dull since Easter and there has been little doing outside of funeral work. There are few social functions, so the demand for flowers is light.

Carnations are unusually good at this writing, but the supply is meager, which makes the price stay up. All kinds of roses are in good condition and the supply is exceedingly large, necessitating rose sales occasionally. The cold weather has helped the quality of violets a great deal, for they are still firm and crisp as late in the year as this. They are decreasing in quantity, however. In flowering plants rose bushes, spiræas, hyacinths and a few azaleas are all to be had. Asparagus and hardy ferns are plentiful.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

While not flooded with water, Pittsburgh has been flooded with flowers all this week. Most of the railroads are accepting shipments for all points sold by this city, but trade seems to have slumped and consignors to this city will be able to read it in their statements of returns. It has been so long since we have had Beauties in quantities that people seem to have forgotten them. Violets are faring worse. They are not good at best and, then, I believe people are holding spite against them for the way they acted at Easter, and you cannot blame them.

The wholesalers are not escaping, stock of all kinds arriving in quantities and trade being unusually quiet. The retailers seem to be busy, but not the kind of busy that uses any quantity of stock, so it is safe to say business is quiet.

was called on for a talk and demonstrations on the use of flowers and ribbons for the retail trade. Mr. Breitenstein is an artist of known repute in the trade and possesses rare skill in using and combining all of the odds and ends hanging around counters and ice-boxes, and making them up into striking effects that please the most exacting customers, but he is not so strong on talk. His demonstrations of combining colors were better than mere talk, however, and were instructive, inasmuch as he advocated more general use of reds, yellows and purples and showed many effects with these colors. He advocated growing and using more flowers of the calendula class, yellow tulips, especially the doubles, showing the colors and kinds of ribbons to use. He criticised the use of satin ribbon of any kind and said that the only recomthing, especially pink of the shades of Maryland rose and Winsor and Mrs. Ward carnations. They can be used with other things, he said, but rarely alone to get the most artistic effects. He also criticised the salesman who cannot sell anything and can only give his customer the same flowers day after day because the customer does not know anything else to ask for. He said the customer is always wanting something new and will buy anything the salesman suggests, if properly presented with a good arrangement of the flowers. He was complimentary about the Dutch and Italians, declaring they have much better taste in combining colors than we have and that there is nothing handsomer than the Dutch mixture, so often ridiculed. These thoughts were all in connection with made-up work. His combinations, in many instances, were striking and, while he used some that would sound strange, he always had harmony in his colors, which is the whole story after all. His demonstrations were received with applause.

The next meeting will be held May 6, at the Carnegie museum, where Professor Jennings will take the members through the line of economics.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The market has rallied during the week ending April 9. There has been a slight improvement in business, but prices have not advanced. The quantity of flowers coming in has fallen off a little; the cooler weather has kept the quality up to the mark and there is just a little more demand. Sweet peas are decidedly less abundant; the call for them is quite brisk. The shortage in Cattleya Mossiae was only for a day or two; they are now in good supply, though not nearly so plentiful as Cattleya Schroederæ, and command a much better price. Roses are good and plentiful. Beauties continue in heavy supply, with the prices low. Carnations have fallen off in price and are moving rather slowly. The cool weather has kept double violets in good form, particularly Lady Campbell. Snapdragon is selling quite well; so are pansies. Callas improve as their season draws to a close. There is a fair amount of stock going out of town. Southern daffodils are over, but there are plenty of fine greenhouse grown Spurs.

An Evergreen Decoration.

A unique decoration arranged and executed by J. J. Habermehl's Sons in the ball room of the Bellevue Stratford this season was composed principally of evergreens. An Italian garden was painted on canvas expressly for the occasion. This painting was used as a background for the ball room scene.

The sides of the room were decorated with choice evergreens in great varieties. Two large boxes, one on each side of the room, were filled with evergreens to represent handsome beds, such as those seen on the lawn of a spacious country place. The balconies and the floor below were adorned with evergreens, backed by tall marble vases filled with rhododendrons. Wild smilax was freely used above, while the parts of the floor not intended for dancing were covered with grass mats. Just a few azaleas were used to give a touch of color—so few that they did not detract from the effect of various shades of green, in striking contrast with the white vases and balconies.

In New York

APRIL 12th

From the time our automobile left Philadelphia loaded with the choicest Florists' Supplies for the show, until our exhibit was staged, was a series of triumphs. Everybody looked at the handsome new car marked for the New York Flower Show as it sped along. Everybody complimented us on our magnificent display when our car load of novelties and staples was all in place.

among the first florists in this city to use a delivery car; he was not satisfied with it and later returned to a horse and wagon, but he now feels that the improvement in the gasoline car makes it more desirable than a team for long-distance delivery.

Sydney Bayersdorfer is in New York, in charge of his firm's exhibit at the show. He has a half-dozen assistants.

H. P. Campbell, a well-known florist of Shamokin, Pa., died April 1. His funeral took place April 5. Mr. Campbell was successful and highly respected. He had a retail store in Shamokin and also greenhouses; his genial disposition endeared him to his business friends, by whom he will be sadly missed.

W. E. McKissick, of Washington, D. C., spent a few hours in this city on his way to the New York show. Raymond Kester, now of Indianapolis, Ind., has also promised to call on his friends en passant.

B. Eschner, president of M. Rice Co., cabled his safe arrival from Bremen last week. His company believes there will be an unusual demand for metal goods for Memorial day.

Many of our leading men have been at the New York show this week. They all speak well of the splendid exhibition in the Grand Central Palace.

D. L. Edwards, of Bridgeton, N. J., was married to Miss McCall at the home of the bride's parents in Overbrook, Pa., April 5. You will say that the bride's name should come first, for she is queen of the day, but in this case the bridegroom has floral fame, for he is the son and associate of Theo-

WASHINGTON, D. C.Club Meeting.

The April meeting of the Florists' Club of Washington, held at 1214 F street, N. W., was given over mainly to the making of plans for the attendance by members at the New York show. Present as a guest of the club was Richard Vincent, of White Marsh, Md., who, in addition to urging a large attendance in New York, gave considerable information concerning the coming convention. He told of what was being done to make this affair a successful one and mapped out several routes that might be taken by those so inclined, so as to include an enjoyable vacation. He recommended for consideration a trip by water from this city or Baltimore, in conjunction with florists from the latter city, via the Merchants & Miners' route to Boston, then via the Great Lakes, in company with the eastern members, to Duluth and back by rail.

W. F. Gude, as chairman, reported that the club's annual banquet would be given the latter part of April at one of the downtown hotels or at Rauscher's and that numerous surprises were in store for those who attend.

Commenting on the fact that there was a tendency among stores, other than those handling flowers, to close early on Saturday night where heretofore they had remained open three to four hours after the closing hour on other days, W. W. Kimmel said that he hoped the day would come when there would be a regular hour of closing for the Kimmel was of the opinion that if the florists were to do likewise they would be forced to ask better prices for their goods and in the end make a larger margin of profit. This has started something and other meetings will be utilized for a discussion of this subject.

The name of T. E. Bessman, of Riverdale, Md., was presented for election to membership and his application turned over to Messrs. Mayberry, Hammer and Kimmel for action.

Various Notes.

Business during the last week has been somewhat slower than could be expected, but this is accounted for by the changeable weather and the lack of entertainments. Funeral work, as usual, has been good, but there have been fewer afternoon and evening events demanding floral displays.

The Washington delegation to the New York show numbered about thirty, many of the members leaving on the special train, being joined at Baltimore by the contingent from that city. W. F. Gude and George Cooke were among the judges.

Plans are progressing for the holding of the rose show early in May by the Brookland Citizens' Association in Lord Memorial hall, Brookland, D. C.

C. L. L.

Olio, Mich.—Mary Boyer has again taken charge of the greenhouses formerly conducted by the late Austin Boyer, but leased for the last two years to George Losee.

Erie, Ill.—C. J. Peckham, who began business about two years ago with a few hotbeds, now has greenhouses which cover an area of 2,000 square feet and is contemplating the erection of another house. He grows both flowers and vegetables and finds a ready market for all that he can produce. There is a good demand for cut flowers and designs.

ST. LOUIS, MO.

The Southwestern Market.

The local market has been greatly overcrowded since Easter. The present condition of the market is caused by an overproduction more than by dull business in retail circles. It seems that all the shippers to this market are on for a great crop at the same time and the demand, which is good, is not great enough to consume the stock that is coming in at the five wholesale houses. The great bulk of the stock is of excellent quality and there was no need of any of our retailers buying from the outside the last two weeks, prices, of course, suffering greatly, as the wholesalers were obliged to cut on thousand lots to rid themselves of the great surplus that was piling up daily.

In looking over the markets April 7, we find the same conditions as described above at all the wholesale houses. Easter lilies are selling as low as $5 and $6 per 100, and callas the same. Roses and carnations can not be quoted correctly as to prices, as the great bulk of the glut lies in these. Sweet peas and violets are in great quantities and are also selling at cheap prices when compared with a few weeks ago. There is no wild smilax in the market. It cannot be shipped in, owing to the floods. In other greens, the market has its usual good supply.

Co., was elected to the city council at a recent municipal election.

The new House of Delegates took their seats on Saturday, April 5, in the city hall, surrounded by flowers of all kinds sent by friends. All florists were busy for this occasion.

Dave Geddes, of F. H. Weber's, left Saturday night for New York to attend the National Flower Show. He will visit Philadelphia and Washington and also Pittsburgh, his old home, before returning here.

Will Ossick, of the W. C. Smith
Wholesale Floral Co., says notwithstanding the big glut in carnations and peas, they cleaned up pretty well in big lots last week and they are also having a good shipping trade in cut flowers and supplies to the northwest.

Messrs. Beyer, Schray, Fillmore, Meurer, Held and Walker, in the south end, say they have a great many orders ahead for planting out and are looking for one of their best seasons in this

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.;
Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.
Thirty-first annual convention at Cleveland, June 24 to 26, 1913.

SPINACH is not among the scarce items. In Europe they have a surplus.

THE regulation permitting the mailing of 4-ounce parcels at other places than the post-office helps some.

THE Zach Davis Co., at Delaware, O., suffered a seed loss of from $10,000 to $12,000, caused by the flood.

A CONSTANTLY increasing proportion of America's requirements in aster seed is being met with home-grown stock.

THE Livingston Seed Co., at Columbus, O., writes that it lost little as a result of the flood, its greenhouses being above the water-covered district.

EUROPEAN seedsmen report a particularly strong demand for the novelty Primula malacoides alba, for which orders much exceeded the supply.

GERMAN growers of aster seeds are hoping for something like an average crop this season, as the 1913 crop was considerably short of requirements.

AN association of south Texas truckers is invoking the aid of the press on behalf of their crop of Bermuda onions. An advertising campaign has been begun in magazines of wide circulation.

THE big German seed growers, at Erfurt and Quedlinburg, report the soil deficient in moisture, as the result of a winter mild and dry, marked by an almost complete absence of snow. Spring rains were badly needed at the date of last reports.

LUDWIG HEYN, Darmstadt, Germany, is this year celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary as sole owner of the grass seed business of world-wide scope conducted under the name of Conrad Appel. Mr. Heyn is the great-grandson of the founder, the business having remained in the same family for four generations.

A CORRESPONDENT of Quedlinburg has the following to say on the germination of the German vegetable, farm and flower seeds in general: "The unusually wet, cool and dull weather last summer and autumn, during the time of the development and ripening of the seed, prevented a great proportion of the seed from fully maturing, and, therefore, the germination is somewhat below that of normal years. Consequently, to avoid disappointment, sowings should be made more thickly than usual."

THE Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association has voted to place its seed orders, aggregating $50,000, with European growers, whose prices, according to Toronto advices, are said to be much lower than the quotations of Canadian growers. W. J. Kerr, of Woodroffe, has been appointed purchasing agent for the entire membership, which aggregates 1,000. It is said that in some cases the European quotations are from 300 to 400 per cent lower than those given by Canadian growers.

WHY ONIONS SELL SLOWLY.

The following is from an authority in the produce trade in the east: "Commission houses report there is no hope for the big supply of old crop onions. The best price for reds is 40 cents per 100-pound sack and they are not wanted at that. The best yellows are offered at 60 cents to 65 cents, with negligible movement. Erie railroad will not accept them unless freight charges are prepaid. Thousands of acres of the old crop throughout the country have not been harvested, and it is now being plowed under for fertilizer."

CARROT IN CALIFORNIA.

Last year, owing to the conditions in France, a considerably larger acreage than usual of carrot for seed was grown in California and the following notes by Frank C. Cuthbertson will be of interest to many:

"Carrot seed does best in the islands of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, where the soil is either a rich sediment or peat. The soil being always moist and there being small chance of drying out, good crops are always harvested.

"The seed is sown about June and most growers like to sow on the peat land. Earlier sowing than June results in oversized roots, and oversized roots are not to be commended for planting. The roots are ready for lifting in November, and during the latter part of that month a start is made with planting, if weather conditions are favorable. The roots are lifted and laid out in rows with the leaves cut off. A careful selection is made of each variety. When grown in the peat soil the roots are fully and perfectly developed and there is no question as to whether a root is right or wrong. Any off shape or color can be detected at a glance.

"The ground is marked off in rows three feet apart by a marker, which, drawn by two horses, marks three rows at each journey. It is wonderful what straight rows can be made by an expert driver. Many growers cross-mark the ground as well. This means a great deal when cultivating time comes, as the cultivating can be done both ways.

"The carrots are planted three feet

THE LARGEST STOCK OF FLORISTS' RIBBONS TO BE FOUND ANYWHERE IN THE WHOLE UNITED STATES

Probably most retail florists know that the ribbon mills have been tied up for months by a bitterly fought strike. Most houses have taken advantage of the situation to raise their prices, but we have not advanced on any of our principal lines, nor shall we do so as long as our present stocks last. After goods bought under the old conditions are gone, prices will depend on what the mills do, but for the present we are glad to give our customers the advantage of our freight in buying the biggest stock of florists' ribbons in America.

"LEADER" BRAND SATIN TAFFETA RIBBON

No florist who considers quality can afford to ignore this Ribbon. It has everything to recommend it, even the price. We have always given special attention to this Ribbon, constantly incorporating new floral shades. For rich, vivid colors, elegant texture and luster, this Ribbon is unsurpassed. Your customers will be pleased and the amount you ask won't scare them. Colors:—White, Richmond, Pink, Lavender, Mais, Purple, Moss Green, Nile Green, Valley, Violet, Orchid, Killarney, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Sunburst. Exquisite two-tone effects in Killarney, American Beauty, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Orchid, Valley and Sunburst.

Mothers' Day is a day set aside by the whole of North America to honor universal motherhood.

ON MAY 11th

EVERYONE SENDS FLOWERS TO MOTHER
EVERYONE WEARS A WHITE FLOWER IN HONOR OF MOTHER EVERYONE GIVES A WHITE FLOWER TO SOMEONE ELSE TO WEAR

In memory of the loving mothers who have passed away, flowers are sent to every sick room, sanitarium, hospital, almshouse, prison and orphanage.

Any white flower typifies Mothers' Day, although many prefer the white carnation for "Mothers' Day Flower." Its virtues are similar to those of the Mother. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting qualities, faithfulness.

CARROT IN CALIFORNIA.

apart in the rows, except in the case of small varieties, such as French Forcing. Three feet each way seems a lot to give a carrot, but it is, if anything, too little.

"The planting is generally all finished by the end of January, and the carrots immediately commence to make roots. Cultivating is kept up continuously until growth gets so strong as to forbid any further horse traffic. Several hoeings are given during the season, but by June the growth forbids even a man getting about without doing serious damage.

"It is a fine sight to see a large patch of twenty or thirty acres of carrot in bloom. The growth reaches a height often of six feet. By August the seed is ready for cutting. Carrot seed has always been a difficult one to harvest, but the Japanese have made a good tool for the job. A large blade of iron is securely fastened to a trestle; on the top of the blade is fastened a divided lever; the lever is fastened to one end of the blade. A man pulls up one or two roots and pushes the heads over the blade while the lever is held up. The man operating the lever brings it down so the heads are chopped off into a sheet or into a basket. Imagine the blade of a pocket knife fastened to a trestle and the handle the lever, and a fair idea of the principle of the tool can be grasped.

"After being cut the heads are taken to the drying sheets. The sheets are 40x40 and the heads are piled about three feet thick. The heads are turned daily, sometimes twice daily, and in three days during fine weather are ready for threshing. The condition is carefully watched so that the 'sticks' do not get too dry. The threshing is done by two horses and a wooden roller. After they have trotted over the heads for half a day, the rough sticks, etc., are thrown off and the seed loosened up a bit. The seed is then thoroughly dried for another day, being turned over several times. The horses and roller work a few more hours to 'beard' the seed. There is usually about 1,500 pounds to each sheet. After the 'bearding' operation the seed is sifted through large sieves and then roughly milled. It is then taken to the cleaning warehouse and carefully milled. Everyone knows how difficult it is to clean carrot seed; in fact, it is an art. No matter how good the mill is, the man in charge must use his brains to get a good sample. With the modern arrangement of the mills, including the dust room, the disagreeable dust has been confined, so that the cleaning of carrot seed is a much better job for the mill attendant than it used to be.

"The same varieties of carrots popular in Europe are grown in California, but perhaps not so many. Danver's Half Long is the most popular, with Oxheart a close second. One is surprised to find Scarlet Horn only about a poor third, but French Forcing is popular. Other varieties grown in quantity are Red St. Valery, Chantenay, Long Orange, Nantes, Intermediate, Short White and White Belgian. When a row of Danver's or Chantenay carrots are dug from the peat land and laid out for selecting, the sight would make many of the leading exhibitors of vegetables in England green with envy."

LILY BULBS

There are more men ruined in a day by adventurous trading than in all the gambling houses in the world in a week.

Why risk your business? Sit down and figure it out. Suppose you do get an allowance from allowance-makers for poor lily bulbs.

Who is to help you fill orders? Who's to hold your steady trade? Allowance money won't do it—but your competitors will. Who will pay your normal profits over the flowering period? Have you ever thought of that?

Any allowance that a poor business man might make you for bad lily bulbs won't begin to pay for your loss from bad lilies.

Florists in the United States have made more money in the last five years by using Horseshoe Brand lily bulbs than they made in the previous ten years. They are absolutely the very best that can be obtained. Send for the Book of Bulbology—out this month.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

The market has been unsettled during the last ten days, owing to the flood situation. It has been utterly impossible to get express in from Chicago, as there has been no train service between that city and Louisville. Roses, in the longer grades, have been particularly scarce. This is also true of Beauties. A few growers had a lot of bulbous stock, which helped the situation wonderfully. Sweet peas are in fine shape. There is also a limited quantity of snapdragon coming in.

Various Notes.

Anders Rasmussen and wife are attending the National Flower Show at New York.

It has been reported that Mrs. C. W. Reimers is going to locate at Fourth avenue and Broadway in the near future. This section of the retail district has made wonderful progress during the last few years.

Beutel & Frederick reported their best Easter trade.

All of the downtown stores report business as fair, considering weather conditions.

The monthly meeting of the Kentucky Society of Florists was held at the store of Secretary A. R. Baumer, April 2. A paper on combined advertising was read by Mr. Baumer.

John Hettinger, foreman for Jacob Schulz, is supplying the store with well-grown Tausendschons, which are finding ready sale.

F. Walker & Co. have been displaying pretty hydrangeas. G. E. S.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

The Market.

Business has been quieter during the last week, although funeral orders have been exceptionally heavy. Choice violets, roses and carnations are coming in and are selling well. Bulbous stock is practically over, with the exception of a few daffodils. Two or three department stores are advertising cut flowers cheap, which materially affects the retail florist.

Various Notes.

Some of the local florists are taking in the International Flower Show this week.

were displayed choice antirrhinums, which sold readily. They had a special on violets April 5, at 25 cents per bunch, which cleaned up all the stock they had.

The New Haven Nurseries Co. is rushed with orders, reporting considerable out-of-town work.

Max Krauss, of Davenport avenue, is sending in some exceptionally well grown azaleas. He recently has purchased a fine auto delivery car, which he finds most useful in delivering his stock.

The S. H. Moore Co. reports trade as being rather quiet, but funeral orders are heavy.

The Doolittle Floral Co., having recovered from its Easter rush, is busy getting its enormous stock of bedding plants in shape for Decoration day.

Jos. J. Sokol is sending in an exceptionally fine strain of pansy plants, which he has no trouble in disposing of.

Charles Munro is receiving choice Killarney roses from his greenhouses on Townsend avenue. Table decorations and funeral orders have kept him busy all the week.

Wm. H. Long continues to receive choice roses from his brother's place in East Haven. M. B. F.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Martin McNulty, who began business here about five years ago, now has nearly 20,000 square feet of glass, besides his nursery at the intersection of the Boulevard and Sunset Drive, and he expects to find it necessary soon to build another addition to his greenhouses, if trade continues to increase at its present rate. He has plenty of room for expansion, as he owns over seven acres of suitable land in Highland Heights.

L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter

(Ball Bearing—Long Wearing)

In buying a typewriter you want a satisfactory answer to three questions:

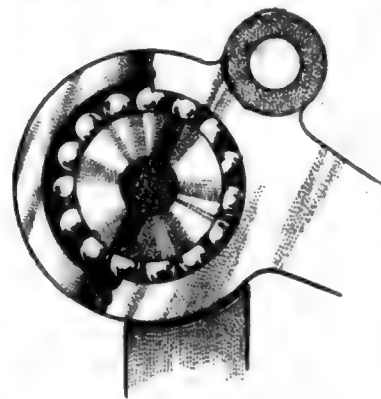

*What will it do for me?
How well will it do it?
How long will it do it?*

By answering these queries with the needs of the typewriter owner and user in mind, the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Company has attained the front rank in the typewriter field.

Some people think that a typewriter is a typewriter and that is all there is to it. Machines may look alike but there is a lot of difference in efficiency.

The new Model Five is built not only for straight correspondence but for tabulating, billing and in fact for every service needed in the average business.

Its ball bearings at all points where friction develops through action, permit close adjustment and insure correct and accurate typewriting.

We would like the opportunity to tell you more about it.

QUESTION

Q Where in all the world can you find a good commercial White Gladiolus from which you can cut a SPIKE OF FLOWERS AND BUDS measuring from THREE TO FOUR FEET in length without appreciable damage to the bulb?

ANSWER

Q The variety "PEACE."

Besides possessing all of the other attributes which, combined, make it the most valuable white variety yet introduced, it also grows such a tall, stately and strong plant that no other white variety, and few varieties of other colors, will permit the cutting of such long, perfect spikes without injury to the plant and bulb. This feature alone more than doubles the value of this variety, as will be appreciated by every grower of Gladioli for the market.

If you are interested in such varieties and wish to know more about them, write me, or, better still, try a few bulbs of Peace and see for yourself.

Better also try a few bulbs of "War," companion of "Peace." A deeper red, more brilliant or a larger flower you have never seen. I will make no exception of any variety, either of domestic or foreign origin.

Peace, large-blooming bulbs	per dozen, $	2.00
Peace, large-blooming bulbs	per 1000,	100.00
War, large-blooming bulbs	each,	1.50
War, large-blooming bulbs	per dozen,	15.00

You should have my illustrated catalogue. Write for it.

GLADIOLI BETSCHERI.

Exceptionally extraordinary, they will become the one type for a long time in the future, once they are in commerce and become known. Watch them. One word will describe them—Irresistible.

Embracing the very best characters of the world's best types, strains and species in the highest potentiality, approximate the highest idea. They will be without rival, peer or competitor.

We have Betscherized the gladioli in over 40 characters, maximized it to the ultimate, minimized its faults to virtually nil, although our ideal is greater today than in 1912. Watch them—introduction 1915 or later.

See our classified ad in this week's issue for items still unsold.

For next fall and spring, 1913-'14, season our stocks of the very best sorts, like America, Augusta, Peace, etc., will be very large, quality the best, prices right. Let us know your wants.

PEONIES

The cream of 1200 sorts. Our planting of these is one of the largest in existence; many very scarce and extra good ones in very ample supply. Let us know your wants. Large divisions, liberal quantity, prices that make trade.

Our perennial ideal is the best in quality. Quality alone is the basis of comparative value, but prices must be right, etc.

SWEET POTATO PLANTS.

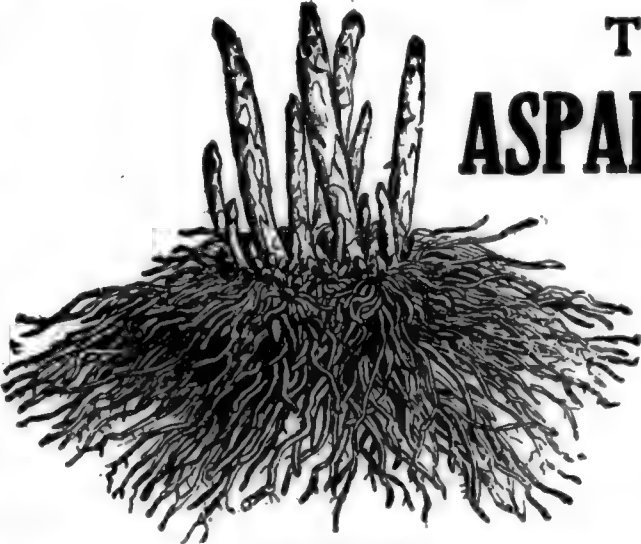

We find there is quite a demand for sweet potato plants in our locality in the state of Washington and shall appreciate your courtesy if you will tell us how to get them started. W. F. C.

Sweet potatoes are tender and cannot be set out any earlier than tomatoes. A hotbed for sweet potatoes can be made the same as for other purposes, but we prefer a deep one, a dug-out or pit, made by digging a hole about eighteen inches deep and a trifle larger than the size of the frame. This trench we fill with fresh horse manure which has been hauled up previously and turned and well shaken up once or twice. The manure is tramped into the pit until it is well filled and well packed. Then the frame is placed on top, and more manure packed all around it to keep it warm around the sides and ends. If the manure is not good the hotbed will be a failure, but we are presuming that the inquirer knows something about hotbeds. If the manure is burning dry, it needs a light watering, or it will be ruined.

After placing the frame on the manure, spread about an inch or two of sand on top of the manure, put the sash on, and wait to see how it is going to act. In a few days the temperature will run high, and the potatoes should not be put in until the temperature of the manure falls back to about 90 degrees. To get the temperature, put the thermometer well down into the manure.

When the bed is ready to plant, place the sweet potatoes on the sand as closely as they can be laid without touching each other. Put sand on top of them until they are completely covered over. Then sprinkle the sand and put the sash on again. Ventilate the bed each day, according to how bright and warm or windy the weather is, and water when needed to keep the sand moist. Do not open too much. Close them up early in the afternoon, so as to run the bed warm.

When the plants are up large enough to sell, a sash is lifted off and the plants pulled off by holding the sand and the potato down with one hand and catching hold of the sprouts, low down in the sand, with the other hand. They pull easily, and the old sweet potatoes will keep on producing more such sprouts or plants until late in July. Take the plants to the shed, count them out in bundles of fifty or 100, and roll them up in sphagnum moss and papers, like rooted cuttings. They do not keep well and should be planted out soon. It is best not to pull them until the customers want them. It is well to have the bed come on early enough, as they can easily be held back by giving more ventilation if they are ready a week or so too early. We have seen the first batch pulled and thrown away when entirely too early.

Where sandy soil is to be had, sweet potatoes pay much better than Irish potatoes, and the growing of the plants in such a locality is profitable at 50 cents per hundred. In sandy fields it is best not to plow the soil first, but simply to throw up ridges on the uncultivated soil. These ridges for the rows should be three feet apart, and the plants should be set eighteen inches apart in the row and watered immediately. If these ridges are thrown up about eight inches above grade and the trenches between are as far below grade, the ridges will seem sixteen inches high. If the ground is too loose under the ridges, the roots will go down too deep and be inclined to make long and slim instead of short and fat sweet potatoes.

OUTDOOR VEGETABLES.

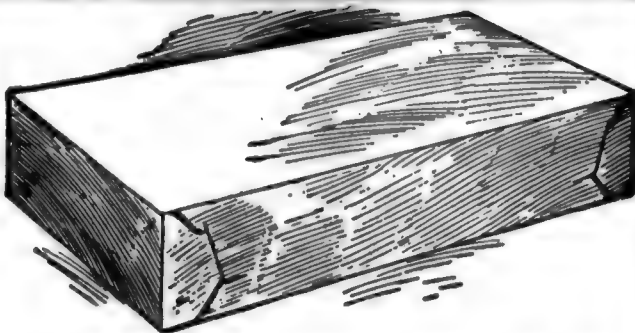

Please tell me whether I can grow celery on new ground. I have about five acres of pasture, low ground that never has been plowed. I thought of breaking it this spring and planting part of it with celery, onions and winter cabbage. In this Iowa climate, if I sow the celery seed in the last week of March, in a hotbed, will that be early enough so that I can set the plants out in time. I want the celery to be early, so I can sell it before winter comes. I have White Plume, Golden Self-Blanching and Winter Queen celery.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

A reduction in the amount of funeral work caused a slight falling off in business the early part of April; consequently the cheaper grades of stock piled up a little and even the best bulbous plants went back a few points in price. At times there was an oversupply of even the best greenhouse carnations, but good roses have held their own all through. The first Spanish irises appeared April 1 and were of superb quality, especially the golden yellow types. Freesias are declining. Tulips are plentiful, and so are daffodils. Golden Spur has passed out and Emperor has taken its place this week. Orchids are again on the scarce side and there has been a brisk demand. Price cutting among the wholesalers in greens has gladdened the hearts of the retailers.

Mr. Felgate Addresses Society.

The monthly meeting of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society was held at Kruckeberg's hall April 1, with President Winsel in the chair. On the table was a vase of choice Narcissus Weardale Perfection, exhibited by Austin Campbell Johnston. This is a grand variety with immense flowers and fine stems, the coloring under the artificial light being a good deal like that of Empress. It is not new, but a fine form.

W. W. Felgate, of Sierra Madre, exhibited a pretty bunch of varieties of Pyrethrum roseum, single and quilled, and some good ranunculuses. Mr. Felgate was also the speaker of the evening, his paper on the culture of annuals being well received. He pointed out the importance, first of all, of good seed, and followed with a practical and thoroughly interesting résumé of the various cultural points, including sowing, transplanting and the preparation of the soil. A frequent mistake, Mr. Felgate pointed out, was the spading-in of raw manure in place of thoroughly incorporating it with the soil. The discussion that followed brought out many interesting points not usually thought of in connection with annuals. Mr. Felgate is successful with these at Dr. Barlow's pretty place in the foothill town.

Two Busy Firms.

Calling at the Dieterich & Turner range recently, I had a look around the new quarters for the help, as well as Mr. Turner's new garage. They are a splendid addition and will enhance the comfort of the men. The rose stock looks healthy—big blocks of Killarney Queen, Sunburst and all the popular kinds, as well as smaller lots of the novelties. A batch of young plants of the new Ramona outside was a mass of flower, though the stock was only a few inches high. Such a glorious mass of color surely should convince the "doubting Thomases," if any still remain, as to the value of this fine novelty. Mr. Turner reports a big demand for Prima Donna. Another new 300-foot house is to be added this year.

Large numbers of vegetable plants are being shipped in to the store of the Germain Seed & Plant Co. from the trial grounds on the Whittier road, and the demand for them is heavy. The quality of the pansies grown by this firm is attested by the immense demand for plants, which taxes the staff to the utmost. For many years this strain has been improved and worked up, and now there is nothing in the trade to beat it. A departure here is the publication of a four-page paper sent out to customers and anyone else who needs it. A number of seasonable articles and other down-to-date matter is printed.

Mrs. Garrett's Fine Plant.

Mrs. Garrett, of Eagle Rock, is well known as a grower of fine bulbous and other stock for this market, and I recently had the pleasure of a glimpse at her charming home place and the commercial end of the garden. About 400,000 bulbs of Golden Spur, Emperor, Sir Watkin and other daffodils, Spanish irises and gladioli are grown, besides about 40,000 chrysanthemums in the season. Although Mrs. Garrett originally went into the growing of cut flowers as a means of regaining her health and living in the open air, she has made a great success of it, both culturally and financially, everything being done on systematic, practical lines.

By careful planting the commercial part has been kept well away from the home garden proper, and this is beautifully kept and well planted. A stony soil of only a few inches over rock and the shade of eucalyptus trees seems almost an impossible combination, but by means of planting German irises, poppies, freesias and others, Mrs. Garrett has turned this part into a beautiful wild garden. Then there are terraces planted to herbaceous and other subjects, a pretty pergola with climbing roses, green lawns, and every nook and corner planted to something well chosen. The home stands well up, commanding a view of the beautiful Eagle Rock valley and foothills. It is altogether a charming home and a great credit to exceptionally good. The quality of the Gesneriana tulips here is especially fine.

J. W. Wolters has been carrying out a series of decorations at the California Club that has kept the force busy. Mr. Wolters has been suffering from a bad siege of lumbago.

C. E. Morton is a busy man these days, moving off the immense shipments of bulb stock arriving from his growers. The tulips coming from the Wilmington ranch have the genuine Brazee stamp.

Tassano Bros. have opened a wholesale store at Lick place, San Francisco.

Morris Goldenson may now be seen around town in his big Oakland car, which he purchased recently.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

San Francisco was treated the last week to several showers of rain, which went a long way toward putting everyone in good humor. Flowers of all kinds are plentiful again. Even Easter lilies are more in evidence than they were two weeks ago. Roses are now well advanced on the spring crop and the quality is good throughout. Carnations lowered somewhat in price in the last week and moved well. Outside bulbous stock is scarcer. Narcissi are practically over, with the exception of the late blooming yellow daffodils. Freesias and early tulips have given way to late flowering Gesnerianas, and although these do not seem to sell as well as they did one year ago there is no stock thrown out. The growers did not plant as heavily of this sort this season as they did in former years. Valley moves well. Spanish iris and a few other hardy bulbs help to keep up the show. Violets are good, but they are nearing the end of their season. Other lines of stock do not show any particular change, with the possible exception of sweet peas, and they are cheaper and better. Business is not brisk, but an improvement may be looked for at any time.

Various Notes.

James Roller, of the California Evergreen Co., has returned from a short trip to Los Angeles and vicinity.

The florists of the bay cities have subscribed over $500 for the relief of the Ohio sufferers in the recent floods.

The Flower Lovers' show, given under the auspices of the California State Floral Society, was a big success in attendance and in quality of exhibits. The flowers and plants shown were principally from private gardens in and around San Francisco. E. James, of Elmhurst, had the finest showing of potted ferns.

There is a movement on foot to prevent the street hucksters of flowers and other goods from using the sidewalks for their displays. The measure, which is favored by all the stores, has been attempted before without success. G.

A considerable number of weddings and entertainments this week and some large funerals have kept the florists busy. A quantity of the lilies that were late for Easter have come in handy for this work. Stock is plentiful and carnations are more abundant than side narcissi are coming in. Most of the forced stock is over, but tulips are still selling well. Good pot plants are scarce. Bedding plants are making their appearance, but the frost at night should prevent much planting for some time yet. The seedsmen are having a brisk time filling orders and the nurserymen all report good business.

Various Notes.

Victor Anderson, foreman at the Hollywood plant of the Hollywood Gardens, is in the Seattle General hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis. At last accounts he was getting along nicely.

Judging by the appearance of the roses at the plant of Rosaia Bros. at Thomas, it is not so much a question of climate as has generally been stated here. The appearance of the plants leaves nothing to be desired and the quality of the blooms at present being cut would be hard to beat. Probably it is more a question of painstaking cultivation, which these roses evidently have received, than it is climatic considerations that tend to make profitable the growing of roses under glass here.

Cucumbers are now occupying the attention of many of our growers and apparently a larger space of glass is being devoted to them than ever before. R. C. Calloway, at Bellevue, and Risdon's, at Brighton, have commenced cutting, but the majority are much later.

So far we have had a dry season and the ground is in fine condition for field planting of carnations. Some growers are busy planting, but the frosty nights do not improve the appearance of the young stock.

A. B. Matthiesen has had bad luck with his carnation plants this year and to cap the climax a marauding cow got into one of his houses and cleaned up about 1,500 potted stock this week.

T. W.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business is holding up remarkably. While there is a good supply of stock coming in, there seems to be no surplus in any line. While carnations are in heavy cut, there always seems to be a way to use all accumulations. Rosettes have proved up wonderfully and bid fair to be a popular variety. With the advance of spring weather the rose crop has improved rapidly. Maids and Brides are producing elegant stems and flowers. Richmonds, Killarneys and Gates are also having a fine cut.

Tulips and hyacinths are almost out of the market. We are as anxious to see them go as to come. Daffodils are plentiful. Outside stock is coming in, but is badly injured by recent rains. There seems to be a scarcity of potted plants, especially of the smaller type. Hydrangeas seem to be plentiful, but for some reason are slow to move.

Various Notes.

M. Davis has opened a store at 245 Alder street.

Carl Taube has given up his store on Morrison street, finding it not a profitable venture.

E. J. Steele, grower of the Mastodon pansies, says the sale of seed has been beyond expectation, and the demand

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

A QUARREL between two Huntsville Nursery employees, Huntsville, Ala., resulted in the fatal stabbing of Charles Jones by Peck Sanderson, the latter making his escape.

W. D. GRIFFING, of Griffing Bros. Co., the nursery firm of Port Arthur, Tex., delivered an instructive address on shade trees at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Beaumont, Tex.

THE nurseries in the vicinity of Boston have had planting operations in full swing for some days, frost having gone out of the ground about March 17. There are high hopes of a long season. Plenty of business is in sight.

THE Galloway Bros.-Bowman Co., of Waterloo, Ia., have purchased the output of several nurseries at Tippecanoe City, O., which is in the flood zone, and being unable to get any word from there they are anxious about their supply.

J. R. MUIR has established a nursery at East Des Moines, Ia., and is carrying a stock said to be valued at $50,000. Mr. Muir is a large property owner in East Des Moines and in the last four years he has built upward of 100 residences there.

C. L. SHELL, of Georgetown, Tex., will build another greenhouse this summer. He is both nurseryman and florist and reports his Easter trade all he could handle. In renewing his subscription to The Review, Mr. Shell says: "I consider this the best invested dollar I ever spent."

A. L. WISKER, who has charge of the orchards for Winchell & Blair at Grass Valley, Cal., announces that he will establish a nursery in connection with the business, and already 10,000 young trees have been received for the purpose. It is estimated that the nurseries of Nevada county will set out 150,000 trees during the year.

HARASSMENTS.

The federal quarantine law is proving in every way as cumbersome and objectionable as the most pessimistic of nurserymen had feared. Taking this in addition to the multiplicity of state inspection laws, requirements for permits and licenses, and the nurseryman doing an interstate business feels that the height of harassment has been reached and that conditions must become less burdensome than they now are. It has become so bad that no nurseryman can see a box or bale go into interstate commerce with any assurance that some one of the infinitude of details has not been overlooked and will result in the loss of the stock. The worst of it is that the restrictions which now surround the shipment of nursery products are so complicated that the employees of transportation companies, which also are amenable to the laws, do not know whether or not the exactions have been met and are as likely as not to hold up shipments on which every requirement has been complied with.

While the nurseryman is exercising patience and hoping for the turn of the tide, he can console himself with the thought that really it is not the nurseries that spread plant disease, and that, while the nursery trade suffers the greatest inconvenience, the real culprits are the property owners who sell no trees but who neglect to keep their places clean.

R. H. WILSON'S NEW ACTIVITIES.

Roswell H. Wilson, who conducted for thirty-five years the Pioneer Nursery at Monrovia, Cal., selling the business in 1910 to the Pioneer Nursery Co., of which A. Foster is president, has invested $50,000 in three tracts in the San Luis Rey valley and in coast lands at Carlsbad, in addition to land at Oceanside, Cal. The valley lands will be devoted to deciduous trees and the Carlsbad holdings to citrus stock.

Within a year Mr. Wilson expects to have 100,000 nursery trees in the ground in the Osborn tract. In the valley lands he has 50,000 young apple and pear trees, with 20,000 cherry and other trees in the sheds ready for planting. He also has 10,000 quince cuttings and pits for 2,500 peach trees, as well as 30,000 grape cuttings and plums, persimmons and figs.

Mr. Wilson is installing an irrigation plant on the Osborn tract, where most of the planting to date has been done. Oceanside will be his headquarters and shipping point.

TIME TO TRIM PRIVET HEDGES.

When is the proper time to trim a privet hedge and plant the cuttings so they will grow? The hedge is now putting out green buds. I would thank you for an early reply. E. W. P.

Summer is the proper time to trim privet hedges. The most compact hedges should have two trimmings, one about the end of June and the second early in August. This will make a dense hedge. If one shearing only is given it should be about the middle of July. If your hedge needs heading back, however, you can do it now, before growth starts.

Cuttings taken off now will not root so well as those that are taken just before winter, cut in lengths of six to eight inches, tied in bundles and buried in the ground over winter. In spring these can be taken up, set in nursery rows four to eight inches apart and well firmed. Leave sufficient space between the rows to permit cultivation. Most of the wood of the cuttings should be below ground. While short pieces will grow and produce plants, cuttings five to six inches long are a suitable size to handle; I would prefer not to have them over eight inches. Of course, well ripened wood must be used. Before burying the shoots, remove any leaves that may be on them. C. W.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN TARIFF.

The new tariff bill introduced in Congress April 7 continues evergreen seedlings on the free list as heretofore, but does not define them by putting on an age limit, as was asked by the tariff committee of the A. A. N. when it visited Washington recently. The principal change proposed is a reduction of forty per cent in the duty on stocks, cuttings and seedlings not specially provided for in the act. The comparison of the present and proposed rates is as follows:

Article.	New rate.	Old rate.
Stocks, cuttings or seedlings of Myrobalan plum, Mahaleb or Mazzard cherry, Manetti multiflora and briar rose, three years old or less.....	$1 M	$1 M
Stocks, cuttings or seedlings of pear, apple, quince, and the Saint Julien plum, three years old or less.....	$1 M	$1 M men's Association that will be of general interest.

In discussing the labor problem, A. I. Smith, of Knoxville, Tenn., said in part that it always pays to recognize helpers of long experience, especially foremen of the different departments, by giving them an interest in the business. A partner will always take more pride in his work. The more of the men employed about a place that have an interest in the business the better work there is likely to be done. It also pays to recognize these department heads in the catalogue, for it makes them feel that the public holds them personally responsible for the work they do. He also spoke of the short-sightedness of the policy that introduces novelties that are of no better quality than the old standard varieties—that are only novel in the high prices asked for them. This policy never pays in the long run.

Henry Chase, of Chase Bros., Huntsville, Ala., said that to avoid getting varieties mixed they use every precaution to prevent scions and buds being mixed anywhere. They keep a bud and scion book that shows the source of every bud and scion on the place, tells how and where it is packed and all other details that might be an aid in preventing mistakes. They use labels freely as they graft and plant, to keep things from becoming mixed till permanent labels can be set. Another book is kept in which the fields are plotted so carefully that if the labels in the field should become disarranged in cultivating they easily can be put back in their proper places. In digging they use labels freely and never go into the field without tarpaulins that have been well soaked in water. The roots are covered by these as soon as dug and are kept covered until they are taken to the packing sheds. They keep a third book where the quantity of stock on hand is carefully recorded. Stock is counted frequently, to prevent disappointing customers. They have a printed card that they send to all in-

Mr. Hilton, of Knoxville, Tenn., said that it always pays to treat helpers well. It pays to see that their houses are kept painted and in good condition, and to see that they are provided with plenty of plants and flowers to make them attractive. When the employer returns after a few days' absence it pays to greet every employee with a hearty handshake and a cordial inquiry after his family. "Take time to visit your laborers in their homes and take a real interest in their affairs," he said. "These things will go far toward providing a better class of help."

ern apple growers' associations have united and printed a small leaflet entitled "Two hundred nine Ways of Serving Apples." A copy of this leaflet is placed in every box of apples that is sent out. The results are already evident in the increased demand for trees.

There are now 352 inspected nurseries and greenhouses in the state of Tennessee, where there were only 141 eight years ago. It was claimed that Tennessee grown peach trees are especially resistant to yellows and leaf curl.

"Get them at Dreer's"

All Seasonable Plants—Seeds—Bulbs and Sundries

HARDY PERENNIALS. The most complete collection of varieties and the largest stock in the country. Our Perennial plants have a national reputation. We spare no expense to have them in the best possible shape for the planter. Such varieties as move better when pot-grown are prepared in this shape. This does not mean little seedlings but in the majority of cases the plants were field-grown, were dug and potted during the fall and winter months, and are just the right size to give immediate results. They are not to be compared with so-called field clumps. Try them and be convinced. See our current wholesale list for varieties and prices.

ROSES FOR OUTDOOR PLANTING TO GIVE IMMEDIATE RESULTS.

We have three hundred thousand 5 and 6-inch pots, the usual Dreer stock, and the style of plants your retail customers are looking for. These are all two-year field-grown plants which have been potted during the winter months, and which were stored in cold houses and frames, and which are now in prime condition for outdoor planting. The collection is the most up-to-date, including many new varieties not offered by anyone in the trade.

THE NEW TARIFF RATES.

The new tariff bill, introduced in Congress April 7, makes a few reductions in the rates of duty on seeds and the commodities ordinarily imported by seedsmen, but the bulk of the changes are advances—seeds not specially provided for, however, are changed from 10 cents per pound to fifteen per cent ad valorem; otherwise the principle of specific duties is maintained.

The rates of the old bill and the proposed rates are shown in the following comparison:

ENCHANTRESS SUPREME

THE best Sport of Enchantress up to date, possessing all the vigor and freedom that distinguish its parent. Color a light salmon pink—a color that is not only very attractive, but also one that endures full exposure to the sun without bleaching. A good all-round Carnation that retains its color at all seasons. Calyx is longer and narrower than that of the parent variety, and distinct from the latter. Has shown no inclination to be a burster. The weak points of Enchantress seem to have been lost in this Sport, and a trial of four years' duration convinces us of its great value.

New American Beauty Geranium

We take great pleasure in introducing to our many customers for 1913 the New American Beauty Geranium. For the first time, after working on this wonderful new Geranium for nearly three years, we are offering it for sale. It originated from a novelty collection and has stood the test now nearly three years.

Our Claim for American Beauty Geranium is that it surpasses all other Geraniums in its real American Beauty color—

1. In brilliancy of color.
2. In size of its large blooms.
3. In earliness of bloom.
4. In constancy of bloom.
5. In vigor, strength and stocky plants.
6. In propagating quality.
7. In number of large clusters of blooms.
8. In selling quality.
9. In a wonderful ability to retain its color in cool or the hottest weather.
10. In a Geranium that has come to stay as a money maker.

AMERICAN BEAUTY is semi-double, of the purest American Beauty color. It is so distinct that no difference can be detected in the color of an American Beauty Rose. The only Geranium of its color ever introduced. It flowers freely the entire season. It grows compact, medium dwarf, of stately shape with lustrous green foliage, slightly corrugated, with a brownish circle. It produces gigantic flower heads very freely the entire season. We claim it to have larger flower heads than any other variety of its kind. The individual blooms measure $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches across and have as many as eight fully opened, gigantic flower spikes and several half open and more in bud, in eight-inch pots.

LANCASTER, PA.

The last meeting of the Lancaster County Florists' Club took the form, partly, of a trip to the greenhouse establishment of W. B. Girvin, of Leola, Pa. A carload of florists left Lancaster for Mr. Girvin's at 4:30 p. m. After an inspection of this modern range and a little time to recover from the shock of seeing so many chrysanthemum cuttings at one place, the party returned to the city for the evening meeting of the club.

Considering the closeness to Easter, the attendance was phenomenal. After the reading and discussion of a paper by Ira Landis, of Paradise, on soils, Frank Kohr, of Dillerville, told us, in a well written paper, how the club had benefited him and how it could be made of further benefit to us. Coöperative buying was discussed at some length and a free discussion was urged on all subjects.

The president urged every member of the club to attend the National Flower Show, a one-day trip being feasible from this city by an expense of $15 or as much more as the party desired to spend; and some twenty have expressed their intention of going.

At our next meeting, April 17, we expect to have S. S. Pennock, of the Pennock-Meehan Co., tell of some of the faults of the consignors in dealing with the commission houses, this being a phase of the subject not often enough dwelt on.

A. M. H.

El Paso, Tex.—Charles Anders is now proprietor of the Texas Floral Co., having purchased the business from P. C. Pappas.

Lawton, Okla.—Prompt action in confining a fire to the boiler room probably saved the greenhouses of the Wallace Hornaday Co. The fire department was called out and there was little damage outside of that one room. The stock was uninjured.

My Original SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON

is reaching every part of the globe. It is traveling upon its record and good looks, and has more admirers than all other antirrhinums combined. There may be an occasional pleasing sport, but aside from this, seedlings will have every characteristic of their illustrious parent—the FAMOUS SILVER PINK. It is a distinct type, and is best described by the original name that we gave it. Its soft, silvery shade of pink is not found in any other flower, and is at its best in full sunshine, both indoors and out. Silver Pink has an established record. Plant it and you will have the best. It is truly a high-class novelty, and we offer it at small cost.

Report of Judges, Novelty Night, Cleveland Florists' Club, Feb. 10, 1913:

"G. S. Ramsburg, Somersworth, N. H., a vase of Silver Pink snapdragon, a beautiful variety and highly recommended by the committee."

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Spring is here and the weather in general is fine, the warmth bringing the shrubbery and trees along rapidly. Lilacs are in leaf and peach trees in bloom, and some shade trees have started to leaf. Business for last week has been moderate, funeral work taking the lead by a large margin. Decorating picked up last week. There is an over-supply of carnation stock. White is the only kind moving to any extent, while there are some fine red and pink that are hard to move, even at a low price. Roses are more plentiful, and the market here just about cleans them up. The medium grade ones are the best sellers. Cut lilies are not moving so fast as was expected. Activity in other bulbous stock is only fair. Jonquils, daffodils and pink double tulips have the best of it in the bulb line. Sweet peas and snapdragons are coming in, but the sale is not up to expectations.

Various Notes.

S. B. Ayres told the school board at the special meeting, April 5, that he would give it 25,000 packages of flower seeds to distribute among the pupils of the ward schools this spring. The board will have charge of the distribution.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a heavy run of business last week, work of all kinds appearing to come in faster since Easter.

Nelson Jarrett has 35,000 pansies out in frames. They are exceptionally fine and the stock in his houses is in good condition. He is ready to sell bedding stock.

Samuel Murray is at the International Flower Show in New York, where he is one of the judges.
